Kibbey Sees Direful Days Ahead Unless Changes Are Made

Ex-Governor Joseph Kibbey and a party of Republican candidates for State offices, including Judge Otis Baughn, for the State Supreme court, and Joe Prochaska, candidate for secretary of state, held a meeting in Patagonia Monday afternoon at the opera house. Although the meeting had been advertised for three or four days in advance, the attendance was very small, the audience being composed mostly of broad-minded Democrats who turned out to show respect to the candidates of the opposing ticket, a number of county Republican office-seekers, a few of the rank and file, and a very small sprinkling of women.

Mr. Prochaska, nominee for secretary of state, started the oratorical display. He wanted it understood that he was not a foreigner, as one might infer from his name, and stated that he was born in Nebraska. As further evidence of his 100 per cent Americanism, he mentioned that he had married a girl from Texas. This statement squared Mr. Prochaska with the audience, but many were disappointed because he didn't bring his wife along with him, as Patagonians are especially fond of Texas girls. After having explained to his own satisfaction that he was not a "bohunk," Mr. Prochaska proceeded to tell what he had done for the State as postmaster at Miami, and in other public positions. After he had consumed quite a lot of time telling of his own qualifications for the office which he seeks, he made a little pun in closing, something like this: "My name is Prochaska; I was born in Alaska (although in opening he said he was born in Nebraska), "and to vote for me I'll ask you." The meter may have been somewhat faulty, but the poetic instinct was there, and the audience gave Mr. Prochaska a small hand.

Dr. Ray Ferguson, who was acting as ringmaster, then introduced Judge Otis J. Baughn, Republican nominee for the Supreme court. Mr. Baughn was the real speaker of the day. He had a message to deliver, and he put it over in a splendid manner. He advocated the non-partisanship of the judiciary, and with clear logic and an easy, fluent style requested the voters to keep the Supreme bench of the State free from political control. He cited Article VI, section 3, of the Constitution of the State of Arizona, providing for the placing of the names of candidates for the Supreme court on the ballot in alphabetical order, without partisan or other designation, and suggested that mixing the political complexion of the judges would be a good way to keep the court from party domination. The speech of Judge Baughn was listened to with the greatest attention. After the meeting was over, and the other speakers had made their spools, a baseball fan who was present and heard them all remarked that the judge was "a big leaguer traveling with a bunch of bushers."

Ex-Governor Kibbey was then introduced by Chairman Ferguson, who by this time was becoming a little anxious at the lack of enthusiasm and the possibility that some of the small crowd might leave before the big noise could be pulled off. Mr. Kibbey apologized for not being the equal of his opponent, Senator Ashurst, in speechmaking. He joshed the tall senator from the north about his forensic reference to the glorious peaks of the snow-capped San Franciscos, and promised out of respect to Mr. Ashurst to leave those peaks standing in the event he was elected to the United States senate. He put in some time in giving sly shots at Senator Ashurst, and momentarily embarrassed the ladies when he made mention of the "Procrustean bed."

After he had finished roasting Mr. Ashurst, the ex-governor turned his attention to the issues of the day. According to him, it's a sad, mournful condition of affairs in the good old U.S.A. these days, but cheer up, the worst is yet to come. When the European war is over calamity is sure to overtake us, according to Mr. Kibbey, unless we get busy and change things.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NOTES

State and county taxes are now due and payable, and will be delinquent on the 1st.

Supervisor J. S. Gatlin and Pat Patterson went to Tucson Wednesday, on a business and pleasure trip.

This week many winter stoves have been brought out and put up, a reminder that those melancholy days have certainly come.

Miss Hilda Trask returned Monday morning to her home in Benson, after a few weeks' visit with her brother, J. C. and wife in Patagonia.

Geo. J. White, the Sonoita farmer, was through town Wednesday, en route home from Nogales, where he had been excused from jury service until Friday.

James Richie and Tom Gardner were among the number summoned from here this week for jury duty at the term of the Superior court in Nogales this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Edwards and family have moved into the large residence of J. W. Miller. The family of Hayden Pendergrass, made homeless by the fire Sunday night, moved into the Quinn house vacated by the Edwards'.

Roy Peterson, of Asheville, N. C., who has been visiting for several weeks with his brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McIntyre, in Patagonia, has concluded that he will remain here through the winter, so favorably impressed is he with the climate and opportunities of this section.

A complaint was filed in the justice court this week against a parent in this school district for failure to send his children to school regularly. The compulsory attendance law is to be enforced to the letter this term at the local school, and Deputy Sheriff Lou Stevens is on the job as probation officer.

J. R. Claypool, formerly connected with the Salero Mines company, near Patagonia, now in business in Denver, returned Tuesday of this week to his northern home, after a few weeks spent in and around Patagonia on mining business. He thinks Patagonia has the best chance of any mining camp in the country, and is hopeful of being able to interest capital here.

J. E. Hopkins, the carpenter, was called Wednesday of this week to San Diego, Cal., to the bedside of his daughter, Miss May, who is dangerously ill.

Val Valenzuela of the Commercial company was among the number from Patagonia who were summoned to Nogales this week to serve on the jury.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Bergier of near Lemore, in the San Joaquin valley, California, are visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Burt Sorrells, and sons, Pete and Bob Bergier.

Miss Glore, daughter of the well known H. Gordon, came up with the latter from Nogales Wednesday and visited with Miss Stone while her father interviewed the voters.

Mrs. Ray Ferguson went up to Sonoita Wednesday to place an exhibition at the county fair a coop of Crystal White Orpington chickens, which she raises at her home in Patagonia.

Miss Emma Kane, who had the misfortune to run a nail into her foot one day this week, is getting along nicely. The nail went completely through the sole of an almost new shoe before penetrating her foot.

Mrs. Persis Coombs, principal of the local schools, sent up an exhibition of the work of the scholars here for the Santa Cruz county fair at Sonoita. Supplies for doing this work were not on hand, and for this reason the work of the pupils may not show up as well as it would otherwise, but the exhibit will give fair visitors some idea of the splendid schools here, as well as the high standard of scholarship.

Fire Sunday night, while nearly all the population of Patagonia was attending the moving picture show, completely destroyed the old Mead house, owned by Col. R. R. Richardson and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Pendergrass and family. The origin of the fire is unknown. When discovered it had made such headway that very little of the household effects could be saved. The building was insured for a small amount, about one-third of its actual value.

Wm. Murphy, a mining man who has made his home in the Patagonia country for the past many years, and who was recently taken from Harshaw to the hospital at Nogales, died last Saturday and was buried Sunday. "Billy" Murphy, as he was familiarly known to a large acquaintance, was a man of strong personality, and news of his demise will be received with regret by many firm friends.

Several hundred head of fine native steers, mostly yearlings, were shipped out of Santa Cruz County this week, being shipped to pastures in the north. Yearlings brought $32, and 2-year-olds $37. Among the cattle men who sold were: Jas. Parker, Sr., John Chapman, B. Lewis, C. C. McPherson, Chas. Miller, J. S. Gatlin, J. E. Gatlin, Geo. and Duke Parker, Ernest Best, Pete Bergier, Bud Baldwin, Jas. Finley and others.

Maurice H. Floto, special agent of the Carnegie Hero Fund commission, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was in Patagonia several days this week, investigating the sad accident on Ked Mountain a few months ago, in which Harry Stevens bravely gave up his life to save a Mexican workman overcome by gas in the Andes mine. It will probably be several months before the report of Mr. Floto will be acted upon by the Carnegie commission, but it is believed some fitting tribute will be made by the commission to the family of the deceased, to commemorate the heroic part he played in the awful accident. Those who are familiar with the occurrence also believe that the commission will make honorable mention, if not award medals, to Jake Johnson, Arturo, Val and Carlos Valenzuela, Marshall McDonnell, Paul McIntyre and other young men of Patagonia, who risked their own lives in trying to rescue Stevens and the Mexican from near the bottom of the shaft.

Frank Blackledge was in town today, coming up from Nogales, where he has been working.

C. C. Chapman was nursing a sprained ankle this week, the result of an encounter with a bull on the other end of his lariat. Mr. Chapman didn't sell any of his cattle for the delivery being made this week.

With fair week and court week at the same time, many citizens of Patagonia have been out of town this week.

Munitions Makers Looking for Good Mining Properties

W. J. Kain, a scout for Eastern capitalists, was in Patagonia several days this week, looking at different mining propositions, and investigating the field generally. He is out from New York for a trip of several weeks, to look into and report on mining properties both in this part of the United States and in Mexico, provided conditions should indicate a change to a stable government in that country. At present his headquarters are in Tucson, from which place he makes visits to the different camps. Mr. Kain was formerly in the ordnance department of different foreign governments, and is supposed to be now representing a syndicate of munitions manufacturers who have made so much easy money of late supplying war material to the fighting nations that they are looking for an investment of their surplus capital to provide for the day when the war demand for products has ceased. He is very much impressed with the great Patagonia country, and will make other visits here, and possibly may make a deal of considerable magnitude, if present plans materialize.

The program for the moving picture show Sunday evening, Oct. 22, at the Opera House at 8 o'clock, will consist of the usual five reels, as follows: "Lil' Norwester," in three reels, an especially gripping drama; "Col. Stelle, the Master Gambler," and the high-priced and always interesting film, "Animated Weekly. Come early as the show will start at 8 sharp.

C. L. Holcomb, a Patagonian now employed on the county road work, at the camp near the Sorrells place, was in Nogales one day recently talking to a Republican friend, when he happened to notice the Hughes button his friend was wearing, in which the whiskers of the candidate were displayed in all their transcendent glory. The light was dim and "Shorty" could not make out the features clearly, and he asked with astonishment: "What are you wearing there a Carranza button?"

Senator Henry Fountain Ashurst and party of state candidates, who were billed for a meeting at Patagonia this morning at 9:30 o'clock, failed to arrive from Nogales until nearly 12, owing to an accident to their machine. They stayed in town only a few minutes, and went on up to Sonoita.

E. P. Ripley, one of the bitterest leaders against the Brotherhoods' fight for the eight-hour law, who announced that his railroad would not obey the law, is president of the Santa Fe railroad. Despite the fact that $2,500,000 is charged to loss due to storms, fires and floods in its territory, the Santa Fe railroad, in its official statement of expense for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1916, announces that the net earnings of the road show an increase of $8,457,398 over the preceding year. Mr. Ripley signs the statement. Enough said.

"Red" Miller has been quite sick the past week, but is on the road to recovery.

Paul D. Mowry returned to his home recently, having spent several months in Colorado and Kansas.

Mrs. James Parker came over from Pantano Friday of last week to visit Mr. and Mrs. Parker of Canille.

Mrs. Leda Turner has returned to her home at Pantano, after a month's visit with her mother, Mrs. Beaty.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schofield and sister came over from Rosemont to attend the dance and were guests of Mrs. Barnett.

The farmers of this community are getting in a lot of fine machinery. C. L. Beaty has just received a fine traction engine and threshing machine.

Rev. Gillette of Benson preached Sunday morning and afternoon at Canelo. His congregations appreciate his good sermons and enjoy the delicious dinners served at the noon hour.

Word has been received recently of the death of Mrs. Mollie Sanders in Phoenix, from the effects of an operation. Mrs. Sanders was well known in this part of the State, having lived at Turner the past twenty years. She leaves a husband, son, four daughters, mother and two brothers to mourn her loss. They have the sympathy of many friends in this community in their bereavement.

Mark Lully, an oldtime mining man and respected citizen of Santa Cruz county, died last week at his home in Nogales. Mr. Lully was identified with mining in this county through many years and was formerly part owner of the Wandering Jew.

Joe Muheim, Charles Jones and Johnny Anderson left Bisbee yesterday for Santa Cruz county, where they will look into the mining business at Patagonia, says the Bisbee Review. They will tour through that part of the county and then go into Pima county. At Tucson Muheim and Anderson will take the train for Yuma, where they will stay for several months. Jones expects to return home at that time.

Kibbey Sees Direful Days

probably by electing him to the senate, although he didn't say this in so few words. Mr. Kibbey found fault with the present administration, singly and collectively. He stewed and fretted and pooh-poohed over the federal bank reserve bill, the child labor law, the eight-hour bill, rural credits, and other measures enacted by the present Democratic administration, the good points of which, if any, had been promulgated by the Republicans, he said. Other work of the Democratic administration Mr. Kibbey characterized as being experimental and the effort of amateurs. He couldn't possibly see any good in anything the Democrats had ever done, or ever expected to do; likewise he could see nothing but good in all the Republicans had done, even lauding the notorious Panama steal, perpetrated under the administration of Mr. Roosevelt.

Like a good many other Republican orators going about the country these piping campaign times seeking votes, ex-Gov. Kibbey failed completely in convincing his audience that a political change is necessary. He devoted almost his entire address in criticizing the efforts of others, instead of advocating a better method. Like Mr. Hughes, he is strong on criticism, but short on offering anything of a constructive nature. Aside from promising to let the San Francisco peaks remain for the sun to shine on, in case he is elected to the United States Senate, he also promised a good time to all who came to see him in Washington. He said no one would need a card. In case he is elected, all one has to do is to go to Washington, sashay out to the capitol and walk right in-Mr. Kibbey will show 'em a good time.
