All Americans Can Help Uncle Sam in His Time of Need

Every man, woman and child in this country, who wants to serve the country, can serve it and serve it in a very simple and effective way, Secretary McAdoo says. That service is to lend your money to the government. Every 25 cents loaned to the government is a help at this time, and practically every man, weman and child, by making some trifling sacrifice, some denial of a pleasure, or giving up some indulgence, bonds bear interest at the rate of 5 per can render the government that sup-

Red Cross Ship Florizel Loses Way Off Atlantic Coast and 140 Persons Aboard Are Missing.

St. Johns, N. F., Feb. 25,-The crack Red Cross liner Florizel, from St. John's for New York by way of Halifax, with 140 persons aboard, including 78 passengers, piled up on the ledges near Cape Race during a bligzard Sunday and it is believed that all on board were lost. Naval gunners sent on a special train from this city shot a line across the bow of the partly submerged ship last night, but waited in vain for it to be hauled aboard. Just before darkness blotted the wreck from view five men, driven from the forecastle by the giant seas, were seen to climb the forward rigging signaling feebly for help. But when they failed to make fast the line, it was feared they had succumbed to the cold end exposure. These five were the only ones visible several hours after the ship struck.

NEWS REVIEW OF THE PAST WEEK

Germany, Forcing Bolsheviki to Accept Her Terms, Resumes the War on Russia.

CIVIL CONFLICT CONTINUES

America's Preparations Are Being Speeded Up, and First Battleplanes Are Shipped, None Too Soon-Premier Lloyd George Sustains the Program of the Supreme War Council.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

"No longer believing in the pacific intentions of Russia," and with the professed purpose of restoring pence and order in the parts of that country they airendy occupy, the Germans last week re-opened the war on the bolsheviki. Their first advance took them across the Dvina and into Dvinsk and Lutsk, and thence they continued on their way toward Petrograd, gathering in many prisoners and large quantities of arms and supplies. After protesting against the resumption of hostilities against Russia, Austria-Hungary joined in the invasion. The move is extremely unpopular among the socialists of Germany and the people generally of Austria, but the Prussian militarists have the whip-hand and pay little heed to objections from others.

Continuing their advance, toward the end of the week the Germans sent a large fleet of warships to Reval and landed troops to invest that great sea-They also landed a force of Finns, who had been fighting in the German army, in Finland, presumably to attack the bolsheviki at Tammerfors and Viborg.

Trotzky, finding his hope that the Teutonic workers and peasants would refuse to fight against those of Russin, emitted a loud wall, offering to sign the peace treaty Germany had demanded, but seemingly Dr. Von Kuehlmann deemed it too late. Furthermore, there were strong indications that the long-expected split in the ranks of the bolsheviki leaders had come, for Lenine countermanded Trotzky's orders for immediate demobilization, stating that they were unable yet to announce the terms of peace as peace had not yet been signed.

The Red guard is necessarily scattered, because civil war is raging in many parts of Russia. The bolsheviki claimed to have established their authority in that part of East Siberia known as Trans-Batkalla, to have captured Botalsk and advanced far beyoud Restev-on-the-Don, and to have routed the Cossacks in Astrakhan. In Finland, too, they claimed decided victories over the White guard of the government. Official dispatches from Petrograd said the Ukruinians had made an alliance with the Roumanians and that a joint army had occupied Kishinev, but that the bolsheviki forces had driven them from Tiraspol on the Dulester. The Ukrainlans, on the other hand, appealed to Germany for help against the bolsheviki, who, they asserted, had invaded their territory and were burning and looting their towns.

In the Don Cossack region the government fostered by General Kalendines was ousted and a new republic organized at Tcherkask by the workmen and soldiers. Kalendines committed suicide, and his successor as betman, General Nazaroff, ordered all Cossacks to mobilize at once and fight the advancing bolsheviki forces. Altogether it is a pretty mess, and no one will envy the Germans the task they have assumed of restoring order.

--The German and Austrian ministers, addressing the reichraths, expressed the strong conviction that the peace with Ukraine was the beginning of peace with all Russia, but warned the people they might be disappointed. They explained that, in order not to disrupt this peace and lose the chance could not promise that the Choim district of Poland should not be given to the new republic, as the treaty provided, but they pacified the enraged Poles somewhat by the assurance that the frontiers of Choim would be fixed by a commission including Polish and Ukrainian representatives. As for peace with Great Russia, Dr. Von Kuehlmann said he was awaiting signed confirmation from Trotzky that the German terms were accepted. These terms, not wholly made public, of course "correspond with Germany's interests."

The written confirmation of Russia's acceptance of the peace terms, it was reported, passed the German lines on Thursday.

The socialist members of the Austrian reichsrath called on the government to adopt the principles set forth by President Wilson as a basis for general peace and asked that negotiations be begun quickly. They and all the Czechs and Slavs protested violently agninst the resumption of the war against Russia. Further trouble for Austria was reported by deserters who said the men of the fleet at Cattaro had mutinled, and there was growing disaffection at Pola, Flume and other Austrian ports.

The United States and the entente allies have declared they will recognize no peace in the East made under compulsion and by a mere faction of the Russian people, nor one involving Poland without a previous consultation with Poland.

Sweden finally made up its mind that it couldn't intervene to stop the horrible civil conflict in Finland, but it was expected that Germany would take a hand in the mess there.

While President Wilson and his administration show no intention of discontinuing the campaign to bring about peace by argument, they do show an increasing realization of the improbability of peace within a short time. Possibly they are ready to admit that men and guns will do the most to end the war. At any rate, our preparations are being speeded up in a manner that is gratifying. Plans have been completed for sending to the training camps the second increment of 500,000 men, beginning about May 1, and continuing at the rate of 10,000 men a week. These, it is believed, will all be taken from class one, which numbers approximately 1,500,-000, and from the million men who will become twenty-one years of age during the year ending June 5 next. With increasing rapidity the men of the first draft are being sent across to France, in response to the call of the allies, and to provide more transports for them and their supplies a great number of vessels have been withdrawn from trade outside the war zones, these being replaced by vessels of neutral nations, according to a recent agreement -

Further relief in the matter of transportation was provided by the economic agreement with Spain, signed Thursday, which permits General Pershing to purchase in Spain mules, army blankets and other supplies for his troops. A month ago Spain refused to let Pershing have these materials, but sufficient argument and pressure were brought to bear to induce a change of mind.

In the matter of American shipbuilding, the prospect is fairly rosy ngain. The president, by quick and decisive action, put an end to the strike of shippard carpenters, and on Thursday the pleasing announcement was made that the drive for the enrollment of 250,000 shippard workers would bring more than the number sought, thousands of union men joining without restrictions as to working with unorganized workers, Equally cheering was the statement by Secretary Baker that the first American battleplanes for Pershing's forces already had been shipped, several months earlier than had originally been intended. These machines are equipped with the Liberty motor, and from now on there will be a steady stream of them going over, together with the aviators and mechanics necessary to operate them. From the dispatches of correspondents in France these planes are sorely needed, for it is stated as an admitted fact that the Germans have the complete mastery of getting wheat from Ukraine, they of the air above the American sector, and are able to take observations and make photographs almost without opposition. As a result, the villages occupied by the Americans back of the lines have been bombed repeatedly.

In other respects Pershing's men are holding their own finely, both the Infantry and the artillery demonstrating their entire readiness to meet the drive of the enemy if it should be directed against their sector. This, however, Is not considered likely, as the Germans, if they gained any ground there, would place themselves in a wedge where they could be attacked on both sides by the allies, Some authorities have expressed the belief that Hindenburg will attack not only on the west front, but in Italy and the Balkans as well at the same time, making his strongest efforts on the latter fronts. Others, and these are supported by the statements of prisoners, are sure the Hun will make his supreme effort at two points on the west front, General Maurice, British director of military operations, said on Wednesday there had been no developments during the last two weeks to indicate that the German offensive was near. This is not in accord with the information that has been coming to America, but if anyone knows conditions and what they indicate, it should be General Maurice.

Switzerland has become much exerclaed over the massing of Teutonic troops near her frontier, and fears that her neutrality will be violated as ruthlessly as was that of Belgium. This might happen if Hindenburg decided to attempt to turn the right flank of the French army, and the results might be serious, for the French-Swiss frontler is not strongly protected.

In Palestine the British are steadily forging forward. To the east and ertheast of Jerusalem several advances were made during the week, desplte resistance by the Turks, and at last advices the British were within termination of the war." four miles of Jericho.

- M Premier Lloyd-George weathered anweek, main position by frankness and firmness combined and offering to resign if parliament felt like refusing him a vote of confidence. It all came about through his adherence to the program adopted by the Versailles council for a more unified control of war operations by all the allies. Gen. Sir William Robertson, chief of staff, would not hold his position in these circumstances, and it was given to Gen. Sir. Henry Wilson. Something of a storm resulted, but the premier did not yield. He said the extension of powers of the supreme council was in accordance with the proposal of the United States, which was almost identical with those of the other governments, and that the policy of Great Britain in this matter was the policy of France, Italy and America. This satisfied most of the premier's critics, though what the program of the council is has not been told to the people. In Washington military circles there is a belief that the council decided to strike the enemy without waiting for him to make his spring drive.

Two more air raids on London occurred during the week. Together they resulted in the death of 27 persons. Over on the continent the allied aviators made repeated raids on Treves. TO SPEED NEW FLEET

Call Is Issued for 250,000 Volunteers to Aid in Work.

Reserve Organization of American Mechanics is Formed to Complete Great Shipbuilding Program Planned to Win the War.

All states have been requested to contribute their quots of volunteer shipyard workmen to speed America's new merchant fleet to rapid completion. The United States Shippard Volunteers of the Public Service Reserve has been formed, embracing skilled workers in many trades. Two hundred and fifty thousand workmen will be enrolled, all of whom will stand ready to respond when they are called to go to shipyards for service.

An appeal for volunteers has been made by the department of labor, the council of national defense, the shipping board, the 20,000 four-minute men, governors of the various states. organized labor and business men. The aim is to fill all the present and future needs of the government's shippards. Pay of volunteers will be in accordince with the prevailing wage in the shippards at the time they are called. Construction of houses for the workers is being pushed with energy, and the necessary homes will be ready when the men are called.

Preliminaries Are Arranged.

All preliminary work, such as the building of shipyards and shipways. construction of housing facilities, preparation and transportation of material, and the training of workmen, is being rushed to completion. Thus the organization of the shipyard volunteers Is being hastened with energy and enthusinsm.

Volunteers are requested to go to the nearest enrollment agent of the public service reserve or state council of defense and sign up. Should there be no enrolling agent in the vicinity, they are asked to write to Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States shipping board, Washington.

Cards are issued to all applicants. bearing statements of the purpose of the shipyard volunteers, classifying them according to trades and asking signers to respond when called. Buttons will be given to volunteers bearing the inscription, "U. S. Shipyard Volunteers." In addition, the worker will receive a certificate signed by Chairman Hurley, which reads:

"This is to certify (name of volunteer) of (city, state), has enrolled in the United States Shipyard Volunteers of Public Service Reserve to aid the nation in its imperative needs for merchant ships with which to overcome the submarine menace and maintain our forces at the front."

Shipyards to Win or Lose. "The world war will be won or lost In the American shippards. Every rivet driven is a blow at the kaiser. Every ship turned out brings America nearer to victory."

INSTEAD OF MEAT.

Cheese. Beans. Milk. Pèas. Cereals. Eggs.

Why not use them oftener? There are numerous good ways of cooking them. They give you the body-building material for which you eat meat largelyprotein-and a lot of it.

Nuts.

.................................... Ment is only one of the foods which furnish that body-building material, Cheese, mik, eggs, beans, protein. peas, cereals, and nuts contain it in plentiful amounts. Take cottage cheese, for example. It is richer in protein than meat. You can eat a as much of the protein as a quarter of a pound of sirloin steak-a good, generous serving. Or if you like baked beans eat a cupful to get the same amount of protein. The child to grow must have food that furnishes this kind of body-building material. You need it, too. Even if you are grown up you must have it to renew parts of your body used up by work and exercise.

Eat ment substitutes occasionally, and you save a fighting material. Peas, beans, peanuts, and cereals are cheaper than meats and good to eat. They should be used, but eat some milk or cheese besides. Here are some suggestions:

Kidney Bean Stew. 114 cupfuls drien 2 to inhlespoonfuls kidney or other beans. beans I onion.

tupfuls canned I tablespoonful salt. & cupful rice.

Wash the beans, put in covered kettle, and soak overnight in two quarts of cold water. Cook the beans slowly in the water in which they soaked. If necessary, add more water to cover and continue the cooking until they are nearly tender, usually about two hours. Wash the rice, cut up the onion and add with the tomatoes to the beans. Cook until rice is tenderabout 30 minutes. Mix the flour with a little cold water and stir in carefully to thicken. A small plece of sait pork cut up in cubes and added to the benns at the beginning of the cooking gives a pleasant tlavor to the dish.

and bott with the rice. All of these four dishes except the pea souffle have as much building material, protein, as a pound and a quarter of solid meat. The pea souffle furnishes only about half as much protein, but is very good instead of meat at a lighter meal.

Nuts are concentrated foods, too. Twenty single peanuts are about the same as the inch cube of cheese. Remember that nuts are good food. Chew them thoroughly or grind them up for a cooked dish and eat them as an important part of your meal.

More Uses for Toast.

Saving stale bread by making it into tonst is an economy. There's a great deal of food in a little piece of it. Don't eat it at the end of a meal when you have already had enough. You wouldn't eat a piece of meat then. An inch cube of American cheese contains a third more protein than a piece of lean meat of the same size. Cheese is excellent food if esten at the right time. The sanitary consequences are obvious. As the chain is as strong as its weakest link, so the health of that company is as good as that of its sickest guest. And if you have been brought up under the tutelage of pecidental doctors and have an uncomfortable knowledge of germs, your mind dwells uncomfortably as you eat, on the condition of your fellow-guests. If by chance your vis-a-vis remarks in passing that he has a bad cold, your hunger may be oppeased quite suddenly.

Little by little, however, this is being changed. Today in the homes of many upper class Chinese, who have seen educated in Europe or America or have come into contact with foreign influences, the system of individual dishes and individual service is coming more and more into use.

THREE AND SEVEN ARE LUCKY

Mystic Numbers, According to Popular Superstition, Bring Forth Good and Bad Luck.

There is said to be luck in odd numers, and there are prudent farmers' wives who are careful to put an odd number of eggs under a hen for hatching. Of course the fatal thirteen is an exception to the rule.

Three is considered especially tucky, but there are superstitions of bad luck connected with it. For instance: Break one dish and you will break three. Three times a brides-maid, never a bride. There is a belief in certain sections that when a fire occurs there will be two others, making three inside of 24 hours. It is said if a dream occurs three times in succession it will come true. An exception to the rule that even numbers are not lucky is the common belief that the finding of a four-leaved clovor will bring good fortune.

Seven is one of the lucklest of numbers. The seventh son is considered a natural healer, while the seventh son of a seventh son has almost unlimited power to work wonders.

Origin of the Greek Church. Apart from theological discussions, such as those rising from the addition of the words, "and the son," in the creed, the separation of the Latin and Greek churches may be traced to the founding of Constantinople and the political division of the Roman empire, according to a Bible student. Ignatius, patriarch of Constantinople, had been deposed, and was succeeded by Photius, who summoned a council of the East in 867, and passed sentence of excommunication on the bishop of Rome. The churches became reunited towards the end of the ninth century, and remained so until the middle of the eleventh century, when in 1054 Michael Cerularius, patriarch of the East, renewed the condemnation of the Latin church, and was in turn excommunicated by Pope Leo IX. Efforts toward reunion were made from time to time, and at Ferrara (1439) the Greek prelates signed a decree of unlen, but were forced by the people and clergy to repudiate it. Since then the two communions have remained separate.

AMERICANS' ONE GREAT IDEA

Happiness Has Principal Charm-The People Are the Most Idealistic and Imaginative.

"The Americans are the most idealistic and imaginative people in the world, and the most prossic, because like Wordsworth, the most prosaic of poets, they believe in happiness, and happiness to them as to Wordsworth means 'mens sana in corpore sano;' every one efficient in the tusks of modern life, the least heroic of doctrines.

"I met a young American poet, handsome, and besides elated by winning some prize or other for a poem. He said to me in his arrogant way that poetry is a by-product of life. Why, I said, 'It is life itself.' 'I don't agree with you,' was all he condescended to reply. This young man expressed the

About Cork.

A good, sound cork is semething worth taking care of and using properly. Never "waggle" a cork out of a bottle. That is the best way to brenk or at least spring a crack in the cork. Remove the cork with a turning or twisting movement, always in one direction only, L. e., not a twist one way and then in the opposite way, Replace the cork with the same twist as when removing it. Never lay a cork down on a dirty, splashed table. If il must be laid down, stand it on its grown or top. For bottles containing liquids in use, e. g., developers, etc., attach the cork to the bottle thus: Pass a crochet needle through the top of the cork, and with its aid draw the end of a piece of fine twine right through the cork, and tie this end of the string round the neck of the bottle, so adjusting matters that the cork just fails to reach the table (i. e., bottom of the bottle) when the cork and string are free. This saves the cork getting lost in the darkroom,

Makes Eggs Tell Their Age,

A novel and rapid way whereby to determine the age of an egg has been developed by M. Grossfeld, a French investigator. He has supplemented the usual method by one dependent on specific gravity, notes the Boston Transcript. The existing way whereby to determine the age of eggs is by candling them and taking note of the "mirage which forms about the yolk." Mr. Grossfeld has determined that specific gravity of normal eggs in the way attributed to Archimedes, and there has been figured out the loss in gravity, for each week of keeping. For quick thepection of qualities of eggs, he has devised a form of hydrometer. The egg takes the place of the weighted bulb and the scale indicates the specific gravity and at the same time the age of the egg. A little case has been arranged to hold the egg and is capable of quick handling. Big eggs and little eggs are subject to errors in the readings, but with eggs in the vicinity of 55 grammes the indication is instantaneous.

RUSSIAN IKONS NOT IMAGES SOME OLD HEALTH FALLACIES

Pieces Are Pictures of the Savior, The Virgin Mary and the Saints, Used for Devotional Purposes.

Many references have been made by writers on Russia to the ikons which are found in such profusion in all parts of the country, and which are a distinguishing feature of Russian national life, notes a correspondent.

These thons are used for devotional purposes, and are not images as some suppose, but pictures of the Savior, the Virgin Mary and the Saints. In these pictures all but the faces and hands are covered with metal-gold or silver or gilt-and the gorgeous ornamentation of the setting fixes the price of the ikon.

Ikons are generally painted by postulants for the religious life, who use as their guide a twelfth century manuscript written by Dionyslus, the faprior of Mount Athes. Black Virgin thons are not uncommon, while a favorite Madonna was brought from Mount Athos in 1048. This is known as the Iberian Mother of God, and Czar Alexis built a splendid chapel to house this sacred treasure in Golden Moscow, It is known as the Iberian chapel, and 13 silver chandeliers with tapers continually burning stand before the ikon which is decorated with a crown of diamonds and a vell of pearls with other costly gems on the forehead and shoulders. The vestments are both gorgeous and elaborate, and the whole is surrounded with angels' heads on enamel plaques, Writing Implement, Made of Mixture of Wax and Ground Pumice Stone, Recent Invention.

A writing implement composed of a mixture of wax and finely ground pumice stone containing particles of ink has been invented by William C. Geer nary and fountain pens, pencils, crayons and all other writing implements, say the Popular Science Monthly. As the body of the new writing device is composed of a mixture of wax and pumice stone, which is easily worn away when rubbed against a paper surface, the inventor claims that the cells of ink intermixed with the wax and pumice stone will also be liberated, giving a uniform supply of ink.

The device is made by mixing the wax, pumice stone and tak together. When it is heated to the proper temperature it is suddenly immersed in cold water. This chills and solidifies the wax mixture, producing a body having a cellular structure, each cell A PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF being filled with ink.

Cactus Candy.

Louisiana sugar cane planters have volved a plan for manufacturing candy from the spineless cactus. In the process the peel of the plant is removed, dipped into hot molasses and conted with granulated or powdered sugar. The result is a confection of rich and delicious finwor.

So successful have been the experiments with the new sweet that cane planters are now growing cactus, which formerly was utilized, when used at all, for cattle fodder. Planters can in this way furnish plenty of raw material for the new product.

Another important result in the making of what some enterprising advertiser may call "kaktus-kandy," says an exchange, is that sugar mills which have heretofore been idle for nine months in the year can now use part of their equipment in the candy manufacturing industry.

Light and Thought.

Not all thought is traveling. The supposition that when one thinks of the moon one's thought travels to the moon is a mistake, for the thought is formed in the mind and remains there. The time taken to "think of anything." declares a writer, "occupies some small fraction of a second. Light "travels" at the rate of about 188,000 miles a second, and if it is thought which travels in what is called telepathy it would have to travel at the same speed because ether, the medium which transmits light, would also transmit the brain vibrations that accompany thought. The telepathic theory of "thought which travels" has been objected to on the ground that after traveling considerable distances, such as are sometimes claimed for telepathic communication, the brain vibrations would be so diffused and weakened as to make no impression.

POWER OF JOY RULES WORLD

Declares Woman Lecturer, Generation That Really Knows What Should Never Be Resorted to In Correcting Unruly Children,

> A woman is locturing in the East on "The Influence of Joy." It is also an attack on the influence of pain, which parents so much resort to in the management of children. She declares, according to the Ohio State Journal, that pain should never be resorted to to make children good, and, hence, she advises that all spankings and whippings should be eliminated. There is nothing in pain to reconstruct a child. Joy is the only medium that should be used. Make a child happy, instead of sad, is the gospel of child training. The power that lived, moved and ruled the world, she said, was the power of joy; and this was the influence the parent should use in training the child. This is not the way of parents. The rule is to whip the child to make him good. It cannot result that way. A kind word and a gentle association are far more powerful than a red or any other method for producing sorrow or pain. CAUSE OF TIRED FEELING

Complaint, Common With Many People Every Morning, Due to Pressure of Too Much Purin.

The familiar condition in which one wakes up in the morning, after a good night's rest, with a dry mouth, spirits depressed, feeling tired, aching all over, was explained by Dr. Nathan Rosewater of Cleveland in the course of a discussion at a recent meeting of the American Medical association.

He said such a person will go ahead end do a hard day's work and feel better as the hours pass, until in the evening all signs of trouble have gone. Such a person often had severe pains in the abdomen, the muscles of which were extremely sensitive; but the more they were pressed the less sensiive they became Auguste Rodin.

A keener interest in more and more aspects of humanity, a readiness to find more and more kinds of men and women worthy of plastic representstion, a preference for expressiveness to traditional beauty, a love of life because it is life -- by these tokens we may know Rodin for a modern of the moderns in his day, who made the spirit of his time incurnate in marble and bronze. Like every artist who begins by outraging our love of the familiar, he ended by forcing some of us to revise our definition of beauty, says the New Republic. Even the who most passionalsly deny that his beauty is beauty can never see quite as they would have seen if Rodin had not lived. He makes them fess at ease in presence of the conventionally noble, even when excellent in its kind; reveals a humanity which cannot reach ns through the conventionally noble without an effort. Those wrappings of nobleness hid something from us, Was it truth?

It Can't Be Done.

Few know better than Vincent Tabor the utter absurdity of trying to please the women of today. From evidence presented in the Court of Domestic Relations, writes a New York correspondent, it appears that he has at no time tried it, but the demands made by his wife have convinced him that there would be no hope anyway. The matter in consideration was a means to keep Mr. Tabor at work, a means to force him to provide $8 a week for his wife's support and a means to terminate his desperate struggle to drink a harried world dry. "Aw, judge, nothin' can be done," admitted the somewhat tearful defendant, "as long as yuh can't make money enough to satisfy all the highfalutin' ideas of the women. KING SEES YASMINI FOR THE FIRST TIME WHEN SHE COMES TO DANCE BEFORE THE THOUSANDS OF WARRIORS ASSEMBLED IN THE CAVERN

Synopsis.-At the beginning of the world war Capt. Atheistan King of the British Indian army and of its secret service, is ordered to Deihi to meet Yasmini, a dancer, and goes with her to Khinjan to meet the outlaws there who are said by spies to be preparing for a filand or holy war. On his way to Delhi King quietly foils a plan to assassinate him and gets evidence that Yasmini is after him. He meets Rewn Gunga, Yasmini's man, who says she has already gone north, and at her town house witnesses queer dances. Ismail, an Afridi, becomes his body servant and protector. He rescues some of Yasmini's hillmen and takes them north with him, tricking the Rangar Into going ahead. The Rangar deserts him at a dangerous time. He meets his brother at Ali Masjid fort. The disguise he assumes there fools even the sharp-eyed cutthroats composing his guard. He enters Khinjan caves, thanks to his lying guides, and at a clinic hears of an impending revolt led by Bull-With-a-Beard, and goes to a meeting in the cavern.

"Aye! The linr says the Germans gave it to him. He swears they will send more. Who are the Germans? Who is a man who talks of a jihad that though ashamed, "Tlove thee! Thou art a man after my own heart! But I is to be, that he should have gold coin given him by unbelievers? I saw a German once, at Nuklao. He ate pigmeat and washed it down with wine. Are such men sons of the Prophet? Walt and watch, say I!"

"Money?" said King. "And should no more money come?"

This was courteous conversation and received as such-pany a long league removed from curlosity.

"Who am I to foretell a man's kismet? I know what I know, and I think what I think! I know thee, hakim, for a gentle fellow, who burt me almost not at all in the drawing of a bullet out of my flesh. What knowest thou about me?"

"That I will dress the wound for thee again!" Artless statements are as useful in their way as artiess questions. Let the guile lie deep, that is all. "Nay, may! For she said nay! Shall there, perhaps it was enough-too I fall foul of her, for the sake of a new bandage?"

The temptation was terrific to ask why she had given that order, but King resisted it; and presently it occurred to the Pathan that his own theories on the subject might be of interest.

"She will use thee for a reward," he said. "He who shall win and keep her name,"

The dance went on for fifteen minutes yet, but then-quite unexpectedly -all the arena guards together fired a volley at the roof, and the dance stopped as if every dancer had been hit. Panting-foaming at the mouth, some of them-the dancers ran to their seats and set the crowd surging again. leaving the arena empty of all but the guards.

Now a man stood up near the edge of the crowd whom King recognized; and recognition brought no joy with it. The mullah without hair or eyelashes, who had admitted him and his party through the mosque into the caves, strode out to the middle of the arena all alone, strutting and swaggering. He recalled the man's last words and drew no consolation from them, either. "Many have entered! Some went out by a different road!"

Cold chills went down his back. All at once Ismail's manner became unencouraging. He ceased to make a fuss over the dancer and began to eye King sidewise, until at last he seemed unable to contain the malice that would well forth.

"At the gate there were only words!" whisper to him again, but stiffened in as the stars shipe on a battlefield.

the act. There was a great gasp the same instant, as the whole crowd caught its breath all together. The mullah in the middle froze into im-Bull-with-n-beard gtood mumbling, swaying his great head from side to side, no longer suggestive of a bear about to charge, but of one who hesitates.

The crowd was staring at the end of the bridge, King stared, too, and caught his own breath. For Yasmini stood there, smiling on them all as the new moon smiles down on the Khyber! She had come among them like a spirit, all unhersided.

So much more beautiful than the one likeness King had seen of her that for a second he doubted who she was, she stood there, human and warm and real, who had begun to seem a myth, clad in gauzy slik transparent stuff that made no secret of sylphlike shapeliness and looking nearly light enough to blow away. Her feet-and they were the most marvelously molded things he had ever seens-were naked and played restlessly on the naked stone. Not one part of her was still for a fraction of a second; yet the whole effeet was of insolently lazy ease.

Her eyes blazed brighter than the little jewels stitched to her gossamer dress, and when a man once looked at them he did not find it easy to look away again. Even mullah Muhammad Anim seemed transfixed, like a great foolish animal.

But King was staring very hard indeed at something else-mentally cursing the plain glass spectacles he wore, that had begun to film over and dim his vision. There were two bracelets on her arm, both barbaric things of solid gold. The smaller of the two was on her wrist and the larger on her upper arm, but they were so alike, except for size, and so exactly like the one Rewn Gunga had given him in her name and that had been stolen from him in the night, that he ran the risk of removing the glasses a moment to stare with unimpeded eyes. Even then the distance was too great. He could not quite see.

But her eyes began to search the crowd in his direction, and then he knew two things absolutely. He was sitting where she had ordered Ismall to place him; for she picked him out almost instantly, and laughed as if mebody had struck a silver bell. And one of those bracelets was the one that he had worn; for she flaunted it at him, moving her arm so that the light should make the gold glitter.

Then, perhaps because the crowd had begun to whisper, and she wanted all attention, she raised both arms to toss back the golden bair that came scading nearly to her knees. And as if the crowd knew that symptom well, it drew its breath in sharply and grew very still, "Muhammad Anim!" she said, and she might have been wooing him. "That was a devil's trick!"

It was rather an astounding statement, coming from lovely lips in such a setting. It was rather suggestive of a driver's whiplash, flicked through the charge of all three of them and lined air for a beginning. Muhammad Anim them up facing the mullah, clubbing continued glaring and dld not answer them with their rifle-butts to get quickher, so to her own good time, when she er obedience. The crowd began to be had tossed her golden hair back once noisy again, but the muliah signed for or twice again, she developed her meaning. "These are traitors!" he howled, and

"We who are free of Khinjan caves do not send men out to bring recruits. We know better than to bid our men tell lies for others at the gate. Nor. seeking proof for our new recruit, do we send men to bunt a head for himnot even those of us who have a lashkar that we call our own, mullah Muother two were his witnesses! All hammad Anim! A lie is a lie, Muhammad Anim! Wandering perhaps is good, if tom is-I ordered them bound and in search of the way. Is it good to lose the way, and to lie, thou true follower of the Prophet?"

She smiled, tossing her hair back, Her eyes challenged, her lips mocked stood up, who the Pathan had said him and her chin scorned. The crowd "Bull-with-a-heard"-Muhammad breathed hard and watched. The mulinh muttered something in his beard, and sat down, and the crowd began to roar applause at her. But she checked was low, but it carried strangely. "Away with those three of Muhamwith an elbow like a club and tickled mad Antin's men!"

"Kurram Khan !" the lashless mullah swied, like a lone wolf in the moonight, and King stood up. In that grim ninute he managed to seem about as much at ease as a native hakim ought to feel at such an initiation.

"Come forward!" the mullah howled. and he obeyed, treading gingerly between men who were at no pains to let him by, and sliently blessing them, because he was not really in any hurry nt all. Yasmini looked levely from a distance, and life with sweet,

"Who are his witnesses?"

"I!" shouted Ismall, jumping up. "I!" cracked the roof, "I! I!" So that for a second King almost believed he had a crowd of men to swear for him and did not hear Darya Khan at all, who rose from a place not very far behind where he had sat.

Ismail followed him in a hurry, like man wading a river with loose clothes gathered in one arm and the other arm ready in case of falling. Darya Khan did not go so fast. As he forced his way forward a man passed him up the wooden hox that King had used to stand on; he seized it in both hands with a grin and a jest and went to stand behind King and Ismail, in line with the lashless mullah, facing Yasmini, Yasmini smiled at them all as if they were actors in her comedy, and she well pleased with them.

"Look ye!" howled the muliah. Look ye and look well, for this is to be one of us!"

King felt ten thousand eyes burn holes in his back, but the one pair of eyes that mocked him from the bridge was more disconcerting.

"Turn, Kurram Khan! Turn that all may see !"

Peeling like a man on a spit, he rerolved slowly. By the time he had turned once completely around he had decided that Yasmini meant he should be frightened, but not much hurt just ret. So be ceased altogether to feel frightened and took care to look more cared than ever.

"Speak, Kurram Khan!" Yasmini urred, smiling her levellest, "Tell hem whom you slew."

King turned and faced the crowd, raising himself on the balls of his feet iwares. A native hakim, given the stoutest lungs in all India, would not mve shouted in that way.

"Cappitin Attleystan King!" - he onred. And he nearly jumped out of his skin when his own voice came ratiling back at him from the roof over-

Yasmini chuckled as a little rill will sometimes chuckle among ferns. It was devilish. It seemed to say there were raps not far ahead,

"Where was he slain?" asked the

"In the Rhyber pass," said King. "Now give proof!" said the mullah. Words at the gate-proof in the cavern! Without good proof, there is only one way out of here!"

"Proof!" the crowd thundered. Proof !" the roof schoed.

There was no need for Darya Khan to whisper. King's hands were behind him, and he had seen what he had seen and guessed what he had guessed while he was turning to let the crowd look at him. His fingers closed on human

"Nay, it is short!" hissed Darys Kban. "Take the two ears, or hold it by the jawbone! Hold it high in both hands!"

King obeyed, without looking at the thing, and Ismail, furning to face the crowd, rose on tiptoe and filled his lungs for the effort of his life.

"The head of Cappitin Attleystan King-infidel - kaifir - British nrrficer!" he howled.

"Good!" the crowd bellowed, "Good!

she gave no sign.

The crowd was growing impatient Many men were standing, waving their arms to draw attention to themselves. Catching Yasmini's eyes, he knew it had not entered her head that he might disobey. He looked past her toward the river, There were no guards near enough to prevent what he intended; but he had to bear in mind that the guards had rifles, and if he acted too suddenly one Holding the head before him with both hands, he began to walk toward the river, edging all the while a little toward the crowd as if meaning to get nearer before he threw. He reached the river and stood there.

His next move made every savage who watched him gasp because of its very unexpectedness. He held the head in both hands, threw it far out Yasmini, searching for King again with into the river and stood to watch it sink. Then, without visible emotion of his back turned there and then into any kind, he walked back stolidly to face Yasmini at the bridge end, with shoulders a little more stubbern now than they ought to be, and chin a shade had entered, and how he felt. Not a too high, for there never was a man who could act quite perfectly.

"Thou fool!" Yasminl whispered through lips that did not move. She betrayed a flash of temper like a trapped she-tiger's, but followed it instantly with her lovellest smile.

"Slay him!" yelled a lone voice, that was greeted by an approving murmur. "This is a darbar!" Yasmini anounced in a rising, ringing voice. "My darbar, for I summoned it! Did I invite any man to speak?" There was silence, as a whipped unwilling pack is slient.

"Speak, thou Kurram Khan! Tell them why !" she said, smiling. No man could have guessed by the tone of her voice whether she was for him or against him, and the crowd, beginning again to whisper, watched to see which way the cat would jump.

He bowed low to her three times very low indeed and very slowly, for he to shout, like a man facing thousands | had to think. Then he turned his back of troops on parade. He nearly gave and repeated the obelsance to the crowd

"My brothers," he said, and his voice became that of a man whose advice has been asked, and who gives it freely. "Ye saw this night how one man entered here on the strength of an oath and a promise. All he lacked was proof. And I had proof. Ye saw! How ensy would it not have been, had I thrown that head to you, for a traiter to eatch it and hide it in his clothes, and make away with it! He could have used it to admit to these caveswhy-even an Englishman, my brothers! If that had happened, ye would have blamed me!"

Vasmini smiled Taking its one from her, the crowd murmured, scarcely assent, but rather recognition of the hakin's adroitness. The game was not won; there lacked a touch to tip the coles in his favor, and Yasmini supplied it with ready gantus.

"The hakim speaks the truth!" she laughed.

King turned about instantly to face her, but he salaamed so low that she ould not have seen his expression had

"If ye wish it, I will order him ossed into Enrih's Drink after those other three."

Muhammud Anim rose, stroking his seard and rocking where he stood. "It is the law!" he growled, and

There was utter silence. Men looked at one another and at her, and her blazing eyes searched the crowd swiftly, it was plain enough that there vere at least two parties there, and that none dared oppose Yasmin's will for fear of the others. "To thy sent, Korram Khan!" she ordered, when she had waited a full minute and no man spoke. He wasted no time. He hurried outof the arens as fast as he could walk with Ismail and Darya Khan close at his heels. Ismuil overtook him, seized him by the shoulders, hugged him, and drugged him to the empty sent next to the Orakzai Pathan. There he hugged him until his ribs cracked.

"Ready o' wit !" he crowed. "Ready o' tongue! Light o' life! Man after mife own heart! Rey, I love thee! Readily I would be thy man, but for being hers! Turned the joke on Muhammad Anim! Turned it against her enemy and raised a laugh against him from his own men! Ready o' with Shumeless one! Lucky one! Allah was surely good to thee!"

"Have they taken All Masjid fort?" King whispered.

"Nay, how should I know? Ask her! She knows more than any man knows? King turned to ask the same ques tion of his friend the Orakzai Pathan; but the Pathan would have none of his questions, he was busy listening for whispers from the crowd, watching with both eyes, and he shoved King "sbino

The crowd was very far from being satisfied. An angry murmur had begun to fill the cavern as a hive is filled with the song of bees at swarming time. But even so, surmise what one might, it was not easy to persuade the eye that Yasmini's careless smile and easy polse were assumed. If she recignized indignation and feared it, she disguised her fear amazingly. Leisurey, innguidly, she raised both arms until she looked like an angel polsed for flight. The little jewels stitched to her raury dress twinkled like fireflies as she moved. The crowd gasped sharply. She had it by the heart-strings,

She called, and four guards got under one shield, bowing their heads and resting the great rim on their shoulders. They enried it benesth her and stnod still. With a low delicious laugh, street and true, she sprang on it, and the shield scarcely trembled; she seemed lighter than the silk her dress was woven from!

They carried her so, and in the midst of the arena before they had ceased moving she began to sing, with her head thrown back and bosom swelling like a bird's.

The East would ever rather draw its own conclusions from a hint let fall than he puzzled by what the West be-Heves are facts. And parables are not good evidence to courts of law, which is always a consideration. So her song took the form of a parable. And to say that she took hold of them and played rhapsodies of her own making on their heartstrings would he to undervalue what she did. They were dumb while she sang, but they rose at her. Not a force in the world could have kept them down, for she was deftly touching cords that attered other forces-subtle, mysterious, mes meric, which the old East understands which Muhammad the prophet understood when he harnessed evil in the shafts with men and wrote rules for their driving in a book. They rose in silence and stood tense. She sang of a wolf-pack gathering a very hungry wolf-pack. Then of a stalled ox, grown very far from being cared for. Of the "Heart of the Hills" that awoke in the worm of the "Hills," and that listened and watched. "Now, is she the 'Heart of the Hills?" King wondered. The rumors men had heard and told again in India, about the "Heart of the Hills" in Khip-Jan seemed to have foundation.

He thought of the strange knife, wrapped in a handkerchief under his shirt, with its bronze blade and gold hiit in the shape of a woman dancing. The woman dancing was astonishingly like Yasmini, standing on the shield i She sung about the owners of the stalled ox, who were busy at bay, defending themselves and their ox from another wolf-pack in another direction "far beyond,"

She urged them to walt a little while. The ax was big enough and fat enough to pourish all the naives in the world for many seasons. Let them walt, then, until another, greater walf-pack folned them, that they might go hunting all together, overwhelm its present awners and devour the ex! So urged the "Heart of the Hills," speaking to the mountain woives, according to Yasmini's song.

The little cubs in the burrows know. Are ye grown wolves, who hurry so? She paused, for effect; but they gave tongue then because they could not help it, and the cavern shook to their terrific worship. "! dallA ! dalla!"

They summaned God to come and see the height and depth and weight of their allegiance to her! And because for their thunder there was no more chance of being heard, she dropped from the shield like a blessom. No sound of falling could have been heard thrust. Many men who had not laughed in all that din, but one could see she made no sound. The shield bearers joined in now. Muhammad Anim sat ran back to the bridge and stood below

Remove Smoke Stains.

The suggestion will be beneficial to housewives who have not the convenience of electricity or the modern gas fixtures. Frequently the celling above an old-fashloned gas jet becomes discolored from smoke and heat. The discoloration may be removed if a layer of starch and water is applied with a piece of flannel. After the mixture has dried it should be brushed slightly with a brush. No stain or mark will remain.

MORE SPRING WHEAT ASKED OF FARMERS

Large Supply of Food and Feedstuffs Needed in 1918.

Agricultural Department Asks Increas ed Pork Production and Larger Acreage of Grain Crops.

Washington, D. C .- The planting of an increased acreage to spring wheat and the production of an increased supply of other food products and of live stock, especially hogs, is recommended in a supplementary food production program Issued by the United States department of agriculture.

This program re-emphasizes and amplifies the food-production program for 1918 issued by the department in August, 1917, and other suggestions made in the fall and the first of this year regarding increased pork production and increased production of foodstuffs in the South. Taken in connection with the recommendations previously made, it suggests in full the proposals which the department thinks it lesirable to offer with a view to secure enough meat and dairy products, cereals, sugar and other staple and perishable foods, wool and cotton for the nation, its armies, and the allies. It gives suggestions for the approaching spring operations, based upon the intest available information as to the condition of the fall-planted crops of winter wheat and rye and as to the number of meat and dairy animals reported for 1917. They represent the best thought of the specialists of the department who have had the benefit of advice from agricultural leaders throughout the country.

Our Best Efforts Required. "Notwithstanding an increased profuction of staple crops in the United States in 1917, there is need for more food," the program states. "Taking into account our own needs, the needs of the nations associated with us in this war, and the needs of friendly neutral nations, our best efforts will be required-to provide enough food in Whether the war continues or not, the demands on this country, because of the increasing population and the needs of Europe wiff be great. An especially strong demand will be made on this country for meats and live stock. In 1917, notwithstanding the many difficulties encountered, the farmers planted the largest acreages in the history of the nation, harvested record crops of most things except wheat, and succeeded in greatly increasing the number of live stock."

"The situation is such that chief emphasis should be given to the production of the great staple food products, with special stress on wheat and hogs, the leading war foods," The South is urged to provide food for its own people and feed for its live stock and then to plant as much cotton as can well be cultivated and harvest-To raisers of hogs and beef animals the world need for meats and fats is made clear. Farmers are urged to join with the men on the ranges in providing sheep whose wool is needed to equip soldiers.

The program discusses the farm inbor problem, points out the lines of effort for relief, and outlines the activities of the federal and state agencies to furnish assistance.

Spring Wheat.

In dealing with the question of spring wheat, the program states:

The acreage of spring wheat should be increased in order to make certain that we shall have an adequate supply of wheat for our own uses and to meet the needs of the allies."

"While the area of winter wheat sown in 1917 was the largest on record. the condition of the crop, as reported on December 1, was the lowest ever recorded, indicating a probable production of only 540,000,000 bushels. Whether the actual production will be greater or less than the estimate will depend upon conditions prevailing between now and the time of harvest. If there were planted to spring wheat in the United States this year an acreage equal to the sum of the record planting In each spring wheat state within the last ten years, there would be sown approximately 23,300,000 acres. If there should be planted an acreage equal to the sum of the record planting for each state within the last five years there would be sown approximately 21,000,-000 acres. The record planting for any year was 20,381,000, in 1911. The acreage for 1917 was 18,511,000. "The department of agriculture has carefully studied all these records and other data in connection with the present war conditions and needs, and believes that It will be possible this year to secure an acreage in excess of the record acreage which was planted in 1911. It is believed that increased acreages can be secured in states and sections where spring-wheat production is known to be reasonably promising. and that such increases can be made without upsetting farm plans,

It is hoped that many farmers, especially in the northern part of the corn selt, will find it possible to plant five to ten acres additional in wheat. In some cases they will plant more. In a number of states in the eastern and central portions of the country where spring wheat has not been grown in recent years, the crop is now being reestablished and it is recommended that this movement be encouraged. To a small extent the acreage in onts, if necessary, could be reduced in the interest of wheat, Likewise, a very small portion of the acreage which normally would be planted to corn in the northern part of the corn belt might be sown to spring wheat,

If the acreage of spring wheat indicated for some of the states cannot be planted, the barley acreage, which is known to grow better in some locallties, might be increased. The use of barley for food is increasing in this country and it is a welcome food in Europe.

Summary of Other Recommendations. Following is a summary of other important recommendations regarding cereals, ment, poultry, and perishables,

Hogs. The number of hogs should be increased by at least 15 per cent during the year 1918. Sugar. Effort should be made to saintain the acreage of sugar cane and sugar beets, and to Increase these areas in so far as these crops are well established or are necessary to sound agricultural practice.

Production of satisfactory substitutes for sugar, including sorghum, corn and cane strup, maple products and honey can and should be inrensed.

Sorghum strup, it is pointed out, may e produced in nearly every state in the Union, and increased production of sorghum sweets would enable the publie to conserve still further the sugar supply in the form most available for transportation to our soldiers,

Dairy Products. The supply of dairy products should be unintained to meet the needs of this country and to help supply the increasing demands of the Poultry, Poultry production should e increased greatly, especially to back yards and on farms where waste material is available and the purchase of expensive grains and other material is not required.

Corn. An acreage of corn approximately equal to that of 1917 should be planted, with possible slight reductions In certain sections to free areas for spring wheat.

Oats, Barley, Rice, Buckwheat and Flaxseed. The area in oats should be maintained, especially in regions and on solls which are not so well adapted to other grains, but with a small reduction to provide for increasing the wheat acreage. Barley production should be increased in regions where it grows best, especially in the northern edge of the corn belt and in sections north and west of the helt; and rice, buckwheat and flaxseed production should be maintained and, if possible, increased.

Grain Sorghums. The production of grain sorghums (kafir, milo, feterita, etc.) should be increased greatly throughout the drier portion of the Plains region. Kafirs are the most certain grain crops in this section and they can be made to supplement wheat as human food and to replace corn as animal food, Potatoes. The normal acreage of Irish and sweet potatoes should be maintained in 1918, notwithstanding the large crops in 1917.

Hay, Forage and Pastures. Wherever feasible, the area devoted to hav, forage and stinge crops should be increased and these products should be used to a greater extent in place of grains and other concentrates.

Beef Animals. The number of beef animals should be maintained and, in areas where it is clearly the best range and farm practice, should be increased, Beans, Peas and Peanuts. The production of beans and peas should be increased in regions to which they are adapted, because of their high food value, keeping qualities, and availability for domestic or export trade. Soy beans and peanuts should be increased in order to supplement beans and peas as human food, as a source of much needed oil, and as animal feeds.

Perishables. (a) Market gardens near large consuming centers should be increased so as to meet, as nearly as possible, the needs of the community, and in order to obviate the necessity of transporting such products from distant points. It is important to do all that is possible to relieve the strain upon transportation facilities.

(b) The planting of home gardens, specially for family needs and for preserving food for future use, again should be emphasized.

(e) The commercial production of perishables generally should be increased above normal wherever it is reasonably clear that transportation and marketing facilities will be avail-

Left-Handedness.

At least one human being in fifty is teft-handed. This is the minimum estimate. Some authorities say four in fifty. W. Franklin Jones declares that 4 per cent of the race are born lefthanded, but about three-fourths of these are converted by training into more or less imperfect right-handers. On the other hand, about I per cent of the race, though born right-handed, is trained to use the left hand because of accidents to the right,-Scientific American.
