PATAGONIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

NOGALES HERE. PLEASANT LUNCHEON. PROSPECTS FOR TELEPHONE GOOD.

On Friday night, last, at the Commercial Hotel Dining Room, according to schedule, some forty businessmen of Patagonia and Nogales met for the purpose of setting on foot a commercial organization for Patagonia. Luncheon was spread and a smoker enjoyed, and jollity and good will prevailed throughout the evening. Ten members of the Y. B. M. A., and ten members of the C. C. of Nogales were invited to be present, and were very much there. After luncheon there were short speeches by Nogales gentlemen made in response to an invitation from the chair as follows:

Mayor Fiedler:

Gentlemen: Your chairman has suggested that Nogales business men and civic organizations should assist Patagonia in all matters of interest to both towns. I beg to differ with him. It is our duty and our desire to render any assistance to Patagonia at any and all times in matters of interest to her, whether those matters are of direct interest to Nogales or not. We are for the whole state for that matter, but we want you to believe that our pride and ambition reaches out beyond the confines of our own town, Nogales. You can depend upon us to render any aid in our power to Patagonia at any time, even when it does not seem to be of direct benefit to Nogales. We are willing to help you get what you want. (A voice—"except the county seat.") (Laughter).

Bracey Curtis:

Your chairman says we were invited up here to inject ginger into you folks. Well, I don't think you need a hyperdemic injection. You seem to have some ginger in you. But I must say that if that is what you need the Y. B. M. A. of Nogales has some to spare. The commercial world, gentlemen, has come to demand these organizations. Capitalists, looking your way, expect to find an organization through which to reach your people. That town which has none is lacking in one of its necessary factors. I want to say that the chamber of commerce of Nogales has endeavored at all times to work for the interests of the whole of Santa Cruz County and shall continue to do so. You are in Santa Cruz County and have a right to call on us for co-operation any time you wish. You need an organization here. Most all commercial business nowadays is pushed through organization, very little is accomplished without them. I would suggest that your organization is perfect as you set to work committees, most good work is done by committees, appoint committees for special duties and keep them on the job.

Mr. Legarra:

I think you have made the right start, gentlemen. Do you know I sometimes think that even the people of Nogales do not know how many big things that organization has put over. Without such an organization some of your best interests may slumber long. I would like to make one special suggestion, viz: In selecting your officers be sure to select a live wire as secretary, for he is the life of the organization. I think you will find Nogales always willing to help you, for she is out for the interests of all.

Prof. Madden:

The very first thing I want to say is that I have found the people of Nogales live wires. I want to say, too, that you have some live wires at Patagonia. Nogales people and Patagonia people have not only a local pride, nor only a county pride, but a state pride. Your organization is exactly the right thing. You have started in the right direction. If you keep this up you will be surprised at the results.

Gil Rankin:

I feel that I know that very little worth while can be accomplished without organization. Why, the great city of Los Angeles started out with nothing on earth to talk about but climate and an organization to do the talking. Well, they talked climate until they caught the ear of the public, and then began to talk something else.

When investors make inquiries about your resources, they like to have a community answer; and the next thing they want is a community promise; this is better and of greater force than individual action. Now, you say you want the co-operation of Nogales. Why, Nogales is only too happy to see forming a foundation for co-operation. That is exactly what we want. And I tell you, the more chambers of commerce we have the faster we will outgrow state grow.

Editor Sisk:

You can depend upon Nogales to cooperate with you in every way possible. We see absolutely nothing in the way of a harmonious and successful co-operation between the two towns.

Dr. Gustetter:

Gentlemen, I am a physician, and naturally think in medical terms. This meeting reminds me of the birth of a child—a still birth. At first the child has no life. You must breathe into it the breath of life. At first it has no features. Now this child will soon take on the features of its parent,—one or the other or both. At first the child has no characteristics. Now if you want this babe to have the proper characteristics, the proper ambition, you must stamp upon it the impress of your own characters. I tell you one thing that makes the greatest difference in people—its energy—determined energy. If you want the child born here tonight to be full of determined energy, don't forget that it must be largely instilled into it by its parents. I want to say that what is of interest to you is also of interest to Nogales. We are in the same state, we are in the same county. I want to say one particular thing: Your organization may lead to incorporating your town. If so, one of the first things I would take up is sidewalks, cement sidewalks. Do you know, Nogales began to grow from the very day she began to put in cement sidewalks. Somehow this is something in a neat sidewalk which appeals to the visitor.

Charley Fowler:

I want to tell a story. It's about a dog. A man had a dog for which he had formed a dislike. He said to the dog, "Well, I won't kill you, but I will just talk about you." So he put a chain on the dog and began to lead him about town, telling the neighbors everything mean he could think of, on the dog. The result was that the neighbors became alarmed and stoned the dog to death. And that's the way a chamber of commerce can be killed. That's the way Nogales and Patagonia can fall to co-operate. So now, in the outstart, let's turn our backs to the past, our faces to the front, and remember the story of the poor dog.

Nogales closing, Patagonia responded as follows:

E. H. Evans:

(A busy business man always makes a brief speech, but to the point.) "I am certainly glad to meet you gentlemen from Nogales here tonight. Patagonia needs just such an organization as we are about to launch,—needed it long ago. Patagonia's future is brighter now than ever before. This organization must not be delayed. Now is the time. Such an organization is simply bound to result in good.

Dr. Ferguson:

Dr. Ferguson spoke forcibly and enthusiastically. He cited the course which had been pursued by the city of Los Angeles. --Los Angeles lit-ally talked herself into prominence," said he. "When she got beyond talking about climate she had something else to talk about, and to tell the truth Los Angeles to this day has never lost an opportunity of talking up her good things and attractive features.

C. L. Northcraft:

"I am certainly" for a chamber of commerce for Patagonia. You will find me doing what I can at all times. Such an organization is bound to be of benefit to the whole county,—especially when we all cooperate for the common good.

Dr. Redden:

Not long after coming to Patagonia I saw the necessity for such an organization as this. I am strictly for it, and not only that I am in favor incorporating our town just as soon as it can be done. Besides such matters as sidewalks, etc., there are matters of public health which nothing but an incorporation can regulate.

Judge A. S. Henderson:

Gentlemen of Nogales, I am glad to see you here. All my interests are in an arid Patagonia. I think if you fellows will come out more often, you will like us better. And that is not all. Come out and look around. Bring your friends. Look into our mining prospects. Why, you fellows may not believe it, but if you will come up to see us some time and let us show you around, I believe we can show you some mining interests which will beat Texas oil stock.

C. A. Pierce:

Well, I think Patagonia's part of this meeting has learned a great deal tonight. That I'll promise one thing: Patagonia can be depended upon to take care of Dr. Gustetter's still born kid. And I'll say also, that I now see we can count on Nogales. Why, there's no feeling between the two places,—perhaps never was. It's all imagination.

After speechmaking and pleasantries the Patagonian proceeded toward organization. After some discussion as to form, name, etc., it was agreed to elect seven directors for a space of six months, whose first duty should be to formulate a government for the organization, suggesting what officers it should have, etc. The following were declared elected: Joseph Collie, A. S. Henderson, J. W. Miller, E. H. Evans, C. L. Northcraft, C. B. Wilson. This bringing the organization to a near completion as could be had at the time, a general discussion followed as to the best plan to be pursued in getting early and successful action in the matter of first class telephonic communication with Nogales. The result of the discussion was an agreement that each of the three organizations should appoint a committee of three to draft separately, resolutions covering the status of the situation, and present these resolutions, together with a strong letter to the Mountain States Telephone people, with a request that they give the matter of early action serious consideration.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned to meet Tuesday October 28, at Gardner theatre.

A vote of thanks was tendered by the visitors for their pleasant entertainment, and returned by the Patagonians for the warm interest manifested by Nogales.

The visitors were: G. B. Madden, R. E. Haunah, R. L. O'Neill, J. A. Legarra, Bracey Curtis, H. M. Chagert, Dr. A. L. Gustetter, G. H. Fiedler, J. W. Edwards, C. V. Foxler, Chas. Beal, W. W. Griggs, Dr. M. A. Wuereschmidt, Oscar Block, O. J. Mayer, H. O. Bostwick, Gil Rankin and H. R. Sisk.

The Patagonians in attendance were: J. LeRoy Lanester, J. E. Hopkins, J. R. Collie, A. S. Henderson, C. L. Northcraft, J. W. Miller, Gowen Peison, W. H. Barnett, E. E. Bethel, Val Valenzuela, Jr., C. A. Pierce, E. H. Evans, C. B. Wilson, Ray Ferguson and Dr. Redden.

To the Visiting Nogales Gentlemen and Fellow Townsmen:

I regret very much that I am unable to be present at tonight's smoker. How ever my recent mixup with a couple of your Nogales surgeons necessitates my remaining at home for another week.

I shall always feel kindly towards Nogales for during my stay in the hospital never a day passed without numbers of inquiries coming in to the hospital from your business men inquiring as to my condition.

I feel that it is time for Nogales and Patagonia to join hands in the upbuilding of all enterprises in Santa Cruz County.

So let us forget the "League of Nations" long enough to form a closer relationship between Patagonia and Nogales. We cannot change the League of Nations ourselves nor the steel strike in the East, but we can change local conditions. So let's wake up and boost everything in Santa Cruz County that is for the common good.

To Nogales we greet you, extending to you not only at this time, but at all times—a hearty welcome.

Senator Kenyon says education of aliens is the way to forestall Bolshevism in America. Well, Senator, the poor have always clamored for more education. This step should have been taken decades ago.

In other columns this week we give space to the Covenant of the League of Nations. We do this at an extra cost of several dollars for the benefit and convenience of our readers. File this copy away, and keep it. By reading it occasionally, and watching the discussions in the daily papers by great men, you will have a better conception of the truth. It may be an issue in the coming campaign, and you will find it convenient to have a copy to which to refer occasionally.

Gil Rankin has spoiled everything. The other night, after the smoker was over and the Patagonia Chamber of Commerce organized, he sidled around to the editor of the Patagonian and congratulated him as the "mother of the new born babe." Gee whizz! Under Gr. Gustetter's theory what is the darned thing going to look like?

The coal miners say that if the same pressure were brought on the mine operators to compel them to negotiate which is brought to bear on the miners to compel them to desist from striking, the two factions could get together. A sensible suggestion. When Teddy Roosevelt was in the chair he said: "Arbitrate, or the government will take over your mines." They arbitrated.

Credit should be given the Mexican government for one time for prompt action in the release of Consul Jenkins. Somebody paid the $150,000 ransom. Uncle Sam did not. Perhaps, after all, Carranza may be half way correct when he says he is doing all in his power to suppress banditry. But there may be times when Mr. Carranza realizes his power to a different degree than other times,—owing to circumstances.

Quick and absolutely satisfactory telephonic communication between the two towns of Santa Cruz County, Patagonia and Nogales, can but result in closer business relations, better understanding, warmer friendship. Pleasant communications, just as pleasant conversations, develop co-operative spirit. The same result will be observed at home, here, when our local exchange becomes a reality.

Pat Patterson says he has now some $400 toward the $600 necessary to procure a landing field for the Tucson-Nogales bi-plane line. Late news from Tucson reiterates the statement that Patagonia will certainly be a point on the line if a landing field be furnished. Only $200 now in the way. If business men cannot subscribe cash payments, let them agree to pay a small amount each month, and thus raise the remaining $200.

The Nogales Chamber of Commerce, Young Men's Business Association and the Patagonia Commercial Club have instituted a campaign to build a telephone line between Nogales and Patagonia. The movement is a worthy one and deserves the moral backing of every citizen and merchant of both cities. At the present time, the phone service between Nogales and Patagonia is unsatisfactory and a vigorous campaign will be made to induce the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company to build a direct line between the two cities.—Nogales Herald.

The sentiment expressed by E. H. Evans at luncheon last Friday, that "prospects for Patagonia are now brighter than they have ever been," seems to be the consensus of opinion of not only Patagonians, but of citizens of Nogales as well. The foundation of the superstructure is now firmly laid, and builders are to be had in numbers. Mining men outside of Patagonia as well as at home agree that the ores here are of profitable to high grade, and that it is a matter now of short time until Patagonia is bound to come into her own.

The people of the United States should not be hasty in condemning the whole body of the people of Mexico because of failure of their government to suppress banditry and protect Americans and American interests. In conversation with an American Frenchman, (while in Mexico not long since), who has resided in Mexico, and who speaks Spanish fluently, as well as French and English, the writer was informed that the masses of the people of Mexico had never been satisfied with Carranza, and would never support him for re-election.

The State Fair Commission, it is said, is using moving pictures to advertise the State Fair. That's fine. But here's another idea: If the fair commission could produce a first-class film of some of the big operations in the big mines of Arizona, and run this film every night during the fair, free, it would give outside skeptics a new wrinkle on their brain. The ideas of the average layman about mining are very crude, and reports which go outside the state about the state's wonderful mineral resources are taken by the uninitiated with a grain of salt. A first class film would go far toward attracting the attention of the outside world to our greatest of industries,—mining.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS
U. S. Senator Miles Poindexter, in circular letter released for publication today, announces his candidacy for the high place of President of the United States. Poindexter is regarded as an able man. He is, judging from his announcement, unalterably opposed to the League of Nations as it now stands. On this point he says: "The Peace Treaty should be stripped of the extraneous incumbrances which have been placed upon it; and which have so long delayed it, and the permanent burdens which it is proposed to place upon the United States in the conduct of European affairs should be at once rejected." These sentiments, expressed in the way they are,—in announcement of his candidacy,—and expressed at this time, would seem to portend a more important fact than Poindexter's candidacy, to wit,—Poindexter now has knowledge of the fact that the Senate will never ratify the treaty as it stands, and that means that it is to be the issue in the coming presidential campaign.

And it also means a continuation of considerable uncertainties, business trending on eggs, and things generally unbalanced. But it also means that the people of the United States are to have more time for sober thought before plunging into a world madstrom from the magnitude of which no man has undertaken to point out. "Friendly relations toward all, entangling alliances with none," still ring fairly well in the ears of true Americans. Not that any man is opposed to a league of nations, nor opposed to high ideals, such as is now cherished by our sincere President. But that there be those who see, or believe they see, lurking in this League of Nations danger of the gravest sort to our country. Woodrow Wilson loves peace. Miles Poindexter loves peace. Woodrow Wilson favors the League of Nations because he loves peace. Miles Poindexter opposes the League of Nations because he loves peace. It is a mere difference of opinion as to how to insure peace. But an idealistic promise upon the part of all nations of the earth at this day would be not unlike a youthful bride taking upon herself the marriage vow. She thinks she is "done with this troublesome world." She does not know she has but just reached the beginning of her battles of life. Is the world ripe for this great step? If not, are we prepared to shoulder the burden for the world, become its godfather, its tutor, its disciplinarian? If so, it occurs to us that we are about to enter upon a period of forced militarism which may, and probably will last, one or two centuries.

Patagonia is situated in the center of a great mining district. The town site is a beautiful one, located in the valley between the Santa Rita and Patagonia Mountains at an elevation of over 3000 feet. The town has a fine school building, three hotels, six stores, etc. The climate can not be surpassed. There is good water in abundance, and splendid roads lead from Patagonia to all parts of the county.
A fine tract of land has just been laid out in town lots adjoining the Patagonia townsite on the east. This new tract has been named East Side Addition and fine lots in this section of the town are for sale at reasonable prices and on easy terms. Lots range in value from $50 to $200, terms, one-third cash, one-third in six months and one-third in 12 months. When not payment is made a deed will be given.
Another tract of land situated along the Harshaw road has been laid off, called Linder Addition, which is for sale in acre, five acre and 10-acre lots at attractive prices.

COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Complete Text of This Important Document As It Was Signed at Paris and Which is Now Causing Discussion in This Country.

EVERYONE SHOULD READ IT

The people of the United States have been asked, by both the proponents and the opponents of the peace treaty and League of Nations covenant, to give expression to their desires as to the ratification of the treaty as it stands or with amendments or reservations. Some of them have responded, at the meetings addressed by the president and by the opposing senators, or by communications to their senators. But the vast majority of the people are handicapped by their ignorance of the matter. Probably not one in ten thousand has read the covenant of the League of Nations as it was presented to the senate, mainly because few have had the opportunity. In order that our readers may be prepared to do their full duty as citizens in regard to the controversy, the complete text of the covenant is herewith presented, and they are asked to read it carefully.

THE COVENANT OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The high contracting parties, in order to promote international co-operation and to achieve international peace and security by the acceptance of obligations not to resort to war, by the prescription of open, just and honorable relations between nations, by the firm establishment of the understanding of international law as the actual rule of conduct among governments, and by the maintenance of justice and a scrupulous regard for all treaty obligations in the dealings of organized peoples with one another, agree to this covenant of the League of Nations.

ARTICLE 1.—The original members of the League of Nations shall be those named in the annex to this covenant and also such of those other states named in the annex as shall accede without reservation to this covenant. Such accession shall be effected by a declaration deposited with the secretariat within two months of the coming into force of the covenant. Notice thereof shall be sent to all other members of the league.

ARTICLE 2.—The action of the league under this covenant shall be effected through the instrumentality of an assembly and of a council, with a permanent secretariat.

ARTICLE 3.—The assembly shall consist of representatives of the members of the league. The assembly shall meet at stated intervals and from time to time as occasion may require at the seat of the league or at such other place as may be decided upon.

ARTICLE 4.—The council shall consist of representatives of the principal allied and associated powers, together with representatives of four other members of the league. These four members of the league shall be selected by the assembly from time to time in its discretion.

ARTICLE 5.—Except where otherwise expressly provided in this covenant or by the terms of the present treaty, decisions at any meeting of the assembly or of the council shall require the agreement of all the members of the league represented at the meeting.

ARTICLE 6.—The permanent secretariat shall be established at the seat of the league. The secretariat shall be composed of such number of secretaries general and staff as may be required.

ARTICLE 7.—The seat of the league shall be established at the seat of the league. The secretariat shall be composed of such number of secretaries general and staff as may be required.

ARTICLE 8.—The expenses of the league shall be borne by the members of the league in accordance with the apportionment of the expenses of the international bureau of the League of Nations.

ARTICLE 9.—The members of the league and officials of the league who engaged in the business of the league shall enjoy diplomatic privileges and immunities.

ARTICLE 10.—The members of the league undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league.

ARTICLE 11.—Any war or threat of war, whether immediately affecting any of the members of the league or not, is hereby declared a matter of concern to all members of the league.

ARTICLE 12.—The members of the league agree that if there should arise between them any dispute likely to lead to a rupture, they shall refer the matter either to arbitration or to inquiry by the council, and they agree in no case to resort to war until three months after the meeting at which the dispute is referred to the council.

ARTICLE 13.—The members of the league agree that whenever any dispute shall arise between them which is not of such a nature as to be suitable for submission to arbitration and which cannot be satisfactorily settled by diplomacy, they will submit the whole subject-matter in dispute to the council.

ARTICLE 14.—The council shall formulate and submit to the members of the league for adoption plans for the establishment of a permanent court of international justice.

ARTICLE 15.—If there should arise between members of the league any dispute likely to lead to a rupture, which is not submitted to arbitration in accordance with article 13, the members of the league agree that they will submit the matter to the council.

statements of their case with all the relevant facts and papers, and the council may furnish direct publication therefor.

The council shall endeavor to effect a settlement of the dispute, and if such efforts are successful, a statement shall be made public giving such facts and explanations regarding the dispute and the terms of settlement thereof as the council may deem appropriate.

ARTICLE 16.—Should any member of the league resort to war in disregard of its covenants under articles 12, 13, or 15, it shall ipso facto be deemed to have committed an act of war against all other members of the league, which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severance of all trade and financial relations, the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals and the nationals of the covenant-breaking state, and the prevention of all financial, commercial, or personal intercourse between the nationals of the covenant-breaking state and the nationals of any other state, whether a member of the league or not.

ARTICLE 17.—In the event of a dispute between a member of the league and a state which is not a member of the league, or between two states not members of the league, which is taken under this article, in order to minimize the loss and inconvenience resulting from the above measures, and that they will mutually support economic measures which are taken under this article, in order to minimize the loss and inconvenience resulting from the above measures, and that they will mutually support economic measures which are taken under this article, in order to minimize the loss and inconvenience resulting from the above measures.

ARTICLE 18.—Every treaty or international engagement entered into hereafter by any member of the league shall be forthwith registered with the secretariat and shall as soon as possible be published by it. No such treaty or engagement shall be binding until it is so registered.

ARTICLE 19.—The assembly may from time to time advise the reconsideration by members of the league of treaties which have become inapplicable and the conclusion of international conventions whose continuance might endanger the peace of the world.

ARTICLE 20.—The members of the league severally agree that this covenant is accepted as abrogating all obligations or understandings, in whatever form, which are inconsistent with the terms thereof, and solemnly undertake that they will not hereafter enter into any engagements inconsistent with the terms thereof.

ARTICLE 21.—Nothing in this covenant shall be deemed to affect the validity of international engagements, bilateral treaties, or other special arrangements and understandings like the Monroe Doctrine, for securing the maintenance of peace.

CHINA, SHANTUNG AND JAPAN. The following are the sections of the Peace Treaty that refer to China and to Shantung Province that are the subjects of discussion in all parts of the nation:

ARTICLE 120.—Germany renounces in favor of China all benefits and privileges resulting from the provisions of the final protocol signed at Peking on September 7, 1901, and from all annexes, surplus and additional provisions, in the said protocol, which were in force in favor of Germany and which she renounces in favor of China under the arrangements made hereunder subsequent to March 18, 1917.

ARTICLE 121.—From the coming into force of the present treaty the high contracting parties shall apply in so far as concerns them respectively: The articles of the present treaty, signed at Versailles, which relate to the new Chinese customs tariff.

ARTICLE 122.—Subject to the provisions of Section VIII of this part, Germany renounces to China all the buildings, wharves and piers, barracks, forts, arms and munitions of war, vessels of all kinds, wireless telegraphy installations, and all other property belonging to the German government, which are situated or may be in the German concessions at Tientsin and Hankow or elsewhere in China.

ARTICLE 123.—Germany waives all claims against the Chinese government or against any allied or associated power arising out of the capture and condemnation of German ships in China or the liquidation, sequestration or control of German properties, rights and interests in that country since August 14, 1917.

ARTICLE 124.—Germany renounces, in favor of the government of his Britannic Majesty, the German state property in the British concession at Shanghai and in the French concession at Shanghai.

SHANTUNG. ARTICLE 125.—Germany renounces, in favor of Japan, all her rights, titles and privileges—particularly those concerning the territory of Kiaochow, railways, mines and submarine cables—acquired in virtue of the treaty concluded by her with China in 1915.
