Road Work to Be Concentrated Now

County Engineer Larrimore was through this part of the county Tuesday, making an inspection of road work. Will Collie has a contract for putting in a big concrete passover up between Sonoita and Elgin, near the big railroad bridge. Work on this crossing has about reached the point for the application of the concrete. A small crew is also employed on the road from Sonoita to Greaterville. Repairs are being made to the Pstagonia-Nogales

The Supervisors have planned to consolidate road work in the county at one camp, for future road building on the bond fund, and will start under the new arrangement on the Nogales-Pataabove line-up, but it is the Republican gonia road. Nogales, Ariz., August 8, 1916. Mr. J. B. Price, Editor Sunta Cruz Patagonian. Dear Sir: I address you, hoping you may be able to publish the following in your valued paper: I note in the issue of The Patagonian of July 21st an article saying the county engineer was laying off the different road construction gangs. I feel the public would like to know what the intent of the Board of Supervisors is. Will try and present the facts just as they

We are not out of money and never have been, that is, money secured from the bond issue. We have spent approximately $24,000 constructing about 12 miles of permanent roads. We have heard some criticism, and appreciate same when it is done with a desire to assist the board and not for political or other purposes. The reason for laying off the grading outfits was to endeavor to install some new ideas, feeling that we might be able to economize. Not that we feel the present construction nestly trying to keep all expenditures of county funds down to water level. For instance, the 4 1-3 miles of road being constructed between Nogales and $1600 per mile. From all data we are struction cost throughout the state per mile has been not less than $2500. It is the intention of the board to continue construction on the Patagonia road just as soon as possible, knowing that this road when completed will be one of the county's big assets. We also intend continuing the construction of all roads as was outlined in the call for bonds, so far as we can do so. I hope the people will be patient and not feel the Supervisors are overlooking or neglecting them, for just as sure as there is a sun just that sure can the public feel that their road and other interests will be well taken care of.

Yours very truly, GEO. H. FIEDLER.

Cupid on Trial.

Two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat in concert, were united in the more or less holy bonds of matrimony, according to the point of view, says the New York Times. The minister who performed the ceremony is pastor of the Church of the Social Revolution, and the couple were of his flock. Not for the contracting parties nor for the minister the conventional ritual of church and state; not for them the old-fashioned notion that marriage is a step that must be taken with with no thought of turning backward. The pair made responses to a formula provided by the pastor of the Social Revolution and frankly declare they will consider their union binding only so long as they "love each other." Divorces are sometimes fustifiable, but it is not believed that this aspiring couple or their pastor have improved upon the liberal and usually wholesome laws of a majority of the states.

Made Bachelor Pay for Wife. A delicate question was recently decided by an alderman of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., when he was called upon to adjudicate as to how much it is worth to find a wife for a bachelor, who is anxthe bliss of married life. Opportunity to determine this question came when a woman brought suit against a man to recover $100 which she alleged was promised her for finding a wife for defendant after he had failed in his hunt for a life partner. She claimed that he had expressed great disgust with his condition of bachelorhood and engaged her to hunt him a wife. She located a woman, introduced her to him and their marriage resulted. Following the marriage the husband refused to pay the $100 he had promised. The alderman, who is a bachelor, ruled that it was well worth $100 to find a wife for a bachelor, and he gave judgment for the full amount of the claim.

State Control In England.

A remarkable scheme of state control has been inaugurated at a center in the north of England where 20,-000 men are expected to be at work shortly on munitions. To provide for them the government has acquired all shops in the district, and will either allow the late proprietors to sell goods under license only or will in most cases run them under direct control. The government will thus be butchers, bakers, grocers and milkmen to the inhabitants. The main object is to regulate prices and prevent extortion. The liquor control board has already bought all the public houses-about thirty in number-and has thus a monopoly in the district. In some the sale of intoxicants will continue under close restrictions; in others it has been suspended, and some have been turned into lodging houses for work-

Woman and the Arts.

In the minor art of dancing, and in the nobler work of reproducing the matists, there are women of high, and even of highest rank. But to leave these more interpretive or reproducproach the mark of men. For here she must be counted with the great of the craft. And even should some crabbed soul insist that the rare company in which are George Eliot, Jane Austen, George Sand, Madame de Stael, and the queen of Navarre, does not include the one who is greatest in the guild, yet there is no discomfort felt in naming these women along with Scott and Dickens, Hugo, Cervantes, and Boccaccio. Mr. Wade looked back and said: That tree saved us from a bad accident; if it had not been there we should have turned over and been badly hurt."

"Yes, suh," drawled the farmer, "that cert'nly is a useful tree! This mornin' a young feller in a balloon got stuck in it and I had to h'ist him out. "Why, that was our son!" exclaimed both Mr. and Mrs. Wade, excitedly.

The farmer looked at them for a moment with a puzzled expression; then his face lighted up with a smile, and he said:

Amazing Appetites.

If a baby had the appetite of a young potato beetle 4t would eat 50 to 100 pounds of food every 24 hours. If a horse ate as much as a caterpiliar, in proportion to its size, it would consume a ton of hay every 24 hours. A caterpillar eats twice its weight of leaves every day; but a potato beetle devours every day at least five times its weight of foliage, every bit of which represents just so much much money to the farmer.

The most destructive of all insects, however, is the grasshopper, which, when in good health, consumes in a day ten times its weight of vegetation. No wonder that whole districts are devastated by its multitudinous swarms.-Tit-Bits.

American Cooks More and More Coming to Recognize the Advantages of the Casserole.

Why is this cooking en casserole, or in earthenware, so popular in France? Because in no other way is it possible to obtain such delicious flavors.

There are three things to remember in casserole cooking: First, the food must be entirely prepared before the baking is begun; second, the oven should be only moderately hot at first, then reduced to slow heat; third, the food should not be allowed to boil and must be given time enough for long cooking.

A meat casserole of any kind needs at least an hour and a half to cook, while many meats, fruit and desserts require from three hours upward. In the old French ovens covered crocks containing beans, or apples, or fruits, for the cooked compote so beloved by them, were put in the oven at night to cook slowly until the next morning. This was a part of the frugality, the putting to account every bit of meat, which is still the habit of all French housewives.

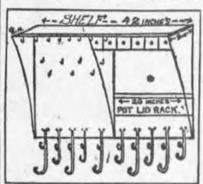

For the best results, or I may say the most striking results, get a cheap cut of meat, which is not liable to be tender, and see what a transformation will be worked by the casserole cooking. Cut the meat in pieces suitable fer serving, and add some thickening agent which will absorb the excess moisture, leaving the food just moist enough to be served attractively.

Rice is good with game, chicken, lamb and yeal; dried bread crumbs with pork; macaroni and pearl barley with beef. Sometimes with young chicken or tender fish potatoes may be used, but never when long cooking is required, for they cook to a mush.-Pittsburgh Dispatch.

There on the summit delicate minarets and cypresses stand the glossy beasts, lazily rolling a astronomers have in the intervening out against a lemon sky. One's eye turns gratefully from the clamorous Greek boatmen and jostling porters which crowd boat and quay to the lovely lines of the sailing boats, which bring back from the past many an old classic tag. In just such a boat did the old Greeks set forth on their adventures, perhaps even to the quest of the Golden Fleece, writes Constance Brooke in London Graphic. And what a contrast they must have been, those grand men, to the modern Greek with his supple fingers and voluble tongue, and anxious efforts to compromise! The luggage is at last extracted from the hubbub by force. A very small boy wheels the barrow under a stream of instructions from a head, beneath him a poor little donkey, moon amenable to their exact matherabble, who would not lay one lordly finger on it to help, but find huge delight in directing the weak one, and, shouting chaff and information to an everyone we meet, convey me to the hotel. While dust rests on your shoes that figure will rise up, that finger will point, that hissing whisper sound in your ear. I have been haunted by my recollections (somewhat willingly, I catch one leg in the other. must confess) of a Turkish boy with a winning smile, bare feet for an artist and a red sash round his waist. I defy anyone to resist his pleading brown eyes and that flashing smile-certainly cannot. This was, or is, his mode of business. He first wiped the dust off with a rag. saturalizing the Narcissus.

The narcissus often becomes natur alized when planted in the sod or partial shade, where it will continue to grow, blossom, and multiply for many years without further attention. Simply make a small hole in the soil five or six inches deep, insert the bulb pointed end up, press the soil over the top, and nature will do the rest. For naturalizing, avoid planting in rows or rigid geometrical figures. A good plan is to scatter the bulbs like seed and plant where they fall. The method of planting is extensively followed in the home grounds and parks of England and other countries in Europe. In portions of North Carolina, on larger estates along the James river in Virginia, and in old gardens in New England, narcissuses that were planted over half a century ago, are still growing vigorously and every spring produce beautiful displays of blossoms.

A hook and eye revival may pos sibly result in England from the shortage in those useful metal press-stude which during the past few years have to a very large extent been used as a fastening for ladies' dresses. The manufacture of these press-stude was principally in the hands of the Germans, and the result of the stoppage of supplies is to be seen in the price which now has to be paid for them. Prior to the war drapers were able to sell these fastenings two dozen or three dozen, mounted on a card, for a penny, The most they can now give for the money is six. Drapers report that they are experiencing very great difficulty in obtaining further supplies, and when present stocks are exhausted have no idea when they can be replenished. The only alternative therefore appears to be a return to the hooks and eyes.

Chinese Take to Tobacco.

The introduction of the tobacco habit among the Chinese dates back only a few years, and its spread tonishingly rapid, so it is stated by Consul General, Anderson at Hongking. The cigarette habit is not confined to the male portion of the poputirely vegetable and pleasant to take lation. The females of all classes and without stirring you up inside, and rettes, and with as much apparent enjoyment, as do their prothers.

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarrh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimentals, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.
