APPLY A FEW DROPS THEN LIFT TOUCHY CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS.

Don't hurt a bit! Drop a little freezone on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. Yes, magic!

A tiny bottle of freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the callouses, without soreness or irritation.

Freezone is the sensational discovery of a Cincinnati genius. It is wonderful.—Adv.

Juice of Lemons! How to Make Skin White and Beautiful

At the cost of a small jar of ordinary cold cream one can prepare a full quart of the most wonderful lemon skin softener and complexion beautifier, by squeezing the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white. Care should be taken to strain the juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as sallowness, freckles and tan and is the ideal skin softener, smoothener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands. It naturally should help to soften, freshen, bleach and bring out the roses and beauty of any skin. It is wonderful to smoothen rough, red hands. Adv.

OUR DEFENSE

In the spring we may be attacked at any moment. Toxin poisons pile up within us after a hard winter, and we feel "run-down," tired out, blue and discouraged. This is the time to put our house in order—cleanse the system and put fresh blood into our arteries. You can obtain an alternative extract from Blood root, Golden Seal, Stone and Queen's root, Cherry bark, rolled into a sugar-coated tablet and sold by most druggists. In sixty cent vials, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This blood tonic, in tablet or liquid form, is just what you need for "Spring Fever," for that lack of ambition. It will fill you full of vim, vigor and vitality.

Chilliness, when other people feel warm enough, is a sign of biliousness, or of malarial poisons—so is a furred or coated tongue, loss of appetite, head aches or giddiness, and a dull, drowsy, debilitated feeling. It's your liver that's at fault. You want to stimulate it and invigorate it with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. With every trouble of the kind, these tiny little things act like a miracle. You can break up sudden attacks of Colds, Fevers and Inflammations with them. They'll give you permanent benefit for Indigestion, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, and Dizziness. They are small and pleasant to take, and the most thoroughly natural remedy. Twenty-five cents at most drug stores.

GERMANY'S PLAN MANY AGES OLD

Spirit of Militarism and Conquest Is as Old as Germany Itself.

SEEK CONTROL OF WORLD

Failure Due to Fact That It Did Not Include a Reckoning With Human Nature as God Made It.

(By HAPSBURG LIEBE of the Vigilantes.)

The average man of those who have kept up with current events during the last few years will tell you that Germany's colossal plan is 40 years old. As a matter of fact, the seeds of it were sown more than a dozen times 40 years ago. The spirit of militarism and conquest and might-right is as old as the Teutonic war party, which is as old as Germany itself. The majority of the other nations saw plenty of signs of the monster, for the war lords were braggarts, and they could not refrain from boasting of their scheme. The wonder of all is that these other nations, the United States included, have not been taking preparatory and defensive measures for several decades.

The ultimate aim of the plan was, of course, the complete control and kulturization of the world. It was born of brains rendered brutish through the over and over intermarrying of an autocracy that was barbarian to begin with. A little like a moon-calf, it was at the outset, but its morally befuddled parents fostered it until they actually believed it possessed rare virtues; and they inoculated the people with its germs until the people themselves fell for it.

So far this plan has failed, however narrowly, for the simple reason that it did not include a reckoning with the human nature that God made. The soldiers of other nations are in the long run stronger than the cast-in-the-mold iron soldiers of Germany. It is the thorough organization of the German armies that has been the chief difficulty of the entente allies. Perhaps the greatest strength of the plan itself, however, lay in the very stupor of it. Few would dare attempt to enslave the rest of the world. Half the rest of the world does not realize it yet. It is too big for their imaginations. Their imaginations are, naturally, peace-time.

This is the main trouble with us here in America. So many of us will not see what we are facing or what we are fighting for. If we did see, the success of the Liberty Loan and the Red Cross drives, the food-saving and the fuel-saving campaigns, would be much greater. It's of no use now to harp that our administration leaders should have seen the signs of the times several years ago; it kills no German to blame our representatives at Washington for having been in the past, not statesmen, but politicians serving their own instead of their country's interests during those fat, sleepy years before Germany pried open the gates of Hell and loosed its legions upon earth. The one thing to do now is to

WORKS IN FACTORY AND GIVES WAGES TO POOR

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Mrs. Howard C. McCrady, a society favorite, is doing her bit by working ten hours and 45 minutes every day for the Union Switch and Signal company. Every morning at 6:45 Mrs. McCrady rides in her big green automobile to the garage near the plant, stables her machine, walks into the plant, dons a uniform of khaki blouse, overalls and cap and works on a lathe making cylinders for the Liberty motors until 5:30 each evening. The wages she earns are turned over to a poor family. Mr. McCrady is in the army.

HITS AT WARMONGERS

Maximilian Harden Says They Should Be Muzzled.

German Editor Finds No Justification For Gloating Over Alleged Teutonic Triumphs.

London.—By reading the following extract from a recent number of the Zukunft, Maximilian Harden's German newspaper, one may understand why Herr Harden is in constant difficulties with the military authorities:
"After all, what special justification is there for the Pan-Germans and the war at any price mouth heroes to gloat over recent triumphs over the English?"
"It is true that the U-boats have contrived to bring it about that in an English hotel or boarding house no more meat is supplied at breakfast and that afternoon tea guests receive only an ounce and a half of bread or cake. Also an old maid of Dover, who fed

The Pregnant Truth.
There is a great deal of truth which we must not let go by us. You are apt to push out your chest, I know, and say: "Impossible!" Let me remind you of the fact that the last three years have been crowded with achievements of the impossible! Here is that pregnant truth: If we let Germany win over there, Germany will carry the conquest over here. It is a part of her colossal plan. Else why this elaborate spy system in America? Man, it is a more complete organization than our own government! If they come, of course, we are willing to die for our country, which is noble and brave, but what of our womenfolk? There lies the reddest Hell of the war, brother. Remember the unspeakable violation of Belgium.

And remember it, we who have not gone to France, should do our part to plant such crops as we never before supported such movements as the Liberty loan and the Red Cross, and to suppress German propaganda. Selah, and Amen. Go to it, American!

her fourteen little dogs with milk and biscuits, has had to atone for her crime with a five pound note. All this, however, does not yet spell the decay of the British empire.

"It is time that the warmongers were muzzled and that the authorities once for all gave them to understand that they are determined, whenever the claims of any nation or group of peoples are found to be justified, that Germany would honestly aid them in establishing themselves on a clean basis of self-government."
"May our rulers reflect while yet there is time that, unless a new order be substituted for the old one of violence and force, human life will become intolerable and all hopes of human development will be rendered sterile for ages to come."
"Questions of the very highest importance are at stake, questions that are not concerned about securing Germany's world power, but that involve the utilization of that power in the upbuilding of a new, bright and joyful human world, in which, if its foundations are to stand strong for all time, every nation, the greatest, the small-

GIRLS HELP FRANCE

Red Cross Worker Tells Thrilling Tale of Experience.

Pays Glowing Tribute to the Wonderful Spirit of the French Soldiers.

Chicago.—Miss Gladys M. Spencer of Highland Park, Ill., told 150 girls, ranging from seventeen years of age, her experiences as a Red Cross worker in France, and girls everywhere will be thrilled over her talk.
"Once while I was very close to the front lines with my ambulance," she said, "I was put in charge of several other machines and ordered to return, the wounded to the base hospitals. It was then that I had my first real good opportunity to observe the wonderful spirit of the French soldiers. They remain quiet no matter how much pain they are in, and there is very little grumbling. Always you can find a smile. And they are going to win the war!"

It is difficult to realize that a tenderly reared American girl handled herself with so much poise in a shell-battered area. The group of girls she was addressing were preparing themselves to face the same dangers, and thousands of other American girls and women as nurses are more than doing their bits.
"On another occasion," she continued, "I drove my ambulance to a freight house to remove some iron boxes. Only old men were left to lift the boxes, or men convalescing from wounds. The boxes were too heavy for them, so three other women and myself pitched in and loaded the cars. The men smiled sadly and wisely."
"The spirit of the entire French people is sunny. They are delighted over America, and they firmly believe that with our help the Germans will be a thing of the past in a very short time."

MESSENGER WEARS SILK HAT

War Times Bring Many Quaint Characters Into Service in Washington.

Washington.—War times and the unprecedented demand for aides for Uncle Sam have brought many quaint characters to Washington.

Making Bread of Peanut Flour.
A baking company in Gainesville, Fla., working in co-operation with B. F. Williamson, a chemist of that city, has put peanut bread upon the market, and is securing wide distribution for it in that locality. The peanut flour used is made from peanut cake left after oil extraction. It contains a satisfactory percentage of fat and is said to have almost twice the nitrogenous food value of dried beef—44 per cent for peanut flour against 25 per cent for dried beef. One-fifth peanut flour to four-fifths wheat flour produces a balanced ration, supplying necessary ingredients furnished by bread and meat in human diet.—Scientific American.

Win the War by Preparing the Land Sowing the Seed and Producing Bigger Crops

Work in Joint Effort the Soil of the United States and Canada CO-OPERATIVE FARMING IN MAN POWER NECESSARY TO WIN THE BATTLE FOR LIBERTY

The Food Controllers of the United States and Canada are asking for greater food production. Scarcely 100,000,000 bushels of wheat are available to be sent to the allies overseas before the crop harvest. Upon the efforts of the United States and Canada rests the burden of supply.

Every Available Tillable Acre Must Contribute; Every Available Farmer and Farm Hand Must Assist

Western Canada has an enormous acreage to be secured, but man power is short, and an appeal to the United States allies is for more men for seeding operation.

Canada's Wheat Production Last Year was 225,000,000 Bushels; the Demand From Canada Alone for 1918 is 400,000,000 Bushels

To secure this she must have assistance. She has the land but needs the men. The Government of the United States wants every man who can effectively help, to do farm work this year. It wants the land in the United States developed first of course; but it also wants to help Canada. Whenever we find a man we can spare to Canada's fields after ours are supplied, we want to direct him there.

Apply to our Employment Service, and we will tell you where you can best serve the combined interests.

Western Canada's help will be required not later than May 15th. Wages to competent help, $50.00 a month and up, board and lodging.

Those who respond to this appeal will get a warm welcome, good wages, good board and find comfortable homes. They will get a rate of one cent a mile from Canadian boundary points to destination and return.

EXPLAINS POISONING BY FOOD

Science Has Discarded Theory, Long Held, That Ptomaines Are the Cause of Infection.

Poisoning by food is no longer explained as "ptomaine poisoning," but in an address to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Dr. E. O. Jordan showed that it is due either to true bacterial toxins comparable to those of diphtheria and tetanus bacilli, or to infection with specific infection carried by the food article. The best known example of the toxin-forming microbes is the bacillus botulinus, which has produced in the United States 22 recorded cases of poisoning, of which 17 were in California, while Great Britain has reported no case. This type of poisoning is rare, but infection with food-borne disease bacteria seems to occur in a great number of cases. The bacteria are either present in the food itself, or the food is contaminated from human sources. The chief food-borne infections hitherto traced to human contamination are typhoid fever and the various paratyphoid infections; but to these must be added certain infections rarely transmitted by any food except milk, such as diphtheria, scarlet fever, and streptococcus sore throat. The type of infection from food contaminated at its source is exemplified in the diseases of certain food animals. The chief infections known to be due to food infected at its source are those—mainly meat-borne—caused by the group of paratyphoid enteritidis bacteria, and those resulting from the use of infected milk. The bacterial diseases of plants do not infect man.

GREAT WRITERS NEAR DUEL

Tolstoy and Turgenev in Fierce Dispute That Might Have Led to Deadly Encounter.

Tolstoy and Turgenev, famous Russian novelists, were contemporaries and friends, but on one occasion they had a serious falling out. As gathered from a recent biography, this is the story of their quarrel: The two famous novelists met at a friend's house. Turgenev spoke enthusiastically of his young daughter's new English governess, mentioning that she required the child to mend old, ragged clothes to give to the poor. "Do you consider that good?" demanded Tolstoy. "I certainly do," replied Turgenev; "it makes the charity workers realize everyday needs." "And I think that a well-dressed girl with filthy, malodorous rags in her hands is acting an unbecoming part," commented Tolstoy. "I ask you not to say that," exclaimed Turgenev, hotly. "Why should I not say what I am convinced is true?" retorted Tolstoy. "If you say that again I will box your ears!" Turgenev cried, white with rage, and rushed from the room. A duel was narrowly averted. Afterward these famous men became reconciled, and on his deathbed Turgenev wrote an affecting note to Tolstoy, addressing him as "the great writer of our Russian land."—Outlook.

Chinese Queues Not Barred.

Although the traffic in human hair has not been so brisk during the past few years as formerly on account of the veering toward the fashions in hair-dressing toward the extreme simplicity, there are millions of pounds of human hair exported from China. One of the peculiar facts in connection with the trade is that often after the Chinese send the hair to us we treat it and dye it and send it back to be made up for special use. This is usually true in regard to the invisible hair gets which American and European women use to keep their own locks in order on a windy day. The hair-net business has become of great importance to the province of Shantung, which now provides practically the entire supply for the market. Thus the hair net worn by the veriest stay-at-home in America has doubtless crossed the ocean three times.—Popular Science Monthly.

Lightning at Sea.

When proper precautions are taken ships at sea are in no danger of being destroyed by lightning. Of all the dangers that beset the seaman, lightning is the only one that he can guard against with perfect thoroughness. Permanent conductors, properly arranged, offer the most complete protection from the electric fluid. Before this fact was well understood, lightning was a very frequent cause of damage to shipping. In 1808 to 1815 no fewer than seventy vessels of the English navy were entirely crippled by being struck. It was a no uncommon thing for vessels to be set on fire so completely by lightning as to defy extinction, with the result that those on board who were not killed by the electric discharge in many instances probably lost their lives through being unable to let down the boats before the fire reached them.

What They Asked Him.

There is one man in town who is tired of hearing the name of a small car of popular make. His name is L. G. (Haven) Rothschild. It all happened like this: On Monday morning the horse, in his haste to get to the Jewett inauguration, as some say, slipped on the sidewalk and broke a bone in his wrist and tore loose two ligaments in his right hand. He has since been carrying the hand around in a plaster cast. Show them, whether in the club or on the street, nine or quinquanous out of ten asked him the question, "Were you cranking a—?" (name deleted to avoid giving free advertising)—Indiana, Ohio News.

"CANNOT MATCH THE BIBLE"

Stories in Sacred Volume Have Never Been Equaled, a Yale Professor Says.

The bulk of the people—business men, lawyers, doctors and others don't read the Bible, but writers universally recognize it as the greatest book. Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale university said in a recent address, "Being a serious book it is weak in humor," Professor Phelps said. "But I think Job intended a grim joke when he said: 'Would that mine adversary had written a book.'"

"No narrative writers can match the style of the Bible's Old Testament stories—Hume, Gibbon, Rose—they are all inferior. This is the day of the short-story writer, Kipling, De Mopassant, O. Henry, but their best efforts fall short of the stories of the Bible. So it is with its poetry in the Psalms. Its wisdom of the Proverbs is just as up-to-date as the morning paper, and there is no political economy equal to the Book of Gospels.

"It is impossible to overestimate the Bible's influence on English literature. Bunyan wrote a great book because he was saturated with the Bible, and it trickled out when he wrote.

"Lincoln knew only two books—the Bible and Shakespeare, and yet he was a splendidly educated man. To know the Bible is to be educated. One of the finest metaphors in Keat's 'Ode to a Nightingale' is taken directly from the Bible; 'Nearer, My God, to Thee' is simply a paraphrase of the Bible."

FIT TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

Shaft at National Capital Is One of the Most Remarkable Ever Built by Man.

The foundation of the great shaft of the Washington monument is 80 feet square and is set in solid rock eight feet below the surface of the earth. The interior is only 25 feet in diameter, while the exterior diameter is 55 feet. This shows the tremendous thickness of the walls, which are made of perfectly fitted stones. No wonder that this obelisk has been called "the best piece of masonry in the world."

Many nations, as well as many cities and states, wished to contribute to this great cenotaph, and as the visitor enters the monument and takes his place in the big elevator, he may see, as he slowly mounts, various interesting stones from all parts of the world. He may catch a glimpse of a stone from "Bradlock's field," one from the "bat-tlefield of Long Island," one from the Alexandrian library in Egypt; one from the tomb of Napoleon at St. Helena, a mosaic block from the ruins of Carthage, lava from Vesuvius and stones from Jerusalem and Mecca, besides blocks contributed by 40 states, 16 cities and towns and 41 nations. Two foreign countries sent blocks of stone, suitably inscribed, to testify to their regard.—Mary V. Worstell in St. Nicholas.

Remedies for the Earache.

For an earache, dry heat is the safest remedy. Never should the mother drop oil or anything else into the ear without being especially ordered to do so by a doctor. A small hot-water bag with a flannel cover, a kid glove-finger filled with salt and then heated in the oven, or, simply, a flannel made very hot and covered by another one to hold in the heat, may be placed over the baby's ear to relieve the pain. If this does not seem enough, then a small rubber car-syringe may be filled with hot water; and while the fob of the ear is gently held downward and backward the mother should use the syringe carefully, then apply the hot flannel after drying out the ear. When pus has formed, or if this simple treatment does not relieve the acute pain, a doctor should be asked to examine the ear. Possibly the drum membrane may need to be opened. Hot boric acid solution or some other disinfectant will be needed to syringe the ear if pus is present.—Marion Wheeler, in the People's Home Journal.

Push-Button Batteries.

Something new in push-buttons has been invented by an Eastern man that bids fair to send the old dry batteries now in use to ring your front door bell to the ashcan. It is quite a simple arrangement, and it is strange that no one should have thought of such a simple device. The battery itself is connected to a rod that is geared to a small dynamo, and when the button is pushed the dynamo armature rotates in the field of a permanent magnet, thereby generating an electric current to ring the bell. The whole unit is set in a push-button, and does away with the constant expense of recharging batteries.—From the Electrical Experimenter.

BAR WAY TO EVIL SPIRITS

Malaysians Believe Mountains Were Placed to Shut Out Strange Race of Yajuj.

In the dark bungalow at Kuala Kubu (in Malaysia) the Chinaboy chowki-shur, queue in pocket, shod in shoes of giffent felt, served my breakfast. I was at last on the threshold of a strange expedition in a land to which no letter ever came correctly addressed, so unknown was it to the outside world. At this moment the strangest thing in sight was my breakfast. It consisted chiefly of tiny Mongolian fishes—humming birds in size, squabs in taste—canned a dozen in a tin.

As I devoured the pitiful little birds, bones and all, I looked up at the great Malay mountain range, the backbone of the finger peninsula which stretches southward from Siam to within sight of the bund of Singapore itself. Mountains, so the Malays say, are the wall of the world, shutting out great winds and beasts of prey. And they believe that a strange race—the Yajuj—are forever striving to bore through, and when they succeed, then will come the end of all things.

The great limestone caves scattered throughout the mountains are places where the Yajuj have attempted and failed. There is nothing impossible or unbelievable in all this, when one comes to know Malay mountains in all their weirdness.—William Beebe, in the Atlantic Monthly.

RUDE AWAKENING FOR GUEST

Visiting Parson Got the "Dusting" That Irate Father Intended to Bestow on Offspring.

A story of how a parson got the dusting instead of a youth is related by a newspaper man of Wenatchee, Wash.

"The boy in the plot was Oscar Woods," he says. "It happened in Nebraska. In our home it was the custom for one of the boys to take his turn at starting the fire on cold mornings. It was 15 degrees below zero, and it was Oscar's turn. He lit the fire and then proceeded to the barn to feed the stock. But the fire went out."

"An hour later, perceiving that there was no fire, father sent another call. Then several more. But no sound came. The 'governor' started upstairs.

"Without informing the head of the house, my brother had brought home a preacher the night before and put him in the same bed with Oscar.

"The parson had a thrilling awakening. He was yanked out of bed. He resisted. This was too much for indignant dad.

"The conflict was exciting. The preacher fought like a wildcat.

"In the cold gray dawn dad found that he had made a mistake. It was tough, but the preacher survived."

Earthquake Statistics.

It has been calculated that there occur about 30,000 earthquakes within a year, or 8,760 hours, hence, that there are on the average three and one-half earthquakes in an hour. Fortunately, not all earthquakes are of a violent nature, like that of A. D. 525, that killed from 120,000 to 200,000 persons in the region of the Mediterranean, or that of 1693, to which 60,000 persons fell victims in Sicily, or of Lisbon in 1755, and those that devastated Chile, Peru and Japan. Of great frequency are the minor earthquakes. In fact, our so-called firm earth can be said to be in a state of perpetual agitation. Our senses do not perceive the slight disturbances, but the seismograph, a very delicate and ingenious apparatus devised to keep track of them, furnishes all the information denied to us by our natural insensibility. They often furnish us too much of it in the excess of their zeal, recording sometimes as seismic phenomena vibrations that later proved to have been due to the ringing of church bells.

Privileges of the Poor.

Will you show me any other people outside of the fairy books who can put the most fearful calamity on like a cloak and doff it at will, who can augment their families to seven or eight children overnight, and reduce them as readily to five or six on the following day if it but seem to them advisable? Where outside their ranks is there anyone capable of persuading you that it is a privilege to sleep cold so that some Darius you never saw or care to see shall, he had his allegorical mule, go better warmed? Who else, being neither of your kith nor kin, has such power over you that, with a mere bloodshot eye and shiver of the shoulders, they can turn your automobile, your furs, your warmth and all your pleasant pleasures into Dead sea apples of discomfort?—Laura Spencer Porter, in the Atlantic Magazine.

Now They're Mollycoddles.

Dandies who are making their reappearance at the Royalty theater, were fast disappearing when Queen Victoria began her reign, says the London Times.

Extravagance in dress and manners did not of course originate with them, but in earlier times there were other names for those who were noted for similar eccentricities. They were called beaux in the days of Queen Anne and the earlier Georges, "fops" and "sparks" being scornful synonyms.

In the latter half of the eighteenth century these fashionable fops were known as macaronis, and the dandies may be said to have come in during the regency.

POOR DWELLING PLACE, THIS

British Naval Base of Wei-Wei-Wei Has Decidedly Few Attractions for European Residents.

Wei-wei-wei is the bit of Chinese territory that the British hold under lease as a naval and commercial base. It is just across the breadth of the Shantung peninsula from Kinohow. Wei-wei-wei lies partly on the mainland, partly on an island, where the dockyard, the coaling station and the rest of the machinery for a naval base are located. Most of the civilian population live on the mainland, and patronize a little steam launch that plies across the intervening sea when they want to go shopping; for with an eye to getting the British jackies' trade when warships put in to coal, the shops of Wei-wei-wei are out with the docks and the coal yards.

The island seen from the steam launch is a barren, sandy hill, ridged with gullies that the hurrying rain water has cut in its course to the sea. The sand of these hills is one of the omnipresent features of the colony; every wind that blows carries it about by pounds, and only the cheapness of Chinese servants makes it possible to keep a European household dusted.

The main street on the island has the characteristic British colonial look, with a British post office, a British steamship booking office, and British shops. On the short side street are the Chinese shops, which are only opened at certain seasons when visitors are plenty, or when a warship puts in to the harbor.

BITTER FIGHTS OVER BEARDS

Tartars and Persians Long in Conflict Because They Held Varying Opinions on the Matter.

Before now the wearing of beards has caused a bitter war and made the executioner's ax cut through many a neck. The Tartars waged a long war with the Persians, declaring them infidels because they would not shave their beards after the fashion of Tartary.

The Greeks wore beards until the time of Alexander, who ordered the Macedonians to be shaved lest their beards should give handles to their enemies. The ancient Romans wore beards, but in England they were not fashionable after the conquest until the thirteenth century and were discontinued at the Restoration.

Peter the Great kept a squad of officers whose duty it was to cut the beards of unwilling citizens by force. Before 1840 shaving was almost universal in the United States.

There have been numerous instances of women with long masculine beards. Margaret of Savoy, daughter of Maximilian I, had a long stiff beard, and a woman was seen in Paris with a black bushy beard that reached to her waist. At the battle of Pultowa the Russians captured a bearded woman, whom they presented to the czar. She had a beard five and one-half feet long.

Gifted Writers Indolent.

De Quincey has called Coleridge "a man of infinite title pages," and he says he heard Coleridge admit that a list of the books he meditated but never executed would fill a large volume. In this respect the two opium eaters were rivals. Perhaps their fertility in projects was due, as Coleridge fancied, to an overactivity of thought, "modified by a constitutional indolence," and had nothing to do with opium. On the other hand, De Quincey believed that his opium eating prevented him from writing the book he intended to make his life work, the slow and elaborate result of years of toil, to which he had "presumed to give the title of an unfinished work of Spinoza's, viz., 'De Emendatione Humani Intellectus.'" In a later mood he devised a "Programme to All Future Systems of Political Economy," and made arrangements with a provincial printer for its production, but its author never even got as far as the preface.

Morning Exercises.

Callisthenes taken in the early morning do much to keep up the general health. Standing, warily but loosely clad, at an open window and inhaling deep breaths of fresh air will stimulate the blood quickly. This might be followed with two or three easy exercises. One might consist of doubling the fists, placing them at the shoulders, and then thrusting them out at arms' length swiftly. After that it would be well to bend, trying to touch the floor with the finger tips without bending the knees. These callisthenes might be concluded with a final one of kneeling and bending forward the floor from the waist. The whole performance need not take more than five minutes, and will do more to make circulation lively and muscles in good condition than any amount of medicine.

Mourning the Departed.

The newest thing in mourning is dark blue. It is not for the sad half of the munge, but for the widow who disagrees with her other half, who seeks the courts to cut the knot. Such a person was seen yesterday and when asked if she had lost some one replied: "Yes, my husband." "When did he die?" "Don't understand." "I divorced him. I felt for a time that I should retire quietly, and now that I have emerged I wear a compromise color—blue. I didn't really dislike my husband, but I had to divorce him. The mourning is half for him and half for the memories. But, poor boy, he married again. His stenographer."—New York Tribune.

NEWS REVIEW OF THE PAST WEEK

British Army, Now Supported by French Troops, Still Holds Back the Germans.

DRAWN BACK EAST OF YPRES

Huns Fight Furiously to Capture the Messines Ridge and Bethune—Secretary Baker Returns to Speed America's Men Across—Schwab Heads Shipbuilding.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD.

At the end of another week of the most sanguinary battle the world has ever known, the British army was still undefeated, its lines still unbroken. Overwhelmingly outnumbered in Flanders, Haig's men were forced to give up some important positions, and east of Ypres they withdrew from the bulging Passchendaele salient before the enemy observed the movement, and straightened and shortened their defensive line so that it was much stronger and more secure. Meanwhile French re-enforcements arrived to assist the British, the commanders having decided that the Flanders offensive was not merely a diversion. To the south, on the Somme and the Aisne, the French had been stoutly repulsing every attack, and it was predicted that the time was near when General Foch, the allied commander in chief, might be expected to start his counter-offensive. Though they were still bringing fresh divisions into the battle, it was figured the Germans must be approaching the point of exhaustion, when a return blow would be most effective. Indeed, it did not seem this blow could be much longer delayed, for the British, though their spirit and courage were undiminished, were sustaining continuous attacks by an enemy which was immensely superior in numbers and was under leaders whose disregard for life was utterly reckless.

At the beginning of the week the Germans, finding they could not make much progress toward Bethune, at the south part of their salient, because of the stubborn resistance of the British at Givenchy, Festubert and Locon, turned to the north and undertook to flank Ypres by driving the British from the Bailleul-Neuve Eglise, Wulverghem-Hollebeke line. For two days the attacks of the Huns were beaten back with fearful slaughter, but then Field Marshal Haig was compelled to give ground and retired from part of the famous Messines ridge, at the same time drawing his lines nearer to Ypres. There was still higher ground at his rear, however, and his generals and men displayed a cheerful optimism that contrasted with the depression caused in England and to a considerable extent, in America by what looked like serious reverses. Not for a minute did the men who are doing the fighting admit that they were beaten or could be beaten by any forces Hindenburg could bring against them, and though the Hun, when he had taken Bailleul, was within 24 miles of Dunkirk, they still had no idea of permitting him to force his way to the coast.

In the effort to reach the La Bassee canal and take Hazebrouck, the enemy, after intense artillery preparation, attacked along the front from Meteren to Robecq, but was repulsed at almost every point and sustained heavy losses. The allied artillery was especially effective here and east of Bethune and the Germans found it almost impossible to bring up their transport trains.

On Thursday the enemy resumed his attacks in the Bethune region, throwing a number of light bridges across La Bassee canal near Locon. These were swept away by the British artillery and machine-gun fire and large numbers of Germans were killed. Again and again the Germans renewed the attack, using more than 125,000 fresh troops on the 12-mile front between St. Venant and Givenchy, but each time they were thrown back with appalling losses. French infantry and batteries co-operated with Haig's forces.

Save for certain engineer units, the American troops had not yet been engaged in the big battle, but they were steadily and rapidly moving up to their assigned positions, and the news that more and more of them were being hurried across the Atlantic was greeted with enthusiasm by the British and French officers and men. They are needed, and needed quickly, for the allied commanders, though believing their lines cannot be broken, know the enemy is still very strong, and undoubtedly is gathering his strength for further tremendous efforts. While he well might be held by the allied forces now there, he can only be crushed and driven back when they have been greatly re-enforced by the boys from America.

Moreover, the commanders of the allies say no greater mistake could be made than to think this is the final battle. Even if it can be called decisive, it is absolutely essential that the United States send over all its men as quickly as possible, that all possible eventualities may be faced and the right kind of a victory ultimately enforced.

That this is the view of Secretary of War Baker also is made plain in his report to the president, made on his return last week from Europe. In a sentence this was that the United States must furnish the strength that will crush Germany, and must furnish it at once. If Mr. Baker ever thought the war was "3,000 miles away," his trip abroad has cured him of that delusion. There is now no warmer advocate of the policy of giving force, precision and rapidity to American activities, and on his own behalf and that of his department he pledged better results in hurrying men and munitions to the fighting front.

As for the American troops now in France, Mr. Baker had nothing but praise for their condition and their military qualities. They have made good in every way, he said. Those same troops during the week had opportunity to show the stuff they were made of, for several times the Germans made fierce attacks in the Toul sector. Each time they were repulsed, and the Yankees went into the fray with a joy that did the hearts of their officers good. Their bravery, coolness and efficiency were so general that their commanders had difficulty in picking out any men for special commendation.

The evident and urgent need for more soldiers helped to hasten Lloyd George's man-power bill through parliament, despite the opposition caused by the clause applying conscription to Ireland. The government also prepared to introduce its home rule bill which it announced it would pass or fail in the attempt. There was considerable dissatisfaction in England over the fact that the British in Flanders were so badly outnumbered by the Germans, and the blame, if any, was not placed, there were insistent calls for the return of Sir William Robertson to the position of chief of the imperial general staff. On Thursday Viscount Milner was made secretary of state for war, the earl of Derby becoming ambassador to France.

Since it is still evident that "ships will win the war," and that America must supply most of the ships, our national shipbuilding agencies were reorganized last week for the fifth time and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, was given the new position of director general of shipbuilding and placed in supreme control of the construction of merchant vessels. Chairman Hurley of the shipping board and General Manager Plez will work in complete harmony with him, directing the organization necessary to carry out his plans. The necessity for some such a step was shown by the official announcement of the change, which said: "The carrying forward of the construction work in the 130 shipyards now in operation is so bad that it requires a re-enforcement of the shipbuilding organization throughout the country." The determination to speed up shipbuilding was evidenced by the warning issued by Mr. Hurley that delinquent plants will be taken over by the government unless they show decided improvement.

The British admiralty report showed 15 British vessels sunk by submarines during the previous week, 11 of them being 1,000 tons or over.

On Monday British warships encountered a fleet of German armed trawlers in the Kattegat and sank ten of them, the nearby German naval forces evidently not daring to come out to the rescue. The fact that the British were engaged in clearing the Kattegat of mines may portend naval operations of moment.

Turning to the east, we find the parts of the former state of Russia being exploited as fields for German ruthlessness comparable to that which devastated Belgium. According to advices in Washington, the Huns intend to make Ukraine an Austro-German colony, and are about to dissolve the rada and install a Teuton government. Already they are putting Austro-Germans into all the offices and have cut Ukraine off from all communication with Russia proper. All entente officers in the state have been ordered under arrest. Finland is running red, with the blood of the people of the working class and others who oppose the White guard and the Finnish feudal class. They are pointed out to the German troops, which have occupied Helsinki, and are murdered by the latter in conjunction with the White guard. The provisional government of Finland and tens of thousands of Finns have retired to Petrograd. The brutalities of the Huns are being exhibited also in Russia itself as the troops push their way north and east. In one village the inhabitants resisted an armed requisition for money by German forces and an officer was killed in the resulting scuffle. Thereupon the Germans burned the town and with machine guns slaughtered the inhabitants as they fled from their blazing homes. Against this and other similar outrages Tchitcherin, Russian minister of foreign affairs, protested to Berlin, asking the punishment of the guilty. But can anyone recall the infliction of punishment on the Huns who perpetrated like outrages in Belgium and northern France?

Any hope that the relations between Germany and Austria-Hungary might be disrupted by the exposure of Emperor Charles' letter concerning peace and the French claim to Alsace-Lorraine was dispelled by the appointment of Baron Burian as minister of foreign affairs to succeed Count Czernin, the official goat. Burian is recognized as a firm supporter of the policy of a continued alliance with Germany and the press of both Austria and Germany assert that the country's foreign policy will not be changed by him. Dr. Von Seydler, the Austrian premier, was emphatic in stating the same view, and said those who looked to the entente for salvation would always be regarded and treated as enemies of the state. In this category he must include many of the people of Bohemia, for at a great mass meeting in Prague President Wilson was cheered and the kaiser jeered. In Vienna there has been serious rioting by the hungry people.

Bolo Pasha, the spectacular French traitor, was executed at Vincennes on Wednesday, after having made confessions that are believed to involve many others in his infamies. In the United States men equally guilty of treason are allowed to live, and if arrested are usually let out on bail to continue their vile practices until the time comes for their trial. This may be remedied, however, by the passage of the Chamberlain bill introduced in the senate, declaring the United States a part of the military zone and making spies and disloyalists subject to trial by court-martial. Among those who appeared before the senate committee to urge the passage of this measure, was W. B. Bloodgood, chairman of the Milwaukee council of defense. He warned the senators that dire consequences might result in Wisconsin unless the government deals more effectively with disloyalty and sedition. "Feeling grows stronger with the departure of every army transport," said he, "and the people are likely to go back to primitive methods." Mr. Bloodgood asserted that pro-German propaganda has been widely disseminated in the training camps where Wisconsin troops have been quartered, and that German agents have purchased union cards and obtained employment in munition factories when they were unable to hit a nail on the head.

Extension of the espionage law to apply to women will lead to the arrest of numerous women, though many of them already have fled from the country. Most of the spies who run away go to Cuba, and it has been discovered that their headquarters are in Havana.

The week was marked by the death of United States Senator William Jose Stowe of Missouri.

LATE MARKET QUOTATIONS

Table of DENVER MARKETS including Cattle, Sheep, and HAY AND GRAIN MARKET prices.

WESTERN MINING AND OIL NEWS

Prices Quoted for Metals. New York—Lead, $7.07 1/2 @ 7.12 1/2. Copper—$23.12 1/2. Bar Silver—95 1/2 c. St. Louis—Spelter, $6.52 1/2.

Arizona. Arizona output of copper will make materially better showing, it is now indicated, in April than was made in March. Miami Copper Company report for the year ended Dec. 31, 1917, shows profits of $2,204,260, against $7,326,196 in 1916. The total shipments for the month of March at the United Easterns, in Kingman district, was $210,000 against $180,000 for February. The rig at the Chino Valley Oil & Mining Company of Prescott has been moved a few hundred feet, where the company will begin a new well.

Colorado. At Leadville the Denver Mining and Milling Company recently completed overhauling and improving its mill at Wortman, and will start milling. Leadville reports that a streak of gold ore assaying from two to ten ounces to the ton has been encountered at the Bartlett tunnel on Sugar Loaf. At the P. O. S. property on Carbonate hill, the lessees are engaged in cleaning out the old workings on the 500-foot level and retimbering the main drifts. The Teddy Bear group of claims is being opened under a lease and bond. The property is situated on Red Elephant mountain, which made the town of Lawson famous as a silver camp during the days of silver activity. The demand for tungsten is greater than the supply. It is a rare metal and the world supply is limited. During 1917 the United States produced 6,000 tons of tungsten concentrates carrying at least 60 per cent tungsten content.

Colorado can be proud of the fact that it is supplying one-half of all of the tungsten produced in the United States. The Boulder district has the largest deposits of tungsten ore known in the United States and among the largest in the world. In Summit county some 300 men are now employed in the district comprising Wortman, Climax and Buffler, where a year ago there was none. The operations of the large molybdenum companies have been the direct cause of the present prosperity.

Montana. The March output of the porphyry copper companies reflected the increased operations at the various properties, due to the ability of the companies to ship copper to refiners. The total output for the first quarter was 103,911,871 pounds, compared with 104,816,163 in the first quarter of 1917. If any prospector or miner in Montana, Arizona, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah or New Mexico has reason to believe that he has chromite in view let him send a sample by mail to the Colorado School of Mines, Golden, and the same will be tested free of charge. Alaska was last year's chief producer in the United States.

New Mexico. Mill construction is progressing rapidly at Socorro plant. Mogollon Mine Company tonnage for the week was 1,120 tons. A larger hoist has been installed at the Deadwood mine at Mogollon. The Oaks company cut ore on a cross cut on the third level of the Deep Down mine at Mogollon. Union county shale has been found to contain oil. A crude retort operated in Clayton returned out a quantity of the shale a considerable amount of oil. The gas was ignited and burned with a blue flame. The Pima Mining and Smelting Company now owns its plant. Payments on the plant, now at Socorro, have been completed. The site in Tucson for the plant has been secured. Reconstruction of the plant will follow. After concluding $300,000 worth of development work on the Torpedo and the Stephenson-Bennett properties in the Organ district near Las Cruces, the Phelps Dodge interests have withdrawn, pulling out their pump.

Wyoming. Residents of Riverton are financing the drilling of a well in Riverton valley just east of the town. The Fremont county holdings of the Rand-Wyoming company have been taken over by a Denver syndicate. Northern Petroleum Company, having extensive holdings in the Maverick Springs district and also in the Pilot Butte field, is getting ready for a drilling campaign on company account during the coming summer.

Grip Still Hanging On?

Back aches? Stomach sensitive? A little cough? No strength? Tired easily? All after effects of this dread-malady. Yes, they are catarrhal. Grip is a catarrhal disease. You can never be well as long as catarrh remains in your system, weakening your whole body with stagnant blood and unhealthy secretions.

You Need PERUNA

It's the one tonic for the after effects of grip, because it is a catarrhal treatment of proved excellence. Take it to clear away all the effects of grip, to tone the digestion, clear up the inflamed membranes, regulate the bowels, and set you on the highway to complete recovery. Perhaps one or more of your friends have found it valuable. Thousands of people in every state have, and have told us of it. Many thousands more have been helped at critical times by this reliable family medicine. Prepared also in tablet form for your convenience. The Peruna Company, Columbus, Ohio.

TABLE TALK AT ITS BEST

Excellent Recommendations From Those Who Were Recognized as Highly Proficient in the Art. "Table talk," says Leigh Hunt, "to be perfect should be sincere without bigotry, differing with discord, sometimes grave, always agreeable, touching on deep points, dwelling most on reasonable ones, and letting everybody speak and be heard." There is a story of a Frenchman at one of Rogers' breakfasts who listened to Macaulay's endless eloquence, and, seeing another talker waiting his chance, fastened his eyes on Macaulay and muttered, "Sit loose, it est perdu." In regard to the part of anecdotes in table talk, I quote two opinions. "He who has stored his memory with slight anecdotes, private incidents and personal peculiarities," according to Doctor Johnson, "scarcely fails to find his audience favorable." "Of all the bores," exclaimed De Quincey, "whom man in his folly hesitates to hang, and heaven in its mysterious wisdom suffers to propagate his species, the most insufferable is the teller of good stories."—Exchange.

Never Satisfied. "They say that moles are coming into their own in this war." "Yes, and I bet they're kicking about it."
