A PROCLAMATION

By the Presidente of the United States of America

Whereas, by the Act of Congress approved March 3, 1919, the Fourteenth Decennial Census of the United States is to be taken beginning on the second day of January, 1920; and

Whereas, a correct enumeration of the population every ten years is required by the Constitution of the United States for the purpose of determining the representation of the several States in the House of Representatives; and

Whereas, it is of the utmost importance to the interest of all the people of the United States that this Census should be a complete and accurate report of the population and resources of the Nation;

Now, therefore, I, WOODROW WILSON, President of the United States of America, do hereby declare and make known that, under the law aforesaid, it is the duty of every person to answer all questions on the census schedules applying to him and the family to which he belongs, and to the farm occupied by him or his family, and that any person refusing to do so is subject to penalty.

The sole purpose of the Census is to secure general statistical information regarding the population and resources of the country and replies are required from individuals only to permit the compilation of such general statistics. No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required. The Census has nothing to do with taxation, with military or jury service, with the compulsion of school attendance, with the regulation of immigration or with the enforcement of any national, state or local law or ordinance. There need be no fear that any disclosure will be made regarding any individual person or his affairs. For the due protection of the rights and interests of the persons furnishing information every employee of the Census Bureau is prohibited, under heavy penalty, from disclosing any information which may be thus come to his knowledge.

I therefore earnestly urge upon all persons to answer promptly, completely and accurately all enquiries addressed to them by the enumerators or other employees of the Census Bureau and thereby to contribute their share toward making this great and necessary public understanding a success.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

DONE in the District of Columbia this tenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-fourth.

(SEAL.)
WOODROW WILSON

By the President:
WILLIAM PHILLIPS
Acting Secretary of State.

Hayden's Copper Mining Bill

Hon. Carl Hayden, congressman from Arizona, has introduced a bill, H. R. 10,435, to provide for the disposal of public lands in Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah, containing copper at depth. The legislation proposed by the Hayden bill is designed to meet and deal with a condition to which the existing federal mining laws are not, from the practical standpoint, applicable.

The important copper deposits in the states mentioned do not occur in technical vein or lode formation, but in extensive low grade bodies, usually underlying a heavy overburden of wash conglomerate, or non-mineral-bearing formation. To discover such underlying deposits deep and expensive drilling or shaft sinking is necessary, requiring months, and even years, for its accomplishment. Under existing law a discovery in such a drill hole or shaft could serve to validate, and vest possessory title to, only one claim, 1,500 by 600 feet, or an area of only about twenty acres, which is absurdly insufficient to justify the great outlay involved.

In the past the mining communities have attempted to meet the conditions by locating claims and doing annual assessment work in the overburden. Such claims, in most instances unsupported by any semblance of discovery, have been by the communities recognized as property and bought and sold as such, but, generally speaking, the ground has remained undeveloped.

Meagre Surface Showings

In many instances meagre surface showings, not connected with the underlying deposits, have been claimed as discoveries and even made the basis of patent proceedings. In the early days the land department did not critically examine into the matter of discovery unless the question were raised by protest or contest, and large numbers of such claims were patented. This was the case at Bisbee, Arizona, where the ore formation occurs at a depth of 1,000 feet or more. In later years the department has established the practice of requiring a detailed showing as to the character and quality of discovery claimed and of making through its field service, an investigation on the ground. As a result, the department has been confronted with the question as to whether inconsequential mineral showings in the overburden could be accepted as sufficient to constitute discovery, as in the case of the Rough Rider and other claims which were finally patented because it was felt that the previous patenting of similar claims in the vicinity had established a rule of property.

Mineral Discovery Required

But, generally speaking, lands of the character contemplated by the proposed legislation cannot now be patented under the existing mining laws unless discoveries are made by deep drilling or shaft sinking. On the other hand, large areas of such land were in the early days patented under the non-mineral laws, under the rule which then prevailed that land could not be classified as mineral in character, or patented as a mining claim, unless mineral had been actually disclosed. In recent years, however, the department has adopted the rule that, through geological deduction as to underlying deposits, land may be classified as known mineral in character, and now declines to patent such lands under the non-mineral laws.

There are thus large areas of land in the four states mentioned which the land department recognizes, or would recognize, as being mineral in character, but which remain undeveloped because title thereto cannot, as a practical proposition, be acquired under the present mining law.

Proposed Legislation

To justify the great expense of exploration by drilling or sinking shafts to a great depth, as well as the great outlay in working shafts, machinery and equipment for actual mining operations it is necessary that a reasonably large acreage be acquired or controlled. To operate on the extensive scale required, not only are extensive ore bodies requisite, but a large area of surface is also required for reduction plants, tailing dumps, etc.

The proposed legislation is designed to encourage the exploration and development of such lands by giving to any one who will undertake deep exploration work the right to control and acquire an area of not to exceed 1,280 acres (which is about the minimum area now held by any of the large porphyry copper mining companies) upon conditions carefully designed to prevent abuse of the privilege.

Silver—The White Hope

In every western-mining state silver is the chief hope for a revival in precious metal mining after four years of very scant development, with little or nothing accomplished because of the scarcity of labor and the marked inefficiency of the labor available.

Silver had fallen in the London market in 1914 as low as 22 pence per ounce, and last month was quoted 66 1/2 pence, or $1.44 per ounce in gold.

The fact that a big Colorado company has organized $5,000,000 capital to open a silver mine in Mexico ought to interest American mining law makers.

New York financial journals advise investments in the western silver industry as an opportunity to profit by a world-wide demand for a commodity of which we are the greatest producers.

Every dollar of silver produced is a dollar of new wealth created. Every dollar exported to meet the demands of other countries is a dollar of new wealth, added to our country.

The bright outlook for silver makes it again fashionable—and permissible—to speak hopefully of mining, the leader by which western states climbed from the "great merican desert" to promising fields.

Luncheon at San Rafael

On Tuesday evening, 7:30, there will take place a rather important meeting at the San Rafael school house. Representatives from the chamber of commerce at Patagonia, the Y. B. M. A. and C. of C. of Nogales, and the county supervisors are invited to meet the citizens of San Rafael Valley. The object of the meeting is to talk over matters of interest to the San Rafael people. There may be several things of interest, such as improvements in the roads to Patagonia, marketing farm products, etc. The ladies of San Rafael will set a light lunch, and all interested business men of Patagonia are invited to attend.

Dr Adkinson Coming

Rev. Dr. Adkinson, superintendent of the M. E. church, Los Angeles, will deliver sermons at the following places and dates: Friday, Dec. 19, 7:30 p. m. at Elgin; Saturday, Dec. 20, 7:30 p. m. at San Rafael; Sunday, Dec. 21, 11 a. m. at Patagonia; Sunday, Dec. 21, 2 p. m. at Sonoita; Sunday, Dec. 21, 4 p. m. at Empire.

Dr. Adkinson is a well known pulpit orator, forceful and logical. The public should remember these dates in order not to miss the pleasure of hearing Dr. Adkinson.

Volcano Group Taken Over?

It was reported this week that the Volcano group of mines, belonging to the Farrell's had been taken over by Mr. W. J. Little and associates. Mr. Little was not interviewed by the Patagonian, as he was out of town just then, and the report could not be verified, but everybody seems to hope it is true, as it indicates more eastern capital coming that way.

Blue Lead Soon Active

The Blue Lead mines, taken over by long since from E. E. Bethel by Messrs. Johnson and associates, will begin work about next week. These gentlemen see enough in this new field to justify prompt and vigorous action.

IS LARGEST OF INDUSTRIES

Statisticians Figure in Billions. When They Make Computations of Live Stock Business.

The live stock industry is the largest and in more than one sense, the most important industry in the United States. Its extent, measured by the value of live animals, amounts to more than $8,000,000,000. Its importance rests in the necessity for live stock to consume the products of farms and ranges, 80 per cent of which, according to census reports, is fed to live stock; in the maintenance of soil fertility, which cannot be kept up continuously and economically without a considerable number of animals as a part of the farm system; in the indispensable place which animal food occupies in the American diet, of which it makes up 38 per cent, based on the average consumer's food-expense account; and finally, in the far-reaching influence which the growing, fattening and marketing of live stock has upon the social and economic welfare of all classes of people, including producers, distributors, and the meat-consuming public.

The slaughtering and meat packing business is the largest manufacturing industry in the United States, according to the United States census of manufacturers. The sales of live stock in the Chicago market alone totaled nearly $1,000,000,000 in 1918, or over $3,000,000 a day, and the daily sales at all of the centralized live stock markets of this country total close to $20,000,000.

England Harbors Ex-Queens.

England will soon be the land of five queens, a potential and powerful group either in politics or poker. The figure resembles a misdeal, but it is explained by the fact that England has a queen and a queen mother, while there are in England the one-time queens of two other countries. They are soon to be joined by another, Empress Marie of Russia. She and the two other foreign ladies are deep in unhappiness—three of the saddest queens, as an observer has remarked, in modern history. The two whom Empress Marie will join are Empress Eugenie and the queen mother of Portugal.

These three women plainly tell the story of greatness. One of them was driven from her throne and her son was killed fighting for another country; another was exiled after having been robbed of her husband and son, and her other son driven from the throne; the last was widowed and her son, her grandson and her granddaughters brutally murdered.

Breeding Makes No Difference.

It has been claimed by lovers of domestic cats that highly bred members of the species do not engage in hunting insectivorous and song birds. A few days ago a city gardener captured a handsome cat in the act of killing a young robin which had just left its nest near his house. He did not kill the bird hunter, under the authority recently granted by the Conservation Commission, but took the animal and its victim to the home of the cat's owner. There he learned that the cat was a highly prized ribbon-taker; and the owner was indignant at its capture.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Get Revenue From Pests.

Rabbit skins from Australia and New Zealand were among the largest offerings in the recent international fur auction at St. Louis. Half a million pounds of Australian rabbit and 50,000 pounds of New Zealand were sold for a total of $335,000. The largest lots went to haters and felt manufacturers.

London Now Less Noisy.

Middle-aged Londoners who went to and fro in the capital in the sixties and seventies merely smile when we ask if London could possibly be noisier than it is at the present day.

For they say it was a far noisier place then, when nearly all the main streets were granite paved and all the wheels of the vehicles iron bound. There was a continuous roar then to which the present day sound is a mere whisper.

One such Londoner says he often heard in the old days the roar of London's traffic from as far away a spot as the Crystal Palace parade. The sound was like that of continual very distant thunder. He has many times in recent years listened for the sound from the same spot, but has never heard it.—London Chronicle.

Conan Doyle's "Familiar."

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's "familiar" proved of very practical assistance to him the other day.

The creator of "Sherlock Holmes" walked into his study, and after some indecision drifted over to the waste-paper basket, plunged his arm into the litter, and—extracted a valuable war office document relating to the history of the war! It had blown from the table into the basket.

"I've never done such a thing before," said Sir Arthur, in narrating the circumstances, and the unusual course of action which he followed with such good results he attributes wholly to the promptings of his "familiar."—London Chronicle.

Star Tuberculosis Patient.

James, age seven, is a patient at Sunnyside and came into the city for tonsillectomy. While in one of the hospitals overnight James could not sleep because he missed his sleeping porch, so he called the nurse and pleaded his case (for air).

The weather was zero and the nurse explained as much to James and thinking she had satisfied his mind she left him, but no sooner had she gone than James became restless for his old haunts and called her. Again she refused to open the window and James, who is a "star care taker," proved his mettle; he threw his shoe through the window pane.—Indianapolis News.

Entered at the postoffice at Patagonia, Ariz., as second-class mail matter.

Republican leaders are beginning to set in motion the machinery for the nomination of a Republican candidate for the presidency.

Cattlemen better look a leedle out abou treecording their old brands. The time is nearly up, and they do say there'll be trouble to the fellow who forgets.

The Patagonian apologizes to the First State Bank for some ugly typographical errors which appeared in their ad last week. Irregularities will occur in the best regulated families.

There were no crimes pulled off last Friday night when the lights went off, that have been reported. The Patagonian failed to catch a part of the mail routes, but that was a relief to the public, not a crime.

It is the ambition of the Patagonia Chamber of Commerce to get as many outside members as possible. Every business man who can go should get out to San Rafael Valley Tuesday night.

Fine thing Patagonians live in a wooded country. Fine thing we have a lovely climate. Fine thing we've got an accommodating wood yard. My those blizzards of the north! And no coal! Ouch!

Senator Lodge says congress has placed the responsibility for the Mexican situation squarely on the President's shoulders, and there he is willing to let it rest. Mr. Wilson, also, is willing, and probably a goodly per cent of the public.

A cold chill no doubt ran down the spine of many a person last Wednesday when the weather service announced the coming of a cold wave, dropping the thermometer to below zero. Well, more people should know of Southern Arizona.

At the San Rafael meeting Tuesday night, those citizens will be asked to adopt Patagonia as a shipping point for live stock. If they promise, this will help to get pens located here. The secretary of the chamber of commerce will have a report from the Southern Pacific soon on this matter. Let's go down to San Rafael Tuesday night.

Jenkins has been released from a Mexican prison on bail. A friend furnished the bail. He said he did it to prevent war. What a little thing to go to war over? The Mexican government was willing all the while to allow Jenkins bail. The amount was only $500. Jenkins, in refusing to furnish bail, took chances on plunging the two countries into war. There's a bug under the chip somewhere in this Jenkins case.

We give considerable space this week on front page to a discussion by the Mining Review of Hayden's copper bill. Also a couple of other clippings on silver. The argument in favor of Hayden's bill sounds good. The clippings on silver show what the opinion of others may be as to the outlook for silver. The Patagonia field being rich in copper and silver, these articles should be of interest to our readers. The world wide demand for silver seems to be a fact. This being true, silver stock should find ready sale on the market. The Patagonian has a tip that capital is quietly investigating the Patagonia silver field. Six months may bring some startling changes around Patagonia.

And now comes a bloomin' Henglishman who tries to throw the world into a fit of pessimism. He claims to have discovered that the atomic theory is an hypothesis, the transmutation of matter is possible, that gold is not an element but a combination, and that it is possible to create gold by chemical action so readily as to make it as cheap as sand. Well, some sand is as good as gold. And, gold will be as useful then as now. If it won't serve as money any longer we can use sugar or coal. But, why should money, which is only a representative of value, be, in itself, a thing of value? However, at present the Patagonian will accept gold on subscriptions.

LUCKY PATAGONIA

Echoes from the coal shortage due to the continued strike are beginning to be felt nearer home. From a Douglas citizen, who was in Patagonia last Wednesday, it was learned that out of nineteen furnaces ordinarily in operation there, only five were now in operation, the major part of the mhaving been closed down because of lack of coal and coke. Asked if this would affect the price of ores, the gentleman replied that that or something else had sent copper down. But it should send copper up, though it may temporarily send ores down.

Some Patagonians complain at McCutehan's high price on wood, but forget to remember how fortunate they are in getting fuel at all.

The gentleman also stated that Douglasites were speaking of coming over into the Patagonia country for a few car loads of wood.

HENRY L. DOHERTY

One of America's biggest business agencies is Henry L. Doherty. The day President Garfield was assassinated he made $5.48 selling extras. Today he is president of the Cities Service company, a $200,000,000 corporation controlling 200 gas and electric companies in nearly every state in the United States.

Newspaper With One Subscriber. It has been the inflexible custom in the imperial family of Japan, says a writer in East and West News, to withhold all newspapers and magazines from its members until they attain their eighteenth year; but the rule was waived in the case of Hirohito, the present crown prince. Four months before his imperial highness entered upon his eighteenth year he was allowed to begin reading a specially prepared journal.

This curious newspaper was edited by an official of the imperial household and printed in the imperial printing office. It was set in special type and printed on thick Japanese paper. The reading of it did not require a great deal of time, for it was of small size and on a single sheet.

New Type of Airplane Liner. Upholstered armchairs on aluminum frames and a porthole beside each seat are features of the newest type of airplane liner turned out by Vickers, Ltd. The manufacturers claim that it is the first of its kind. The new liner can carry ten passengers in addition to two pilots. The engine fuselage is water tight and will float in case of descent into water. The machine is a tractor biplane, with two Rolls-Royce Eagle eight engines of 250 horsepower each; it has a cruising speed of 95 miles an hour and a gasoline capacity of 200 gallons, and can rise readily to a height of 14,000 feet.—Trade Commissioner H. G. Brock, London.

Scientific Management. "It doesn't do to swallow all the stories you hear about the efficiency of scientific management, but I heard one the other day that I can well believe." Senator Cummins, the speaker, was entertaining a luncheon party at Atlantic City. "So your wife refused to marry you when you first proposed to her?" I said to Brown during a confidential chat one day. "Did you keep on pursuing her till she consented?" "Not much!" Brown replied craftily. "I went out and made a fortune. When I came back it was she who did the pursuing."

The Price of Pork Chops and Bacon

Here are reasons why the fine, fresh pork tenderloins and pork chops, or savory ham, or crinkly bacon, which you enjoy for breakfast, cost much more per pound than the market quotation on live hogs which you read in the newspaper:

An average hog weighs 220 pounds.

Of this, only 70 per cent (154 pounds) is meat and lard.

So, when we pay 15¢ a pound for live hogs, we are really paying more than 21¢ a pound for the meat which we will get from these animals, even after taking into account the value of the by-products.

But people show a preference for only one-third of the whole—the pork chops, fancy bacon, and choice cuts from juicy hams.

This means that when we are selling Premium bacon at 43½¢ per pound wholesale and Premium hams at 30¢, there are other parts for which we get as low as 6¢ or 8¢ per pound. The net result is an average profit to us of less than 1¢ a pound.

The choice cuts are higher because of a demand for them.

Another thing: Only 35 pounds of the entire hog—or about 1/6th—is usually marketed at once. The rest must be pickled, cured, or smoked. This takes months, and adds to the costs which must be met.

The Advance in Silver

Without legislative enactment and responding solely to the rule of supply and demand, silver has acquired a position in the commercial world which brings it practically on a parity with gold.

In other words, "bimetallism" promises to be re-established regardless of the wishes of Wall Street and the monometallist or the efforts of the silver producer, just as essential of the seas of being established by American shippers.

The rapid advance in silver quotations has startled the financial world and the very fact that the silver dollar is worth more as bullion than as coin has resulted in a noticeable withdrawal of silver from general circulation and, if this condition continues it will not be long before silver will be as scarce in the transaction of business as is gold.

The silver producer, however, will not quarrel with conditions which make his product more remunerative to him than has been the case since silver was worth $129.50 per ounce and he can well be justified because of the fact that without making a fight for the restoration of the "white metal" this commodity is coming into its own again.

The urgent demand for silver and the marked advance in value should repay entire as an uplift to the producer and should result in increased activities in silver-mining operations and the enhancement of values in the ranks of silver-producing mining companies.

If there ever was a time when silver production should crowd production, this is the time.—Mining Review.

This rooming house, which stands just back of the Commercial company's store, is well located, and will go far toward meeting the increased demand.

Auto License Awkwardness

Several purchasers of new cars of late report a peculiar awkwardness in the matter of obtaining license. The law requires that taxes be paid before license can issue. But the purchaser of a new car reports that his new car has not been assessed, the tax money and license money have both been tendered, and that license was refused because said purchaser could not show a tax receipt. But one thing seems certain, viz., no convictions could be had under such circumstances because of lack of license.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

VETERANS ARE NOT ENVIOUS

Soldiers Who Took Part in the Civil War Proud of the Youngsters of Today.

Recently one of the current magazines contained a picture called, "His Place Curped." It showed the usual village crowd of youngsters listening to a returned soldier tell stories of his life "over there." Sitting at one side of the picture, entirely deserted by every one, was a Civil War veteran. His face was full of sorrow over his desertion by his usual audience.

"We wondered whether that was really the way people were doing—forgetting the old soldiers—also whether the old soldiers were feeling as this old man in the picture seemed to feel," said an Indiana man. "So we took the picture and showed it to an old man who is a very familiar figure in our streets—on account of his faded army uniform. He looked at the picture and then he chuckled:

"Why, bless your soul, I don't feel that way," he told us. "I want to listen to 'em myself," he continued. "I want to know how they fought at Ypres and see if it was like we did at Antietam. And then, too," he smiled more, "it's just this way. I've been honored for more than 50 years now, and during that time one gets just a little hungry for a chance to do a little honorin' himself. So now it's my chance to honor the young fellows. I'm glad the tables are turned for a little while, and I bet most of the other old comrades are, too."

DISCOVERED VAST DEAD CITY

Photographs Taken by Airman Over Mesopotamia Reveal Site of Once Vast Metropolis.

Lieut. Col. J. A. Bezeley gives in Geographical Journal (London) an interesting example of how photography from an airplane can extend our knowledge. When making an aerial reconnaissance in Mesopotamia over territory occupied by the Turks he took a series of photographs near Samarra which shows distinctly the ruins of an ancient city extending 20 miles along the Tigris river and two miles and a half wide, large enough to shelter easily 4,000,000 inhabitants. This city would never have been noticed on earth, since it is not marked by anything but scattered hillocks, although pottery and medals had been discovered on the site. But the photographs show clearly its whole plan, with its fortifications, canals for irrigation, and streets.

The fall of the airplanes within the enemy lines and the capture of its passengers did not permit Colonel Bezeley to pursue his researches, but since the British occupied the territory an archeological expedition, guided by the photographs, has begun to explore the dead city.

Conquered Desert Sand.

The British adopted a giant "snowshoe" to conquer the sands of the Egyptian desert, according to Maj. John Bain of the British army, who served in the near East. The scheme, which was based on the same theory that caused the Indian to adopt the snowshoes, was discovered while the army was marching to Palestine. The fine sands impeded both the infantry and horses, so that a day's march never resulted in much more than a two or three mile advance. "Finally some inventive genius tried laying rather close-meshed chicken wire on the sands," said Major Bain. "The Tommies were thus given something that didn't yield so readily as the soft sands, and the horses got a better footing. Immediately we found that much greater progress was made, and our advances soon amounted to nine and ten miles a day."

Development of Army Searchlight.

A review of the work of the army engineer corps in the war, first issued by the war department, says that the corps produced a new form of searchlight more powerful than any that had preceded it in any army, with which the Second field army had been partially equipped. "It weighed," the report says, "one-eighth as much as lamps of former design, cost only one-third as much, was about one-fourth as large in bulk, and threw a light 10 per cent stronger than any other portable projector in existence." Still further to perfect the searchlight, our engineers were at work on a remote control when hostilities ceased.—Scientific American.

Flax in the War.

With the restoration of industry on a peace-time basis, cotton once again, according to recent authoritative statements, forges ahead of linen in the world's favor. The exigencies of the recent conflict raised flax to the position as leader among fabrics, a rank which it had held for centuries but had lost almost simultaneously with the advent of the cotton gin. With a realization of the importance of cotton in the making of munitions, there came a speedy reversion to linen for the more commonplace uses—waistcoats, sails for ships, even "wings" for airplanes having lately consisted of material woven from the sun-bud fiber. But flax has reached the end of its days of monopoly. King Cotton now rises to the fore in ordinary pursuits, and linen once again becomes the aristocrat in this field of supply.
