The whole copper position is clearing up wonderfully. The general attitude of the producers is not wishing to force the price up has brought about this buying movement which has developed to such large proportions.

There is a well established outlook for a continuance of business on a large scale in this country as well as abroad.

BANK MONEY IS AT WORK

The Muskogee Times Democrat narrates a sad story about a certain Mrs. Murphy, who went to her fruit jar bank one day and found that someone had taken the savings of many years, to wit, eight hundred dollars.

The money in the fruit jar was idle. It was out of circulation. It was rendering no service to anyone.

Yet there are hundreds of persons in every community who are handling money in the same foolish, unproductive way.

Whatever is said about banks, money placed in them is more safe and a basis of credit.

Bank deposits add to the credit of the individual, the bank and the community, in resources and stability.

Always a certain percentage of deposits are loaned out to carry on industries, business enterprises and to employ labor.

On top of this, banks are reaching out to help the farmer enlarge his herds, improve his equipment and increase production.

ADVICE ON GRAIN SORGHUMS

U. S. Agricultural Department Gives Southwestern Farmers Valuable Information on Timely Topic

As the result of long-continued experiments in the production and improvement of grain sorghum varieties in the dry and elevated portions of the southwest the United States department of agriculture announces the following conclusions:

Many varieties produce well in favorable seasons. Only well-adapted varieties produce well in the less favorable and in unfavorable seasons, which comprise about three-quarters of the total number.

Earliness is the most important single factor in the varietal adaptation of grain sorghum crops to the conditions obtaining on the high plains of the southwest.

Dwarfness is the next most important factor in the adaptation of these crops.

The combination of earliness and dwarfness is extremely efficient in insuring adaptation to environmental conditions which include frequent periods of drought.

Dwarf milo, Dawn (dwarf) kafir, and Sunrise (early) kafir are well adapted varieties.

Dwarf milo and Dawn kafir are meeting with wide approval on the farms of the high, dry plains.

Germination and stand are governed largely by local conditions at sowing time.

Tillering, or the production of suckers, is a varietal or group character to some extent. In part, it is correlated with stand and seasonal conditions.

The production of erect heads is largely a group or varietal character. Tillering.

ARIZONA LAW IS GIVEN O. K.

United States Supreme Court Upholds Constitutional Provision Relating to Contributory Negligence

A decision of direct interest to Arizonans and of inestimable importance to its effect on damage suits brought under the employer's liability law of this state was handed down by the United States supreme court this week. The decision was given in the case of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company vs. Cole, Administrator, appealed from Oklahoma.

The Oklahoma and Arizona constitutions contain a provision regarding contributory negligence. The question of such negligence is definitely left to the jury to decide by the provision which is identical in the organic law of both of the states and which reads as follows: "The defense of contributory negligence or assumption of risk shall in all cases whatsoever be a question of fact, and shall at all times be left to the jury."

The decision by the United States supreme court touching upon this constitutional provision is, briefly, that there is nothing in the Fourteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution that deprives a state from providing in its constitution that the defense of contributory negligence shall, in all cases whatsoever, be a question of fact, and shall at all times be left to the jury.

Attorney General Jones said that this is the first time within his knowledge such a provision of constitutional or statutory law has come directly before the United States supreme court for a decision. Appeals to the United States supreme court on the constitutionality of the provision quoted have often been dominant but never have been perfected. While attorneys have been morally certain that the provision was not in conflict with the Federal Constitution they are pleased to have had the subject considered and the question of constitutionality settled by the highest court in the land.

RED ROCK DAM PROPOSITION

Great Benefit to Patagonia If Interior Department Would Decide Upon Reclamation Project Here

About three and a half miles east of Patagonia there is an ideal location for an irrigation dam.

The dam across the canyon could be built for very little money considering the amount of water that could be stored behind it. There is a solid rock foundation, the distance across is but 200 feet, and height would be about 75 feet. The water would back up for a mile or more and would supply enough water to irrigate thousands of acres below it.

Besides the advantages to be gained by Patagonia by having irrigated farms nearby upon which fruit, vegetables and general produce could be grown at a much less cost to the consumer and a greater profit to the producer, the water could be used for domestic use in the town itself, thereby doing away with the dangerous dug well.

Material for building the dam is to be had right on the spot. All the government would have to provide would be cement and labor. The costs eventually would have to be borne by those receiving the benefit. That is the town and the persons owning the land irrigated or subject to irrigation from the proposed dam.

We believe this great improvement to our community can be had if enough pressure is brought to bear upon our Arizona senators and representative at Washington. Sit right down now and write a personal letter to Senators Ashurst and Smith and Representative Carl Hayden. Tell them we must have this irrigation project and ask them to use their utmost endeavor with the proper governmental department to bring it to a successful and near-future realization.

You may be surprised at the result of an appeal made to your Washington representatives by personal letter. It is worth trying. Do it now.

POPULAR GOVERNMENT AND UNIVERSAL TRAINING

Universal training is a subject much discussed these days, and in many ways it would benefit the young manhood of the country. The late James J. Hill said:

"Popular government, as we are endeavoring to interpret it, is the most momentous experiment in the history of civilization, and it is yet a grave question whether we are permanently capable of self-government along the lines upon which we are proceeding.

"Our citizenship is becoming stratified, lines of cleavage are forming and unless steps are taken to rectify this trend, in my opinion, a crisis will soon be reached that may result in fundamental changes in our form of government.

"Universal training will do more than any other thing to safeguard the future and we need it, war or no war."

If you need any argument in favor of universal training, look at the splendidly developed young men around you who have just returned from army duty.

ARE YOU SAVING MONEY?

If you want to know if you are going to be a success or a failure in life you can easily find out. The test is simple and infallible. Are you able to save money? If not, drop out. You will fail no matter how you live. You may not think so, but you will. The ace of success is not in you.

POWDER IN TOWN

For several days this week there was a cloud of powder on the siding in town, which was a constant menace to residents. The law requires that powder must be taken to a safe distance from residences, but for some reason the danger to the populace was not taken into consideration. If some "wild man" with a gun had happened to take a few random shots and one of them had struck the car this story would not be in the Patagonian—because there would not now be a Patagonian, not a single one of any other part of the town left standing.

NO CENSUS ENUMERATOR FOR PATAGONIA?

To date there has been no census commissioner taking the U. S. census in Patagonia. There seems to be a misunderstanding as to whose territory this part of the county is in, and the consequence is there will have to be an election to determine who is to get the duty required by Uncle Sam for his big 1924 census.

ALLIES WILL AID RUSSIANS

WILL GIVE MACHINERY AND MEDICINE TO PEASANTS FOR GRAIN.

PEASANTS NEED HELP

CO-OPERATIVE UNIONS WILL HANDLE EXCHANGES IN RUSSIA.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.

Paris, Jan. 17.—In an official communication issued here the supreme council approved of recommendations to relieve the population in the interior of Russia by giving them medicine, agricultural machinery and other commodities of which the people are in sore need, in exchange for grain and flax.

This partial lifting of the blockade is described in the official communication as an exchange of goods on the basis of reciprocity between the Russian people and allied and neutral countries, but through the co-operative societies. "These arrangements imply no change in the policy of the allied governments toward the soviet government," says the communication of the supreme council.

The relief to the people is to be given through co-operative societies to insure that the commodities sent there shall reach the peasants themselves.

The Russian co-operative society is composed of a number of co-operative unions and is said to represent 20,000,000 Russians.

In June of last year Secretary of War Baker signed contracts with representatives of the society covering the sale of $15,000,000 worth of surplus army clothing and textiles.

In greeting the delegation which waited upon him in Washington, Mr. Baker spoke of the sincere desire of the people of the United States to be of any possible assistance to the people of Russia and explained that it was his hope that, when Russia had re-established its government the "ancient bond of friendship between the two nations would be found strengthened."

The supreme council's communique follows:

"With a view to remedying the unhappy situation of the population of the interior of Russia, which is now deprived of all manufactured products from outside Russia, the supreme council, after having taken note of the report of a committee appointed to consider the reopening of certain trading relations with the Russian people, have decided that it would permit the exchange of goods on the basis of reciprocity between the Russian people and allied and neutral countries.

For this purpose it decided to give facilities to the Russian co-operative organizations which are in direct touch with the peasantry throughout Russia so that they may arrange for the import into Russia of clothing, medicines, agricultural machinery and the other necessities of which the Russian people are in sore need, in exchange for grain, flax, etc., of which Russia has surplus supplies. These arrangements imply no change in the policy of the allied governments toward the soviet government."

Norfolk, Va.—Billy Sunday preached John Barleycorn's funeral services here before an audience of more than 10,000 persons. The ceremony began at the railroad station, where the "corpse," in a casket twenty feet long, arrived on "a special train from Milwaukee." Twenty pallbearers placed the casket on a carriage and marched beside it through the streets to Sunday's tabernacle, while His Satanic Majesty trailed behind in deep mourning and anguish.

SWITCH OFF!
Put aside the Salts, Oil, Calomel, or Pills and take "Cascarets."

Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely whipping them into action every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Oil, or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets gently cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the colon and bowels all the constipated waste matter and poisons so you can straighten up. Cascarets tonight will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, or cause any inconvenience, and cost so little too.—Adv.

YOU NEED NOT SUFFER FROM CATARRH
But You Must Drive It Out of Your Blood.
Catarrh is annoying enough when it chokes up your nostrils and air passages, causing difficult breathing and other discomforts. Real danger comes when it reaches down into your lungs. This is why you should at once realize the importance of the proper treatment, and lose no time experimenting with worthless remedies which touch only the surface. To be rid of Catarrh, you must drive the disease germs out of your blood. Splendid results have been reported from the use of S. S. S., which acts on the catarrh germs in the blood. "Well," queried the editor, "you've been long enough about it; what have you learned?" "Well, I've done my best," was the answer. "I've looked in all the local directories, and the London directory as well, and there is no such name as Angina Pectoris. Then I made a thorough search through some of the biographies in the office library, but found nothing. No one in the building has heard of such a person. Death Hazard in Mills Is Very Great

Bureau of Labor Statistics Makes Study at Fall River, Mass.

WOMEN ARE BIGGER RISK

Mortality Among Cotton Mill Workers Much Higher Than Among Those Following Other Pursuits—Tuberculosis Takes Many.

Washington, D. C.—From an industrial standpoint death at less than old age means a fixed and definite loss; the worker has at each age a certain expectancy of life, varying according to certain factors, but still definitely calculable, which makes his death the loss of so much potential industrial activity.

In bulletin No. 251 entitled "Preventable Death in the Cotton Manufacturing Industry," just issued by the bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor, is shown the real death hazard by age groups for wage earners, especially for those engaged in the several processes of cotton cloth manufacture and also what factors have been especially active in cutting off the lives of wage earners during age periods which are normally of greatest productive activity.

In this report, which is supplementary to an earlier report upon the subject, the death hazard, by age, sex and race of the entire operative population of Fall River, the leading cotton manufacturing city in the United States, is contrasted with the corresponding hazard of the nonmill operatives of the city for the five years, 1908 to 1912, inclusive, and a study is made of the death rates of workers in the different rooms within the cotton mill.

Women Have Higher Death Rate. By a comparison of death rates by sex of the whole Fall River population, aged 15 to 44, it is shown that

250,000 Orphans Roam Homeless in Armenia

Geneva.—Besides the massacring of 1,500,000 Armenians during the war, this people is being still further reduced by demobilized Turkish troops, who are killing them and robbing them of what is left of their possessions, says Dr. Kunzler, a Swiss pastor, who was in Armenia throughout the war. He made this statement in an address at Zurich. He said 250,000 homeless orphans are wandering about the country.

OLD SWINDLE IS REVIVED

Many Americans Said to Have Fallen Victims.

Madrid Police on Trail of Gang That Operates "Dying Prisoner" Scheme.

Madrid.—The "Spanish swindle" has shown its head again. America has been inundated with letters from a dying prisoner, persecuted by political enemies, only able to communicate with the outside world through the kindness of a prison chaplain. The writer of the letter claims relationship with the person addressed and explains that a valise containing valuables has been concealed outside of Spain, the contents to be left to an only daughter and the American relative.

Should the American reply, he later receives a letter from "the chaplain," stating that the prisoner is dead and females have appreciably the higher death hazard. From tuberculosis their death rate exceeds that of the males by 12 per cent, from nontuberculous causes by 5 per cent and from all causes combined by 8 per cent. Yet while this is true of the population as a whole, it is untrue of that portion of it (61 per cent) which does not work in the cotton mills, for among these three-fifths the male death rate exceeds the female by 14 per cent.

The total death hazard of the native born exceeds that of the foreign born by 9 per cent, though the native born are less liable than the foreign born to die of tuberculosis, the difference between the death rates being slight, however—less than 1 per cent. The Irish and French Canadians show the highest death rates among the different racial groups.

In Fall River married females between the ages of 15 and 44 are much more liable to die, both from tuberculosis and from all nontuberculous causes than the single, while among the males the single are almost invariably far more liable to die early than are the married of the same age.

Hazard Greater in Mills. Fall River cotton operatives between the ages of 15 and 44 are about one-half (46 per cent) more liable to die from all causes combined, than are

MINES MENACE TO SHIPS

Germans Have Not Finished Sweeping Their Area

American Field Swept as Completely as Possible, Says Admiral Knapp.

London.—Until the Germans complete the sweeping of mine fields they laid in the North Sea there will be considerable danger to shipping in waters adjacent to the British Isles, say British and American naval authorities. Even after that work has ended, which will not be before next summer, there will be some danger which, they predict, will gradually diminish. "The American barrage is swept as completely as is humanly possible," Admiral Harry S. Knapp, of the American navy, said to the Associated Press correspondent. "After our area had been pronounced one hundred per cent clear we reswept 800 miles of it and found only four more mines. These were at a buoyed spot where the sweepers believed they had missed some."

"The greatest menace now," said Lieutenant Commander Benson, of the international mine destroying committee, "is the unswept German area. Until that field has been cleared there will be many drifting mines about. Afterward there will be some danger, nonmill operatives of the same age, their hazard from tuberculosis being 100 per cent and from all nontuberculous causes of death, 20 per cent greater than the hazard of all other persons. As to workroom hazard it appears that the spinning and weave rooms are the two workrooms showing the greatest peril for male workers, the death rates, both of single and married men, from all causes being greater than the corresponding rates of nonmill operatives. For both single and married females the spinning room is the room of greatest peril, a fact which is important because the spinning room females are a youthful group, 70 per cent being under 25.

Within industrial groups tuberculosis is by far the commonest single cause of death, the tuberculous deaths being 45 per cent of the total deaths, both of male and of female operatives aged 15 to 44.

but it will rapidly diminish as the elements destroy the effectiveness of the mines." He said the committee accounted for mines on the basis that five per cent explode when laid, five per cent are defective, ten per cent soon become useless through leakage and fifty per cent of the total number laid are destroyed by the different systems of sweeping employed by the British and Americans.

Committee members believe that a great many of the other thirty per cent will be carried by the natural northward currents of the North Sea into Arctic ice packs and destroyed; others will go ashore on the Norwegian coast, as have many already; a great number will become harmless through remaining in the water and a certain number will be destroyed by patrols which the British navy still is maintaining.

Also the British navy has just arrived all merchantmen, except those calling at Irish ports, with rifles, with which to destroy any mines sighted.

THE KITCHEN CABINET. THE DELICIOUS PRUNE.

By example and not by precept. By doing and not by professing. There is no contagion equal to the contagion of life. Whatever we sow, that shall we also reap, and each thing sown produces of its kind.—Ralph Waldo Trine.

The reason prunes have such a burden of disrepute to bear, is largely of account of the careless manner, in years past, that the average cook has served them. Now while they are coming up in price, they are better appreciated. The long soaking and slow cooking which our modern methods of cookery advocate, has proven that such treatment brings out the flavor and sweetness of the fruit.

Prune Whip Parfait.—Take one-half cupful of stewed prunes, stoned and mashed, one-half cupful of raisins seeded and simmered in water to soften, pinch of salt, eight marshmallows, cut up in half a cupful of cream and steamed in a double boiler until soft, then beaten until smooth. Into the marshmallow mixture whip the other ingredients and set the dish on ice to chill. When ready to serve, heap in small sherbet cups, pour over thick cream and sprinkle with pecan meats broken in bits.

Prune Patties.—Take a half cupful of stewed, stoned and mashed prunes, one egg yolk, add a pinch of salt, a bit of nutmeg, sugar to taste, a teaspoonful of flour and a half cupful of sweet milk. Mix and pour into pastry lined party tins. Bake until a light brown; then spread the tops with a meringue, using the white of egg beaten stiff with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Brown.

Prune Roll.—Take one tablespoonful of grapefruit juice, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of flour, two-thirds of a cupful of mashed prunes, one-third of a cupful of seeded raisins. Cover the raisins with half a cupful of water and simmer half an hour. To the prunes add the sugar and fruit juice, a pinch of salt and the flour mixed with a little cold water. Put in the raisins and cook the mixture until it thickens—about three minutes. Spread on biscuit dough that has been rolled very thin, fold and press the edges together and bake. Serve with cream.

SEASONABLE DISHES. Think as well as you can of everyone who is trying in these hard times to do his duty—to be brave, cheerful and useful. Let us not be among those "who wait their tongue like a sword and bend their bows to shoot their arrows, even bitter words." Kindness helps where criticism cannot.

A good baked apple is a welcome dish at any meal. The manner of serving it may be varied so that it never becomes commonplace.

Apples Stuffed With Nuts and Raisins.—Core five apples, being sure to remove all of the core. Take off the paring from half the apple. Put half a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of water into a saucepan; into this set the apples to cook, turning often until each apple is tender. Set them carefully into a baking pan. Fill the centers with one-third of a cupful each of raisins and nuts chopped fine; add a little granulated sugar, and bake in a moderate oven until well glazed. Serve with the syrup poured around them.

Vegetable Chowder.—Take two thin slices of fat salt pork; cut into dice and fry until brown. In a saucepan cover a half-dozen sliced potatoes with boiling, salted water, and when nearly done add the pork and one can of corn, the water in which the potatoes were cooked and milk enough to make the desired amount of chowder. If it seems too thin, thicken slightly with crumbled crackers. Serve hot with crackers.

Buttermilk Bread.—Take one and one-fourth pints of fresh sweet buttermilk, one tablespoonful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half of a compressed yeast cake, with flour enough to make a stiff batter. Scald half a pint of sifted flour with the buttermilk, stir well and add sugar and salt. Dissolve the yeast in a little tepid water, and when the batter is lukewarm add the yeast. Beat well and set to rise in a warm place overnight. In the morning it should be very light and covered with bubbles of air, which break when the cover is removed. To the batter add six pints of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of fat and half a teaspoonful of soda; add water to form a smooth, stiff dough. Knead fifteen minutes, then set to rise in a temperature of 70 degrees. Cover closely. When light mold into loaves. Set to rise again, and bake as carefully as if it were cake.

Prune Cake.—Take two eggs, one-half cupful of sweet milk, one-half cupful of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one-fourth cupful of butter, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a dash of salt and a half teaspoonful of lemon or vanilla extract. Mix as usual and pour half the batter in a cake pan. Cover with a layer of prune pulp, then pour over the rest of the batter. Bake in a moderate oven.

Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Boy's Exploit Remarkable.
 A twenty-four hours' battle with death ended at San Francisco with the arrival of the little schooner S. N. Castle, a thirteen-year-old boy at her helm, bringing to safety his father, the captain, his sick mother, and a crew of three men.
 The Castle, a three-masted schooner, was 94 days from Apla with a cargo of copra. Three days from the Siam port the Castle started leaking and shipping seas at the rate of twelve feet a day. The donkey engine was started to run the pumps and the cargo of copra fed as fuel.
 Harry Anderson, 13, manned the ship while his father worked with the men at the pumps.

 Twenty-five gold lode mines were operated in Alaska in 1918, according to the United States geological survey, department of the Interior. There was also a production of seven prospects—abandoned mines or small mines that were not in regular operation. The value of the gold lode output decreased from $4,581,453 in 1917 to $3,473,317 in 1918, owing partly to the disaster at the Trendwell mine in April, 1917, and partly to curtailment of operations, especially in the Juneau district, because of shortage of labor.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

"FOLLOW THE LEADER"
 Now is the time to make preparations to beautify your home grounds and buildings. Make arrangements for trees, flowers and shrubs, clean up your yard and the street in front of your home or business house.

Col. R. R. Richardson has already set out 75 cottonwoods, 40 alders, 20 mulberries, 20 umbrella trees, 30 black walnuts and 10 junipers.

Think what a beautiful town Patagonia would be if every man and woman would do half as much as Colonel Richardson.

Fill the mud holes in front of your place of business or home and note the result after the next heavy rainfall.

There is an unsightly hole beside the Patagonia Lumber Company's building that is filled with rubbish and water. What a difference it would make if that place were filled with dirt and a building or residence erected there.

If we all do a little in the way of improvement and cleaning up it will not be long before we will have a "spotless town."

THE AIRPLANE LANDING

What has become of the movement to petition the army for an airplane landing at Patagonia? Some time ago a few "boosters" in Patagonia signed a subscription list to defray the expense of an airplane landing here, provided the army would place Patagonia on the list as a station. A landing place here is not out of the question, and the advertising the town would receive in consequence is of no small concern to us. Let the Chamber of Commerce get behind this movement and it may be successfully carried out.

FOR IDLE HANDS

While the weather is agreeable is a good time for those that are unemployed to take a sharp axe and ramble out into the timber and work up a little wood for their fireplace or stove. There will be many days of cold weather before steady warm weather comes, and you'll need wood for comfort.
 H. H. McCutchan, we are sure, will be glad to haul in the wood for half of the cut product, which would be a reasonable bargain for you.

Aside from the comfort you will get from the firewood, the exercise will keep your muscles in trim for the job that is not far off if you are willing and ready to work.

HERALD'S EDITOR HONORED

Mr. W. T. Haley, editor of the Nogales Herald, was elected secretary of the Nogales Chamber of Commerce at its meeting Thursday night. Mr. Haley is a thoroughly competent man for the position to which he was elected, and the Patagonian congratulates Mr. Haley and the Chamber of Commerce as well.

Anti-Aircraft Fire Control.

The army officer assigned to the anti-aircraft artillery has hitherto been regarded by his comrades of the line as a mathematical prodigy, with head full of figures, formulas, and mystic symbols. Now appears a mechanical apparatus prepared to do most of his calculating for him, says the Popular Mechanics magazine in an illustrated article. Over a terrain board hangs an object which is moved in exact correspondence with the flight of the hostile aircraft. From this object cords stretch down to positions of friendly batteries and searchlights. Here the cords wind on registering drums to show the range in yards from each station to the target. Similarly, at each gun or searchlight station is a vertical quadrant, permitting the angle of elevation to be read at a glance.

Enormous Demand for Furs.

Siberian furs are almost entirely shipped in the raw state. Very few furs are sent abroad, the exceptions being Tibetan lamb, mullin (plucked goat skin), and a few other varieties. The great demand for furs in all countries and the keen competition in the trade has sent up the prices of raw furs to figures unheard of a few years ago. Sables have enormously increased in value, due to the short supply and the closure of the Russian sable markets.

Port of Shanghai.

The port of Shanghai does perhaps 40 per cent of the entire foreign trade of China, and of the total imports of Shanghai for the year 1918, the United States furnished about 10 per cent. Chinese industries which are prosperous are cotton spinning, shipbuilding and flour milling. Railway projects command attention.

HER LIFE FOR HER PUPPIES

Airedale Never Hesitated When Called Upon to Make the Supreme Sacrifice to Duty.

Again a mother has given her life for her young. This time the setting is the San Francisco waterfront, down where whistles scream, hoists squeal and rattle, engines chug and there is a mechanical ensemble of industrial noises the long day through. The principals are dogs—a wiry-haired Airedale mother and her four puppies.

A scow was home to the canine family. One day a swell overturned the basket in which the pups lay, and overboard they went. There was no human aid near. But the mother leaped to the rescue of her drowning offspring. One by one she brought the little pups to safety. But before she could reach the last one it drowned.

Men found her on deck, still holding the body of the dead puppy, and with the three others scrambling and whining around her. The mother was too exhausted to move. They sent for a physician, but when he arrived the rescued pups were orphans.

To the burden of her own six pups, an Irish setter who lives aboard the same scow, has added the care of three foster children, the orphans of the Airedale mother.

Japanese Geisha Girl Meant Well, But American Traveling Man Remained Hungry.

Baron Rempel Kondo, president of the Japan Mail Steamship company, said at a dinner that he gave recently in New York:

"The Japanese are a very clean people. I know an American traveler who will testify to this.

"The traveler, half famished, made his way one day into a teahouse in a remote Japanese village. The geisha girl ushered him into a spotless, airy room, and brought him a cup of unsweetened tea. As he could speak no Japanese, he tried to explain by signs that he wanted a full meal, but the girl, though she smiled politely, failed to understand.

"So the traveler thought he would resort to another means. He took out his notebook and pencil, drew a fish and an egg, and handed the drawing to the geisha. This time she laughed delightedly, clapping her hands and ran from the room.

"The traveler was pleased. He waited contentedly for his meal. Five or ten minutes passed. Then the door opened, and two attendants staggered in with a portable bath, brimful of hot water, and a cake of soap."

Startled Even New York.

Mrs. Carl Lamb, of Philadelphia, wife of Lieutenant Carl Lamb, U. S. N., recently startled New York by walking down Fifth avenue with a rag doll about twelve inches tall tied to her arm by a silken cord of about the same length—not a pretty doll at all. "Just cute," Mrs. Lamb said herself. "Of course, he's got a name," she said. "He's Patsy Dooley. His brother, Thomas Squeelix, is in Philadelphia with my sister. I have no intention of starting a Fifth avenue fad. I made Patsy to take to China and keep me company when I go there within a few months."

Strike Oil in Morocco.

Important petroleum developments are expected from the French districts of Morocco where one small well, located at Dgeel, is producing three tons of oil a day. Twelve more wells are being drilled. Government committees supervising supplies of gasoline for France are considering leasing the petroleum springs at Pchelbrown, Alsace, a short distance north-west of Strasbourg. Exemption of petroleum from import duty is contemplated, and many important industries are transforming their furnaces so that oil may be burned instead of coal.

Chinese Masons Celebrated.

A sea lion, a fusillade of crackers, a banquet, and the raising of the Chinese flag, indicated to the Victorian town of Echna that a branch of the Chinese Masonic society had been formed. Chinese from all parts of Victoria attended the ceremony and the mayor and councillors of Echna were guests. The Chinese master of ceremonies was interviewed by returned soldiers who objected to the flying of the Chinese flag alone. Australian and British flags were at once hoisted to the top of the flagpole.

Soldiers Left Books Behind.

Mystery surrounds the "dumps" of books which are said to be lying in various camps in France, awaiting disposal.

At one camp 400,000 volumes are said to have accumulated, and there are reported to be still larger collections at other camps.

Inquiries in official quarters and among the organizations which sent out books to the troops during the war have failed to trace the owners of these derelict volumes.

To Develop French Water Power.

A bill for the canalization of the Rhone and the employment of water power was introduced in the French chamber of deputies on August 9. The cost of the scheme is estimated at 2,500,000,000 francs ($482,500,000) and the total power to be obtained will not be less than the equivalent obtained from 5,000,000 tons of coal, or one-fifth of the coal production of France for 1918.

EVENTS THAT MADE HISTORY

Anniversaries of Independence Declaration and Landing of the Pilgrims Are Both Near.

Our country approaches two notable dates in its history.

Philadelphians have already begun to talk about a great international celebration for 1926 to commemorate the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Independence.

But next year comes a still more historic birthday. It will be 300 years next November since the pilgrims landed in America, writes "Girard" in the Philadelphia Press.

People refer constantly to them as the "Pilgrim Fathers," but as Roland Usher, in his book points out, "Fathers" is scarcely a justified title.

Of the 102 persons who came over in the Mayflower, only nine had reached forty years of age. But two of them were fifty.

Thirty-nine were children and there were 19 grownup women, one of whom was unmarried. As there were 25 bachelors on board the Mayflower, that lone maiden probably was never a wallflower.

The three most famous characters,
Bradford, Allen and Miles Standish, were all young fellows, aged respectively thirty-one, twenty-one and thirty-six.

One of the most fatal epidemics on record smote that little colony and in four months 44 of the 102 pilgrims were dead. It was a disease akin to tuberculosis.

TIMBER SUPPLY RUNNING LOW

Government Planning Measures to Protect Supply on Hand and Encourage Future Growth.

A larger program of public acquisition of forests by the federal government, states and municipalities, and protection and perpetuation of forest growths on all privately owned lands which may not be used better for agriculture, is recommended in the annual report of the forester of the depart-

This policy is made necessary, the report said, by the diminishing timber supply. The rate of depletion of the forests is more than twice what is being produced by growth in a form serviceable for purposes other than firewood.

"Already the supplies of all the great Eastern centers of production are approaching exhaustion, with the exception of the South," the report said, "and even there most of the mills have not over ten to fifteen years' supply of virgin timber."

"The Southern pine is being withdrawn from many points as a competitive factor and its place taken by Western timbers. This inevitably results in added freight charges, which the consumer must pay."

The report suggested that the federal government work primarily through state agencies.

New Process for Drying Beets.

By the recently devised new process in sugar making, it is claimed that nearly 70 per cent of the water of beet roots can be extracted on the spot where they are grown. Thus dried, the material keeps indefinitely;
it can be transported to places where fuel is plentiful, even over long distances; and it can be accumulated in stocks sufficient to keep factories running continuously, instead of requiring to be used up in a short season. The same process is suggested for treating fruits and vegetables designed for industrial-alcohol distilleries.

Shoe Mending at Home.

The culling-up of the village bootmaker or "cobbler" has seriously affected domestic convenience in many rural districts.

His importance is suddenly recognized, and his loss has, in several isolated midland hamlets, given a remarkable stimulus to shoe-mending at home.

Technical classes in soiling, heel-ing and patching have been arranged, and country women are rapidly acquiring the art of cobbling. Lady Petre declares that it should be as natural to do this at home as to darn stockings.
—London Chronicle.

Making Play Pay.

A Bay City sociologist urges all fathers to learn to play games of unke-believe with their children, whatever the expenses of energy or time, saying it will in the end prove well worth while, and we can fully agree with this because of the excellent results we have already obtained pretending we are the sleeping child when Santa Claus comes, or the black bear that has hopped up for the winter when the Indian comes hunting for him.—Detroit News.

Australia's Search for Oil.

While thoroughly testing Papua and German Guinea, with British assistance, for oil wells, Australia is also looking within her own borders. The prime minister, Mr. Hughes, has announced that the federal government will pay a bonus of $5,000 for the discovery of commercial oil in the commonwealth. Probably the discovery of oil in payable quantities in Great Britain has encouraged the Dominion government.

PIECES OF EIGHT

By Richard Le Gallienne

Being the Authentic Narrative of a Treasure Discovered in the Bahama Islands in the Year 1903. Now First Given to the Public.

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Company.

TO THE SHARKS!

Synopsis.—The man who tells this story—call him the hero, for short—is visiting his friend, John Saunders, British official in Nassau, Bahama Islands. Charlie Webster, a local merchant, completes the trio of friends. Conversation turning upon buried treasure, Saunders produces a written document purporting to be the death-bed statement of Henry P. Tobias, a successful pirate, made by him in 1824. It gives two spots where two millions and a half of treasure were buried by him and his companions. The conversation of the three friends is overheard by a pock-marked stranger. The document disappears. Saunders, however, has a copy. The hero, determined to seek the buried treasure, chartered the auxiliary schooner Maggie Darling. The pock-marked man is taken on as a passenger for Spanish Wells. Negro Tom catches and secures a "mucking fish" as a mascot for the hero; it has the virtue of keeping off the ghost of the pirate who always guards pirate treasure. On the voyage somebody empties the gasoline tank and the hero starts things. He and the passenger clash. He lands the passenger, who leaves a manifesto bearing the signature, "Henry P. Tobias, Jr." With a new crew, the Maggie Darling sails and is passed by another schooner, the Susan B. The hero lands on Dead Man's Shoals.

"I can't afford to give you that, Theodore."

"I'd die for dat," he declared.

"Take this handkerchief instead," but, meanwhile, my eyes were open. "Take this instead, Theodore," I suggested.

"I'd die for dat," he repeated, touching the tie.

His voice and touch made me sick and afraid; just as people in a lunatic asylum make one afraid.

"Look out!" murmured Tom at my elbow.

And just then I noticed hiding in some bushes of seven-year apple trees, two faces I had good reason to know.

I had barely time to pull out the commandant's revolver from my pocket. I knew it was to be either the pockmarked genius or the engineer. But for the moment I was not to be sure which one I had hit. For, as my gun went off, something heavy came down on my head, and for the time I was shut off from whatever else was going on.

"Which did I hit, Tom?" were my first words as I came back to the glory of the world; but I didn't say them for a long time, and from what Tom told me, it was a wonder I ever said them at all.

"There he is, sar," said Tom, pointing to a long, dark figure stretched out near by. "I'm afraid he's not the man you were looking for."

"Poor fellow!" I said; it was George, the engineer; "I'm sorry—but I saw the muzzles of their guns sticking out of the bush there. It was they or me."

"That no lie, sar, and if it hadn't been for that suckin' fish's skin you wouldn't be here now."

"It didn't save me from a pretty good one on the head, Tom, did it?"

"No, sar, but that was just it—if it hadn't been for that knock on the head, pulling you down just that minute, that that pockmarked fellow would have got you. As it was, he grazed your cheek and got one of his own men killed by mistake—the very fellow that hit you. There he is—over there."

"And who's that other, Tom?" I asked, pointing to another dark figure a few yards away.

"That's the captain, sar."

"The captain? Oh, I'm sorry for that. God knows I'm sorry for that."

"Yes, sar, he was one of the finest gentlemen I ever knowed was Captain Tomlinson; a brave man and a good navigator. And he'd taken a powerful fancy to you, for when you got that crack on the head he picked up your gun and began blaving away, with words I should never have expected from a religious man. The others, except our special friend—"

"Let's call him Tobias from now on, Tom," I interposed.

"Well, him, sar, kept his nerve, but the others ran for the boats as if the devil was after them; but the captain's gun was quicker, and only four of them got to the Susan B. The other two fell on their faces, as if something had tripped them up, in a couple of feet of water. But just then Tobias hit the captain in the heart; ah! if only he had one of those skins—but he always laughed off such things as superstitious."

"There was only me and Tobias then, and the dog, for the engineer boy had gone on his knees to the Susan B. fellows at the first crack, and begged them to take him away with them. There was no one left but Tobias and the dog and me, and I was sure my end was not far off, for I was never much of a shot."

"As God is my witness, sar, I was ready to die, and there was a moment when I thought that the time had come; but Tobias suddenly walked away to the top of the bluff and called out to the Susan B. that was just running up her sails. At his word they put out a boat for him, and while he waited he came down the hill toward me and the dog, that stood growling over you; and for sure I thought it was the end. But he said: "Tell that fellow there that I'm not going to kill a defenseless man. He might have killed me once but he didn't. It's bound to be one of us, some day or other, but, despite me all he likes—I'm not such a carrion as he thinks me; and if he only likes to keep out of my way I'm willing to keep out of his. Tell him when he wakes up that as long as he gives up going after what belongs to me—for it was my grandfather's—he is safe, but the minute he sets his foot on hand on what is mine, it's either his life or mine." And then he turned away and was rowed to the Susan B. and they soon sailed away."

"With the black flag at the peak, I suppose, Tom," said I. "Well, that was a fine speech, quite a flight of oratory, and I'm sure I'm obliged to him for the life that's still worth having, in spite of this ungodly aching in my head. But how about the poor captain there! Where does all his eloquence come in there? He can't call it self-defense. They were waiting ready to murder us, as you say. I'm afraid the captain and the law between them are all that is necessary to cook the goose of our friend Henry P. Tobias, Jr., without any help from me, though, as the captain died for me, I should prefer they allowed me to make it a personal matter."

"It's the beginning of the price," said Tom.

"The beginning of the price?"

"It's the dead hand," continued Tom; "I told you, you'll remember, that wherever treasure is there's a ghost of a dead man keeping guard and waiting till another dead man comes along to take up sentry duty so to say. The ghost is getting busy. And it makes me think that we're coming pretty near to the treasure, or we wouldn't have had all this happen. Mark me, the treasure's near by—or the ghost wouldn't be so malicious."

And then, looking around where the captain and the engineer and Silly Theodore lay, I said:

"The first thing we've got to do is to bury these poor fellows; but where," I added, "are the other two that fell in the water?"

"Oh," said Tom, "a couple of sharks got them just before you woke up."

CHAPTER VII.

In Which Tom and I Attend Several Funerals.

When Tom and I came to look over the ground with a view to finding a burial place for the dead I realized with grim emphasis the truth of Charlie Webster's remarks—in those snuggery nights that seemed so remote and far away—on the nature of the soil which would have to be gone over in quest of my treasure. No wonder he had spoken of dynamite.

"Why, Tom," I said, "there isn't a wheelbarrow load of real soil in a square mile. We couldn't dig a grave for a dog in stuff like this," and, as I spoke, the pewterlike rock under my feet clanked and echoed with a metallic sound.

"Come along, Tom, I can't stand any more of this. We'll have to leave our funerals till tomorrow, and get aboard for the night"—for the Maggie Darling was still floating there serenely, as though men and their violence had no existence on the planet.

"We'd better cover them up against the turkey buzzards," said Tom, two of those unsavory birds rising in the air as we returned to the shore. We did this as well as we were able with rocks and the wreckage of an old boat strewn on the beach.

I don't think two men were ever so glad of the morning, driving before it the haunted night. After breakfast our first thought was naturally to the sad and disagreeable business before us.

"I tell you what I've been thinking, sar," said Tom, as we roved ashore, and I managed to pull down a turkey buzzard that rose at our approach—happily our coverings had proved fairly effective—"I've been thinking that the only one of the three that really matters is the captain, and we can find sufficient soil for him in one of those big holes."

"How about the others?"

"Well, to tell the truth, I was thinking that sharks are good enough for them."

"They deserve no better, Tom, and I think we may as well get rid of them first."

So it was done as we said, and carrying them by the feet and shoulders to the edge of the bluff—George, and Silly Theodore, and the nameless giant who had knocked me down so opportunely—we skillfully flung them in, and they glided off with scarce a splash.

Then we turned to the poor captain and carried him as gently as we could over the rough ground to the biggest of the banana holes, as the natives call them, and there we were able to dig him a fairly respectable grave.

Tom and Sailor and I were now, to the best of our belief, alone on the island, and a lonesome spot it would be hard to imagine, or one touched at certain hours with a fairer beauty—a beauty wraithlike and, like a sea shell, haunted with the marvel of the sea.

First we went over our stores, and, thanks to those poor dead mouths that did not need to be reckoned with any more, we had plenty of everything to last us for at least a month, not to speak of fishing, at which Tom was an expert.

When, however, we turned to our plans for the treasure hunting we soon came to a dead stop. The indications given by Tobias seemed, in the face of such a terrain, naive to a degree. Possibly the land had changed since his day. Some little, of course, it must have done. Tom and I went over Tobias' directions again and the there was the compass carved on the rock, and the cross. There was something definite—something which, if it was ever there at all, was there still—for in that climate the weather leaves things unperished almost as in Egypt.

Sitting on the highest bluff we could find, Tom and I looked around.

"That compass is somewhere among these infernal rocks—if it ever was carved there at all—that's one thing certain, Tom; but look at the rocks!"

Over twenty miles of rocks north and south, and from two to six from east to west. A more hopeless job the mind of man could not conceive. Tom shook his head, and scratched his graying wool.

"I go most by the ghost, sar," he said. "All these men had never been killed if the ghost hadn't been somewhere near. Mark me, if we find the treasure it'll be by the ghost."

"That's all very well," I laughed. "But how are we going to get the ghost to show his hand? He's got such bloodthirsty ways with him."

"They always have, sar," said Tom, no doubt with some ancestral shudder of voodoo worship in his blood. "Yes, sar, they always cry out for blood. It's all they've got to live on. They drink it like you and me drink coffee or rum. It's terrible to hear them in the night."

"Well, Tom," I remarked, "you may be right, but of one thing I'm certain; if the ghost's going to get any one, it shouldn't be you."

"We've both got one good chance against them"—Tom was beginning.

"Don't tell me again about that old sucking fish."

"Mind you keep it safe, for all that," said Tom gravely. "I wouldn't lose mine for a thousand pounds."

"Well, all right, but let's forget the damned old ghosts for the present."

We decided to try a plan that was really no plan at all; that is to say, to seek more or less at random, till we consumed all our stores except just enough to take us home. Meanwhile we would, each of us, every day, cut a sort of radiating swathe, working single-handed, from the cove entrance. Thus we would prospect as much of the country as possible in a sort of fan, both of us keeping our eyes open for a compass carved on a rock. In this way we might hope to cover no inconsiderable stretch of the country in the three weeks, and, moreover, the country most likely to give some results, as being that lying in a semicircle from the little harbor where the ships would have lain. It wasn't much of a plan perhaps, but it seemed the most possible among the impossibles.

Harder work than we had undertaken no men have ever set their hands to. It would have broken the back of the most able-bodied navy; and when we reached the boat at sunset we had scarce strength left to eat our supper and roll into our bunks. A machete is a heavy weapon that needs no little skill in handling with economy of force, and Tom, who had been brought up to it, was, in spite of his years, a better practitioner than I.

I have already hinted at the kind of devil's underbrush we had to cut our way through, but no words can do justice to the almost intelligent stubbornness with which those weird growths opposed us. It really seemed as though they were inspired by a diabolic will, vegetable incarnation of evil strength and fury and cunning.

Day after day Tom and I returned home dead beat, with hardly a fired word to exchange with each other.

We had now been at it for about a fortnight, and I loved the old chap more every day for the grit and courage with which he supported our tedious labors and kept up his spirits. Once or twice we had made fancied discoveries which we called off the other to see, and once or twice we had tried some blasting on rocks that seemed to suggest mysterious tunnelings into the earth. But it had all proved a vain thing and a weariness of the flesh. And the ghost of John P. Tobias still kept his secret.

CHAPTER VIII.

An Unfinished Game of Cards.

One evening as I returned to the ship unusually worn out and disheartened I asked Tom how the stores were holding out. He answered cheerfully that they would last another week and leave us enough to get home.

"Well, shall we stick out the other week or not, Tom? I don't want to kill you, and I confess I'm nearly all in myself."

"May as well stick it out, sar, now we've gone so far. Then we'll have done all we can, and there's a certain satisfaction in doing that, sar."

So next morning we went at it again, and the next, and the next again, and then on the fourth day, when our week was drawing to its close, something at last happened to change the grim monotony of our days.

It was shortly after the lunch hour. Tom and I, who were now working too far apart to hear each other's halloos, had fired our revolvers once or twice to show that all was right with us. But, for no reason I can give, I suddenly got a feeling that all was not right with the old man, so I fired my revolver and gave him time for a reply. But there was no answer. Again I fired. Still no answer. I was on the point of firing again when I heard something coming through the brush behind me. It was Sailor racing toward me over the jagged rocks. Evidently there was something wrong.

"Something wrong with old Tom, Sailor?" I asked, as though he could answer me. And indeed he did answer me as plainly as dog could do, wagging his tail and whining and turning to go back with me in the direction whence he had come.

"Off we go, then, old chap," and as he ran ahead, I followed him as fast as I could.

It took me the best part of an hour to get to where Tom had been working. Sailor brushed his way ahead, pushing through the scrub with canine impudence. Presently, at the top of a slight elevation, I came among the bushes to a softer spot where the soil had given way, and saw that it was the mouth of a shaft like a wide chimney flue, the earth of which had evidently fallen in. Here Sailor stopped and whined, pawing the earth, and at the same time I heard a moaning underneth.

"Is that you, Tom?" I called. Thank God, the old chap was not dead at all events.

"Thank the Lord, it's you, sar," he cried. "I'm all right, but I've had a bad fall—and I can't seem able to move."

"Hold on and keep up your heart—I'll be with you in a minute," I called down to him.

They Glided Off With Scarce a Splash.

Cure for Rheumatism.

A certain variety of seaweed, known in Ireland as "rope," has been recommended by a famous physician as a cure for rheumatism and throat affections if eaten hot, whilst in some parts of England and Wales a variety of seaweed, known as "laver," has been in demand for years as a vegetable. Served with roast meats it is said to be extremely palatable.

Critic Coins New Word.

Tired of the hackneyed phrase, a "gripping" story, originated by some weary critic and eagerly snatched up by book advertisers, it has remained for a Boston dramatic critic to discover a new term. He has found a play that is "riveting" in its intensity of interest.

Was Going Down-Hill

Mrs. Bergman's Friends Were Worried, but Doan's Brought Remarkable Recovery From Kidney Complaint.

"I couldn't sit down without putting a pillow behind my back," says Mrs. Oie Bergman, 320 Pennsylvania St., Gary, Ind. "When I bent over it felt as though somebody had stuck a knife right into my back and I would often fall to the floor. The kidney secretions made me get up four and five times a night. There would be only a small amount, which would burn so that I would almost scream. Before long my body bloated and my feet were so swollen that I couldn't wear my shoes. My skin looked shiny and when I pressed it down it left a dent. I had chills and fever. Sometimes I would sweat so that I could faintly write the water out of my clothes. Everybody said I was going down-hill fast. In two months I lost fifteen pounds and was discouraged. By the time I had finished three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was entirely cured and I have enjoyed the best of health ever since."

Mayflower Is to Sail This Year

New One Will Cross Atlantic in the England-Holland-United States Celebration.

SHIP'S 300TH ANNIVERSARY

Plans Announced for Celebration in Honor of Pilgrim Fathers—Main American Events Will Be in Boston and Plymouth.

New York.—The three hundredth anniversary of the Pilgrim Fathers, tentative plans of which have just been announced here, will include celebrations in England, Holland and the United States, and will continue from May to December, 1920.

A four-day program in Leyden, Amsterdam and Rotterdam, whence the Pilgrims sailed three centuries ago to the American wilderness, where they might find "freedom to worship God," will start on August 30, when committees from the United States and England will be received at the University of Leyden.

Scholars Will Deliver Addresses. Addresses commemorative of the occasion will be delivered by scholars from the three countries, including the rector of the university, Dr. Hendel Harris of Manchester, England; Viscount Bryce, and a famous American who has not yet been designated.

The next day, August 31, the birthday of the queen of the Netherlands, will include, besides a congress in the town hall, a religious memorial service in the Pieterskerk, in which Rev. John Robinson, who led the separatists from the Church of England (the Pilgrims) to Holland in 1609, was buried.

One of the features of the holiday at Amsterdam, September 1, will be a meeting in the Rijksmuseum, the unveiling of a memorial window in the Bagijnkerk and a reception. The next day there will be an aquatic pageant in Rotterdam, the visitors traveling in the morning from Leyden to Delftshaven if possible by boat along the way the Pilgrims went.

Then there will be trips to the re-

Nevertheless he persevered and added the last touches to his work on the anniversary of the armistice.

Austin, Tex.—The most remarkable Indian paintings or photographs in the Southwest have been offered to state or national authorities, provided the cliffs upon which they are drawn are enclosed in a park and adequately guarded, according to J. E. Pearce, associate professor of anthropology of the University of Texas.

These paintings, which are owned by E. D. Sims of Paint Rock are located along the banks of the Concho river near Paint Rock, upon every available surface for a half-mile. They are in deep red, with an occasional black figure or character.

All phases of the early tribes are represented, Mr. Pearce declares, and so much valuable historical material is included in these paintings that Mr. Pearce will have them copied in single parts of the Smithsonian Institution, for which he is doing research work.

From August 4 to September 20 there will be ceremonies in Cambridge, London, Southampton and other places.

Soap Bubbles Kept Intact Whole Year

Scientific Society Gives Information on Sir James Dewar's Test.

ALWAYS MYSTERY TO SCIENCE

When Bubble Becomes Very Old It Offers Only Possible Example of the Molecule Visible to the Naked Eye.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Facts about the prodigious strength of soap bubbles, proved by experiments in which bubbles were kept intact for more than a year and subjected to all sorts of weight strains, were made public here for the first time by the Franklin Institute, one of the oldest scientific societies in the United States.

Important to Chemists. Coming on the heels of the announcement of Einstein's discoveries of the gravitational bending of light, the exploitation of the soap bubble is on the other end of the scale as to size, yet, according to scientists, is of tremendous importance to chemists, physicists and research workers in the strength of materials and essential elements. The man who made the experiment is universally recognized as one of the leading scientists in the world. He is Sir James Dewar, LL. D., D. Sc.

Old Letter Settles Case.

Wilmington, Del.—An age-worn, tattered letter and three words in the codicil of Jesse Chandler settled a long-pending case in the court of chancery recently when Chancellor Curtis issued an order that Samuel M. Harvey of West Chester, Pa., be paid $14,500 from the estate. Harvey's wife, one of the 38 legatees he was suing, lost the suit, but will have a half share in the money awarded. Harvey had agreed with Jesse Chandler to buy 168 acres of farmland in Christiansburg for $20,000. When Chandler died before the deal was completed he stipulated in his will that the farm should be sold for that amount to Harvey. Meanwhile the farm had been sold for $34,500, and while the legatees contended that the entire amount should be divided, Harvey claimed that only $20,000, or his agreed purchase price, should be divided. The court upheld his contention.

BIRDS SHOW INCREASE

Beneficial Effects of Migratory Act Being Felt.

Waterfowl Have Been Breeding Rapidly Under Protection, the Bureau Declares.

Washington.—The beneficial effects of the migratory bird treaty act are beginning to be felt. The United States department of agriculture, through its bureau of biological survey, has conducted investigations of the breeding areas of ducks in North Dakota and Nebraska. Compared with former years, a gratifying increase of breeding waterfowl, particularly in North Dakota, is evident. The fifth annual series of counts of birds of all species breeding on selected areas in various parts of the United States contained a large proportion of reports showing increases in bird population. The total culminating in the sailing of the new Mayflower, which will carry the returning American committee and British delegations who are to participate in the program on this side of the Atlantic.

Main events of the American celebration will be in Plymouth, Mass., and Boston, where historical pageants will be held, followed by a big reception in New York. Vice President Marshall is honorary chairman of the committee having the local program in charge.

The foreign visitors will then be taken on a tour of the United States. On November 24, 1920, there will be a universal observance of Thanksgiving day in England, Holland and the United States.

68,000 GIRLS MISSING IN YEAR

That United States Record Leads Travelers' Aid Society to Take Action.

New York.—Approximately 68,000 girls have disappeared or run away from their homes in the United States during the last year, according to a statement issued by the Travelers' Aid society.

A special meeting of the society has been called to devise plans to meet demands made by the great increase in runaways and helpless travelers. The meeting will be attended by officials of the transatlantic lines and representatives of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish social agencies.

Old Oliver Onken Realizes He Is the Captive, and Not the Victorious Capturer.

"My son-in-law, Luther Struckey, doesn't amount to anything at all, and yet, paradoxical as it sounds, he is a howling success in his chosen specialty," related old Oliver Onken. "He sings a squealing tenor; he can sweat the motion all right, and will be as useful as anybody else to count on when the chubbers breaks out. He might possibly do well managing a small farm. In short, he has never really accomplished anything except to work me so deeply that he is able to keep better dressed than I can afford to, and by that means maintain a higher standing in the community than I enjoy. Just how he manages it I do not exactly understand, but somehow he keeps right on putting it over me. I cannot kill him, and he will not leave. When he broke into the family I thought I was getting a son-in-law, but now it looks painfully like my son-in-law has got me."—Kansas City Star.

Musical Vamping.

Manager—I like your voice, Miss Gargle, but I can't understand your actions at the beginning of your song. New Soubret—My actions? "Yes; the business with your eyes and shoulders, I can see no excuse in the song for that." "It is in the music." "In the music?" "Yes. Right here after the introduction it says 'vamp till ready.'"—Youngstown Telegram.

Grasping Landlady Sentenced.

Budapest, Hungary.—Dr. Charlotte Saeszl, a physician, has been sentenced to two months' imprisonment because she refused to rent an apartment to a tenant unless he would buy her furniture for 100,000 crowns (monthly $20,000). The action of the court is in line with the effort to provide housing for the over-congested city.

MOTOR BOAT REAL CHURCH

Gospel Ship on Puget Sound of Great Comfort to People in Remote Regions.

Of the 19 counties of western Washington 18 are accessible to seagoing vessels, according to Agnes Lockhart Hughes, in Everybody's. Hence the Robert G. Seymour, a floating church, operated on Puget sound by Rev. Wilbert R. Howell and his wife.

During the four years that the Robert G. Seymour has been in operation it has traveled on an average of 3,000 miles a year, carrying religion to island county and up Hood canal. It regularly visits 11 ports and as many logging camps, bringing religion to those who cannot seek it. The boat is gone often for a month at a time, and often has weathered some of the roughest gales ever experienced on the sound. Not infrequently, after a sermon delivered aboard the gospel ship, or on shore, some woman will come forward with a question on her lips regarding what lies near her heart relative to the latest style in dresses or hats, and always an answer is forthcoming—for the good pilot never omits to include fashion books among his hymnals.

One woman acknowledged that a sermon preached recently by the captain of the Gospel boat was the first she had heard in a dozen years. She was the mother of nine children and had had no opportunity previously of hearing a church service.

MADE OVER FOR BOOKLOVERS

New York Has Substitute for Saloon, Where Literature and Soft Drinks Are Sold.

A new idea in the way of a substitute for the saloon is to be tried out in the Booklovers' tavern, recently opened in New York, the Philadelphia Inquirer states. This is simply a place with the familiar bar and brass rail, where soft drinks and literature are to be dispensed together. Thus the mental exhilaration to be derived from the latest novel will satisfy those accustomed to the cocktail and give ginger ale or ice cream soda a fillip it has not hitherto had.

The Booklovers' tavern may draw book purchasers, though its superiority to the ordinary bookshop is not apparent. But can it be expected that thirsts will be assuaged in this way? And will those who seek inebriation between covers be able to pay the price? A Kipling highball or a Wells fizz at $1.75 is considerably more than the purchasers of alcoholic beverages have been charged under wartime prohibition.

It is obvious, too, that the kind of literature dispensed over the bar will have to be very carefully guarded. Many of our poets were a roistering lot, who did not hesitate to celebrate the charms of the Demon Rum.

Aviators' Qualifications.

In England airmen were apt to be ardent hunters of the fox and to have what horsemen call "hands"—a quality which as aviators enabled them to know instinctively, as it were, what an airplane was going to do before it did it. And, what will be shocking to some folk, to keep the aviator in best condition for his work and for enduring its terrible stresses, he scoured, according to these authorities, to need "a really riotous" evening at least once or twice a month. The older men were found to use alcohol freely, but the younger ones required no such stimulants, and they all avoided excess, being well aware that for them the penalty was sudden death. Marriage deteriorated the aviator by increasing his sense of personal responsibility for others. Courage he had, of course, and a touch of recklessness is not undesirable from the standpoint of achievement in war—Exchange.

Machinery in Japan.

Japan's rapid industrial progress during the past five years is nowhere more conspicuous than in the development of the machinery trade. Japan imported in 1914 machinery to a value of somewhat more than $12,000,000; in 1918 more than $29,000,000. In 1914 the United States furnished 29 per cent of the total imports of machinery; in 1918 80 per cent. Japan's exports of machinery, chiefly to far eastern countries, have increased from $234,000 in 1914 to approximately $7,800,000 in 1918. Exports include electrical machinery, spinning and weaving machinery, lathes and printing machinery.

The Lucky Cuss.

"Unfortunate man!" we said, as we stood by the bedside and drew our head still further down in the collar of our overcoat, after the manner of a turtle retreating in his shell. "You have our profoundest sympathy in your affliction, and—"

"Sympathy—the dikeens!" chorried the invalid. "Why, dodgast it, when everybody else is shuddering and shivering with the cold I have a raging fever and am as warm and comfortable as if it were the good old summer time. Hi-lo! hi-lee!"—Kansas City Star.

French Coal Mining.

French coal miners, replying to the suggestion that they work more than eight hours a day declare that the only remedy is the improvement of mining machinery on American lines. They state that an American miner by using mechanical devices can dig out thirty tons of coal a week, while the French miner can get out but a tenth of this amount.

IGLOO HOME SUITS ESKIMO

Stefansson Declares Substitution of Concrete Huts Would Bring Death to the Natives.

The movements to modernize the Eskimo by providing him with concrete huts in place of his picturesque snow igloos, as suggested by an official of the United States bureau of fisheries, would be the death of the denizens of the icy North. In the opinion of Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Arctic explorer. Not only is the Eskimo devoted to his age-long habitation, as the South sea Islanders are to their traditional path of flower garlands and fresh smiles, but he is far healthier, warmer and more comfortable in his domed mansion of snow blocks than he could be in any modern house of concrete.

The statement that the natives of the Pribilof Islands were about to discard their snow huts for modern concrete huts, finding the gates of the Bering sea too strong for the former, upon which the story of the intended change of Eskimo habits was based, Mr. Stefansson characterized as too silly for discussion. The explorer, talking at his headquarters at the National Geographical society building at New York, said that the Pribilof Islanders had never lived in snow huts, but in wooden huts, and that farther north, where the natives do live in snow houses, it would be next to impossible to convert them to any other dwelling.

"Their igloo serves as a home for two or three weeks," he said. "Then they build a new one. Because it is new it is clean and sanitary. It is as warm and comfortable as your library. A candle gives as much illumination as three electric lights, because of the intense whiteness of the snow. The snowhouse will stand under any conditions. In all, the igloo is as comfortable a home as a man could wish."

FOUND MILLIONS FOR OTHERS

Men Who Discovered the Famous Comstock Lode Profited Little by Their Great Luck.

The famous Comstock lode, greatest of silver deposits, was discovered in 1859 by three prospectors, Pete O'Riley, Pat McLaughlin, and "Old Pancake" Comstock, while washing gravel for gold. They were in hard luck. Needing water for their rockers, they dug a hole four feet deep and came upon a bed of sulphide of silver. Not knowing what it was they tried it for gold, with highly satisfactory results, though cursing the "infernal blue sand" that clogged their primitive apparatus.

The blue sand was an outcropping of the wonderful lode, one vein of which, 300 feet wide, came afterward to be known as the "Big Bonanza," yielding ore that was nearly half silver. From this source were derived the multimillions of Mackay, Flood, O'Brien and Fair—the last-named being a young mining engineer, while the other three were everyday miners. The discoverers sold out for small sums. "Old Pancake" blew out his brains; O'Riley went insane and McLaughlin died a poor man.

World to Be His Parish.

A Scottish parson, Rev. D. A. G. Mair, is giving up a comfortable parsonage, and, like John Wesley and St. Francis, is going to make the world his parish. In other words, he intends to become an itinerant preacher, wandering up and down Scotland. In the winter he will take up quarters in one of the poverty-stricken parts of Glasgow, where he hopes to spend his time in study and ministering to the wants of people in his neighborhood. He has no private means. "It is God's work," he says, "and I rely on God's promises."

"One of the experiments in the Gospel that we have never tried is that of evangelical poverty as a holy vocation."

Wants Trees With History.

If you know where there is a tree with a history, the American Forestry association, at Washington, D. C., wants a report on it with a picture for its hall of fame. The association is anxious to find trees with a history, rather than trees whose only claim to fame is their size. The Dumont Kennedy Elm, at Crawfordsville, Ind., is reported as being larger than the elm at Huntington, which has held first place as to size for some time. The Wye Mills oak, near Eastern, Md., is credited with being 51½ feet in circumference.

Dancing Craze Affects Scotland.

The dancing craze has reached such proportions, even in sober Scotland, that it came up before the Inverness magistrates. Bailie Petrie, who favored restriction before, said he would not now oppose dancing to four o'clock in the morning, because after considering the question, he considered the evils which he had in view were not the direct outcome of those dances. Bailie MacAllen moved that dancing be restricted to two o'clock, but it was agreed that it should be permitted until four o'clock.

Wireless in China.

Construction of the first wireless stations in China—one to be erected at Urga in Mongolia; a second at Urumchi, 1,150 miles southwest of the Mongolian capital; the third at Kashgar, in western Turkestan—awaits only the arrival of materials. It is reported, the stations are expected to give day and night service to a minimum distance of 1,000 miles.
