GREAT MAN FIRST "DUNCE"
 Term Has Come Down to Us in the Present Day in a Somewhat Roundabout Manner.

If you should ever be called a "dunce," don't feel insulted. Just show your superiority by springing this interesting bit of information. He who made the term famous was a great man. He was considered one of the most learned doctors of the early church and of the Franciscan order. His name was Duns Scotus, and though he was dunce by name he was not by nature, as he was renowned for his sharpness and keenness. The present significance of the word "dunce," derived from the name "Duns," is the result of ancient theological disputes.

Away back in the Middle Ages the churchmen who had been educated in the schools founded by Charlemagne were considered the savants of their age and were respected for their great learning. The time soon came, however, when these theologians were no longer regarded as authorities and when their writings became unpopular because of the ponderous and scholarly style in which they were expressed. Among such theologians, called "schoolmen," Duns Scotus was a prominent representative and leader. Consequently when a follower of his expounded theories or quoted from the works of the "schoolmen," he was told, "O, you are a Duns," which implied, "Old stuff, my boy, entirely too dull to be modern." Hence we have the word "dunce," meaning dull, heavy, dense.

ARE ATTRACTED BY "MOVIES"
 Fierce Tribe of South America Drought Into Subjection Through Magic of White Man.

During the three centuries after the conquest of Peru, Spanish missionaries penetrated all parts of South America, but were never able to gain headway among the wild tribes of what is known as the Gran Chaco, or northern Argentina and western Paraguay, an exchange explains.

These tribes, belonging to what is known as the Chaco-Guaycuru family of Indians, were described by the early Spaniards as ferocious and irreconcilable, with an intense hatred of the white man. They were restless nomads, who lived by hunting and fishing. Only within the last twenty years have they allowed the white man to advance his settlements and then only because of fear of the Argentine army. One sugar plantation and mill employs over 2,000 of these Indians. But they still keep to themselves and persist in their own customs. They live apart in "toldos," or reed huts; dye and tattoo their skins and adhere to their ancient ceremonies. They have formed a great liking for the American moving pictures, however. At one plantation a moving picture show is provided at the Indian village every Saturday night, and, although they understand neither English nor Spanish, the Indians squat on the ground and follow the actors with many grunts in their guttural language. The American cowboy actors are their favorites.

Cleopatra's Pearl.
 Everyone knows the story which is told of Cleopatra to illustrate her luxurious habits of living—namely, that she dissolved in her wine a precious pearl. No one seems to have questioned what must have been the effect upon the drink, but one scientist, at least, questions pointedly the possibility of such a solution.

Do we not all believe that the magnificent Cleopatra, regardless of expense, dissolved in her wine cup a pearl of great price, as if it had been a lump of sugar? Is not the "fact" familiar to every one? Yet, if you test it, you will find the fact to be that pearls are not soluble in wine. The most powerful vinegar attacks but very slowly and never entirely dissolves them, for the organic matter remains behind, in the shape of a spongy mass larger than the original pearl.

THRIFT WON HER HUSBAND
 Legend Tells of Reward That Came to French Girl Through Her Cheese-Paring.

While the expression "cheese-paring" is a recognized equivalent for thrift or economy in the management of household affairs, it is apparent the moment we dissect the term that the saving effected by the paring of a cheese depends entirely upon the manner in which the operation is conducted. If one removes the rind of the cheese carelessly, waste instead of economy results.

According to a French legend, there was a man who was in love with three sisters at the same time. He could not make up his mind which of them he ought to marry. The ability to be a thrifty housewife being the principal requisite of a wife at that time, the man decided to watch the three carefully, and in order to make a test presented each of them with a large cheese.

"HOSPITAL" FOR SICK FISHES
 Where Members of the Finny Tribe Are Successfully Treated for Minor Ailments.

At Kremnitz, in Hungary, there exists a model aquarium, to which a hospital for the fish has been added. Some of the fish are treated in groups, while others, more afflicted, get their treatment in individual vats.

In this way was treated a salmon suffering from gangrene, and also an unfortunate pike of 18 pounds, on whose fins enormous wens had been found.

A phlegmatic breem has been freed of a goiter, the origin of which was attributed to the bad quality of water in which he had lived in his youth.

The best operation performed by the fish doctors was unquestionably that upon the air-bladder of a giddy tench. This is not an asperion aimed at this tench. The proof is that it had wanted to leap higher than it was able to and thus made extreme efforts, damaged its air-bladder and incurred danger of death. It needed only a cut with the bistoury to give this little madcap back his health and good humor.—New York Tribune.

WHERE SPONGES ARE FOUND
 Chief Source of Highly Important Article of Commerce Is the Islands of the Mediterranean.

Few people who use sponges ever give a thought as to how they are obtained, says a correspondent in the London Daily Mail. The finest qualities and largest quantities of our sponges come from the Mediterranean—the chief grounds being off the Greek and Turkish islands—thence through the Dardanelles to the Sea of Marmora, and so along the coast of Asiatic Turkey and Syria to Cyprus.

Here the sponges are brought up by divers, either stripped or attired in full diving costume. When sponges first reach the surface they present a fleshy-looking appearance, the substance being covered with a firm skin, or membrane, in which apertures appear and disappear seemingly at the animal's will. When cut, the interior is somewhat like raw meat in appearance, being intersected by numerous canals and cavities. The cavities are filled with a sticky fluid of greyish-brown color, termed "milk."

This is the only living portion of the animal, and must needs be removed immediately; otherwise putrefaction speedily sets in and destroys the elastic nature of the sponge. If this operation is not performed on board before the vessel reaches shore, the filled sponge bags are dispatched with all speed to the gathering grounds. There the fluid is removed and various cleaning and bleaching processes transform the "raw" sponge into a beautiful lemon-yellow color.

This done, the sponges pass to other hands for trimming to shape, and later they go to the graders, who sort them according to quality and size. The next process is that of drying, after which they are weighed and packed ready for shipment.

Each Man Allowed Four Wives.
 Servants are so inexpensive in Java that even a person in moderate circumstances can afford at least six. Europeans living in India and Java find the luxury of many servants difficult to give up when they go home, and very often stay in the East for that very reason.

According to the religion of Java, which is Mohammedan, a man is allowed four wives. But the H. C. L. has even reached Java, and the number of wives has, on that account, been cut down to a great degree.

If a nobleman marries beneath him he does not bother to go to the ceremony, but very kindly sends his sword or his hat to represent him.

GOT IN BAD WITH PIPKINS

No Question That Observation, Really Innocent, Was Not in the Best Possible Taste.

"I don't often say mean things," said Dingbert as he studied the piece of apple pie and wondered which was the best point of attack, "but I surely said something mean yesterday. And I said it to my best friend, too."

"How come?" asked his companion, who had a cup of cider that he could be tackled from any angle.

"Well, you know Pipkins? I have known him nearly all my life. He has always had the faculty of making money—not millions, of course, but more than I ever had. Several times he has helped me when I needed it, and right now if I had to have some money I could get it from Pipkins. And I would get a lecture with it, too. Not ill-tempered, but a bit of good advice, for Pipkins likes to feel that he is managing my affairs."

"Well, yesterday I said to him: 'Pipkins, you have made a lot of money—more than I ever expect to have. From a financial point of view I am a good deal of a failure. But I have been married 30 years, my wife still flatters me goodly when I come down town and she sees me turn the corner if I go home on my usual train. As a husband, I regard myself as an excellent success.'"

"I don't see anything mean about that."

"No? Well, Pipkins' first wife eloped with a cheap actor, his second wife divorced him, and he and his present wife have most of their communications by mail or telephone."

FOOD VALUE OF NUTS LARGE

According to Writer in English Magazine, There Can Be No Better Article of Diet.

Nut crackers are not considered a necessary equipment of the ordinary household dining table. The dietary value of nuts not being fully recognized, this implement is rarely required nowadays.

Yet there is no better form of diet than nuts, declares a writer in London Answers. The family fable which consigns them to the catalogue of the indigestible is "an unaccountable thing saying." A child's taste, however, is often the best criterion of a food's value, and all children love nuts, even as do monkeys.

We should consume nuts all the year round, either raw, a certain quantity daily, chewing them methodically.

If children had as free access to the nut crop as have monkeys they would be fewer digestive weaklings. This applies to grownups as well.

If nuts disagree, even with the most delicate, it is because they are partaken of at the wrong time. When consumed between meals they are almost certain to disagree, as they will also if eaten after a heavy meal of other food or insufficiently masticated.

The proper time to eat nuts is fast at the beginning of meals. They fill the stomach with a spongy mass of fat which will not be squashed by the nuts stored in this important food.

In cold weather they are invaluable, assisting greatly in maintaining the bodily heat. Nothing, therefore, can compare with them as a morning diet for children and a small succulent will not be too large a supply.

DAMAGE DONE TO COLISEUM

English Writer Criticizes Action of the Authorities in Removing Ivy from the Walls.

For many centuries down to February 1, 1872, there was a solemn procession from the Church of San Clemente to the Coliseum in Rome, carrying the relics of Saint Ignatius, the disciple of St. John and companion of Polycarp, around the scene where on that date he had been devoured by lions as the first of the martyrs of the Coliseum. The spot where shortly after his death 115 Christians were shot down by arrows was marked, until 1872, by a cross which was then destroyed.

"The dealings of the authorities with that ancient monument have been neither merciful nor tender," says an article in Cornhill (London). "Nature has clothed its ruined walls with an exquisite veil of greenery; a flora so marvellous and interesting that books had been written on its 400 varieties, a few of which were so rare that their seeds are supposed to have come in ancient days in the cages of wild beasts from tropical countries. They have all been scraped away, the walls are bare, and more damage has been done to them by dragging out the roots of the shrubs than might have happened naturally in the course of centuries."

IDOL VENERATED IN INDIA

Thousands Take Part in Annual Pilgrimage to the Shrine of the Famous Juggernaut.

The "Car of Juggernaut" is the car which the idol, Juggernaut, or Jagannath, rides in triumph procession in India when the festivals of Jagannath are celebrated. Jagannath is another name for the Indian god Krishna (supposed to be the eighth incarnation of Vishnu), and it also is the name of the idol in a temple at Puri in Orissa on the Bay of Bengal, a temple dedicated to Krishna, a wooden image with a red body, black face, and its eyes sparkling with gems—this idol in its rich robes presents a very striking appearance.

Jagannath is throned between his sister Subhadra and his brother Balam, one black and the other white. At the times of the festivals of Jagannath the idol is placed on a great cart bearing 10 wheels, drawn by some of the people who crowd from all parts of India in pilgrimage to this shrine. Sometimes as many as a hundred thousand are there. It was stated that in former days many of the pilgrims threw themselves under the wheels of the "Car of Juggernaut," immolating themselves in the belief that they would thus be transported direct to heaven.

WEDDING STOOD FOR PLEDGE

In Ancient Times It Was Not a Marriage, as That Term Is Understood Today.

"Wedding" is now synonymous with "marrying," but this is a comparatively late development. Originally the two words stood for distinct things. "Marrying" meant marrying as the term is now used, but "wedding" meant a mere pledging which held for a year, after which the couple would agree to continue the trial marriage longer or separate and find other partners.

Under the Danish influence in England "wedding" became so common that an archbishop felt compelled to condemn it. Other churches were not so strict. The custom, observes Alice Arayton Greenwood in the opening volume of her "History of the People of England," was rife in the north, where even a bishop allowed his daughter to wed in this manner. This daughter had three husbands, to each of whom she brought as dowry six staves which her father had bestowed upon her, but which had really belonged to his cathedral church and not to him. Eventually, she estates went to her son and became hereditary. Things had a way of becoming hereditary in those days; there was even hereditary parish clergy.

GERMS KILLED BY SUNLIGHT

In That Way Water Is Kept Comparatively Free From Infection That Would Spread Disease.

There are few more wonderful sights in the world than a winding river shining in the sunlight. But our interest in such a scene may be greatly heightened by the reflection that the sunbeams are not merely beautifying the water; they are engaged in a curious work of the utmost importance to man's welfare. Scientific investigation has proved that sunlight possesses a wonderful power to kill injurious germs in river water.

Where a river is polluted by sewage, millions and millions of dangerous bacteria flourish in its water and are carried along with it to spread disease and death around its banks unless their development is arrested. If the sun does not shine upon such a river it may become a peril to whole communities. But if the sunlight does reach it freely, the germs are destroyed and the water is kept comparatively free from infection.

Signal for Bucket Brigade.

Visitors in Philadelphia are often puzzled as to the significance of the small metal plaques that appear on the fronts of many old houses, observes the New York Evening Post. They ponder over the insignia, wondering whether these curiosities are the marks of some old craft. But the plaque that bears a tree does not represent the family tree of some old Quaker line, nor does the one which sports an object that looks like a thorn with a hose attachment signify that the old red brick structure was once a dairy. They are the marks of old insurance companies. They date back to the days when each insurance company had its own bucket brigade for the protection of its policy holders. When the house caught fire it must be saved, if saved it was by the company which had branded the structure as being under its protection.

First Jews in Virginia.

Jews first settled in the South in Richmond, Va., more than 130 years ago. In 1791 the first synagogue was established there. In the same year the members purchased a plot of land as a burial ground to be used for the Jewish residents of Richmond, and Jews were buried there until 1816.

For a long time the congregation prospered. But in 1840 a change occurred in the fortunes of the synagogue. It was in that year that a large influx of German Jews came to America. They worshiped according to the German ritual. A number of its members left the original synagogue to establish another congregation. The then new congregation, Beth Ahaba, is still in existence. The name of the original congregation was Beth Shalom.

Lantern for New Year.

As the new year sweeps round the world from the one hundred and eightieth meridian of longitude, it gets a bright if silent welcome from the little village of Weldon, near Kettering, in Northamptonshire. There on the tower of the parish church stands a lantern 15 feet high. Erected about 200 years ago, the lantern was lighted on winter nights to guide travelers through the dark forest of Rockingham. The railway and improved roads have abolished the forest dangers, and now the lantern is lighted only once a year, on New Year's eve, to welcome in the New Year.

The following definitions of being educated were given by three little school boys:

"Bein' educated is bein' so you kin read de signs and know w'ch way to turn."
"Bein' educated is bein' so you know how to give and to take."
"Bein' educated is bein' so that you can do the thing that ought to be done, when it ought to be done, whether you want to or not."

The Popular Pathway to Economical Buying
Habit is a great master of our lives. We do many things thru force of habit and not because it is the right thing to do. When we ask ourselves why we did this or that, we do not know.
One of the most detrimental outcomes of habit is that of spending money continuously at one place without giving even a passing thought to the possibility that the same or better thing might be bought elsewhere for less money.
Habit often cheats us in this way. Money is lost.
Get the habit of making comparisons of merchandise—of materials, of quality, of workmanship—and, then, of the price.

SCHOOL NOTES.
The attendance has improved the last week. The fifth grade and the grammar grades are having perfect days once more.
A special meeting of the Parent-Teacher's Association was held Thursday evening at 4 o'clock at the school house to consider plans for a study sale and for ordering a picture for the principal's room.
Second grade pupils are making clocks and the third grade pupils are at work on Japanese posters.
Pupils of grades six, seven, eight and nine were given a general intelligence test Tuesday morning. The test used was one prepared by Dr. Monroe and Dr. Buckingham in connection with their educational research work at the University of Illinois. The results of the test will be tabulated and filed and used as a basis for promotion and classification of pupils at the end of the term. The same test will be given in grades four and five and the Kingsbury Group Intelligence Test will be given to pupils in the primary grades.
The pupils were interested last Wednesday in hearing "The Clean Story" on a phonograph loaned by V. L. McCutchan. This record is sent out free of charge to schools by the Colgate Company as part of their educational work along lines of oral hygiene.
First grade pupils are making booklets of birds, which they have colored.
Beth Fortune, Nellie Young, Ralph Pattison, Reuben Guerra, Concepcion Gequin and Elizabeth Miller have passed card number 13 of the Curtis Practice Arithmetic Tests.
Regular church services were held March 19. Text, Philippines, 4:8: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."
The sermon was a helpful one in every way, we should all hear them.
The play solo, given by Mrs. Evans, was enjoyed by all present.
Come and join us next Sunday.
