USES ARIZONA PRODUCTS AND SAVES MONEY

That it pays to give Arizona products a trial has been proved to the satisfaction of a farmer in Pima county who recently found he could have saved money in past seasons by looking around for a home product. This particular farmer encountered serious trouble in disposing of his peach crop when he ran short of crates. A University of Arizona agricultural extension service man saved the day by obtaining the needed crates from a box factory in a neighboring county. And the farmer found, to his surprise, that the crates cost him no more than the freight he had been paying on crates from California. Needless to say, he'll buy in Arizona and save money hereafter.

Moral—If you need something see if you can't find an Arizona product before you place your order. You'll probably save money and help your state at the same time.

NOGALES ROAD BEING REPAIRED

The road between Patagonia and Nogales is being repaired by James Parker Jr. and a force of men. The work so far completed is very much of an improvement over the condition of the road prior to commencement of the work. The people of Patagonia and vicinity are pleased with the work done on the hills and turns and many compliments are being paid to Mr. Parker and his men. It is hoped the board of supervisors will see their way clear to complete the repaving of the road, as it is now in bad condition in many places.

SCHOOL NOTES.

School opened Monday with an enrollment of 89. It is expected that the attendance will increase next week. At present there are 15 children in the first room, taught by Mrs. Kimble; 16 in the second grade, taught by Mrs. Portner; 29 in the third and fourth grades, taught by Miss Purcell; 28 in the fifth and sixth grades, taught by Miss Slater, and 12 in the grammar room.

Tuesday the plumbers finished installing the heating plant, except for the radiators, which have not arrived. The radiators will be placed later, and they and the pipes will be given a coat of paint.

The library is enriched by over 100 volumes, which were purchased this summer. In the list of books are included some titles of fiction, biography, classic books for children, a new set of geographical readers, a book on western birds, a book on western flowers, and collections of famous historic tales.

It is planned this year to organize a sewing club of the upper grade girls, with Mrs. Fortune as leader. The girls will do simple sewing assignments at home under the supervision of their leader, and meet once a week for criticism and encouragement. The work is in connection with the extension work of the University of Arizona, as represented by Miss Bentley, after the girls may exhibit their work during Farm and Home week, in January, at Tucson.

The children in the different grades will have two music periods a week under the direction of Mrs. Kimble.

ARIZONA'S ONE BIG WEEK WILL BE AT PHOENIX OCT. 30-NOV. 4

With the opening of new headquarters for the Arizona State Fair, preparations are in full swing for Arizona's one big week, which is scheduled this year for October 30 to November 4.

The new headquarters is located at the office of George A. Mank, chairman of the state fair commission, in the Columbia theater building, Phoenix. Here clerks are found busy at work mailing out thousands of program lists to all parts of the state, while others are engaged in typing replies to scores of inquiries concerning exhibits and attractions. Special conferences are held between department heads and fair officials.

Out at the fair grounds carpenters and masons are engaged in the task of enlarging and improving the exhibit accommodations. New buildings are going up. Others are being remodeled, while men, teams and scrapers, tractors and graders are busy putting the half-mile track in condition. The state fair track holds the reputation of being the fastest dirt track on the continent, and the commission is determined that this reputation shall be sustained.

Due to the fact that there was no fair last year, an extra heavy attendance is anticipated for this year, and preparations to that end are being made, and the management gives assurance that the coming exposition of Arizona's resources will prove no disappointment in any particular.

The state fair is always looked upon as a sort of reunion occasion on which friends and relatives, long separated, may have a chance to meet and mingle, talk over old times and future prospects. It is this desire of an annual get-together for Arizonians that has helped to make the Arizona state fair the popular institution it has always been.

KINLLEY JOHNSON, SON OF A FORMER PATAGONIAN, KILLED AUTO WRECK IN TEXAS

Under date of September 7, a report reached Patagonia from El Paso, Texas, announcing the death of Kingsley Johnson, 11, son of Walter Johnson, a former resident of Patagonia and former partner in business of A. S. Henderson. Miss Marie Davidson, also was killed.

The deaths were caused by the failure of the auto in which they were riding to cross the T. & P. railroad track ahead of a passenger train, the engine striking the car, killing young Johnson instantly and injuring Miss Davidson so severely that her death followed within a few minutes after the accident. Miss Dorothy Johnson, the third occupant of the car, will recover. She was badly cut about the head and body, but her condition is not thought serious, says the report.

Miss Johnson is said to have been driving the car, which stalled on the track as the passenger train came rushing along. The car, which was owned by the parents of the Johnson children, was dragged about 35 feet and virtually demolished.

CHURCH NOTICE

There was regular Sunday school and church services last Sunday, with slightly better attendance. Won't you be present next Sunday?

Sunday school lesson: "Teaching the law of God."—Leviticus, 8:1, 3, 5, 8, 12. The golden text: "Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes, and I shall keep it unto the end."—Psalm 119:33.

Do we fully appreciate God's laws as we should? Nothing spitts a people so quickly as a study of the Bible.

A Sunday school is the most wonderful institution in the world. Do we attend and support it in this community as we should?

No man nor woman could do more to support the Sunday school and church, for out of this work flows the highest type of character and best citizenship. May we ask a deeper reverence for the word of God.

The preaching service opened with a song: "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," followed by prayer.

A dot rendered by Rev. and Mrs. Eorman was enjoyed very much by all present. The music alone is worth your attention.

Lesson: Second chapter of James; text, same chapter, 26th verse: "For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also." We are rewarded by our works. What will we receive, brethren, on our judgment day? Won't you come next Sunday? We meet at the school house.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Government Gets Sweeping Injunction Restraining the Striking Shopmen.

THREAT OF GENERAL STRIKE

Senate Passes the Bonus Bill With Two Important Amendments—Senator Johnson Renominated by California Republicans—Germany Gets Six Months' Respite.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD TAKING organized labor, and the general public, entirely by surprise, the United States government last Friday obtained from Federal Judge J. H. Wilkerson in Chicago a temporary injunction which, if fully enforced, will make it impossible for the railway shopmen to carry on their strike. Such is the view of it taken by the union leaders, who, while protesting bitterly, pledge compliance with at least a part of the order.

The injunction, obtained by Attorney General Daugherty in person, prohibits leaders of the striking shopmen and of other unions from: Issuing any instruction or public statement to members of their organizations to induce them to do or say anything to cause any railway employee to leave his work or to cause any person to abstain from entering employment of a railroad.

Using funds of unions in furtherance of any act forbidden in injunction. All officers and members of unions or their agents are restrained from: Engaging in picketing.

In any manner, by letters, circulars, telegrams, telephone messages, by word of mouth or by interviews, encouraging any person to leave the employ of a railroad or to refrain from entering such employ.

Interfering with or obstructing any railway. Hindering inspection, repair or equipment of locomotives or cars.

Conspiring or agreeing to hinder railroads in the transportation of passengers, property and mails.

Interfering with employees going to or returning from work, "by displays of force or numbers, threats, intimidations, acts of violence, opprobrious epithets, jeers, taunts, or entreaties."

Loitering at or near places of ingress and egress for employees.

Trespassing on the premises of any railroad, or any other place except "where the public generally are invited to come to transact business."

Doing any injury or bodily harm to any employee of a railroad.

On September 11 Judge Wilkerson will hear arguments on the motion to make the injunction permanent. Two days earlier the executive council of the American Federation of Labor will hold a previously arranged meeting in Washington, and, according to President Gompers, it will consider the advisability of calling a general strike of organized labor. Gompers denounced the injunction as "most outrageous" and more than intimated that its provisions would be ignored by labor leaders. He said a general strike would have to be endorsed by the various units which make up the federation, and added that there was already a widespread demand for such action.

President Harding, according to authoritative information from Washington, while admitting the injunction is the most sweeping ever obtained in the United States, has expressed a determination to go yet further, if necessary, to maintain transportation, and is prepared to accept any consequences, political or economic, which may result from the government's action. He feels that he is thus protecting the rights of the public, but organized labor says he has aligned the government on the side of the railway executives.

The executive council of the railway employees' department of the A. F. of L. issued a statement to the effect that enforcement of the injunction against lawlessness and violence in the shop strike would be aided in every way by the shop crafts organization. It added this:

"The officials of these organizations have done everything possible since the beginning of the strike to maintain a peaceful suspension of work. Considering the difficulty of preserving perfect order in any group of 400,000 men engaged in a struggle for a decent livelihood, it must be admitted that the strike has been a remarkable demonstration of the law-abiding character of the workers involved."

This is not borne out by the facts. So far as the public knows, the unions have done little or nothing to check the sabotage and murderous attacks perpetrated by the lawless elements in their organizations. Reports of dynamiting of bridges and homes, of cowardly assaults on workers and of other acts of violence are so numerous that they can only be mentioned thus in the aggregate.

For several days the train service of the Chicago and Alton road was tied up by strikes of trainmen, and the company sought escape from its difficulties by going into the hands of a receiver. It was predicted many other roads might seek the same way out.

PREDICTIONS that the public would have to pay for actual and imaginary losses due to the coal strike are already being fulfilled. The operators and dealers, many of whom must be classed among the conscienceless profiteers, are raising prices of fuel, despite the efforts of public officials, the threats of congressional action and the protests of the miners that the mine owners have suffered little, if any, loss because of the stoppage of production.

In some sections of the country the fuel shortage already is becoming acute. In others there is plenty of coal. The railroads, it is asserted, are not able to supply enough cars, but that is always the case as winter approaches, which is one of the results of the wretched lack of organization of the coal industry.

The coal famine is especially threatening in New York and the Atlantic coast region generally, because the anthracite strike has not yet been settled. But at this writing there is a fair chance that the hard coal miners will soon be back at work. Senators Pepper and Reed of Pennsylvania drew up proposals for resumption of work, and the plan was submitted to the operators and the miners' scale committee at separate meetings.

AFTER three days debate the house passed the administration's emergency fuel bill by a vote of 214 to 61. It gives the interstate commerce commission power to control prices of coal by the use of priorities and embargoes and also gives legal status to the office of federal fuel distributor. The act ceases to be in effect on January 1, 1924, and the operation of the powers granted by it may be suspended by the President whenever he determines the present emergency has passed, and he revokes it by a later emergency act. The senate resumed consideration of the Borah coal commission bill.

E. F. GRABLE, representing the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railroad Shop Laborers, last week petitioned the railway labor board to establish a new wage scale for railway workers and in doing so to recognize the principle of a "living wage." The board refused to do this, the majority holding that a "just and reasonable wage," as conceived by the board, is a "living wage." Thereupon Mr. Grable wired Chairman Cummins of the senate interstate commerce committee, asking that the transportation laws be so amended as to insure railroad employees a minimum "living wage."

THE soldiers' bonus bill was passed by the senate Thursday by a vote of 47 to 22. Twenty-seven senators were paired or absent. Of these it is said 15 would have voted for the measure, which would give a total of 62 for the bonus in case of a veto—two short of the necessary two-thirds vote to override adverse action by the President.

Before passing the bill the senate on Wednesday adopted two very important amendments. The first, which was offered by McNary of Oregon, Republican, provides for the appropriation of $350,000,000 for the reclamation of arid and swamp lands to provide farms for the arrival here of the coast guard cutter Bear from Point Barrow.

Captain Amundsen told the correspondent of the Associated Press that the start had been delayed by unfavorable ice conditions and that the season was too far advanced to permit chances for success. Captain Amundsen landed his plane and equipment at Wainwright, 100 miles southwest of Point Barrow, and will make that point the base for his flight.

Radio advices from Captain Amundsen's exploration ship, Maud, indicate the vessel is frozen in the ice near Wrangel island, off the northeastern Siberian coast. This fits in with the reports of the explorer, who expected the ship to start somewhere near Wrangel island on the long drift with the Arctic ice pack across the north polar basin.

The explorer expects to rejoin the Maud by airplane some time next year after the completion of his transpolar flight. Ice conditions off the northern Alaskan coast are the worst in many years.

ex-service men. The second, by Simmons of North Carolina, Democrat, provides that the interest on the foreign debt shall be used to pay the bonus. Both of these amendments will make more difficult the task of adjustment between the house and senate bills, and for this reason they were supported by many senators who are avowedly opposed to the bonus.

The Simmons amendment is directly contrary to the wishes of the administration as expressed often by President Harding and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Probably the bill will get out of conference as speedily as possible, as the congressmen who support it wish to reap the political benefits in the fall campaign, but the feeling in Washington at this time is that President Harding is likely to veto the measure.

CALIFORNIA'S primary election attracted the interest of the country last week. Senator Hiram Johnson won his fight for renomination, defeating C. C. Moore; all the incumbent congressmen were renominated; State Treasurer F. W. Richardson beat Gov. W. D. Stephens for the Republican gubernatorial nomination; District Attorney T. L. Woolwine was nominated for governor by the Democrats. He is somewhat "wet" while Richardson is decidedly "dry."

AUSTRIA, bankrupt and in every way distressed, has become a bone of serious contention between Italy and the little entente. Plans for an economic union between Italy and Austria, which might result later in the virtual absorption of the latter, have been put forward, and are said to have the approval of Great Britain and France. The scheme would relieve Austria's most pressing needs and give her an outlet to the Adriatic, and would satisfy the growing Italian sentiment for expansion. But Jugoslavia, Italy's rival for control of the Adriatic, doesn't want Italy strengthened, and furthermore she wants to grab the Austrian district of Klagenfurt. Rumors that Serbian irregulars were about to invade that region stirred up a lot of excitement in European capitals, and Jugoslavia was constrained to deny any intention of invading the district and to promise to restrain the irregulars. The Czechoslovaks were credited with a hankering to seize the northern provinces of Austria in case of dismemberment of the succession republic. Budapest heard that both these little entente nations were planning to send troops through Hungarian territory into Austria, and Count Andrássy, chairman of the Hungarian foreign affairs committee, declared Hungary would resist this, adding that Hungary, though weak, "may prove dangerous in case of such an insult."

If she can arrange with Belgium for suitable guarantees, Germany gets a moratorium for six months on the payments due for the balance of 1922. Out of deference to the French it called a "respite" and the payments are "deferred," but it is no less a moratorium. The reparations commission rejected various plans, including that of Sir John Bradbury, the British member, allowing a moratorium until 1923, and then unanimously adopted a proposal made by the Belgians and Italians jointly. By this Germany is to pay $70,000,000 worth of treasury bonds direct to Belgium, which by previous agreement is to receive all the balance due this year. The bonds have six months to mature and Berlin must satisfy Brussels as to the guarantees for their security. In November there will be another conference to discuss the 1923 schedule payments, but until then the crisis has passed. The Germans were mightily pleased with the result, and it is likely the French also are glad, for they are relieved from the necessity of carrying out their threats of independent action against Germany or of backing down.

SEVERAL great disasters occurred last week. An overloaded Chilean vessel sank near Coquimbo and 316 persons were drowned, only six being saved. The Japanese cruiser Nitaka went down in a typhoon and it was believed the loss of life was heavy. In a gold mine at Jackson, Cal., 47 miners were imprisoned in the lower levels by a fire in levels above them, and at this writing it is believed none of them will be rescued.

Selection of fourteen warehouses under the treasury's program for concentrating the liquor now stored in bonded warehouses into a limited number of warehouses, was announced by Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair. The South End Warehouse Company, San Francisco; the Fresno Warehouse Company, Fresno, Calif.; and the Cook-McFarland Company, Los Angeles, were the warehouses selected.

By a vote of 5 to 3, Senate and House conferees refused to sidetrack the administration tariff bill for the soldiers' bonus measure.

The gold strike reported from the United Verde Extension mine, near Jerome, Ariz., recently, continues to be a topic of interest in the Verde district. The circus man was held on a $5,000 bond on a charge of kidnaping, pending the outcome of the hearing, which is to be resumed shortly.

MRS. LULA VANN FULTON, ARK. Suggests to Suffering Women the Road to Health

Fulton, Arkansas.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a soreness in my side. I would suffer so badly every month from my waist down that I could not be on my feet half the time. I was not able to do my work without help. I saw your Vegetable Compound advertised in a newspaper and gave it a fair trial. Now I am able to do my work and don't even have a backache every month. I cannot praise your Vegetable Compound enough and highly recommend it to those who have troubles like mine. I am willing for these facts to be used as a testimonial to lead all who suffer with female troubles, as I did, to the right road to health."—Mrs. LULA VANN, Box 43, Fulton, Arkansas.

Its this sort of praise of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, given by word of mouth and by letter, one woman to another, that should cause you to consider taking this well-known medicine, if you are troubled with such symptoms as painful periods, weak, nervous feelings, miserable pains in your back, and cannot work at certain times.

He says he has smoked more Edgeworth than any other living man

Let Mr. Baldwin's letter give you the facts, and you will see he has some justification for his claims.

H. F. BALDWIN Signs and Show Cards Club Smokers 66 Clark Street, Cor. Grant Burlington, Vermont

Larus & Brother Company Richmond, Va.

Gentlemen: I think that I am entitled to be called a charter member of the Edgeworth Smokers Club, as I have used the Edgeworth Plug Pipe between twenty and twenty-five years.

When I commenced using it I was selling hardware on the road. One of my customers who kept a general store told me that he had just received a new tobacco and asked that I would try it. He gave me a box for which he charged me 25c. He made a mistake, as it was selling at that time for 25c. I liked it so well that I made it a point to ask for it in every store in the different towns that I made, but few had it. The next time that I called on a store I bought six boxes, which would last until I got around again. I still continued to ask for it in the different towns and tried to induce the dealer to stock it.

In 1906 or 1907 I went to St. Charles and stayed there three years. I was not able to be able to get it there. At that time I was in Haverhill, N. C., and made frequent trips to Savannah, Ga., and Charleston, S. C., and was unable to get it in either of those cities. Finally I ordered some direct from you and also induced a dealer in Haverhill to stock it. I have used it always for over twenty years except occasionally when I could not get it. I figure that I have smoked over 1000 of the 25c boxes, which have cost for the last five years 25c. For at least five years I have not bought a pipe. I have had some given to me, but they do not take the place of the old pipe filled with Edgeworth.

I am sixty-one years of age and still think that it is the best tobacco on the market. I don't think there is a man living who has smoked any more Edgeworth than I. What do you think?

(Signed) H. F. Baldwin

It is always pleasing to hear from old Edgeworth smokers, and we would like to know if this record is the best ever made.

But we are interested, too, in new Edgeworth smokers. We like to know that young men, men who are breaking in their first pipes, find Edgeworth before they get very far in their pipe-smoking careers.

So we have a standing invitation to send free samples of Edgeworth to all who ask for them. If you haven't tried Edgeworth, we have a sample package here containing Plug Slice and Ready-Rubbed that is only waiting for your name and address.

When you write for it, address Larus & Brother Company, 44 South 21st Street, Richmond, Va. If you'll add the name and address of your tobacco dealer, we'd appreciate the courtesy.

To Retail Tobacco Merchants: If your jobber cannot supply you with Edgeworth, Larus & Brother Company will gladly send you prepaid by parcel post a one- or two-dozen carton of any size of Edgeworth Plug Slice or Ready-Rubbed for the same price you would pay the jobber.

Wanted the Cheapest. "How much was those collars?" "Two for a quarter." "How much for run?" "Fifteen cents." "Giff me de odder run."—Yale Rec ord.

UNEQUAL, UNJUST INCOME TAXES

There appears to be a regular and sustained slump in the income tax receipts of the government. It is calculated by experts that the revenues for the calendar year will fall at least 25 per cent below the estimates.

We are becoming a nation of trained tax dodgers, and there are numbers of skilled and experienced men who make a comfortable living by showing business men and corporations how to shave their tax returns. Many of these have been in the service of the government, and are familiar with the ropes. They are well within the law, and no just fault can be found with them. They are simply enabling their clients to take such personal advantage as they may from the weaknesses of the revenue law itself.

More than ever the burden of the income tax is falling upon the middle class and those of modest incomes. The small incomes are exempt and the large ones are being dodged.

The incomes of the wealthy are going into tax-exempt securities and the real purpose of taxation is being lost to view. The principle of an income tax is just, but the method of application is not as sane and practical as it should be. It was established when the world was on a war footing, and it does not readily adjust itself to changed economic conditions.

A man with a million dollars invested in tax-exempt securities pays no taxes on his income. A man with a million dollars invested in an employing industry pays every known form of taxation.

Does this encourage industrial development? Would it not be well to change laws permitting tax-exempt securities, thus equalizing the tax burden so that those most able to pay will be charged with their just share and the man of modest means relieved of an unjust burden?

KILL SUCH TAX MEASURES

Proponents of the Deason "blue sky" bill have again become active, and at a recent meeting of securities commissioners of the midwest states the opinion was freely expressed that the measure would pass the senate and become the law of the land.

The activity of these commissioners masquerading in the guise of investment saviers, proves that the fight is not yet over, and that the sentiment of the west must be marshaled strongly to impress upon these gentlemen the fact that they have gone about far enough in hampering legitimate mining, oil and land development enterprises.

This measure is supposed to prevent fraudulent use of mails for stock selling purposes. We already have laws covering this subject, and the bill in no way prevents or penalizes fraudulent stock selling schemes conducted personally.

If simply makes it harder for legitimate development enterprises to do business, adds a board of new officials and inspectors to the public payroll and increases the general tax burden.

Joseph Pennell says women are less beautiful than formerly. Perhaps he has noticed, also, that green apples don't taste as good as they did in his boyhood.

With prohibition protecting her raisins and the tariff protecting her oranges and lemons, California has little reason to long for the days of '49.

If paint is as effective a preservative as the advertisements say, the present crop of flappers ought to reach a well-preserved old age.

Among other things we don't understand is how a mosquito can get along without any sleep.

Auto thieves have put many a man on his feet.

ORIGIN OF "BULL AND BEAR"

These Common Terms Go Back to the Early History of the British Stock Exchange.

So well established have the terms "bull" and "bear" become that they are defined even in the least colloquial of dictionaries as "one who speculates or wagers upon a rise in stocks" and "one who speculates or wagers on a fall." The commonly accepted explanation of the use of the terms formerly was that the bear claws or pulls the stock down, while the bull tosses it up, at it were, on his horns. But this is really nothing more than a guess, and the real origin of the phrase "bull and bear" is buried somewhere in the early history of the British stock exchange.

Here, says the Detroit News, it appears that the earliest use of the idea was in the proverb about "selling the bearskin before one has caught the bear," which was applied to all transactions on the exchange or elsewhere where there was no immediate transfer of goods, but only a payment to be made at some future time according as the goods had advanced or receded in price.

In "The Anatomy of 'Change Alley,'" published in 1719, occurs the sentence: "Those who buy Exchange Alley bargains are styled buyers of bearskins," and in 1744 the terms appear to have come into common usage, for the London Magazine of that year refers to "bulls and bears," while George Coleman, in his "Man of Business," uses them in precisely the same sense in which they are employed at the present time.

HOW MANY STITCHES IN SUIT?

Some Patient Person Over in England Has Estimated That They Number About 45,000.

There are approximately 45,000 stitches in the average man's suit of clothes, according to an announcement recently made in an English paper by some amazingly patient and observing person, presumably a tailor. This result is reached by the following calculation:

To the average-size pair of trousers, 5,000 stitches are allotted. Of this number about 2,800 are machine made, the rest being made by hand, chiefly in the form of finishing work to the waist, pockets and turn-ups, or "cuffs."

In the vest or waistcoat there are, he declares, roughly, 5,500 stitches. The percentage of handwork is higher in this garment than in the trousers, the lining usually being put in entirely by hand-made stitches, as well as the finishing work. The figures are 3,400 machine, and 2,100 hand stitches.

But it is in the coat that the big totals come. In that garment, he says, there are, on an average, 30,000 stitches. The pockets and the large number of seams account for much machine work, while the lining and finishing entail many hand-made stitches. Of the latter there are more than 8,000 in the average coat. There are also to be taken into consideration the tacking and fitting stitches, which, as above announced, brings the total up to something like a round 45,000.

Maximilian's Beautiful Beard.

Maximilian of Austria, "the pale archduke from overseas," had one of the most nearly perfect beards of all time. It has been much mentioned in poetry, and is recorded as full of gleams and glints. Ruben Dario, in one of his Mexican poems, christened Maximilian el Principe de Barbas-de-Oro—Prince of the Beard of Gold. Victor Hugo should have been called, says the critic, the Bard of the Elegant Beard. Whiskers of authors rather fascinated Dario. He dedicated verses to the famous Spanish novelist, Don Ramon del Valle-Inclan, as "This renowned Don Ramon with the goat's beard distinguished."

William Penn Smoked With Women.

William Penn has a fine record in the history books. Controversy and colonial muck raking has not sullied his name. But William Penn smoked with the women. He smoked with them right out in public. In fact, they took puffs from the same pipe. Twice at least did this happen.

But it was a peace pipe; a Calumet which he smoked with the big chiefs and the braves and the squaws of the tribes that were selling him land. He made a fine trade for a first-class piece of land, paying for it in part with 200 tobacco pipes, 100 hands of tobacco and 20 tobacco boxes.

Had the Laugh on Teacher.

Preliminary to taking the final examination we reviewed the work we had covered during the semester. The teacher called on me to differentiate between "debit" and "credit," and when I was almost through reciting, he said, "Are you reading that?" I said, "Yes, sir, I—." The teacher interposed with, "I thought so. That isn't what I wanted you to do." The class laughed, but I turned the joke on the teacher by completing my sentence with, "I am reading it from memory."—Chicago Journal.

Foresaw the Results of Victory.

Wylie—Aw! You're afraid to fight; that's all it is.
Jack—No, I'm not; but if I fight my man'll find it out and lick me.
"How'll she find it out?"
"She'll see the doctor goin' to your house."—London Answers.

A Sage's Limitations.

"Did you ever study the Darwinian theory?"
"No," replied Senator Sugrum; "I can't see how it would help me in my business. He offers no suggestions that would assist me in flattering the self-esteem of my auditors. Darwin was a smart man, but no politician."

There may be no connection, but the ex-kaiser's book was written in Holland and geographers say: "Holland—a low-lying country."

Making 20 Years of Racing Serve Car Owners Today

IN the early days of automobile contests, Barney Oldfield—out to win every race—studied tires. His consistent success led other drivers to ask for tires constructed to his specifications.

Twenty years of road and track victories—with a steady and increasing demand for tires as he built them—convinced Barney Oldfield that these speed tests pointed the way to a better tire for everyday use.

The enthusiastic reception of Oldfield Cords by the public proved he was right. Scores of the most prominent dealers in the country—and many thousands of car owners, experienced in the use of tires—bear witness by their decided preference that Oldfield is doing a bigger and better job of tire making.

This volume, handled in an effective way in every phase of manufacture and distribution, has resulted in price quotations far below what you'd expect on tires known to be better built and more enduring.

Practically every important race event for three years has been won on Oldfields. The Wichita Test Run in which an entire set of Oldfield Cords covered 34,525 miles on rough roads proves the mettle of the Most Trustworthy Tires Built in everyday driving.

The Master Driver and Tire Builder has given the public a new standard of tire wear and tire cost—a true economy that every car owner should know about.

Your Oldfield dealer has these facts—talk to him.

REAL POETS ARE PROPHETS

They Participate in the Eternal, the Infinite and the One, Says Shelley.

Every original language near to its source is in itself the classic of a cyclic poem; the copiousness of lexicography and the distinctions of grammar are the works of a later age, and are merely the catalogue and the form of the creations of poetry.

But poets, or those who imagine and express this indistinguishable order, are not only the authors of language and of music, of the dance, and architecture, and statuary, and painting; they are the institutors of laws, and the founders of civil society, and the inventors of the arts of life, and the fencers, who draw into a certain propriety with the beautiful and the true, that partial apprehension of the agencies of the livable world which is called religion. . . . Not that I assert poets to be prophets in the gross sense of the world, or that they can foretell the form as surely as they foreknow the spirit of events; such is the pretense of superstition, which would make poetry an attribute of prophecy rather than prophecy an attribute of poetry. A poet participates in the eternal, the infinite, and the one; as far as relates to his own epiphanies, time and place and number are not. The grammatical forms which express the moods of time, and the difference of persons, and the distinction of place, are convertible with respect to the highest poetry without injuring it as poetry; and the choruses of Aeschylus, and the Book of Job, and Dante's Paradise, would afford more than any other writings, examples of this fact, Shelley.

HOW PYGMIES GET BANANAS

Mark Green Bunch With Arrows, Take it When Ripe and Leave Meat in Payment.

The pygmies in Central Africa take up their abode near the village of a big chief where banana plantations abound, from which they may glean when they please. They have two methods of doing this. One is as follows:

A pygmy will mark out a bunch of bananas in a plantation by shooting an arrow into the stalk. The arrow signifies that the pygmy desires that particular bunch when it is sufficiently ripe. The owner of the plantation stands in such fear of the pygmy's vengeance that he never dreams of removing the fruit or the arrow, but leaves both to be claimed by the avenging dwarf.

By the other method, the pygmy buys the bananas, he fixing the price and paying for it in that which his tribe makes currency. On returning home from a day's hunting, with several pieces of meat wrapped in grass or leaves, he goes to a plantation, selects several bunches of bananas, slips up the tree, cuts off the bunches, and in payment, affixes one of the small packets of meat to the stem by a wooden skewer. He has not, in his view, stolen the bananas—he has bought them!

Where Every Bride Is Measured.

The "measuring of the bride" follows every marriage ceremony performed in the English town of Royden. The reason is that about three hundred years ago the lord of the manor bequeathed the sum of $5,000, the interest from which was to be voted annually to provide dowries for four brides. Under the terms of the bequest, the money has to be divided among the youngest, the eldest, the shortest and the tallest brides married during the course of each year in the parish church. The official records determine who are the youngest and the eldest, but to decide the shortest and tallest, each bride is required to remove her shoes and let down her hair and be measured by the officiating minister.

Legend of Wandering Jew.

The wandering Jew was a legendary personage condemned to wander upon the earth until the second coming of Christ, for rejecting the Savior while on his way to Calvary. Some say he was a porter in the service of Pontius Pilate, named Cartaphilus; but others identify him with Ahasuerus, a cobbler on whose doorstep Christ attempted to rest when overcome with the weight of the cross. Tradition has it that Ahasuerus drove the Savior from his door with curses, whereupon Jesus calmly replied: "I truly am going; but thou shalt wander over the earth until I return." Southey's "Curse of Kehama," Croly's "Salathiel," and the Sue's "Le Juif Errant" make use of this legend, although not in its original form.—Kansas City Star.

What Pinckney Really Told France.

When John Jay, in 1796, made his famous treaty with England, which threatened to involve the United States in a war with France, the Directory would not receive the American ambassador, Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, but intimated that the payment of a certain sum might settle the dispute. Pinckney is said to have indignantly answered with the now historical phrase: "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute." It is said, however, that long afterward, when Pinckney was asked in his club whether he had ever uttered it, he replied: "No. My answer was not a flourish like that, but simply, 'Not a penny, not a penny.'"

Why Eddies Whirl Counter-Clockwise.

A correspondent writes to Scientific American asking if it is true that all whirlwinds, tornadoes, cyclones, typhoons (movements of air), maelstroms, water leaving a washboard, or bathtub (movements of water), unless artificially interfered with, revolve counter-clockwise. If so, what causes this revolving always in that direction? The answer is: "The rotary motions which you describe are caused by the earth's rotation on its axis. They are counter-clockwise in the northern, and clockwise in the southern, hemisphere."

ROMANCE OF FANEUIL HALL

"Cradle of American Liberty" Was Built by Son of French Huguenot Refugee.

An interesting romance is woven around old Faneuil hall in Boston, often referred to as "the cradle of American liberty." Andrew Faneuil, a French Huguenot, was driven from home by the revocation of the edict of Nantes. He fled to Holland, and thence to America, and was admitted by the governor and council of Massachusetts Bay colony Feb. 1, 1630. He was an able business man, and became the richest man in the colony through trade in a general store. His fortune passed to his son, Peter, and Peter proved both a practical and public-spirited man. He offered to erect a public market building at his own expense if the town would provide proper regulation. The farmers, accustomed to peddle from house to house, opposed this plan, but it passed by a majority of the 227 votes cast.

Peter Faneuil did more than he had promised, for in addition to the market he built a second story with a hall for town meetings and other public functions. On August 27, 1775, the first mass meeting of protest against the stamp act took place in the hall. The meetings to protest against the tax were held in the hall in 1773, and the result was the Boston Tea Party of December 16. When Lafayette visited the building in 1824, he said: "May Faneuil Hall stand forever, a monument to teach the world that resistance to oppression is a duty, and will under true republican institutions become a blessing."

EARLY SETTLER POMPOUS

Pioneer Colonist in America Seemed to Lack the Spying Sense of Humor.

A persistent respect for the pomp and vanities of feudalism with its distinction of classes and its conventions of respectful observance was held by the early settlers in the American wilderness. They showed a curious lack of a saving sense of humor. When the first settlement at Jamestown was starving, Sir Thomas Gates, on relinquishing his authority, fired a salute from the fort, and made his departure like a king abandoning his realm. In 1619, arriving a few days later, landed with a flourish of trumpets and a procession, with banners borne before him. When he went to church he was attended by an escort in red cloaks and a guard of 50 men, although there were not more than 200 in the colony.

When the Puritans, a people who were supposed to have laid aside the pomp and vanities, went to church, they were summoned to Captain Standish's door by the roll of a drum. Each man wore a cloak and carried a musket on his shoulder. They fell in three abreast, led by a sergeant, and behind this escort strode Elder Brewster with Captain Standish strutting stiffly at his side, with a sword in scabbard and bearing a cane or wand as an emblem of his authority.

Whitman Had a Checkered Career.

Walt Whitman began his career as an errand boy in a lawyer's office and tried in turn working in a printer's office, teaching in a country school and editing the Brooklyn Eagle. He founded and edited his own paper, the Long Islander, but gave it up and tried building and selling small houses in Brooklyn.

During this checkered career, Whitman was continually writing poetry, and finally in 1855 he published a small book containing a collection of his poems, under the title of "Leaves of Grass." It was characterized by Emerson as "the most extraordinary piece of wit and wisdom that America had yet contrived."

Whitman's life was a poet's life—free, unburied, unworried, unconventional, unselfish, cheerful, optimistic, and it was contentedly and joyously lived.

A True Story.

An office boy in a big business house approached one of the clerks and with great solemnity asked him to divide 150 by 10. "Eighteen of course," was the immediate reply. The boy looked thoughtful. "Are you sure?" he asked. The clerk thought there was a catch somewhere, but was assured that the boy was in earnest. "I've worked it out over and over," he said, "and it comes out 17 and 10 over," he explained.

Why He Changed His Mind

Young Willie's mother wished him to be a preacher, but Willie had other leanings. One Sunday afternoon, however, after an unusually long morning service, he announced: "I believe, after all, I'll be a preacher."

"What made you change your mind so suddenly?" asked his mother.
"Oh," he replied, "I've decided I'd rather stand in the pulpit and shout than sit in the congregation and be told."

"Can the clapper make any way?" asked a professor. She doesn't have to make her way. She has it.

HARD WORK

IT is easy to sit and watch others work. But we know of no employer who will pay you wages for doing it, unless you know how to do the work yourself, and are working hard at the job of supervising it.

It is easy to travel about the world on steamships and parlor cars, very pleasant and profitable to the man with an inquiring mind.

But that is a vacation occupation, and unless you have earned the money to do it by hard work, you will get little out of it.

It is easiest of all to feel sorry for yourself, and to think that you haven't had a fair chance in life, and that you would have been a big success if you hadn't met with so much injustice and bad treatment.

But that will get you only unhappiness, which is the least desirable thing in all the world.

There are many things in life that are well worth doing, but none of them are easy.

The first-class fiction writer takes delight in his job, but he also works at it, harder than any man who is not a first-class fiction writer ever dreams of doing.

The great tenor finds pleasure in his job, and incidentally in the money he gets from it.

But he works about six or seven hours a day at it now, and an earlier life he worked ten or twelve hours, receiving far less pay for exactly as good a job.

If good jobs were to be had by little effort, practically everybody would have a good job. The reason that they are so few, and that so many of those few are not filled, is that all of them demand the hardest kind of hard work, not only to get but to keep them.

Genius, which I said to know how to do things before it is born, has to work just as hard as mediocrity to gain and keep success.

Nothing you can think of that brings real rewards can be accomplished without more work than most of us can contemplate without getting tired at the mere thought of it.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

IN SLUMBERLAND

ONLY a relatively small number of the 1,700,000,000 inhabitants of this world are really mentally awake, capable of finding their way through the labyrinth of professional and business avenues to a place of secure independence.

When the long shadows cross their paths and they discover to their dismay that the western sky is darkening, they rub their sleepy eyes and ruefully regret the years they have misspent in groping from pillar to post without worthy accomplishment.

They were in slumberland when the church bells rang of a Sunday morning; they were in slumberland when in the brilliantly illuminated ballrooms they danced to luring music with fair partners till the east was rose, and another day came glimmering over the gorgeous hilltops and smiled benignly on pale faces and broken promises.

They wasted drifting days which drifted into wasted years. Again and again they rubbed their melancholy eyes and saw in their last supreme effort to reclaim themselves that they were on the hazy borderland of old age, with forty or fifty years behind them.

Some there were, even at that late

Yet people are doing it right along, and you seldom hear of any of them killing themselves in the effort.

If you have made up your mind to do something unusual or to be somebody of importance, learn how to work twice as hard as you ever did before. That is only a first step. The second is to think hard. If you can do both, and keep them up long enough, you may land, but remember you will have a lot of competition. Even hard work finds plenty of men to believe in and practice it, and most of them get what they are after.

Mother's Cook Book

As the rosy beams of morning herald childhood's happy days, And the abiding clouds of noontide guard its youth from folly's ways; So the grander clouds of evening, with their lights and shades sublime, Speak a broader, deeper knowledge, and a manhood's nobler prime.

Happy they for whom its storm clouds can a silver lining show.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

THIS is the time to prepare relishes, preserves, jellies and conserves.

White Relish.

Chop four quarts of cabbage, a quart of celery, one quart of white stringless beans cut in bits, one quart of silver-skinned onions chopped. Sprinkle all the vegetables with salt, except the onions, using a cupful of cold water to cover. Let stand overnight. In the morning drain, add the onions and put over the fire; add one cupful of fresh-gated horseradish, one ounce each of mustard seed and celery seed, three cupfuls of sugar and a piece of white ginger root. Cover with good vinegar and cook until the vegetables are tender, then put into jars.

Sweet Cider.

Any surplus apples may be put through the meat grinder, the juice squeezed out through a bag, then if boiled and bottled hot will never ferment. This is especially good for mince-meat, adding a little to the pies when they are being made.

Uncover Ancient Colombian City

Explorers for Field Museum Find Place That Was Once a World Center.

ITS POPULATION WAS IMMENSE

Inhabitants Were Expert Builders of Houses and Roads and Were Skillful in Making Gold Ornaments.

Chicago.—Ruins of an ancient city of great size, hitherto unknown, have been uncovered in Colombia by the South American archeological expedition of the Field Museum of Natural History, working under the leadership of Dr. J. A. Mason. The ruins of the city, or collection of villages, are in a portion of Colombia now uninhabited and almost unknown to science. It is evident, the museum announced today, that this was once one of the great centers of population of the world, but today even its name is unknown.

The finds to date indicate that in ancient times the country was densely inhabited by settled agricultural tribes who were semicivilized. They were expert builders and possessed great skill in the working of gold and precious stones.

Ancient Population Tremendous. Mr. Mason sent the following message regarding the discoveries he has made thus far:

"There must have been a tremendous population here at one time, as the country is covered with house sites. The region is very mountainous, and the houses, which were of wood, were built on terraces made with retaining walls. In the center of each terrace there are entering steps of beautifully cut stone, and, if the main path is far below, other steps are built to connect the terrace with it.

"The principal place where I have been working has a long staircase of 48 steps, all made of nicely cut quadrangular stone slabs. Instead of the Indian road of which I have heard, there are thousands of them all through the mountains. There are apparently wide roads connecting the main sites.

Roads Skillfully Built.

"All are paved with flat waterworn rocks of more or less uniform size, the small paths being a single line of such stones, while the more important roads are four feet or more wide and edged with upright stones. When the way ascends or descends the stones are set as steps.

"On the side of almost every house there can still be found the metals, or grinding slab, on which the family ground its corn. In all the villages we have found quantities of broken pottery, mostly fragments of large undecorated jars. Some were decorated with relief ornaments and there is one sort of very fine black pottery which is incised or carved.

The ancient inhabitants of this country decorated themselves with gold ornaments and buried these with their dead. The early Spaniards are known to have taken fabulous quantities of gold from the ancient graves and the further work of the expedition should bring to light many objects of value and interest, it was said.

Specimens already revealed at the museum include gold bells, small heavily made gold figures and ornaments of shell, carnelian and agate. The most valuable acquisition is a complete set of ornaments worn by a native priest in the performance of his religious duties. The expedition is supported by the endowment of research given to the museum by Capt. Marshall Field.

Colorado Wins Important Decision.

Durango.—By the decision of the U. S. Land Office at Durango, the state's title to section 16, township 35 north, range 10 west, is confirmed, which includes any and all the coal deposits which may be in this section of state coal land and is one of the most important decisions rendered in recent years as affecting the title to our school sections.

This case has been in controversy for the past two years. A decision was rendered in favor of the state two years ago by the officials of the land office at Durango, and confirmed by the commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington. Later, on appeal, the decision of the local land office at Durango and the commissioner of the General Land Office was reversed by the secretary of the Interior. A protest was filed by the State Board of Land Commissioners with the Interior Department, asking that the case be remanded back to the land office at Durango for further hearing, which request was granted, and during October, 1921, the case was tried again at Durango. Evidence of an overwhelming nature was presented by the State Board of Land Commissioners at that time, resulting in a decision in favor of the state.

This decision will undoubtedly be appealed to the secretary of the interior, but the facts in the case are so favorable to the contention of the state as to its ownership of this section that there seems to be but little question that the secretary of the interior will confirm the decision of the local land office.

This decision is very far reaching, from the fact that it will create a precedent that will tend to clear up the title of the state to the coal underneath many school sections in the state, and finally will result in an extensive revenue to the state school fund.

May Fly Across Ocean in Glider.

Berlin.—The recent success of German student aviators in motorless aviation at Gersfeld has given rise to widespread gratification and scientists already are discussing the likelihood of such aircraft crossing the Atlantic. Observers of the past week's experiments assert that if the Versailles treaty had not limited the size of German aerial motors this scientific development in aviation would not have occurred so soon. They find further significance in the fact that the new sail planes utilize vertical winds, which are due to the present motor fliers. Captain Koller, who is in charge of the aerial service at Staaken, and Professor Wegener, a flying expert, advanced the theory that this type of craft could fly to New York, closely trailing an ocean liner, on the same principle as gulls utilize the up-going currents above the troughs left by steamships.

Crow Guides Lost Man.

Stroudsburg, Pa.—The crowing of a rooster saved the life of William Warner, who became lost in a cranberry swamp near Tannersville. Warner wandered for a long time, and finally was caught in the soft, boggy land up to his waist. After he succeeded in dragging himself out and got onto firmer land, he was so tired and weary that he realized that he might again be missed. Hardly daring to move he heard the rooster crow, and followed the sound until he reached a farm house.

School Teacher in Jail Plot.

Leavenworth, Kan.—Mildred Ward, 25, formerly a school teacher at Fairbury, Neb., is in the Leavenworth county jail charged with plotting the escape of prisoners and smuggling a revolver into the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing, a suburb. Four prisoners are alleged to have been in the plot, and all are now in solitary confinement, according to announcement by the warden.

Steel Tube Plant to Close.

Toledo, Ohio.—George B. Storer, manager of the Standard Steel Tube Company, announced that he will close down the plant on Sept. 10 in sympathy with Mr. Ford's protest against high coal prices.

Lieutenant Governor Arrested.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—Lieut. Gov. M. E. Trapp was arrested at his home by Deputy Sheriff F. G. Frederick of Seminole county on a charge of perjury in connection with an alleged transaction with Seminole county three years ago.

Candidates Against Prohibition.

Helena, Mont.—Candidates' attitudes on prohibition and on Governor Joseph M. Dixon's taxation policies figured largely in the campaign in Montana's primary election. Several candidates for nomination for members of Congress as well as aspirants to lower offices, declared themselves in favor of modification of the Volstead act to permit sale of beer and light wines. Against these candidates, the Montana Anti-Saloon League has waged a vigorous campaign.

Investigation Develops Two Features.

Marion, Ill.—The investigation of the grand jury into the Herrin mine war of June 21 and 22 last, on the third day of its progress, developed two outstanding features: The issuance of the first indictment, and the appearance in Marion of state officials of the Illinois mine workers, including Frank Farrington, president, who is under a statement charging "forces have combined to convict our members."

WILL USE WARSHIPS AS TARGETS

No Buyers Found for the Doomed British Vessels.

Navy is Using the Famous Dreadnaughts and Cruisers in Gunnery and Airplane Bombing Tests.

London.—Having found no buyers for the great group of battleships which the Washington conference decreed should be scrapped, Great Britain is using the monsters as targets for gunners of the royal navy and bombers of the royal air force. Like the United States and France, this country has a dozen or more specially built cruisers and one-time dreadnaughts which must be relegated to the ignominious junk pile.

Thunderer, Monarch, Conqueror, Colossus, Lion, Ajax, Centurion, King George V, Princess Royal, Erin and Orion, monsters of 20,000 or more tons, are being used as targets for the guns and lack fires that once raged there. The admiralty is trying by these tests to determine how a direct hit can be prevented from passing from the turret down the ammunition tubes.

In the battle of Jutland, Invincible, Indefatigable and Queen Mary blew up because of a flash passing from the ammunition tube to the magazine below. So Superb is now in the English channel and is being shelled at punishing ranges to see whether or not the flash of explosion passes down to the powder and shell magazines under given conditions.

EUROPE FULL OF SPINSTERS

Twenty-five Million Doomed to Be Old Maids, Say Statistics Published in Berlin.

Berlin.—Twenty-five million women in Europe are doomed to life-long spinsterhood, according to statistics published here.

It is reckoned the male European population amounts to 227,800,000 and the female to 250,000,000. Thus for every thousand men there are 1,111 women. Before the war the excess of women over men was 38 in every thousand.

The disruption between the sexes varies greatly throughout Europe. In Russia before the war the surplus of women was 4 per cent, but it now reaches 20 per cent, vividly illustrating the consequences of war and revolution. There are large surpluses in Great Britain, Germany, Austria, Jugoslavia, France and Italy. The neutral countries present a striking contrast. In Denmark, Norway, Switzerland and Holland the discrepancy is rapidly diminishing.

Wayside Crab Market for Gotham Motorists

New York.—Automobilists have long been accustomed to seeing children along the roadside selling fruit and flowers, but the enterprising youngsters along upper Riverside drive have introduced there to a new and somewhat startling form of merchandise.

This is a good year for crabs in the Hudson. The boys are catching them wholesale and line the drive offering them for sale. To attract attention, they hold the twisting claws up for inspection.

Getting live crabs home in an automobile may be some problem—but then they're only 50 cents a dozen bought from these merchants.

Faith is beautiful and idealistic, but Fact is the boy that does business.

COLLIE SAVED MASTER'S FACE

Queenie Captured Two Fish After Maine Angler Had Given Up in Despair.

New York.—Possibly this dog was a mackerel hound.

Jim O'Connor, who hails from Kennebunk, Me., told this one with a straight face at McAlpin. He was out fishing in a boat with his collie, Queenie, last week, on a lake near the home town. A few bites were recorded, but each time he drew up his line the hook was bare. Just as he was packing up preparatory to leaving for home, Queenie jumped overboard and soon reappeared with a small fish. She repeated this performance shortly afterward and Jim went home with two fish. Neither of them was of an edible variety, however, he said.

"Offensive partisan," as a political phrase, originally appeared in a confidential letter written by Postmaster Vilas during President Cleveland's first term.

Huge Beast in the London Zoo Is Persuaded to Abandon Her Strike.

Native Indian Lectures Her Respectfully and Now She Is Again Tractably Carrying Little Children.

London.—A big female Indian elephant that went on strike at the zoo last spring and refused to do what all big elephants at the zoo are required to do—earn money by carrying children around on her back—has been cured of the sulks and laziness by the seeming magic treatment of an Indian mahout.

She was presented to the zoo by the Maharajah of Cooh Behar two years ago. She had been well trained and acted at all times like a sensible, well-behaved elephant and obeyed orders properly. She developed no

Now You Know Why It Is Often Called Firewater

Calxico, Cal.—The government proved the wisdom of "Poor Lo" in naming liquor "firewater" some centuries ago. One hundred gallons confiscated by federal customs officers was ordered emptied into the gutter the other day. The thermometer registered 120 in the shade, and when the liquor splattered on the pavement it burst into flames from the heat of the sun's rays. The officers moved to another location and again started pouring into the gutter. Again it burst into flames, which flashed up the stream of liquor and exploded one of the tanks. The officers then poured the firewater direct into the sewer. Dozens of spectators saw the "firewater" fire.

OWNS A FINE FLOATING HOME

Pensacola Yacht Club Purchases Concrete Vessel.

Obtains From Government Motorship General William Wilson, Whose Only Voyage Cost Uncle Sam Too Much.

Pensacola, Fla.—The new home of the Pensacola Yacht club, a handsome concrete structure, is about ready for occupancy and the club members think so well of it that when they make the next trip to Mobile in a body they will take the clubhouse along with them to show it to the yachtsmen of the Alabama city. It is a floating clubhouse. The club has just purchased for less than $10,000 the army quartermaster motorship General William Wilson, a concrete vessel, 130 feet in length, which the government built at an expense of $350,000. The Wilson is equipped with two powerful gasoline

GERMAN ACTORS ARE NOW IDLE

Many Theaters Closed Because of the Hard Times.

Artists by the Thousands Are Thrown Out of Employment and Theatrical Agencies Quit Business.

Berlin.—Unusually hard times have fallen upon the stage world of Germany. The economic difficulties which have been distressing theatrical managers ever since the revolution have thrown hundreds of actors and actresses out of employment and at the same time closed many theaters. Today numerous directors are waiting until almost certain time for the winter season before entering into contracts for the numbers of their casts. The artists themselves have been so hard pressed for means of gaining a livelihood that they have been turning to other work. In one shoes, and knotted a rope loosely around the elephant's neck, which he afterward used as a kind of stirrup. With little difficulty he persuaded her to kneel and mounted her neck. In less than two minutes, soothing, patting, and talking volubly to her in Hindustani, he had got on good terms with the animal. Then he took her round to the elephant ride, and apparently had her in complete control.

Phrases of his admonitions, freely translated, were as follows: "I am told that you eat your food, and will not work; it is wrong; Allah enjoins on us that we must work if we would eat. You are cheating your masters, and it is unworthy of you. I am only a black man, and you must not mind me. Put fear out of your mind; take it up from your heart, and throw it out."

The elephant certainly seemed to understand, and now obeys every order. The mahout was given quarters in another part of the gardens, but he obtained leave to sleep in the elephant house, as he says that he wishes to talk to the elephant during the night. He has not yet tried to saddle her, as he wants to take things slowly, but he is confident he will conquer all her fears, and make her permanently obedient.

As the elephant is a fine animal, and quite good tempered, it was decided to obtain a mahout from India. He was cabled for, and arrived in due course. He was taken to the elephant house. He at once entered the enclosure and formally saluted the animal, standing first at her head and then at her tail. Next he took off his motors, which cost Uncle Sam $30,000 each, and virtually is a new vessel, having made only one voyage since it was launched.

Its only journey was a trip by easy stages from New York to Pensacola, but the voyage proved to be the undoing of the vessel. The motors consumed 50 gallons of gasoline an hour, and even Uncle Sam's bank account would not stand for that. On arrival of the vessel here it was tied up and a recent advertisement for bids for the ship resulted in the local yacht club's becoming interested.

The club for many years had dreamed of a floating clubhouse eventually, but even the most optimistic members did not contemplate one of concrete or one that could be moved without the assistance of a tug, and when it was learned the Wilson was on the market the members proceeded to file a bid.

With the vessel went all of its equipment, which comprised every thing from table silver to bed linen. The ship has accommodations for 50 persons, but having been designed for ferry troops, if necessary, there is room aboard for several hundred.

The club expects to develop a channel in the western part of Pensacola bay as a permanent berth for the vessel; but whenever the club decides to go in a body to Mobile, New Orleans or some other Gulf port, the anchor will be pulled aboard and the clubhouse will make the trip under its own power.

Prayer Gives Him Speech.

Clarksburg, W. Va.—Clarence McAfee, a ten-year-old boy, mute since his birth, suddenly recovered his speech after praying for it at the altar of a tented church where evangelistic services had been carried on at Broad Oaks, according to Mrs. Ida Trillett of Sturds, Mich., the evangelist in charge. Those acquainted with the boy say he had not spoken before. The alleged miracle is verified for by various persons of the city who were in attendance at the meet g.

Lately managers, directors and exchanges have been flooded with applications for jobs. Many managers require artists to take as many as three different characters in the same play. Stage contracts which formerly ran from three to five years at present are being made for only one year, and even contracts for a year are rare.

Honesty Bureau in Schools.

New York.—A suggestion by criminals will probably be endorsed by New York schools. Mr. William Forbush, who is forming a "honesty bureau" in the schools, said that as the result of pleas made by men in prisons, "honesty is the best policy" course will be added to the curriculum. Detective Forbush added: "We plan to organize the schools into courts of honesty where honesty will be an active virtue. Criminals have written me saying that if they had been instructed in the evil of wrongdoing they might not be in the position they now are."

MINE MASSACRE PROBE IS ENDED

INDICTMENTS CHARGING MEN WITH MURDER RETURNED BY JURY.

HOLD 38 FOR MURDER

FIVE ARRESTS RESULT FROM HERRIN MINE MASSACRE INVESTIGATION.

Marion, Ill.—Indictments charging thirty-eight men with murder were returned by the special grand jury investigating the Herrin mine massacre. Otis Clark was the first man to be indicted and arrested. Leva Mann and Charles Rogers, miners of Herrin; Phillip Fontanetta, miner of Marion, and James Brown, colored deputy, of Colp, were also arrested. They are all charged with murder. Officers had no trouble making the arrests.

Col. Sam Hunter of the adjutant general's office here, representing Governor Small, said that quiet continues over the county. He arrested Phillip Fontanetta within ten minutes after the names were given to the sheriff and deputies. Many other arrests are expected.

Attorney General Brundage, in commenting upon the action of the grand jury, said that "this special grand jury of Williamson county has shown through this partial report what the law-abiding people of this county think of this massacre and of law enforcement."

The indictments cover a large territory in Williamson and Franklin counties, and included in the list are at least two officials—Constable John Kelly of Zelger, in Franklin county, and Constable James Brown, who also is deputy sheriff and chief of police in the colored mining camp of Colp.

The first indictment accuses six men of the slaying of Howard Hoffman of Huntington, Ind., in the Herrin cemetery. He was one of the six captives who escaped the massacre at the barbed-wire fence in the timber. The six were recaptured and led back to the cemetery. They were shot down. One of them lived and the other five died. The non named in this true bill are Peter Miller, Clarence Rogers, Leva Mann, Joseph Carnegie, Bert Grace and Percy Hall.

The second indictment names nine men in connection with the hanging of Robert J. Anderson, Sparta, Mich., at the Southern Illinois strip mine. His body was riddled with bullets after he had been hanged. In the indictment there are two counts, one charging the shooting and the other the hanging. The men accused are Nava Cannady, Herbert Rushing, Clyde Law, James Galligan, Bert Grace, Dallas McCreve, Otis Maynard, Joseph Rhodes and William Stanley.

The third indictment concerns the slaying of John Shoemaker, son of Mayor Shoemaker of Charleston, Ill. He and thirteen other of the non-nation nine employees who had surrendered under a flag of truce, were killed at the barbed-wire fence. In this indictment twenty-seven are made co-defendants.

Clair Arctic Is Impassable.

Sydney, N. S.—Donald B. Large ice fields block the passage in Fox channel and reverse tides made the journey a feat which no vessel could perform, he said.

Brazil Opens Centennial Celebration.

Rio Janeiro.—Brazil's celebration of the 100th anniversary of her independence was inaugurated amid festivities and bonning of cannon. The Avenida Beira Mar, the shore line boulevard and neighboring streets were crowded and the Brazilian national anthem and other patriotic songs were sung. The foreign warships formally saluted the opening. The American mission, headed by Secretary of State Hughes, was the second to be received.

Rail Unions Seek Injunction.

Washington.—A petition for an injunction has been filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia against United States Attorney Payton Gordon and United States Marshal Edgar C. Emergency Coal Bill Passed.

Washington.—With only seven negative votes recorded, the Senate passed the first of the emergency coal bills, the House measure designed to check profiteering and control the distribution of coal. The vote was 40 to 7, and the measure as amended was sent to conference for adjustment of differences with the House. Passage of the profiteering bill was followed immediately by consideration of the fact-finding commission measure, but final action on it was deferred.

Quite Impossible for Glutton's Ideas to Rise Above Consideration of His Stomach.

"Henry Watterson," said a Louisville editor, "was a gourmand—a tin gourmet, as the French put it—but he hated gluttony like sin."

"Gluttons," he claimed, couldn't keep their minds off their stomachs. He said he once visited an English lord, and the smoking room of the castle was crowded with trophies of the lord's life in the hunting field.

"A fat glutton was among the party. He, with the rest, admired the fine display of antlers—horns of the mountain sheep, the elk, the antelope, the wild goat, moose, and so on. Then there were stags—bear skins, bison skins, tiger skins, and stuffed birds—pheasants, woodcock, wild turkey, wild duck."

Will Clean Historic Edifice.

Westminster abbey, London, is going to have its first bath for many a year. Prominent experts in old wood carvings of the Gothic and Norman periods, have discovered a preparation which can be run over the wood of the old choir stalls and on the alabaster of tombs, which will take off the dirt, without harming the beautiful work, bringing to light the wonderful color effects of the old paints beneath the dirt layers.

A preparation of lime, which will give the historic abbey the effect of having been whitewashed when first applied, will be painted on the outside stone work of the abbey, to clean the gray stone back to its original color. At present the outside is, in places, black.

Once at Least Golfer Had a Chance to Turn in a Score His Opponent Could Not Beat.

Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel company, plays a first-class game of golf. Between him and his "big chief," Charles M. Schwab, exists a keen friendly rivalry, the two playing regularly together.

In the steel trade, they tell the story of a match once played between the two. On the first hole, the story goes, Schwab, who was keeping score, asked Grace how many shots he had taken, and was told five. "I took a four," said Schwab. At the next hole, Grace had a four and Schwab claimed a three. As he holed out at the third, Schwab asked: "Gene, how many did you have?" "One," replied Grace. "Are there any moonshiners in this part of the country?" "Not any more," replied Farmer Corntossed. "You run them out?" "No. They got rich and moved away."

If the people display courage their statesmen will.

VERY often the hill we seem to be climbing is made out of the common mistakes of diet which starve tissues and nerves and slow down energies.

How smooth and level the path seemed to be when we were younger. Simple, natural food may level that hill to a smooth path again.

Grape-Nuts—THE BODY BUILDER

"There's a Reason"

Made by Postum Cereal Company, Inc., Battle Creek, Michigan

Maybe that hill is not there, after all—

Begin today with a dish of Grape-Nuts with cream or milk—and fresh or preserved fruit added if you like.

Keep on with this crisp, delicious, strengthening food in place of heavy, ill-assorted, starchy breakfasts and lunches—and see if the old-time zest and speed on the old-time level path doesn't come back again.

TEN TIMES BIGGEST CIRCUS WILL BE IN TUCSON SOON

World's Greatest Amusement Institution, Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey, Headed This Way

Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey day draws near and with it will come a vast circus of "ten thousand wonders" to exhibit in Tucson September 19, 1922.

This mammoth amusement enterprise of 1922 has been officially named as "America's ten times greatest circus." It is a third bigger than it was in 1921. For, in addition to the many innovations offered then, the present season's program numbers ten more trained wild animal displays—making twenty in all—and the most superb trained horse acts that Europe has yet produced. The wild animal and equine displays of 1921 were introduced merely that the Ringling Brothers might judge of their popularity. So enthusiastically were these numbers received that the famous showmen immediately arranged for the purchase of the world's finest acts of this kind. An entire equine circus was bought outright and brought to this country last winter. And while the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey agents were securing this and the trained tiger, polar bear, lion, leopard and jaguar groups, they had orders to engage the foremost men and women performers of the European capitals. And these stars from city and jungle are all to be seen with this wonder circus of 1922. Everything, including the great double menagerie of more than a thousand animals and exhibiting such rarities as a mate of a baby hippopotamus and its three-ton mother, is to be seen for the price of one admission ticket. And by "everything" is meant not only the wild animal and equine displays, but the entire circus. More than 700 men and women, embracing the world's foremost circus stars, take part. There are 100 elephants. Aside from the fabulous benefits, the program includes forty trained elephants. There are five companies of trained seals, many dogs, bears, monkeys, pigs and pigeons. It is the biggest circus program the world has ever seen, given under the largest tent.—Advertisement.
