Fearing Draft Into Army, Mexicans are Leaving the Country

As a result of the law compelling all army, there is a possibility that the town; then continue on to Harshaw big producing mines of the Patagonia district may either have to close down Camp. This is an easy trip and one that completely for a few days or greatly should afford much interest to motorreduce their output, owing to lack of ists, as it includes the best part of the jobs and return to their native country. A notable instance is the case of an old Mexican, 67, who has been employed as mozo near Patagonia for over 30 years, and who under no circumstances could ever possibly be called into military service for this or any other country, yet he is fearful that he will be drafted, and is actually packing up his few goods and chattels, preparatory to making an exodus, "para alla,"

Men who speak good Spanish have tried in vain to explain to Mexican employees of the mines that their registration would not mean army service; that they are entirely exempt, except the native born citizens, but the ignorant Mexicans, burro-like, either can not or do not want to understand-and as a temporary result, ore shipments from this district will be reduced for

Stop Wastage of Food, but Do Not Curtail Necessities, Says J. Ogden Armour.

URGES "BUSINESS AS USUAL"

Continuous of Great Prosperity That Has Ruled Country for Two Years is Assured-Billions Loaned Allies to Be Spent Here.

Chicago.-The United States is in a position where optimism is justified, according to J. Ogden Armour in an Interview discussing the economic condition and future of the nation,

"The prompt adoption by the American people of the 'business-as-usual' prosecute war without experiencing a temporary depression such as England and France have recently recovered of money and means maximum employment and high wages for all workers. Other conditions, peculiar to this war, make it certain that this nation will enjoy a period of business and industrial activity the like of which has never been seen and which is assured whether the war lasts several months or several years.

No Reason for Alarm.

"But suppose people become overcautious as the result of the preaching prodigal waste. of war economy-then what?" he was

"There is some reason to believe," he answered, "that economy rules will be misapplied for a while, but conditions are such that the public will soon see, if they have not already, that there is no occasion whatever for them to become alarmed. "Continuation of the great prosperity that has ruled in this country for strates it is deserving of our faith. two years is assured. There is an abnormal demand for everything the workers of this nation can grow or manufacture. There is work at high wages for every man and woman who wants work; the earning power of the people is restricted only by physical limitations; the buying power of the public is greater than ever before. There are certain guaranties of continued prosperity and of an ever widening scope to our business and industral life." Releases Billions Here.

"How about the billions of dollars we are lending to our allies?" he was asked. "Wouldn't It be better to keep that money at home?"

"As a matter of fact, it is a misnomer to call it a loan to our allies," Mr. Armour said: "We are primarily extending them credit. Instead of sending billions of dollars out of the country, the transaction means that billions of dollars will actually be freed for circulation in this country. Practically all of the billions we lend our allies will be spent in this country for the products of our soil and our factories and for payment of our workers.

"We are the storehouse and the factory of the world now, and the more money the world can get hold of the more will be sent here, and the more that comes here, the more work and the more business will result. And in this connection, remember the government of the United States is now a buyer for war purposes and the dollars of Uncle Sam already have begun to pour forth to stores, factories, and farms to pay for the expense of mobilizing, drilling, equipping, and feeding the army and

"I consider the present the most auspicious from the standpoint of national prosperity in my memory. There is not one good reason why the business of this country should not proceed in its normal course and on ever increasing lines. There is not one reason why people should fear for the future or from the certainty that they are on a sound financial basis. The per capita wealth of Americans today is greater than ever before-greater than that of the people of any nation at any time in the past or in the present.

economize on food. Economy means the intelligent use without waste; it does not call for self-denial. Economy was recommended to stop the waste of the $700,000,000 worth of food which goes into the garbage pail each year. The wave of patriotism sweeping over ldea is going to enable this nation to the country should not seize upon parsimonious economy as a means of expression. There is no need for people to cease purchasing; there is need only from," said Mr. Armour. "Modern war for the elimination of extravagance requires the expenditure of huge sums and waste. There is no reason whatever for curtailment of the use of things ordinarily needed by people; there is need that everything be put to use.

"Faith is the great need of the people today-faith in Providence to lend might to our right, faith in nature to respond bountifully to the wonderful efforts of our agriculturists to increase the food supply to provide a surplus for our allies, and faith in our government which has taken hold of the problems before it in a way that demon-

DON'T EAT ANY OLD POTATOES

Millions of Patriotic Citizens Will Obey Edict to Insure Big New Crop.

OLD ONES NEEDED FOR SEED

Prominent Chicago Club Starts Movement Which Quickly Spreads to All Parts of Country-Speculators Hoarding Supply.

Chicago, Ill.—Several million patriotic citizens will eat no more old potatoes until after July 1. They take this method of helping to make as large as possible the potato crop of the United States next harvest-a very important matter. The "Eat No Potatoes" movement started a short time ago with the Hamilton club, one of the leading political and social organizations in the country, quickly was taken up by other clubs and hotels here, and soon was spreading out over the nation in all directions.

Who started the movement? An agricultural expert of international reputation, Eugene H. Grubb, is the man. He made a public statement in Chicago, saying: "If all the seed potatoes in the United States were planted this spring they would not produce a sufficient crop to meet the needs of the country." That was an ominous statement, but Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture, backed it with this:

Needed for Seed. "There are several things I wish to urge upon the American people for the sake of economy and as a patriotic We need them for seed pota-Buy new ones, if you can afford "The nation has been advised to them, or use rice or something else as a substitute."

That settled it. Hamilton clubmen formed a committee which began work by taking potatoes off the club restaurant menu. Other clubs in town were asked to co-operate. Then clubs and hotels and prominent Individuals all over the land were asked to ban the potato and use their influence to keep folks from eating old potatoes. The replies came in a flood, and they were the right kind of answers, too.

The Hamilton club committee also started an investigation in the Chicago vegetable markets to see how many potatoes were held here. Imagine their surprise when they found certain commission men and food speculators million dollars' worth of the vegetable. the ordinary purchasing on which the This supply had been bought up durbusiness and the industry of the coun- ing the late winter and early spring of millions of dollars.

Events in Austria-Hungary Are Indicative of a Break With Germany.

KAISER'S MAN, TISZA, IS OUT

France's Reply to Russia's Peace Policy-Italians Make Another Big Advance Toward Trieste-House of Representatives Passes Greatest of War Tax Bills.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

Austria-Hungary stepped into the limelight last week, and the developments in the dual monarchy were not calculated to please Kaiser Wilhelm. In the first place, Count Tisza, premier of Hungary, the "iron man" who for years has been the leader of the pro-Germans of Austria-Hungary, was finally forced out of office, together with his entire cabinet. Then came the story, from a Swiss Catholic paper, that Empress Zita had publicly stated that Austria would soon be at peace, a consummation for which both she and the emperor had been striving.

This statement of the empress was orne out by the peace discussions in the Vienna papers. They printed Austria's repudiation of annexation and indemnity claims with reference to Russia, and then went to the astonishng length of announcing that Austria was ready to abandon all claims to additional territory on its southern frontier, meaning in the Balkans, and even might consider Italy's claims to Trieste and the Trentino. If all this is true, Austria-Hungary is indeed tired of the the breaking point with Germany.

Trying to Hold Russia Steady.

The socalled passing of the crisis in Russia has not relieved to any great extent the anxieties of the other allies as to the future conduct of that nation. Its armies still rest passive along the eastern fronts, the soldiers fraternizing with the common enemy, despite the appeals of War Minister Kerensky and others of the government. Admiral Goltchak, commander of the Russian Black sea fleet, after a visit to the front, said: "The army may be said to have practically concluded peace with Germany at a moment when a Russian offensive might have played a decisive part in the European campaign." Albert Thomas, French minister of munitions, told the workmen's and soldiers' delegates in Moscow that thousands of French and British soldiers were perishing while awalting Russia's co-operation, on which they had a right to count. Government officials and delegates all admit these facts, but they seem to have small effect on the individual soldiers. Addressing a convention of Russian army and navy commanders, commander in chief Alexieff pleaded with them to bring the soldiers back to their duty, and to stand firm for the prose-United States government and author cution of the war, and this they promised with great enthusiasm.

The council of pensants' deputies on Thursday passed a resolution supporting the present government and ministry.

Ribot Tells France's Aims. The ruling powers in Russia, if they can be called such, cling to the idea. that the other entente allies can be brought to adopt the policy of a peace without annexations or indemnities, and desire a conference for the purpose of modifying the demands to be made on the central powers. Premier Ribot's reply to this is that restoration of "lost provinces" is not to be considered annexation, and that indemnity for ravages in invaded lands is a contribution which is inflicted as a fine for wrong done, a requirement which both law and equity demand. France. he said, could not oppress any nationality, even that of its enemies, and it seeks, not vengeance, but justice,

Lansing Against Stockholm Meet

What America thinks, officially, of the coming peace conference of socinlists at Stockholm was made clear last week when Secretary of State Lansing announced that passports would be denled any Americans desiring to go to the meeting and that any Americans participating therein would be liable to prosecution under the Logan act forbidding individual meddling in foreign relations. Evidently the government believes, as does most of the rest of the world, that the conferences is but one of the kaiser's schemes to disrupt the entente. Russia and all neutral nations were notified of this action.

About the same time rumors came to Washington that Russia already had concluded an armistice with Berlin or Vienna, or both.

That all the fangs were not drawn from the laws of the old Russian regime was evidenced Tuesday when an unsuccessful attempt was made to assassinate Minister of War Kerensky.

To add to the perplexities of the provisional government of Russia, the Swedish political party, representing most of the wealthy and influential classes in Finland, met in congress and declared for a complete separation of the grand duchy of Finland from Russin and its establishment as a sovereign state.

Over in Chinn the kalser lost another point when President Li Yuan Hung dismissed from office Premier Tuan Chi Jul, who had effectually blocked the efforts of the rest of the cabinet and a large part of the parliament to have China declare war on Germany. Dr. Wu Ting-fung, former ambassador to the United States, was made acting premier and authorized to form a new

On Battlefields of France.

Such progress as was made during the week in pushing back the Germans in France was mainly by the French in their campaigns south and southeast of Laon and east of Reims. In both sectors they gained important ground, seizing the dominating heights above the Ailette valley and in the vicinity of Moronvilliers, General Petain thus put his troops in position to threaten the Reims sallent held by the Germans, and to attack the Laon fortress from the rear and compel the retirement of the Teutous in this entire sector.

The British were busy consolidating the positions they had won along the Hindenburg line from Arras to Builecourt and repelling the repeated and vigorous counter-attacks of the Germans. Von Hindenburg was prodigal in the use of the fresh troops brought from the Russian front, but in every Important instance his attempts to regain lost ground was fruitless, and the slaughter was terrible.

In reply to the Italian push toward Trieste the Austrians began a violent counter-offensive in the Trentino, tem porarily gaining some ground from which they were driven later. The advance on Trieste slackened somewhat during the first part of the week, but this was only to gather force, for on-Thursday General Cadorna's troops smashed their way through the Austrian lines on a wide front from Castagnavizza to the Gulf of Trieste. This front had been strongly futified by the Austrians and was considered by them almost impregnable. The Italians took the town of Jamiano, and captured 9,000 prisoners, including 300 officers. Ten batteries of British nrtillery took an important part in the great battle.

U. S. Helps in War on U-Boats.

The British admiralty in its weekly report showed big increases in the arrivals and sallings and decrease in the number of vessels sunk by submarines, and gave ample credit to the American destroyers for this gratifying showing.

It be known officially that It "sympa- | report came the announcement that German sutmarines had sunk the British transport Transylvania and French steamer Soutay, in the Mediterranean with the loss of 458 lives. Another vessel torpedoed was an unnamed American steamer of 8,000 tons carrying a cargo for Switzerland. The British admit they are combating the U-boats only with "hard work and infinite pains," but American inventors are still busy. Hudson Maxim said he had perfected a device that would make ships immune from the submarine peril, and Lewis Herzog, an artist, was said to have devised a method for painting vessels that greatly reduces their visibility at sea. William Marconi, who came over with the Italian war mission, says the Italians are now using a device with which 13 submarines were destroyed in the first three weeks of its operation. The first detuchment of United States army engineers reached London on Wednesday on its way to France. Two units of the American hospital corps also arrived in England.

Doings in Congress.

The house of representatives on Wednesday passed the greatest war tax bill in the history of any nation. It carries a total of about $1,870,000,-000 in all kinds of taxes. The vote on the measure was 329 to 76. There was bitter opposition to many features of the bill, and many of those who finally voted for it said they did so as a matter of patriotism.

The senate finance committee at once began paring down the measure with the intention of reducing the total yield of taxes to about $1,000,000,-000, planning to raise the additional $800,000,000 by issues of bonds.

The second administration measure dealing with the control of food and other necessaries was introduced in the house by Congressman Lever of South Carolina. Herbert C. Hoover, selected by the president to be food administrator, said the bill should make it possible to eliminate hoarding, speculation and waste in distribution

The chief provisions of the bill are: I. Prohibits the hoarding or cornering of the necessaries of life.

2. Prohibits injurious speculation in the necessaries of life and gives the president power to regulate or prohibit the operation of stock or grain exchanges.

3. Gives the president power to fix maximum and minimum prices on necessaries of life in certain instances.

4. Gives the president power to prevent use of grain or food in the manufacture of liquor at his discretion. .5. Gives the president power to control all distribution agencies by means of Reensing.

6. Gives the president power to fix food and grain stundards.

7. Gives the president power to purchase, store and dispose of necessaries of life in order to break "corners" and otherwise regulate supply and prices, 8. Provides for taking over by the plants the owners of which do not comply with the president's orders. 9. Give's the president power to per-government of factories, mines, or mit the mixing of corn and wheat flour and to establish percentage of flour to be obtained from wheat. 10. Provides that the president may delegate any or all of the powers conferred on him by the bill to any person he may designate.

Liberty Bonds Selling Fast. Public officials, the press and financial institutions are everywhere combining to push the Liberty loan bonds, and the demand for those securities was great throughout the country, and increased every day. It was predicted that the bonds would sell at a premium as soon as the war is over, and they are already popular with the small investor.

The treasury department announced that the $200,000,000 of short-term treasury certificates recently Issued and been oversubscribed by at least 50 per cent. This despite the opinion of J. P. Morgan that they would not be readily absorbed.

John D. Rockefeller added $25,000,-000 to the endowment of the Rockef-lier foundation and the trustees decided that $10,000,000 of it should be used for war purposes. On the same day a rise of 2 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline was announced.

MANY PEOPLE REPORT BIG GAINS IN WEIGHT

THOUSANDS OF THIN, FRAIL PEOPLE ARE RESTORED TO HEALTH BY TAKING TANLAC.

FIGURES ARE ASTONISHING

People of Prominence and Unquestioned Integrity Tell What Celebrated Medicine Has Done for Them.

ONE of the most noteworthy features in connection with Tanlac and the one that stands out more prominently than any other, perhaps, is the very large number of well-known men and women from all parts of the South who have recently reported astonishing and rapid increases in weight as a result of its use.

When so many well-known people of unquestioned integrity make statement after statement, each corroborating the other, the truth of such statements can no longer be doubted.

Thousands have testified that this famous medicine has completely restored them to health and strength, after every other medicine and the most skilled medical treatment have falled. '

The government has adopted a plan to facilitate and simplify the filling in of conscription registration cards June 5. Circulars containing the twelve questions to be asked and advice as to how they should be answered have been prepared for distribution.

How to Answer Questions.

The circular, which hears the headng, "How to Answer Questions on Registration Cards," reads as follows: "Questions will be asked for you to inswer in the order in which they appear on this paper. These questions are set out below with detailed information to help you answer them. "Do not write on, mark or otherwise mutilate these instructions. Do not remove them. They should be carefully read so that you will have your answers ready when you go before the registrar. "All answers will be written on the registration card in ink by the registrar, who should be careful to spell all names correctly and to write legibly. "1. Name in full, Age in years, -"This means all your names spelled out in full. "State your age today in years only. Disregard additional months or days. Be prepared to say 'nineteen' or 'twenty-five,' not 'nineteen years three months' or the like.

"2. Home address "This means the place where you have your permanent home, not the place where you work. Be prepared to give the address in this way: '232 Main street, Chicago, Cook county, Illinois;' that is, give number and name of street first, then town, then county and state.

Write Birth Date in Advance. "Date of birth.

"Write your birthday (month, day and year) on a piece of paper before going to the registrar and give the paper to him the first thing. Example: August 5, 1894.

"If you do not remember the year, start to answer as you would if someone asked you your birthday, as 'August 5.' Then say, 'on my birthday this year I will be (or was) --- years old.' The registrar will then fill in the year of birth. Many people do not carry in mind the year they were This many be obtained by the registrar by subtracting the age in years on this year's birthday from

If you were born abroad, you are still a citizen of the United States, if your futher was a citizen of the United States at the time you were born, unles you have expatriated yourself.

"(2) You are a naturalized citizen if you have completed your naturalization; that is, if you have 'taken final papers,' But you are not a citizen if you have only declared your intention to become a citizen (that is, if you have only 'taken out first papers'); in the latter case you are only a 'declar-

"You are also a naturalized citizen if, although foreign born, your father or surviving parent became fully naturalized while you were under twentyone years of age, and if you came to the United States under twenty-one.

ONE ARMY PROBLEM

HOW THE NATIONAL GUARD IS TO BE MADE PART OF THE NATIONAL ARMY.

IT MUST MEET REQUIREMENTS

No Political, Religious or Racial Cliques Wanted-Many of the Cavalry Regiments May Be Converted Into Field Artillery.

By EDWARD B. CLARK. Washington.-Everybody in Washington knows that the National Guard problem has been a vexing one for the war department to solve. Some of the regiments in a few of the states never have been efficient and probably never could be made efficient under state control so long as indifference to the service continued in some places to prevail. The government is going to take over at first only such of those National Guard regiments, not already federalized, as have met with all the requirements of the law in equipment, numbers and efficiency.

The National Guard regiments under the present plan-under the law, in fact-will continue to wear the badge of state service when they become a part of Uncle Sam's troops, but otherwise to all effects, purposes and appearances they will be a part of the regular army.

Unless the Guard by volunteer enlistments is recruited to its full strength prior to the time that the federal government takes over such state organizations as are not enrolled in its service, the provisions of the Hay bill for recruiting the Guard organizations will be foregone, and the men needed to complete the quotas' will be chosen under the selective conscription rule. This means that when the United States takes hold of the task of filling the regiments no man over thirty-one years of age will be idded to the forces.

The regular army authorities have een disturbed by reports from here, there and elsewhere that ambitious politicians and others were raising companies, regiments and even brigades with the idea of offering their services en masse. It was the intention of some of these organizations, if means could be found to do it, to enter the National Guard. The desire of Washington has been that the National Guard should be recruited in a way to prevent the entering into it of cliques or sets of men whose binding tie was political, racial, (other than American) or even religious.

Cavalry to Become Artillery. It has been said that some of the National Guard cavalry regiments, perhaps all of them, may be turned into field artillery regiments. There is not much use for cavalry on the west front in the present war, although of course there must be some cavalry for emergencies, Mounted troops when they are needed will be needed badly. Artillery, however, is a prime necessity, and as the troopers of the National Guard know horses and know how to ride them, they will be especially useful in artillery outfits which use horse power for changes of base and "coming into battery."

The officers of the army watched the various National Guard regiments the border closely. One Pennsyl vania infantry regiment, the Second, was by the direction of the federal authorities turned into a field artillery outfit overnight. It is far advanced now in its drill and it probably will go to France with one of the early expeditions which the government sends to the fighting line. If such cavalry regiments of the Guard are given a change of service and of weapons, they need not worry much about delay in sending them to the scene of action. All they will have to do is to learn their new duties quickly, and then they can rest assured that with their field guns they will be put on ships and sent overseas.

Sure of Early Participation.

Within the next few weeks the regular army is to be raised, if the volunteer method can compass it, to its full war strength of nearly 300,000 men. If the volunteering shall fall, conscriptive methods will be used, but the end will be the same and the regular force will have thousands upon thousands of men greener than any Guardsman who has had the state soldier's training. Regiments of the National Guard, therefore, with the regulars and on equal terms with them, probably will find themselves on the first line of the and that saw service on the border, Almost unquestionably the federalized through the navy, and was assured Guard will find itself at the front as quickly as the regulars except for those few sensoned regiments of the standing army which probably will be sent into the fight quickly.

Guard's opportunity? Two things have worked to the end of quick service for the federalized state troopsservice on the border and the means being taken to recruit the regular army up to its full war strength.

The new regiments for the National army in the main part are to be built up around a nucleus of men of seasoned service, but in each organization the recruits will outnumber the some time for most of the regiments News of regulars to reach as an entirety the standard of proficiency which some of the National Guard outlits are maintaining today.

Building Up the Army.

A regiment of regular infantry, for instance, will be split into three battallons, and with each battalion as a nucleus, a new regiment will be constructed. Taking it on the three-but tallon basis, there will be two battallions of recruits to one of veterans in the new organizations.

Of course this proportion will not run through the entire army, but it will come pretty close to so doing, because virtually 200,000 men will have been udded to the standing force, which at the beginning consisted of only about 100,000 men.

It can be seen, therefore, readily enough that a regiment of National Guardsmen which has seen service on the border and which has been kept intact in spirit, in discipline and in drill, will for its main part be in better trim for front service than a reglment of regulars two-thirds of whom are now in the business.

Of course the regular-army men will have the advantage of training given by officers of long, hard service. The recruss in the course of a few months will attain the standard of their companion regulars, and the new regiments in trim and efficiency will be equal to the organizations as they existed before being split up into small units about which to build up new formations.

Russia and American Help. It is only in the most general way robably that the commission Russla of which Elihu Root is the chief was given instructions. The members have, of course, a guiding than passing importance. principle, but they will be moved to this course or to that by conditions as they exist in Russia. With American engineers on their way to Russia and with this other commission of "pleading and instruction" starting on its way, Washington is looking half fearfully, half hopefully to the future. What is to be accomplished by American effort in the Land of Doubt? It is known definitely that the rock on which the chief structure of hope of success is founded is that which will bear up strongly the direct statements of the Americans that no democracy with hope for its future as a demo eratic state can afford to break faith with other democracies and to make terms with despotism.

Everything which has come to the officials in Washington from Russia bears out first belief that the masses of the people of the new republic do not understand the situation as it is related specifically to a conflict between democracy and autocracy. American socialists have told American nonsocialists that millions of Russinus see simply in the present situntion a chance to secure peace for themselves and thereby to help in the securing of a permanent peace for the whole world.

Russian Masses Must Be Taught.

There is the blackness of Ignorance throughout a great part of Russia and for it the former czar and his men and his methods have been held responsible. The enlightenment, so soulalists here say, that is needed is one which will make plain to the Russlans the pathway of a democracy's duty in such a war as this. American socialists, or some of them, at any rate, believe that liberty so recently founded in Russhe will be lost quickly to some "Man on Horseback" if pledges to the allies are repudiated and peace is sought with Germany. So it is that the belief, seemingly substantial, is that Elihu Root and his colleagues will do what they can almost on the instant of their arrival in Russia to impress upon the leaders and the people, the workingmen and the soldlers that the surest way to lose the gift of freedom is to make friends with freedom's enemies.

It has been held in Washington that a plan of American participation in the campaigns in Europe unquestion ably would include one for participation in the fighting on the east front. Four American army officers are accompanying the commission to Russia. One of them is a campaigner of many years, a strategist and a man known altogether unlikely that Maj. Gen. ton. Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the United States army, would have been sent with the commission unless the intention, if Russia holds firm, is to send the soldiers of another.

Henry de Spain, general manager of the stagecoach line running from Thief River to Sleepy Cat, a railroad division town in the Rocky mountains, is fighting a band of cattle thieves and gunmen living in Morgan gap, a fertile valley 20 miles from Sleepy Cat and near Calabasas, where the coach horses are changed. As it was, a distressing amount of but one interpretation for his inquiries-and a fight, if one occurred between these men, it was conceded, would be historic in the annals of the town. Its anticipation was food for all of the rumors of three days of suspense. For the town they were three days of thrilling expectation; for Nan, isolated, without a confidant, not knowing what to do or which way to turn, they were the three bitterest days of anxiety she had ever known.

Desperate with suspense at the close of the second day-wild for a scrap of news, yet dreading one-she saddled her pony and rode alone into Sleepy Cat after nightfall to meet the train on which De Spain had told her he would return from the east. She rode uncle's face. His square, hard jaw straight to the hospital, instead of from beginning to end looked like going to the livery barn, and leaving her horse, got supper and walked by way of unfrequented streets downtown to the station to wait for the train.

When the big train drew slowly, almost noiselessly, in, Nan took her place where no incoming passenger could escape her gaze and waited for De Spain. But when all the arrivals had been accounted for, he had not come.

She turned, heavy-hearted, to walk back uptown, trying to think of whom she might seek some information concerning De Spain's whereabouts, when her eye fell on a man standing not ten feet away at the door of the baggage room. He was alone and seemed to be watching the changing of the engines, but Nan thought she knew hat marked the man known and hated "Uncle Duke, if you won't listen to in the gap as "the Indian." It was not hard for De Spain next morning to find Duke Morgan. The moh of hangers-on whose appetite had been whetted with the prospect of a death, and perhaps more than one, in the meeting of men whose supremacy with the gun had never been successfully disputed. It required all the diplomacy of Lefever to "pull off" a conference between the two which should not from the start be hopeless, because of a crowd of Duke's partisans whose presence would egg him on, in spite of everything, to a combat,

But toward eleven o'clock in the morning. De Spain having been concealed like a circus performer during every minute earlier. Duke Morgan was found, alone, in a barber's hands in the Mountain house. At the moment Duke left the revolving chair and walked to the cigar stand to pay his check, De Spaln entered the shop through the rear door opening from the hotel office.

Passing with an easy step the row of barbers lined up in waiting beside their chairs, De Spain walked straight down the open aisle, behind Morgan's onck. While Duke bent over the case to select a cigar, De Spain, passing, placed himself at the mountain-man's side and between him and the street sunshine. It was taking an advantage, De Spain was well aware, but under the circumstances he thought himself entitled to a good light on Duke's eye.

De Spain wore an ordinary sack street sult, with no sign of a weapon about him; but none of those who considered themselves favored spectators of a long-awaited encounter felt any doubt as to his ability to put his hand on one at incomparably short notice. There was, however, no trace of hostility or suspicion in Da Spain's greating.

"Hello, Duke Morgan," he said frankly. Morgan looked around. His face hardened when he saw De Spain, and he involuntarily took a short step backward. De Spain, with his left hand lying carelessly on the cigar case, faced him. "I heard you wanted to see me," continued De Spain. "I want to see you. How's your back since you went home?"

Morgan eyed him with a mixture of suspicion and animosity. He took what was to him the most significant part of De Spain's greeting first and threw his response into words as short as words

"Nothing unpleasant, I hope," returned De Spain, "Let's sit down a

"Say what you got to say."

"Well, don't take my head off, Duke, I was sorry to hear you were hurt. And "I was coming from my house after I've been trying to figure out how to supper. A torrent of oaths fell from Morgan's cracked lips. He tried to tell De Spain is his fury that he knew all about his underhand work, he called him more than one bard name, made no secret of his deadly enmity, and challenged him to end their differnces then and there.

De Spain did not move. His left hand again lay on the cigar case, "Duke," he said, when his antagonist had exhausted his vituperation, "I wouldn't fight you, anyway. You're crazy angry at me for no reason on earth. If you'll give me just one good reason for feeling the way you do toward me, and the way you've always acted toward me since I came up to this country, I'll fight you."

"Pull your gun," cried Morgan with an imprecation.

"I won't do it. You call me a coward. Ask these boys here in the shop whether they agree with you on that, You might as well call me an isosceles triangle. You're just crazy sore at me when I want to be friends with you. Instead of pulling my gun, Duke, I'll lay it out on the case, here, to show you that all I ask of you is to talk reason." De Spain, reaching with his left hand under the lapel of his coat, took a Colt's revolver from its breast harness and laid it, the muzzle toward himself, on the plate-glass top of the cigar stand. It reduced him to the necessity of a spring into Morgan for the smallest chance for his life if Morgan should draw; but De Spain was a desperate gambler in such matters even wagers on what he could read in another's eye.

"There's more reasons than one why shouldn't fight you," he said evenly. Duke, you're old enough to be my father-do you realize that? What's the good of our shooting each other up?" he asked, ignoring Morgan's furious interruptions. "Who's to look after Nan when you go—as you must, before very many years? Have you ever asked yourself that? Do you want to leave her to that pack of wolves in the gap? You know, just as well as I do, the gap is no place for a high-bred, finecould be chopped: "What do you want grained girl like Nan Morgan. But the gap is your home, and you've done right to keep her under your roof and under your eye. Do you think I'd like to pull a trigger on a man that's been a father to Nan? Damnation, Duke, could you expect me to do it, willingly? Nan is a queen. The best in the world isn't good enough for her-I'm not good enough, I know that. She's dear to you, she is dear to me. If you really want to see me try to use a gun, send me n man that will insult or abuse her. If you want to use your own gun, use it on me if I ever insult or abuse her-is that fair?"

"Damn your fine words," exclaimed Morgan slowly and implacably. "They don't pull any wool over my eyes. I know you, De Spain-I know your breed-"

"What's that?"

Morgan checked himself at that tone. You can't sneak into my affairs any deeper," he cried. "Keep away from laughed at her fears. "I'll bring that Sleepy Cat-with Mr. Jeffries' compil- my blood! I know how to take care of my own. I'll do it. So help me God, if you ever take anyone of my kin away from me-it'll be ever my dead body!" He ended with a bitter outh and a final taunt; "Is that fair?"

> De Spain finds he will have to use different tactics if he can hope ever to make Nan his wife. What he sets out to do to solve this big personal problem is described in the next installment.

MARQUISE DE MOUSTIER EXPLAINS HOW WOMEN CAN SERVE AMERICA

Describes Plan Adopted for Enrolling French Women in Readiness for Call When Civil Mobilization Is Ordered-Committees List the Applicants for the Work for Which They Prove to Be Best Fitted.

By FRED B. PITNEY.

Correspondent of the New York Tribune. Paris.-The ways in which American women may serve their country as the French women are serving France were described to me by the Marquise de Moustier, member of the Association for the Enrollment of French Women.

Civil mobilization in France is not yet an accomplished fact, although Senator Berenger has introduced a bill to make it so. A law is not necessary, however, to induce women to give their time to the service of the country; they have taken it on themselves to form an organization which now counts seventeen branch recruiting offices in Paris, and the work of which is rapbeing extended throughout France. of patriotic women anxious to do something in behalf of their country, promises still greater results. One of the secrets of this success has been the co-ordination of effort in the organization, according to the Marquise de Moustier. Everything possible has been concentrated under one central body, and the association, which encountered at first confusion resufting from diverse operations, has developed into a smoothly working body.

Real Service Now Rendered.

Mistakes due to scattered effort and multiple bodies have been corrected and a real service to the country is now being rendered. There is no lost labor anywhere, and the day the government finally ordains civil mobilization it will find itself already possessed of a well working machine run by women which will serve as a model for the men.

The association is directed by a committee whose president is Mme. Emile Boutroux, wife of the Academician. Among the six vice presidents are Mme, Chenu, wife of Mattre Chenu, and the Viscountess Tie Vielard. Besides the secretary and treasurer there are eleven committee members, including the Marquise de Moustier and some of the most prominent men of France.

Although the women control their own organization, they have seen fit to seek the advice of men; therefore, included in the association is a consulting committee of thirteen men, representing different organizations and various religious beliefs. This committee includes the Murquis de Vogue, vice president of the farmers of France: M. Tessler, secretary of the Union of Commercial and Industrial Employees; Rabbi Israel Levi, Pastor Wilfred Monod, M. Reverdy, vice president of the Catholic Club of Workers, and M. Gervaise, secretary of the Union of Government Employees.

Meetings Three Times a Week.

Committee meetings are held three times a week, the committees being those of organization, propaganda and study. Once a month there is a general meeting of the regular committee and the consulting committee of men. The latter, although having a voice in the councils, have no vote, but simply interchange ideas and offer helpful suggestions and advice which the women may need.

Enrollment in the association is carried out in the following manner: The prospective applicant for national service receives a bulletin bearing the heading of the association, with a blank space in which the enrollment number is indicated. The form is then filled out and filed. If the applicant fulfills all the requirements she is either immediately placed in the position she desires to fill or, if there is no vacancy at the time, she remains at the call of the organization.

The application blank reads: "I, the undersigned, of - nationality, -, living at ----, agree that, on the day France appeals to me, I will work -- hours a day, hours a week, in one of the following categories: Manufacture for industries of war exclusively; manufacture other than for industries of war; stockroom employee; agriculture, including gardening; teaching; civil assistance, such as creches, canteens and care of infants; military health service, including nursing and office work; help, such as servant, scullery maid, seamstress and laundry girl in hospitals and military establishments; stenography, bookkeeping, office work, I desire to work at -

Farm Work Not Hindered.

This appeal is not addressed to the farming community working at home or elsewhere, who are able to render a greater service to France in remaining at their present posts. They may enroll themselves, but only in the locality of their present employment and where squads can be formed.

The following are the examination questions:

Had you worked before the war? In what profession?

Are you working now? In what profession? Have you passed examinations?

If so, which? Would you accept work other than that you have indicated? If so, specify in order or preference. Would you agree to work in a city or district other than that you have indicated?

Would you work Sunday? Have you children between five and fifteen living with you? Have you children less than five living with you? If so, how many?

If married, does your husband authorize you to enroll?

If minor, do your parents authorize you to enroll? Do you agree to work in a category of benevolent service? Are you obliged to ask pay? You are entitled to your salary; you are not to accept a salary lower than that paid ordinarily for work you agree to do. Providing for Day of Need.

This bulletin is not a request for im mediate employees: it is an inscription Great success has been recorded, and for the day when France may have the movement, which was begun in a need of new forces. Such persons as comparatively small way by a number have need of immediate work, however, are requested to indicate it. The committee agrees to transmit immediately their demand to the proper au thorities.

> A similar bulletin is devoted to farming enrollment, concluding as fol-

The women of the farms have wanted to be associated with the work of voluntary enrollment of French women in the service of the country. They will do it gladly, and, since they are adapted to agricultural life, they will work for the salvation of the country. In enrolling on the lists of this association they will show their desire to persevere, some in remaining where they are, others in putting themselves at the disposition of farmers at the height of the season. Those who cannot work will organize the task of caring for infants in school during vaca-

The billboard posters which helped Britain raise an army are now being used by the association to recruit patriotic woman workers. They made their appearance recently on walls in Paris and attracted considerable attention. They read: "Enroll yourself! Give the time you have, so that no effort will be lost. Enroll yourself in the administration, military or health service, or wherever you can be useful."

The posters call attention to the need of women aiding the nation to the fullest extent. They will, it is believed, greatly increase women's mobilization, used to show what has already been accomplished toward this end. Moving picture films also have been taken by the government, and will be used to speed the work.

OFFERS LIFE TO NATION

At the age of eighty-four, Col. Peter Paul Dobozy of West Plains, Mo., survivor of the Hungarian insurrection of 1848-49, of the war of France and Italy against Austria in 1859 and a veteran of the Civil war in this country, has offered his services and his life to the United States. He has asked permission of the government to establish a cavalry training station at West Plains, Mo.

He came to this country in 1862 with two nephews of Louis Kossuth and in 1863 organized a regiment of negro heavy artillery. After the war he became an engineer in the Ozark country and blazed the way for the old Kansas City, Fort Scott and Gulf railway, now a part of the Frisco system.

Brownsville, Tex. - Conscription has terror for the Mexicans. When word came to the border that the great American congress had adopted conscription, the Mexicans who had fled to this side of the border during the troubled days of Madero, Huerta, Villa and Carranza believed the American brand of conscription would be similar to the Mexican brand. So hundreds of them fled back to Mexico.

The raft broke and the three flourdered in the water a considerable time until dragged to safety by spectators. She explained she had tried to reach Mexico ! to save her sons from the horror of the American war.

Willis went through without a flaw until he stripped to be examined for scars when the doctor discovered several layers of adhestive plaster and a small cotton pad under each heel that gave a "French-heel effect" to the would-be warrior. When it was removed, he lacked one inch of meeting the required height.

"I don't want to be a slacker, so I tried my best to enlist," said Hartman, when he was rejected. "The scheme would be all right, too," he added, "If I could only make it stick."

New York.-Every motorcycle mesenger in the United States army will be equipped with a private wireless outfit, with a radius of from 50 to 100 miles, if the invention of Frank E. Evans, captain in the marine corps, stationed on recruiting duty in New York, receives favorable consideration by the ordnance board.

Captain Evans' outfit weighs less than 12 pounds, and can be set up to receive messages in from one to two and a half minutes. It consists of a sending and receiving apparatus, a dynamo attached to the rear wheel and a 100-foot aerial constructed on the order of a steel fishing pole.

It is claimed for the invention that constant communication can be maintained with friendly air scouts and field stations.

The Modern Day Farmer Applies Business Methods and Seeks More Than a Living on the Farm.

A nation-wide cry is being made for more economy and greater production, and probably never was the need of foodstuffs equal to that of the present. Grain prices are the highest in the nation's history and today the agricultural fields of America offer inducements that are unequaled in any other line of commerce or business. The ideal life is that close to nature, enjoying the freedom of God's great outdoors and fulfilling a duty to humanity by producing from a fertile soil that which is essential to the very ex-Istence of a less fortunate people who are actually sturving to death for foodstuffs that can be produced so eco nomically in the United States and Canada. High prices for all grain, undoubtedly, will be maintained for a number of years, and it appears a certainty that the agriculturist will reap a bounteous return for his labor and at the same time carry out the demands of patriotic citizenship. A wrong conception has been generally noticed as to "Life on the Farm." It has been, to a large extent, considered as only a place to live peacefully and afford a living for those who are satisfied with merely a comfortable existence. Such a wrong impression has been created, in a measure, by the lack of systematic business principles to farming in general. But today farming and agriculture have been given a supremacy In the business world and require the same advanced methods as any other line of commerce. In no other business does a system adoption pay better than on the farm, and it is certain that there is no other line of work. that, generally speaking, needs it as much. The old idea of getting a living off the farm and not knowing how it was made and following up the details of each branch of farming to get the maximum of profit, at the least expense, is fast being done away with.

Farming is now being considered as a business and a living is not sufficient for the modern agriculturist; a small per cent on the investment is not enough, the present-day farmer must have a percentage return equal to that of other lines of business. The prices for produce are high enough, but the Poet," cost of producing has been the factor, In many places, that has reduced the profit. It is the application of a system to the cost of various work on the farm that it is possible to give figures on profits made in grain-growing in Western Canada.

Mr. C. A. Wright of Mile, Iowa, bought a hundred and sixty acres of land in Western Canada for $3,300 in December, 1915, and took his first crop from it in 1916. After paying for the land in full and the cost of enitivating it and marketing the grain, he sold his grain at $1.55 n bushel (a low price compared with the present market). had a surplus of $2,472.67. His figures are as follows:

Threshing bill 11c per bushel ..... Seed at 95c..... 144.00 Drilling ...... 160,00 furting ...... 160,00 Twine ..... 50,00 Shocking ..... Hauling to town 134.61 Se ..... Total cost ..... 1,182,18

With the assistance of the Canadian Government Agent, at Des Moines, In., they made selection near Champion. Alberta. They put 240 acres of land in wheat, and in writing to Mr. Hewitt, The Canadian Government Agent at Des Moines, one of the members of the firm says: "I have much pleasure in advising you that on our farm five miles east of Champion, in the Province of Alberta, Canada, this year (1916) we harvested and threshed 10.-600 bushels of wheat from 240 acres, this being an average of 44 bushels and 10 pounds to the acre. A considerable portion of the wheat was No. 1 Northern, worth at Champion, approximately $1.85 per bushel, making a total return of $19,610, or an average of $81.70 per acre gross yields. And by aid of a thorough system were able to keep the cost of growing wheat at about 25 cents a bushel.,"

Messrs. Smith & Sons of Vulcan, Alberta, are growers of wheat on a large scale and have demonstrated that there is greater profit in Western Canada wheat-raising than probably in any other business anywhere. Speaking of their experience Mr. Smith

And that from 394.69 acres of oats on the said farm, there was threshed in the said season of 1916, 48,506 bushels of oats, being at the average of 122 bushels and 30 pounds per acre.

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

If I had only preserved the whole of this paper, there would be no break in the beginning of my sketch of this story. For Captain Shaw, if it was he, handed it to his successor in the charge, and he to his.

The rule adopted on board the ships on which I have met "The Man without a Country" was, I think, transmitted from the beginning. No mess liked to have him permanently, because his presence cut off all talk of home or of the prospect of return, of politics or letters, of peace or of war-cut off more than half the talk men like to have at sea. But it was always thought too hard that he should never meet the rest of us, except to touch hats, and we finally sank into one system. He was not permitted to talk with the men unless an officer was by. With officers he had unrestrained intercourse, as far as they and he chose. But he grew shy, though he had favorites: I was one. Then the captain always asked him to dinner on Monday. Every mess in succession took up the invitation in its turn. According to the size of the ship, you had him at your mess more or less often at own stateroom, he always had a stateroom, which was where a sentinel, or somebody on the watch, could see the door. And whatever else he ate or broken down. At first, they said, he drank he ate or drank alone. Some- took a very high tone, considered his times, when the marines or sailors had imprisonment a mere farce, affected any special jollification, they were permitted to invite "Plain-Buttons," as Phillips said that after he came out of they called him. Then Nolan was sent his stateroom he never was the same with some officer, and the men were man again. He never read aloud again, forbidden to speak of home while he was there. They called him "Plain-Buttons," because, while he always it was not that merely. He never enchose to wear a regulation army uniform, he was not permitted to wear actly as a companion again. He was the army button, for the reason that it bore either the initials or the insignia of the country he had disowned. I remember, soon after I joined the navy, I was on shore with some of the older officers from our ship and from the Brandywine, which we had met at Alexandria. We had leave to make a party and go up to Cairo and the Pyramids. As we jogged along some of the gentlemen fell to talking about Nolan, and someone told the system which was adopted from the first about his books and other reading. As he was almost never permitted to go on shore, even though the vessel lay in port for months, his time, at the best, hung heavy; and everybody was permitted to lend him books, if they were not published in America and made no allusion to it. These were common enough in the old days, when people in the other hemisphere talked of the United States as little as we do of Paraguay. He had almost all the foreigh papers that came into the ship, sooner or later; only somebody must go over them first, and cut out any advertisement or stray paragraph that alluded to America. Right in the midst of one of Napoleon's battles, or one of Canning's speeches, poor Nolan would find a great hole, because on the back of the page of that paper there had been an advertisement of a packet for New York, or a scrap from the president's message. I say this was the first time I ever heard of this plan, which afterwards I had enough, and more than enough, to do with. I remember it, because poor Phillips, who was of the party, as soon as the allusion to reading was made, told a story of something which happened at the Cape of Good Hope on Nolan's first ally he had the nervous, tired look of voyage; and it is the only thing I ever a heart-wounded man. knew of that voyage. They had touched at the Cape, and had done the civil thing with the English admiral er to the surprise of everybody they and the fleet, and then, leaving for a long cruise up the Indian ocean, Phillips had borrowed a lot of English books from an officer, which, in those days, as indeed in these, was quite a would order, was the "Lay of the Last Minstrel," which they had all of them heard of, but which most of them had been published long. Well, nobody thought there could be any risk of anything national in that, though Phillips swore old Shaw had cut out the "Tempest" from Shakespeare before he let Nolan have it, because he said, "The Bermudas ought to be ours and, by Jove, should be one day." So Nolan was permitted to join the circle one afternoon when a lot of them sat on deck smoking and reading aloud. People do not do such things so often now, but when I was young we got rid of a great deal of time so. Well, so it happened that in his turn Nolan took the book and read to the others; and he read very well, as I know. Nobody in the circle knew a line of the poem, only it was all magic and border chivalry, and was ten thousand years ago. Poor Nolan read steadily through the fifth canto, stopped a minute and drank something, and then began, without a thought of what was

Breathes there the man, with soul so Who never to himself bath said-but all these fellows did then, and poor Nolan himself went on, still unconsciously or mechanically-

This is my own, my native land!

Then they all saw something was to pay; but he expected to get through, I suppose, turned a little pale, but plunged on-

Whose heart hath ne'er within him burned, As home his footsteps he hath turned From wandering on a foreign strand?— If such there breathe, go, mark him well.

By this time the men were all beside themselves, wishing there was any way to make him turn over two pages; but he had not quite presence of mind for that; he gagged a little, colored crimson, and staggered on:

For him no minstrel raptures swell; High though his titles, proud his name, Boundless his wealth as wish can claim, Despite these titles, power and pelf, The wretch, concentered all in self,— and here the poor fellow choked, could not go on, but started up, swung the book into the sea, vanished into his stateroom, "and by Jove," said Phillips, "we did not see him for two months again. And I had to make up some beggarly story to that English dinner. His breakfast he ate in his surgeon why I did not return his Walter Scott to him."

That story shows about the time when Nolan's braggadocio must have to enjoy the voyage, and all that; but unless it was the Bible or Shakespeare, or something else he was sure of. But tered in with the other young men exalways shy afterward, when I knew him, very seldom spoke, unless he was spoken to, except to a very few friends. He lighted up occasionally, I remember late in his life hearing him fairly eloquent on something which had been suggested to him by one of Flechier's sermons, but gener-

When Captain Shaw was coming home-if, as I say, it was Shaw-rathmade one of the Windward islands, and lay off and on for nearly a week. The boys said the officers were sick of salt junk, and meant to have turtle soup before they come home. But windfall. Among them, as the Devil after several days the Warren came to the same rendezvous; they exchanged signals; she sent to Phillips and these homeward-bound men letters and panever seen. I think it could not have pers, and told them she was outward bound, perhaps to the Mediterranean, and took poor Nolan and his traps on the boat back to try his second cruise. He looked very blank when he was told to get ready to join her. He had known enough of the signs of the sky to know that till that moment he was going "home." But this was a distinct evidence of something he had not thought of, perhaps, that there was no going home for him, even to a prison. And this was the first of some twenty such transfers, which brought him sooner or later into half our best vessels, but which kept him all his life at least some hundred miles from the country he had hoped he might never hear of again. It may have been on that second cruise-it was once when he was up the Mediterranean-that Mrs. Graff, the celebrated Southern beauty of those days, danced with him. They had been lying a long time in the Bay as often as any other gun on the ship. of Naples, and the officers were very intimate in the English fleet, and there had been great festivities, and our men thought they must give a great ball on board the ship. How they It seems impossible to us that any- ever did it on board the Warren I am body ever heard this for the first time; sure I do not know. Perhaps it was paving stones has been invented.

not the Warren, or perhaps ladies did not take up so much room as they do now. They wanted to use Nolan's stateroom for something, and they hated to do it without asking him to the ball: so the captain said they might ask him, if they would be responsible that he did not talk with the wrong people, "who would give him intelligence." So the dance went on, the finest party that had ever been known, I dare say; for I never heard of a man-of-war ball that was not. For ladies they had the family of the American consul, one or two travelers who had adventured so far, and a nice bevy of English girls and matrons, perhaps Lady Hamilton herself.

Well, different officers relieved each other in standing and talking with Nolan in a friendly way, so as to be sure hat nobody else spoke to him. The dancing went on with spirit, and after while even the fellows who took this honorary guard of Nolan ceased to fear any contretemps. Only when some English lady-Lady Hamilton, as I said, perhaps, called for a set of 'American dancers," an odd thing happened. Everybody then danced contredances. The black band, nothing loath, conferred as to what "American dances" were, and started off with "Virginia Reel," which they followed with "Money-Musk," which, in its turn In those days, should have been followed by "The Old Thirteen." But just as Dick, the leader, tapped for his fiddlers to begin, and bent forward, about to say, in true negro state, " 'The Old Thirteen,' gentlemen and ladies!" as he had said, "'Virginny Reel,' if you " 'Money-Musk,' if you please!" please!" the captain's boy tapped him on the shoulder, whispered to him, and he did not announce the name of the dance; he merely bowed, began on the air, and they all fell to, the officers teaching the English girls the figure, but not telling them why it had no name.

But that is not the story I started to tell. As the dancing went on, Nolan and our fellows all got at ease, as I said, so much so that it seemed quite natural for him to bow to that splendid Mrs. Graff, and say:

"I hope you have not forgotten me, Miss Rutledge. Shall I have the honor of dancing?"

He did it so quickly that Shubrick, who was by him, could not hinder She laughed and said:

"I am not Miss Rutledge any longer, Mr. Nolan; but I will dance all the same," just nodded to Shubrick, as if to say he must leave Mr. Nolan to her, and led him off to the place where the dance was forming.

Nolan thought he had got his chance, He had known her at Philadelphia, and at other places had met her, and this was a godsend. You could not talk in contredances, as you do in cotillions, or even in the pauses of waltzing; but there were chances for tongues and sounds, as well as for eyes and blushes. He began with her travels, and Europe, and Vesuvius, and the French; and then, when they had worked down, and had that long talking time at the bottom of the set, he said boldly, a little pale, she said, as she told me the story, years after:

"And what do you hear from home, Mrs. Graff?"

And that splendid creature looked through him, Jove! how she must have looked through him! "Home!! Mr. Nolan!!! I thought you were the man who never wanted to hear of home again!" and she walked directly up the deck to her husband, and left poor Nolan alone, as he always was, He did not dance again.

I cannot give any history of him in order; nobody can now; and, indeed, I am not trying to. These are the traditions, which I sort out, as I believe them, from the myths which have been told about this man for forty years, The fellows used to say he was the "Iron Mask;" and poor George Pons went to his grave in the belief that this was the author of "Junius," who was being punished for his celebrated libel on Thomas Jefferson. Bons was not very strong in the historical line. A happier story than either of these I have told is of the war. That came along soon after. I have heard this affair told in three or four ways, and, indeed, it may have happened more than once. But which ship it was on I cannot tell. However, in one, at least, of the great frigate duels with the English, in which the navy was really baptized, it happened that a round shot from the enemy entered one of our ports square, and took right down the officer of the gun himself. and almost every man of the gun's crew. Now you may say what you choose about courage, but that is not a nice thing to see. But as the men who were not killed picked themselves up, and the surgeon's people were carrying off the bodies, there appeared Nolan, in his shirt sleeves, with the rammer in his hand, and, just as if he had been the officer, told them off with authority, who should go to the cockpit with the wounded men, who should stay with him, perfectly cheery, and with that way which makes men feel sure all is right and is going to be right. And he finished loading the gun with his own hands, almed it, and bade the men fire. And there he stayed, captain of that gun, keeping those fellows in spirits, till the enemy struck, sitting on the carriage while the gun was cooling, though he was exposed all the time, showing them easier ways to handle heavy shot, making the raw hands laugh at their own blunders, and when the gun cooled again, getting it loaded and fired twice The captain walked forward, by way of encouraging the men, and Nolan touched his hat and said:

This Car Is Worthy of Your Confidence

You can buy a Saxon car secure in the knowledge that you are getting full value in tried and proven motor car mechanism.

Saxon cars are built to win the confidence of their owner - and they do. But first they must win the confidence of their buildersand this they could not if they embodied any feature or any part of unproved worth.

So no Saxon principle of construction has ever been changed until a better principle has fully proved its greater value. And so no Saxon car has ever embodied features of doubtful worth.

Saxon cars have simply been in a state of transition, passing thru phase after phase of gradual improvement without a break in production. They are refined from time to time, not radically changed.

They are in the fullest sense of the phrase, products of evolution. They are developed rather than built.

Isn't that the kind of a car you want—one that you can feel confident is right before you put down your good money for it? If it is, then you want a Saxon.
