

DISSAPPEARANCE OF AMERICAN IN MEXICO REPORTED TO CONSUL

U.V. EXTENSION OPENS WITHIN FORTY DAYS

That the United Verde Extension mine at Jerome would be opened within forty days on a schedule output of 1500 tons a month and provide employment for 500 men, was the statement made Monday in Los Angeles by James R. Douglas, of Douglas, who is in the California city for the purpose of fighting for a $5-a-ton freight rate on unrefined copper from Arizona to the port of Los Angeles.

"If the United States of America has a serious regard for the revival of business and for the future of her mining and industrial activities, a complete readjustment of freight rates must be made at once," was the statement made by Mr. Douglas.

"At present we are entitled to a $5 rate on unrefined copper from Arizona to Los Angeles harbor, and we are going after it, if we have to carry the controversy to Washington.

May Mean Refinery "At normal 40,000 tons of copper a month were shipped to the Atlantic coast from Arizona, which at today's low price represents a valuation of $124,800,000 a year. We propose to turn the bulk of that output through Los Angeles harbor, which port would mean the establishment of a great electrolytic refinery adjacent to this port.

"The logic and innumerable reasons for this turning of shipments to the west coast, with a haul of 570 miles tons a month and to employ 500 men. And we want our entire shipment to come to Los Angeles.

"The establishment of a refinery here would open up no end of manufacturing where copper and brass are used, such as wire and sheet mills and plants for making electrical appliances and storage batteries and numerous other lines of business subsidiary to the copper industry.

"The real stumbling block is the fear that all railroads have of sterner competition out of your harbor. But I ask you, what was the Panama Canal built for, at its tremendous expense to the government, if it is not to be used? Individual endeavor and use of our resources are the things that will bring the United States back to normal prosperity."

ARIZONA WOMAN DIES FROM INJURIES IN LOS ANGELES

PRESCOTT, Jan. 12.—Pearl Lund is dead at Los Angeles as a result of injuries sustained there many weeks ago, according to word received here.

Mrs. Lund, according to the news from Los Angeles was hurt in an assault while en route home from an entertainment, and for a long time was unable on account of her condition, to identify her alleged assailant. Two weeks before she died, however, Mrs. Lund underwent an operation as a result of which she regained the power to identify one of those suspected as the man who had beaten her and thrown her from an automobile in which they were riding.

Mrs. Lund was formerly of Prescott.

PETERSON IN TOWN

C. L. Peterson, of San Rafael valley, was here Wednesday.

A notice was run in one of our recent issues calling attention to the fact that the postal authorities require all subscriptions to newspapers to be kept paid up. Several of our subscribers whose subscriptions were about to expire have sent in renewals for which please accept our thanks. Many subscriptions expired with the old year and we shall appreciate a remittance from those whose time has run out.

Governor Campbell To Address Good Roads Meeting In Nogales

GRAND CANYON REAL BONANZA FOR ARIZONA

PHOENIX, Jan. 11.—The richest God-given and natural bonanza in the known world lies dormant within the boundaries of the state of Arizona—the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and the waters flowing ceaselessly through it.

So far man has done nothing to make use of it. Move the Grand Canyon and its waters to the state of New York and soon the whole state would be ablaze with its wonderful possibilities. These, in a comparatively short space of time, it would be paying handsome dividends on billions of dollars annually.

But to the state of Arizona the Grand Canyon of the Colorado and its waters means many times more wealth than the state of New York because its waters in New York would be so much waste while here in Arizona those waters would reclaim countless thousands of acres of the most fertile and productive land in the world, thereby making possible thousands of happy and prosperous farm homes in Arizona.

If your vision is wonderfully keen and bright try your best to grasp the electrical possibilities to be gotten from the harnessed waters of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado river.

A million or more horsepower developed from those waters would move every train in Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and California, and at the same time light every home and street in those states.

Also it would furnish power for all other purposes in that great territory.

Man's brush can never paint the glories of OUR GRAND CANYON. Neither can man's words express by half the gigantic and tremendous benefits, wealth and happiness to be had from Arizona's Grand Canyon when fully developed.

The combined railroads of these United States, worked into one total, is a wonderfully big proposition.

You know it because you see and read about it every day.

But the combined possibilities of our Grand Canyon are greater and bigger by far.

The riches of all of the mines in the United States cannot compare with what can be gotten from Arizona's Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

When the girl moved to St. Joseph's hospital, where the wound was more thoroughly dressed.

The bullet penetrated the left lung within an inch of the heart, Dr. Beauchamp said. It took a downward course through the girl's body and had an exit under the left shoulder.

That the girl had planned the act is the belief of Police Chief George O. Drisbois. He bases this conclusion on the fact that she purchased the gun from a local second-hand store Saturday, and with it two cartridges.

The chambers of the gun contained but two cartridges, one of which was discharged. The extent of the internal damage could not be determined by the physician but the fact that it was a lead bullet gave rise to the impression that the shock will probably prove a serious nature.

Several letters, written by the girl before attempting the act, were found on a chair of her room at the hotel.

State Democrats Holding Pow-Wow

PHOENIX, Jan. 9.—A big democratic pow-wow, attended by democrats from every county in the state, except Santa Cruz, is being held in Phoenix today.

The convention was called by State Democratic Chairman M. H. McCalla of Phoenix, and as a result of his call, party leaders are present from all the counties except Santa Cruz down on the Mexican border. Just why the southern Arizona county did not send a representative, is puzzling to party leaders.

During their meeting here today, the democrats will try to smooth out the wrinkles which have prevailed in their ranks for so many years. Some hot grease will be used, it is said, to try to make the various factions forget the past and join hands to meet the G. O. P. in the coming campaign.

Former Governor George W. P. Hunt is not yet back from Siam, but is expected in a few weeks. Just what effect Hunt's return to Arizona will PHOENIX, Jan. 11.—Governor Thos. E. Campbell of Arizona will address the annual meeting of the Arizona Good Roads Association, which meets in Nogales January 23rd and 24th.

The convention will be called to order by O. C. Parker, president of the association, and Mayor James H. Harrison of Nogales will welcome the delegates. The Honorable T. G. Norris of Prescott has been invited to address the meeting. In addition two other governors, Governor Francisco S. Elias of Sonora, and Governor Angel Flores of Sinaloa, Mexico, will be present at this very interesting meeting.

Much interest is being aroused in the plans of the Mexican government for a highway from Nogales to the City of Mexico, the first unit of which will be one thousand miles in length. The plans for this highway will be detailed to the convention by Honorable Francisco S. Elias, governor of the state of Sonora.

Federal co-operations in road building in the United States will be discussed by a representative of the Bureau of Public Roads. The chief of the bureau, Hon. Thos. H. McDonald, will be represented by an official of his department.

President O. C. Parker, ex-mayor of Tucson, will preside at all meetings of the association which will last two days. Each county is entitled to five representatives to be appointed by the board of supervisors. Each city and town is entitled to five delegates. All organizations, business and commercial groups are entitled to two delegates each. All counties and cities, organizations and individuals must have paid-up memberships to vote. The meetings will be held in the Santa Cruz Club, one of the best known meeting places in Nogales.

AMNESTY FOR PRISONERS GIVEN BY ENGLAND

LONDON, Jan. 12.—King George granted amnesty today "in respect to political offenses committed in Ireland prior to operation of the last July truce."

Release of prisoners is to begin immediately.

NEW REVOLUTION IN TWO STATES IN MEXICO

According to word received in Nogales from Mexico City, the Felixistas revolutionary activities are on the increase in the states of Vera Cruz and Oaxaca and the government is taking severe measures to counteract and destroy the new revolution.

Many persons said to have been implicated in the new movement against the Obregon government have been arrested, it is claimed.

The Felixistas revolution is said to be headed by General Felix Diaz, nephew of the former president.

with the result that hundreds of acres of land have been broken this week and the work is still progressing and will continue indefinitely. There is a fine season in the ground and this almost assures good crops next summer. It also makes it pretty certain that the grass will start much earlier than it did last year. The cause of the short crop and late grass last spring was summer was due to the fact that there were no winter rains. Good crops and early grass will surely follow winter rains.

Kentucky Is For Obregon

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 11.—The Kentucky general assembly yesterday adopted a resolution urging recognition of the Obregon government in Mexico.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES TO BE SELECTED AT CONFERENCES

(Special to The Herald) PHOENIX, Jan. 10.—The meeting of the State Democratic Central Committee adjourned at midnight last night, after deciding to select candidates for offices this year, via the conference system.

It was claimed at the convention that the old primary evil did considerable damage to the party in past campaigns. The conference plan, however, does not prevent people, not selected at conferences, from running for office. Every county in the state was represented at the convention, except Santa Cruz.

PHOENIX, Jan. 10.—Plans for the holding of a state and county democratic conferences for nominating candidates for office were adopted by the democratic state central committee.

By the plan adopted for the holding of a state nominating conference, it is provided that there shall be held in each precinct in each county on May 2 of this year, a primary or town meeting. At this meeting, each precinct shall select one delegate for every 200 voters cast for the democratic candidate for governor at the last general election, or major fraction thereof.

Each precinct, however, shall be entitled to at least one delegate. The delegates so elected shall meet in a county advisory conference on May 9, and there shall select delegates to the state nomination conference.

The delegates shall be elected on a basis of one for each 200 votes or major fraction thereof cast for the candidate for governor at the last general election. No proxies will be allowed. The state conference will be held on May 15, at which time a complete Democratic ticket will be nominated and placed before the Democratic primaries.

It is provided that a majority shall govern the state conference. The location for holding this conference will be designated by the state chairman. Under this apportionment there will be 105 delegates to the state convention.

In providing for a county advisory nominating conference, the machinery is placed largely in the hands of the various county committees. Each county committee shall decide the size of the conventions. The only matter designated in the plan is that of the date for holding the various meetings.

The precinct meetings shall be held one 14 and the county advisory conference is designated to be held June 21.

KUCHLER ANNOUNCES LAND DEPARTMENT 1921 RECEIPTS

PHOENIX, Jan. 11.—Receipts of the state land department that were turned over to the state treasury during 1921 by Adolph Kuchler, state land commissioner, totalled $483,570.98, according to a report made public by Mr. Kuchler.

The net cash receipts of the land department during December, 1921, were given as $34,119.37, of which $26,025.95 was from interest and rents, $6,405.97 from sales and $688.33 from fees.

REPORT ON 1921 BEEF SHIPMENTS BEING COMPILED

PHOENIX, Jan. 11.—A report showing cattle of all classes shipped and driven out of Arizona the past ten years is being compiled by Ed Stephens, secretary to the live stock sanitary board.

Mr. Stephens has advised every inspector of the state to furnish him with full information which will be of use to him in compiling the report.

Destination of all cattle shipments will be covered in order to assist cattle men in making sales and comparisons will be drawn between 1921-22 shipments. Mr. Stephens believes that the work will be completed by his office by the end of the month if the inspectors are in a position to give immediate attention to his request.

RETAIL PRICE OF FOOD DROPS IN 16 CITIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Retail food prices decreased from 12 to 18 per cent in 16 principal cities of the country, the labor bureau statistics announced today.

Prices in 13 showed an increase in December of from 33 to 59 per cent over 1912.

IMPROVING POSTOFFICE

Postmaster H. B. Riggs has been having some much needed repairs done on the interior of the post office building. Three heavy coats of white paint on the walls and ceiling have made the building much lighter and more sightly. He has also new tables and desks and is otherwise systematizing his work in such manner as will enable him to expedite the work in all departments. Despite the fact that he has been in charge of the post office only a few weeks, he has everything working in fine condition and is giving good satisfaction. H. B. Edgell is assisting him in the distribution of the mails.

DEMPSEY MAY FIGHT JACK JOHNSON AT MEXICO CITY

Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, and Jack Johnson, who formerly held the title, may fight in Mexico City, according to advices from the Mexican metropolis.

It is claimed that an effort is being made to arrange a match between the two pugilists, to take place at the Plaza de Toros in Mexico City.

Much interest is being taken in sporting circles in Mexico City over the proposed fight.

PRICE OF PLAIN SODA NOW SAME AS BEFORE WAR-TAX IS REMOVED

The first and only return to pre-war prices yet recorded has been established by the leading soda fountains of the city, the return to the five-cent plain soda going into effect immediately.

Ice cream sodas, however, will be sold at 15 cents, the price of ice cream still being 50 per cent higher than in the old days when a dollar was worth a dollar and there was no tax on pleasure.

One reason for the drop in the price of the plain soda is the removal of the war tax. Although the carbonated water which sold before the war at $5 a drum now costs $18.50, the soft drink dispensers would rather lose a little profit rather than deal in pennies. The cost of syrups has decreased considerably, which also makes the cut in price possible.

Coccolas remain at 5 cents, and all plain drinks 5 cents.

In the drug stores all patent medicines can now be purchased without paying the war tax. In fact all articles in drug stores, with the exception possibly, of high priced leather goods, are now exempt from the so called nuisance tax.

Eighty-five per cent of popular patent medicines have been reduced to pre-war prices, declared W. J. Phillips of the Owl Drug Store, today.

CALL FOR VOTE MADE IN ELECTION CONTEST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Call for a vote in the Ford Newberry election contest was made in the senate this afternoon and the chair put the first question, an amendment by Senator Willie, Republican of Ohio, denouncing the expenditure of money of such large sums as in the 1918 senatorial campaign in Michigan.

The proceedings, however, were interrupted by a call for a quorum.

WAS ONLY COMIC OPERA WAR

Americans Experienced Odd Privisions When Joining Spanish Legion Against Moors.

It was just a comic opera war anyhow, according to 81 young Americans who have returned to New York from whence they sailed two months ago to join the Spanish Foreign Legion for service against the Moors.

After enlistment in New York, the recruits, almost all of whom had served overseas with the American army, were sent to Ceuta, Africa.

FREE LEGAL AID FOR NEEDY

Loy J. Mollumbly, Commander of Montana Post, First to Sue in Behalf of Wounded.

The first man in the United States to file suit against the government in behalf of wounded soldiers was Loy J. Mollumbly, young attorney of Great Falls, Mont.

A second suit against the government has been filed by Mollumbly in favor of Chris Tuss, service man, who died of tuberculosis.

Wants More Land Opened. For every government farm available today there are 100 service men standing in line, according to Secretary of the Interior Fall, who has informed the American Legion that the government is unable in any degree to satisfy the "back-to-the-farm" craving of former soldiers and sailors without additional legislation.

IN BEHALF OF INSANE MEN

Test Suit Filed in Providence, R. I., May Affect Numerous Other Cases.

Are former soldiers whose minds were wrecked by shell-shock, wounds and gas, temporarily or permanently insane? The question is to be decided in a suit against the government to compel payment of war-risk insurance.

The action has been taken in behalf of three soldiers, Adam Mikiliewicz, Guiseppe Vitullo and James McGee. It is alleged by the Legion attorney that the three are totally disabled as a result of insanity.

Their minds dwarfed from shell shock, several thousand ex-service men are confined in insane asylums and private and government hospitals.

MEDAL OF HONOR MAN DUPED

John J. Kelly of Chicago Badly Advised in Signing Petition for Release of Prisoners.

That his Medal of Honor brother, John J. Kelly, Chicago, had been "duped" into signing a petition to President Harding for the release of Eugene V. Debs and 145 "political prisoners" is a charge made in a letter to national headquarters of the American Legion at Indianapolis from Michael J. Kelley, also of Chicago.

The Congressional Medal man, a former marine who wears several foreign decorations in addition to the highest award at the disposal of the American government, has informed President Harding by letter, according to his brother, that "I allowed myself to be badly advised, I now realize that I should have had confidence in my President and his administration of the government of the country for which I fought and should have refrained from interference in the matter."

The Kitchen Cabinet

Don't worry if the fellow in front of you keeps you from seeing the top of the ladder. If you are made of the proper material, he will either have to move over and make room for you or else get off himself.—Clayton.

FOR THOSE WHO LIKE OATMEAL

For wholesome digestible dishes try some of the following:

Scotch Tea Cakes.—Beat two eggs until light, add one cupful of sugar, heating well; then add one-half teaspoonful of salt, two cupfuls of oatmeal, one teaspoonful of melted butter and a few drops of vanilla.

Oatmeal Bread.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of rolled oats, place in two cupfuls of warm water. Dissolve one yeast cake in one-third of a cupful of lukewarm water, two tablespoonfuls of lard and one and one-half cupfuls of flour; add yeast and one teaspoonful of salt. Beat well and let rise until light.

Crispy Cakes.—Mix one-half cupful of hot milk with one-half cupful of brown sugar, add one teaspoonful of lemon juice and one cupful of rolled oats, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Mix and drop from spoon on well greased tin. Bake twelve to fifteen minutes in a slow oven. This amount makes sixty.

There is no bread which takes the place of home-made bread, and in a large family the bread mixer is one of the greatest aids to bread making.

ALL KINDS OF GOOD THINGS

When making mayonnaise remember to mix the salt, mustard, powdered sugar, and any other of the dry ingredients used, with the egg yolk and then pour over it one teaspoonful of boiling water. Mayonnaise made this way will never curdle.

Fromage Salade.—Take one-fourth of a pound of cheese, two eggs, one-third of a cupful each of English walnuts, seedless raisins, tart apples, and one-half cupful of celery hearts, eight canned cherries, one-fourth of a pint of plain cream, one-third of a heaping tablespoonful of flour, two-thirds of a level tablespoonful of sugar, one-third of a heaping teaspoonful of mustard, one-third of a teaspoonful of salt, one egg, two-thirds of the juice of a lemon, a small lump of butter and one-third of a cupful of water.

Sausage Hash.—Take one pint of sausage meat, one pint of cold boiled potatoes, one tablespoonful of chopped slices, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of pepper. Mix well and spread evenly over the pan, pour over one-fourth of a cupful of milk and brown slowly and evenly. A tablespoonful of fryings is to be used in greasing the pan.

Mix the dry ingredients in the dressing, beat in the egg, then the lemon juice, add water and butter and cook in a double boiler, stirring often; if too thick, add more water. Let cool and stand until everything is ready for the salad. Cook two eggs hard and cool, then chop fine and add the cheese finely chopped. Cut nuts, celery and apples in pieces the size of raisins; mix with cheese and eggs. Whip the cream, add to the foundation dressing; if lumpy put through a sieve, then stir all together, turn into a salad bowl and decorate with nutmeats, raisins and sliced cherries.

Stewed herring will keep for a long time if sealed in a tin can. When it is always ready in an emergency.

POWERS ADOPT SUBMARINE LAW

FIVE NATIONS TAKE NEW CODE TO STANDARDIZE USE OF UNDERSEA BOAT.

RESOLUTION ACCEPTED

CONFERENCE REINSTATES INTERNATIONAL RULE RELATIVE TO MERCHANTMEN.

Washington.—The five greatest naval powers of the world have decreed as between themselves abolishment of submarine warfare against merchant ships. To purge the seas forever of this hidden menace to peaceful folk and ships, the world is asked to subscribe to the decree as a new principle of international law.

As adopted by the naval committee of the arms conference the resolution proposed by Elinor Root, and amended by Arthur J. Balfour, to become immediately effective between the five signatory powers, runs as follows: "The signatory powers recognize the practical impossibility of using submarines as commerce destroyers without violating, as they were violated in the war of 1914-1918, requirements universally accepted by civilized nations for the protection of the lives of neutrals and non-combatants, and to the end that the prohibition of the use of submarines as commerce destroyers shall be universally accepted as a part of the law of nations they now accept that prohibition as henceforth binding as between themselves and they invite all other nations to adhere thereto."

"The signatory powers desiring to make more effective rules adopted by civilized nations for the protection of the lives of neutrals and non-combatants at sea in time of war, declare that among these rules the following are to be deemed as established part of international law. "(1) A merchant vessel must be ordered to submit to visit and search to determine its character before it can be seized.

"A merchant vessel must not be destroyed unless the crew and passengers first have been placed in safety. "(2) Belligerent submarines are not under any circumstances exempt from the universal rules above stated, and if a submarine cannot capture a merchant vessel in conformity with these rules, the existing law of nations requires it to desist from attack and from seizure and to permit the merchant vessel to proceed unmolested. "(3) The signatory powers invite all other civilized powers to express their assent to the foregoing statement of established law, so that there may be a clear public understanding throughout the world of the standards of conduct by which the public opinion of the world is to pass judgment upon future belligerents."

Swift Loses $20,000,000.

Chicago.—There was a loss in inventory values of Swift & Co., Chicago packers, of $20,000,000 during 1921, Louis F. However, during the prosperous years of the war, Mr. Swift continued, "we provided for the serious decline by appropriating large amounts to surplus in order to maintain the company in sound financial condition, enabling us to continue the payment of regular dividends. We paid dividends of 8 per cent, amounting to $12,000,000.

The case is being tried before a Berlin court.

Reserve Bank Shows Profits.

New York.—Earnings of the Federal Reserve banks of New York during 1921, less expenses and the deductions provided by law, were $20,702,439, as compared with $39,318,510 in 1920. Making this announcement the bank explained that the decline in the amount of earnings was due to the smaller volume of loans which the Reserve bank was called upon to make. The average capital during 1921, it added, was $26,812,000 and the average deposits $674,325,700.

Recalls Days of Mexican Empire

American Widow of a Diplomat Talks of Days of Maximilian and Charlotte.

IS MORE THAN 80 YEARS OLD

Former Lady in Waiting Describes Emperor as "Beautiful Character, Sympathetic and Capable, but Too Amiable."

Mexico City.—A shriveled, gray-haired little woman, almost blind and living wholly alone, sits all day in her chair before the window of her apartment in Mexico City and dreams of the days of the Mexican empire when the Austrian Archduke Maximilian ruled the destinies of the nation from 1864 to 1867. She is Senora Marie Othelia Jordan de Degollado, scion of an old Virginia family and wife of the late Gen. Mariano Degollado, member of a family famous in Mexican history.

During the three tragic years of Maximilian's reign she was a lady in waiting to Empress Charlotte, the "sad princess of Europe," and to the correspondent she recently recalled some interesting memories of court days during the Mexican empire.

Maximilian, the ill-fated Austrian prince, who was set up as head of the empire by Napoleon III, in 1864, and three years later was shot as an usurper by order of the Mexican president, Juarez, was described by Senora Degollado as "a beautiful character, sympathetic and capable, but too amiable to govern a nation of malcontents."

Empress Charlotte, daughter of Leopold I, King of the Belgians, who is still living in Brussels, according to Senora Degollado, was "an ambitious genius, who was always striving to advance her husband, and whose mind became unbalanced when she found the path blocked." Senora Degollado has never seen the empress since she departed from Mexico City in July, 1868, to plead the cause of the empire before the French monarch and later to go to Rome to attempt to secure the good offices of the pope.

So far as she knows no direct word has been received in Mexico from Charlotte in more than fifteen years, and that only an incoherent note to the wife of a former high Mexican official.

The empress left hurriedly on her

European trip," said Senora Degollado, who, despite her 80-odd years, retains a remarkably clear memory, "and was accompanied only by her personal maids. For many days prior to her departure, there were evidences of her falling reason, and we were not surprised to hear of her acute affliction several months later. I am positive that there is absolutely no truth in the reports that she was poisoned before she left Mexico. And the emperor! He was possessed of very kind element of nature. He was too good. He listened to treacherous advice and was shot. That day was an evil one for Mexico."

Homes for U. S. Army Men

Coblenz Provides Apartments for Families of Yanks.

United States Army Officers' Wives and Children Get Modern Homes Built by German City—To Relieve Crowding.

Coblenz.—Apartment houses built by the municipality of Coblenz, aided by the German government, were opened recently for accommodation exclusively of officers of the American forces in Germany and their families.

The purpose of the houses is to relieve the crowded condition of the city, which has been a problem ever since the allied troops reached the Rhine.

There are 82 apartments of five rooms each, and all modern conveniences in the new buildings now being taken over by the American families. Work on these apartments was started about two years ago to alleviate, as the Germans put it, "an unbearable situation," as "no roof is large enough to cover two families." Additional quarters for noncommissioned officers and their families are also under construction.

Allied army officers say that the population of Coblenz perhaps has been harder pressed by the army requisition of quarters than any other occupied city. All available space for offices and billets has been under requisition for nearly three years, but German officials hope the new apartment houses will considerably improve the present crowded condition of the city.

In Coblenz there are about 3,000 rooms under requisition by the American army, the general policy of billeting being similar in all the zones as occupied by the French, British and Belgians. In the majority of cases, allied families have been quartered in the same houses or apartments with German families, the allied families occupying a separate part of the house so far as practicable, and using the kitchen and bath in common with a German occupant.

As a consequence, disputes have arisen, and the town major, or billeting officer, is often called upon to settle them. These disagreements almost invariably have their origin in the joint use of the kitchen. Because of this difficulty, the policy has universally been adopted of installing a separate kitchen for the allied family.

Generally, when a house or apartment has been taken over, the Germans have been permitted to take their furniture and personal belongings with them. In the American area it is stated, however, that only in exceptional cases have Germans been required to vacate their homes or apartments entirely. One eight-room school building in Coblenz was requisitioned exclusively for children of American officers.

Jonah's Home Town to Be Important Sea Port.

Plans Under Way for Modern Roads for Old City, Famous in Bible Times—Italian Syndicate to Back Project.

Jaffa, Palestine.—If Jonah the prophet should return within the next few months to this little attic port, whence he set sail some 2,900 years ago on his tempestuous voyage, he probably would be amazed at the metamorphosis.

After all these centuries, modernism, in the form of a Twentieth century harbor, is about to make its commercial encroachments upon this back-sea seashore, whose name was Joppa when Jonah knew it.

For some years, and particularly since the British occupation, a harbor for Palestine has been talked of, but only now is this dream of easy ingress and egress to and from the cradle of Christianity about to be realized.

An Italian banking syndicate, having satisfied itself that great commercial possibilities are wrapped up in new-old Palestine, has offered to advance the necessary capital, subject to adequate governmental guarantees, and the actual work is expected soon to begin.

The plans as drawn call for the expenditure of a sum not to exceed $7,000,000, to be retired with interest within thirty years.

The harbor is to be located directly opposite the section of the old city of Bible times, making the present custom house a central point from which the extension will be made northward and southward. It is to comprise three sections, one devoted entirely to freight and passenger ships, one to shipbuilding and repairing and one to fishing.

It is to comprise three sections, one devoted entirely to freight and passenger ships, one to shipbuilding and repairing and one to fishing.

Lack of proper harbor facilities has been one of the greatest impediments to commercial development of Palestine, and, consequently, the inhabitants are looking with keen anticipation upon the time when large ships can dock easily on Palestine's shores. When the weather is stormy and the sea rough, it is now practically impossible for boats to come even within three miles of land, where even in mild weather all ships have to be loaded and unloaded with the aid of small, obsolete craft. Thus it is estimated at least $1,000,000 a year can be saved on the loading and unloading item alone, to say nothing of the inevitable effect better shipping facilities will have on the cost of living, which is now excessively high.

Commensurate with harbor improvement, the city of Jaffa itself is making plans to come out of its lethargy and reap rich rewards. Independent commercial interests already are laying plans to develop four miles of waterfront, intending to build stores, restaurants, hotels and private homes for the benefit of traders and tourists.

WILD DUCKS BLOCK STEAMERS

Canvasbacks and Other Water Fowl Dispute Channel With Them, River Pilots Say.

Port Deposit, Md.—Stories of abundance of ducks and other water fowl are being told about the mouth of the Susquehanna.

On the "flats," one sportsman reports "there is a fowl for every blade of grass." Steamers sailing these waters tell that the canvasbacks are disputing the channel rights with them. Wild geese have come from the North and are in elegant shape, one pair shot weighing 20 pounds.

Swans, protected by federal and Maryland laws until 1922, are digging wild celery. In spots white beauty ducks are close that acres of the "flats," resemble fields covered by snow. This is the sight that is seen by passengers on the Pennsylvania.

Bad Luck Comes From Horseshoes

San Francisco.—The novel allegation that her husband scolded her because she did not shoe her horse properly is contained in the divorce complaint filed by Mrs. Cecelia Bernal, expert horsewoman at several rodeos, against Elmer Bernal, also a horseman. While she was shoeing her horse at the couple's Livermore ranch, Mrs. Bernal says, she was called away from the task and later her husband berated her for her neglect of the animal.

EVEN LINEN TOWELS COMMON

Inkeeper's Protests to Health Officials Vain Against Pennsylvania Law.

Harrisburg, Pa.—A strange interpretation of the state law prohibiting the use of the "common towel" in public places has been received by state health officials from a hotel proprietor in a small town. A formal notice was served on him that he must discontinue the use of a "common towel" in his inn. In an indignant protest he replied that he did not "use common towels," but had his wife make a special trip to Philadelphia to purchase linen ones. State health officials disagree with his interpretation of the law, and have notified him to discontinue the "common towel," even if it is linen.

ANOTHER MISTAKE

The Nogales Herald of last Friday carried the following account of the dog killing in Patagonia: "Stray dogs are having a hard time these days in Patagonia."

"The poison route for the fidos was decided upon following the appearance of a mad dog in Patagonia a few days ago. The animal was killed and its brain sent to Tucson, where it was found to have the rabies."

The Herald is mistaken on the Sheriff's office is out of order in giving instructions that dogs be poisoned. It is a violation of the laws of Arizona for any person to poison any kind of dog.

Deputy Sheriff Lou Quinn is the only officer in Patagonia and he states that no orders to put out poison for dogs were issued to him, and he further states that he did not poison any of the dogs that were killed here.

LOW MEN WHO GET INTO PLACES ABOVE THEIR HEADS

Down in Douglas the other day two brothers of a justice of the peace made a frantic effort to "beat up" the city editor of a newspaper because the latter had said something about the "judge" they did not like.

A few days after the affair, the "judge" apologized to everybody he could think of, and it is supposed the incident is closed.

It is a sorry spectacle to see a policeman helping plan for two men to fight another, and to watch a "judge" yelling a lot of encouraging words to the two opponents of one lone man, and staining his position with words unfit to print or repeat.

MAY NOT BE ABLE TO DRAW NEW STATE CONSTITUTION

PHOENIX, Jan. 12.—W. J. Galbraith, the attorney general, in referring to the existing widespread discussion over the state concerning the changing of the State Constitution and concerning the calling of a convention for the purpose of drawing a new Constitution, calls attention to the fact that our present Constitution will perhaps prevent such a proceeding.

Section Two of Article XXI, requires that no convention may be called by the Legislature to propose alterations, revisions or amendments to the Constitution unless laws providing for the calling of such convention shall first be approved by the people on a Referendum vote.

Section Two, Article XXI, reads as follows: "Section 2. No convention shall be called by the Legislature to propose alterations, revisions, or amendments to this Constitution, or to propose a new Constitution, unless laws providing for such convention shall first be approved by the people on a Referendum vote at a regular or special election, and any amendments, alterations, revisions, or new Constitution proposed by such Convention shall be submitted to the electors of the State at a general or special election and be approved by the majority of the electors voting thereon before the same shall become effective."

The deputy sheriff was called to Grizzly Gulch last week to investigate a mystery in that outcropping settlement. A man was found dead in a shack with no clue as to what caused his death. The deputy sheriff discovered a locked trunk over in one corner of the room, which when opened was found to contain a phonograph with a record on the machine. An attachment was on the machine that had been used to reproduce the human voice. When the record was played the story it told was that "I am tired of living. I have no relatives in this country or in any other country. Bury me on the hillside." The last sound recorded was the noise of a gun shot. As the unknown dead man had been shot, the deputy sheriff reasoned it out that the man had talked into the machine, born and then shot himself, the seventh record recording the sound of a shot as well as the last words of the man. The only way in which the coroner differed with the deputy's theory was that the man, who evidently died instantly, could not have placed the phonograph in the trunk and turned the key.

CALL ISSUED FOR STATE GOOD ROADS CONVENTION IN NOGALES

TUCSON, Jan. 6.—O. C. Parker, president of the Arizona Good Roads Association, has just issued a call for the annual meeting of the association to assemble at Nogales, January 23rd and 24th. Governor Thos. E. Campbell has accepted an invitation to be present and address the gathering. Among others who have been invited to be present and speak, are Governor General Angel Flores of the State of Sinaloa, Mexico, and Hon. Thos. H. McDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads at Washington.

The meeting will open at 10 a. m. at the Santa Cruz Club, Nogales, when J. H. Harrison, the mayor of Nogales, will welcome the delegates on behalf of the border city. Governor Francisco S. Elias of Sonora has also been invited and is expected to attend.

Every county is entitled to five delegates which are appointed by the board of supervisors. Cities are entitled to five delegates also, commercial and all other organizations are entitled to two delegates each. Individuals are entitled to one vote. All representatives must attend to vote. No proxies are allowed.

The Nogales Chamber of Commerce is planning to entertain the visitors. Details of the entertainment will be announced later.

ARMY SERGEANT MISSING AT DOUGLAS

DOUGLAS, Jan. 12.—Army authorities are searching for Sgt. S. E. McDaniels, in charge of the aviation field at Douglas, who has been missing since a week ago last Monday night at 9 o'clock.

Sergeant McDaniels, who three months ago married Miss Alma Bullock of this city, apparently had no reason to end his life and his sudden disappearance is baffling the military authorities. His home life was fair and so far as is known he had no financial affairs to worry him.

At 9 o'clock Monday night Sergeant McDaniels left his home at Camp Douglas for the aviation field to make a final inspection for the night. He never returned home, but no search was instituted until Wednesday. Thursday the police were asked by the military authorities if they had a soldier in jail by that name. Replying in the negative, there was no more said to them until yesterday when they were asked to assist in the search for the missing man.

Post play has been suggested by friends of Sergeant McDaniels, while it is considered possible by others that he wandered away from work and lost in the hills. For the past few days before he disappeared he seemed to be extremely nervous, his wife told the military authorities.

Deputy sheriffs and the military authorities will institute a thorough search of the country surrounding Douglas.

Catarrrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or buzzing in the ears, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is cured by Heile's Catarrh Medicine. It acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. PUNISH VAMPS DEMANDS JURY

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 11.—The grand jury here in its report makes the following recommendation: Punishment of frauds found guilty of reprehensible conduct with other women's husbands.

Women of the "camp" variety, who steal away other women's husbands and obtain from them the support that otherwise would go to the wife and children, should be punished, in the opinion of the grand jury, which after hearing a considerable number of cases involving husband larceny, proposed such a remedy in its report.

BE YOURSELF AGAIN PE-RU-NA Will Help You The chances are that you are suffering from catarrhal poisons which have gone all over your system resulting in loss of weight, strength, nerve force and ambition. Systemic catarrh acts that way. The poisons have accumulated faster than the organs of elimination could throw them off, the human machinery has become clogged to the point of breaking down and the general health collapses. There is in every such case a stagnation of the mucous surfaces preventing normal action of one or more of the vital organs. What is needed is a remedy of tonic properties that will invigorate the whole body by restoring the digestion and cleaning up the stagnation. For fifty years Dr. Hartmann's Pe-ru-na has been performing just that service for millions. Designed especially for all forms of catarrh and catarrhal poisoning the action of Pe-ru-na is very direct and satisfying as is testified by many users. PERSONAL EXEMPTION CLAUSES IN 1921 REVENUE ACT

The following statement has been made public by Alfred Franklin, collector of internal revenue in the district of Arizona, to assist the public in understanding the complications of the income tax law:

"The revenue act of 1921 contains two new and important provisions, which are the subject of frequent inquiry. The first relates to the personal exemptions allowed married persons, and the second to the provision requiring that a return be made of gross income of $1000 or more.

What Act Provides

"The act provides that a married person, living with husband or wife, whose net income for 1921 was $5000 or less shall be allowed a personal exemption of $2500. If the net income of such person was over $5000 the exemption is $2000. Under the revenue act of 1918 the personal exemption allowed a married person was $2000, regardless of the amount of net income. The normal tax rate remains unchanged, 4 per cent on the first $4000 of net income above the exemption and 8 per cent on the remaining net income.

In order that an income slightly in excess of $5000 shall not be subjected to an inordinately disproportionate tax because of the reduction of the exemption to $2000 thereon, the law provides that such reduction shall not operate to increase the tax, which would be payable if the exemption were $2500, by more than the amount of the net income in excess of $5000.

"For example: On a net income of $1010, the tax, without this saving clause, would be $126.40, which is 4 per cent on $3010, the amount of net income less an exemption of $2000. The actual tax is $110.40, computed as follows: From the net income of $5010 is deducted $2500, leaving $2510, the 4 per cent tax on which amounts to $100.40. To this is added $10, the amount of net income in excess of $5000."

The personal exemption allowed married persons, apply also to the head of a family, a person who supports in one household one or more relatives by blood, marriage or adoption.

Heretofore, a person whose net income was less than his exemption ($1000 if single, or $2000 if married), was not required to file a return. Under the revenue act of 1921, if the gross income of an individual equalled or exceeded $5000, or if the combined gross income of a married couple and that of dependent minor children equalled or exceeded $5000, a return must be filed, regardless of the amount of net income.

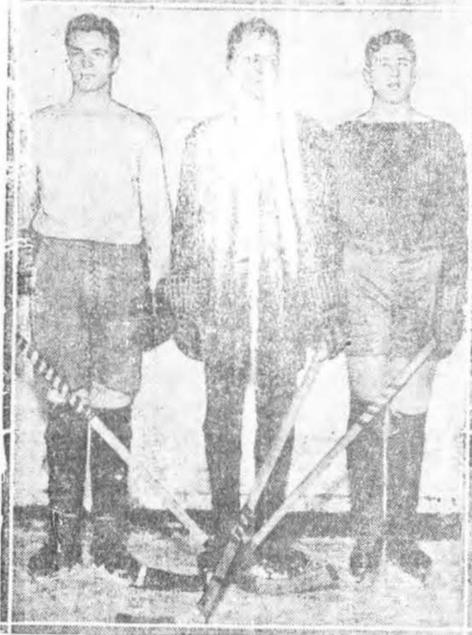

"Net income" is gross income, less certain deductions. The fact that allowable deductions from gross income, for business expenses, losses, debts, etc., may reduce the net income to an amount below the personal exemptions of $1000 or $2000, does not alter the requirement to file a return of gross income, if such gross income equalled or exceeded $5000.

DEATH OF WINSLOW MAN BEING PROBED

HOLBROOK, Ariz., Jan. 12.—Another chapter in the unusual case centering about the mysterious death of R. A. McLennan, Santa Fe conductor, in Los Angeles last June after a long illness resulting from three bullet wounds, was started in Holbrook, Ariz., last week when the grand jury here reopened the case.

Many witnesses were subpoenaed from Winslow, the former home of Mr. McLennan, to appear before the inquisitorial body in Holbrook. Mrs. Elsie McLennan, the dead man's widow, who was accused of firing the shots that resulted in her husband's death, was charged with murder in a complaint issued a few weeks after the tragedy.

She denied all knowledge of the crime and apparently established an alibi when she was questioned in Los Angeles where she was living at the time her husband died at a local hospital. She later returned to Winslow, where the shooting occurred, and was arrested. Her case was continued several times and despite the vigorous attempts of members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen to push the prosecution, the case apparently was lost sight of for several weeks.

No information concerning the nature of the grand jury investigation was given out. From several witnesses who were in Los Angeles during the first inquiry into the death, it was learned that Mr. McLennan died without telling who fired the fatal shot. He was quoted as saying he knew who did it, but would not divulge the information.

County autopsy Surgeon Wagner's report to Coroner Nance here indicated that the shots might have been self-inflicted, although this was regarded as improbable.

College Man Kills Himself

PERU, Nebraska, Jan. 12.—Lynn S. Andrews, twenty-seven, head of the agricultural department of Peru College, was found dead on a road near the college campus today.

CHAPTER XV.

Two days before Bill Dale was tried in court at Cartersville, the new Elizabeth Littleford alighted from an afternoon train at the Halfway switch. She was dressed in a smart and neatly-fitting suit of dark blue, with long white gloves and a hat of dark blue velvet with a touch of white. In one of her strong and well-shaped, gloved hands she carried a traveling bag of black leather.

A big and handsome young man in boots and corduroys listened to her. He raised his broad-brimmed hat, smiled, took the bag, and pressed her hand as though he was very glad to see her.

"Bill Dale!" she cried joyously above the roar of the passing train. "Bill Dale, it's me!"

"Sure, it's me!" laughed Dale. "How good you look! I can hardly believe it's you."

"But it is," she smiled. "Tell me: what do you think the outcome of your trial is going to be?"

Dale noted that her English had improved, and as it was gratifying to him, as for the trial—

"I don't know," he said. "But Major Bradley thinks I'll come clear. He believes that somebody that was hidden on the mountainside above us shot Paul to save me. By Heck hinted that he knew that this was the case; and he intimated that I would stand a better chance of acquittal than anybody else would stand, and that if I received a sentence the right man would come forward with a confession. I have an idea that By Heck himself killed Adam Ball—that is, if I didn't do it."

"And Cale Moreland—wasn't it fine for him to do what he did for you, Bill Dale? How are you getting along with the mine?"

"First rate," Dale answered, brightening at once. "We're shipping now, and we're getting a smashing price for every ounce of it."

"I see," said the young woman. He went on:

"All of the boys and girls of the Morelands, except the very little ones, are in school at Cartersville, and they're learning fast. When our best-revel capital is paid back, the Moreland families are going to buy farms lying near Cartersville and go to them, a big homestead farm close to good schools and a good little town—well, there are worse places on earth. My poor invalid Moreland can't know about it."

"I'd say?"

"She lunged her head. She was thinking, as she had so often thought before, of her own benighted people."

"And the Littlefords?" she murmured. It had slipped past her lips, Dale and the Morelands loved the Littlefords nothing.

Dale understood, and he gave her a sympathetic glance.

"A lot of the boys and girls of the Littlefords are going to school in Cartersville, perhaps one from each family," he told her. "It is rather expensive, you know, an account of the boarding, and they can't afford to send all their children. However, I think—ultimately—your people will have their chance for education, too."

"But it won't do much good to educate one out of each family," said Elizabeth. "They'd come straight back here when they got through with their schooling, and soon forget—I mean forget!—it all. If they make their learning pay 'em anything, they'll have to say where they can use it."

She began to stare absently toward her westward feet.

"Are you ready to go?" Dale asked. Elizabeth Littleford raised her head with a slight jerk and said rather awkwardly:

"Has the valley changed much?"

"Not very much," answered Dale. "There's a new log church, where an old minister named Ashby Cross preaches the gospel of straight walking and human kindness every Sunday. Henderson Goff isn't here any more, but he sent me his address in case we wanted to sell the mine! The Terrys have gone back to Jerusalem Cove and Hutton's belt, and the Balls are as quiet as mice. These, I believe, are all the changes worth mentioning."

"Together they set out and walked, without saying much, to the crest of David Moreland's mountain, and there they halted. The autumn sun, a great red ball of fire, was just setting beyond the majestic Big Pine."

Dale pointed to a long, moss-covered slab of brown sandstone.

"Let's sit down there and rest," he suggested. "You're tired, Babe, I know. Don't mind my calling you 'Babe,' do you?"

She looked at him as though she was surprised at his asking that. They sat down.

Bill Dale suddenly leaned toward her and took one of her hands; and he didn't take it as Jimmy Payne had done—as though he were afraid of it.

"You know I love you, don't you Babe?"

"I've been believe'n 'r," she told him after a moment of painful silence. She was a trifle pale now. "But it—Bill Dale, it somehow don't seem just right for you to love me. Because I'm such a poor little nobody. I'm as ignorant as sin; and I haven't—haven't even got good manners. But—but if you love, if you're sure you do, tell me why!"

"There came another minute of painful silence."

"Because," said Dale, speaking slowly, "you've always seemed to be one of my own kind. You seem real, to me. I was so sick of artificialities in women that I loved you the moment I saw you. I know you are primitive, but I am primitive, too. And you weren't calling yourself 'Ma-a-m-a-m-a' to a—d—prodder."

"Major Bradley," he went on, "feels sure that I will be acquitted. If it turns out like that, I want you to marry me at once. Tell me—will you, Babe?"

How boyishly impatient he was. Was he afraid he would lose her by waiting?

"You love me, don't you, Babe?" he pursued.

She faced him with the sudden, queer light of a tragedy in her eyes. But she didn't speak. He pressed her hand until it hurt and demanded:

"You do, don't you, Babe?"

"Yes," she told him, in a voice that he barely heard.

"Then why won't you marry me?" She didn't answer. She wouldn't answer.

The day of the trial dawned clear, with the snap of autumn in the air. The courthouse was filled to its capacity within fifteen minutes after he began, when Elizabeth inter-upted:

"We're ridin' too fast. We're too much ahead of the others. One of them Balls might try to pick you off with his side gun."

"Not much danger of that," Dale replied. "The Balls have already been warned about sniping; your father told them that their very name would be scoured off the earth if there was any sniping. Besides, By Heck is acting as advance guard somewhere ahead of us."

He continued, "As soon as I can build and furnish a little house out near the mine, I want you to marry me, Babe. Will you?"

Elizabeth Littleford seemed not to have heard.

"Will you, Babe?" She faced him sadly. He saw in her hazel eyes the same queer light of tragedy that he had seen there a day or two before; and now, as then, he wondered what it could mean.

"Tell me, Babe!" Her head felt forward. The sunlight found glints of gold in her thick chestnut-brown hair. She was silent for a moment; then her voice came duly:

"I'd better not marry you, Bill Dale."

Dale sat up straight and rigid in his saddle and stared hard at her so comely beautiful profile. He could hardly believe that he had heard correctly. He knew she loved him. She had told him that she loved him. Then why wouldn't she marry him? He tried to reason it out; and the attempt failed his brain ache; he was unable to reason. He knew only that she was all of the future to him, all of the world to him, and—that she had refused to marry him.

When they were within two miles of home, Dale went suddenly white and caught her almost rudely by a wrist.

"Is it Jimmy Payne?" he demanded hoarsely.

She gave him a reproachful glance and said nothing. He flung her hand from him angrily.

Dale did not speak again until they had entered the broad valley that was home to him. Somehow he felt limp now. The great wave of anger had passed.

"I guess you are too good for me," he said. There was weakness in his voice, and it was the first weakness she had ever known in him.

"Will you always think of me as the finest and most beautiful woman in the world?" she asked.

"Always."

"It's the best I can hope for," murmured Elizabeth.

"What do you mean?"

"It's the best I can hope for," Elizabeth repeated as though she were talking to herself.

"They rode on in silence."

There was no sleep for Bill Dale that night. The sweetness of his liberty had all been taken away by Babe Littleford's refusal to marry him. It became bitter toward her again. She had been exceedingly unfair to him; while she really loved him, she was going to marry Jimmy Payne because he had so much money. She was ungrateful to him; it was through him that she was being educated, and Elizabeth lifted out of her mouth and uttered a cry of indignation.

"On the mornin' of the killin' Bill had started up the river by himself. It was dangerous for him to go off like that, on account of them Balls and Terrys. Back in the Big Pine country there is a tall, thin man named Sam Heck. He's a big enter, an awful liar, and a worshiper of Bill Dale. Sam heard my father say it was dangerous."

Elizabeth interrupted her. "There was the killin' of that leather, Adam Ball. I went to 'tend the trial because I knew I could clear your son if Major Bradley couldn't. You see, Mrs. Dale, I happened to know who did kill Adam Ball, and I want to tell if it was necessary."

CHAPTER XVI.

Confession.

If the impulsive, fighting Bill Dale could have heard across the intervening miles the conversation that took place in his old home the next evening, he would probably have followed Ben Littleford's daughter by the next train if he had had to hold it up at the point of an honest blue gun in order to get aboard it.

John K. Dale and his wife had gone into the library with Elizabeth at her request. The three sat down facing each other. The younger woman was ill at ease; she was glad that the lights were subdued and soft. When the silence had become heavy, she straightened in her chair and blurted out faintly:

"Bill asked me to marry him, and I wouldn't do it. I—I thought maybe I ought to tell you."

The Dales exchanged glances; then they looked back at Elizabeth Littleford. Dale smiled a fatherly smile. Mrs. Dale's eyes narrowed. The old stiffness rose within her and began to make stubborn war against her more recently acquired common sense.

"Have you quarreled?" she asked.

"No."

"Well," old Dale said bluntly, "what's wrong?"

"It isn't his fault," Elizabeth told them. "In a savage," she went on desperately—"and he isn't my kind."

John K. Dale retired very early that night. When the sound of his footsteps had died away, his wife bent toward Elizabeth and said earnestly:

"Why did you call yourself a savage?"

Elizabeth told of her early life in the hills, of the feud between her people and the Morelands and how she had hated the bloodshed. She told of the coming of Major Bradley, of the burning thirst for education, of the old trainman who had thrown her a newspaper each day, and of the coming of Bill Dale.

"I was lonesome," she continued, "and nobody ever seemed to understand how I felt. That is, until Bill Dale came. After I met him, I couldn't see anything but him; he seemed to me like something I'd had and lost. . . ."

"Then," said Mrs. Dale, "why did you refuse to marry—"

"Wait—you don't know it all," Elizabeth interrupted her. "There was the killin' of that leather, Adam Ball. I went to 'tend the trial because I knew I could clear your son if Major Bradley couldn't. You see, Mrs. Dale, I happened to know who did kill Adam Ball, and I want to tell if it was necessary."

"But he's the biggest liar in the state," muttered Dale, turning back to his desk.

He closed his desk, and he didn't work any more that day. Babe Littleford had gone without even bothering to tell him goodbye.

Waiter—Directly, sir. (Opens the window.)
Second Guest (a little later)—Waiter, there's draught enough to give one a death of cold. Do shut the window.
Waiter—Yes, sir. (Shuts the window.)
First Guest—Waiter, are you mad? Why have you closed the window? Open it again at once.
Waiter—Very good, sir. (Goes to proprietor.) Sir, one of the gentlemen wants the window open and the other wants me to shut it. What am I to do?

May Take New Census in 1925

Considerable Dissatisfaction Expressed Over Count Made Year Ago.

REPRESENTATION IS AFFECTED

Census Taking in January Is Disapproved on Ground That Weather in That Month Is Serious Handicap.

Washington.—Because of "considerable dissatisfaction" with the result of the count in the census taken last January, the house census committee is considering legislation providing for another enumeration of the population of the United States in 1925, or some other year prior to the next decennial census. Secretary Hoover says in that portion of his annual report dealing with the activities of the census bureau.

"This proposed legislation has my approval," Mr. Hoover says, adding that "it has frequently been contended that the distribution of the population as shown by the reports of the fourteenth census is abnormal," and that prior to that enumeration there was a great movement from rural to urban districts which, since the enumeration, has been neutralized in large measure by a reverse movement.

Affects Congress Representation. "Further, it is said, that this shifting of the population affected the totals for certain states, thus influencing the apportionment of representatives in congress."

Census taking in January is disapproved on the ground that the weather in that month is a serious handicap to the enumerators, delaying the work and making it necessary "to take unusual precautions to insure a complete canvass."

The report says that the time for taking the next census should be in April, as was the case before the last census. The change for the last census was made, it says, at the request of various interests making use of agricultural statistics, the idea being that more accurate statistics could be obtained concerning the activities of the farms if the canvass was made shortly after the end of the year to which it related.

Mr. Hoover also says that the new director of the census, William M. Stewart, is of the opinion that, in order to advance the work of subsequent censuses, it will be necessary that changes be made in methods of procedure, if not in the scope, of some of the inquiries.

"It would hasten the publication of the figures for the total population," the report says, "if the supervisors in the various districts under the preliminary count and announced the population, subject to correction, for the political subdivisions of their districts."

To avoid duplication of effort and eliminate annoyance to manufacturers and others, the commerce secretary has asked the director of the census to negotiate with other statistical bureaus of the federal government looking to a consolidation of effort in this direction.

"Many complaints have been received from manufacturers and others

Charged With Keeping Little Girl Like a Dog

Charged with literally having treated her eight-year-old granddaughter like a dog, Mrs. Lillie Gross of New York city is being held without bail pending investigation.

The complaint alleges that the woman tied the child under the house all day, made her sleep on an old coat beside a real dog, kept her in the coal bin during rainy weather, beat and underfed her, and sent her into the streets to beg.

Concerning the numerous requests made by the federal bureau for statistical and other information," Mr. Hoover says, "I feel confident that in many instances the periodic investigations of the bureau of census are all that is necessary to make, and that the investigation of the other bureaus could, with advantage, be discontinued."

Calling attention to the fact that some census records were destroyed in a recent fire in the department of commerce building, Mr. Hoover declares that a hall of records in which these documents can be stored and conveniently examined is urgently needed.

Bridge to Have Longest Span

Structure to Connect Detroit and Windsor Will Break All Records.

Detroit, Mich.—Plans for the new international suspension bridge to connect Detroit and Windsor, just announced, show that it will have the longest single span in the world, measuring 1,802 feet, or 24 inches longer than the great cantilever at Quebec.

Of double-deck construction, the new link between Canada and the United States will accommodate street car, automobile and pedestrian traffic on the upper deck and passenger and freight train service on the lower deck.

Barring unforeseen delays, actual construction work will commence next spring, and within four years the upper deck should be ready for service.

Without interfering with traffic on the highway deck, it is planned then to begin construction of the lower deck, which should be finished in two years more.

The bridge and its approaches will have a total weight of 107,000 tons, with eight cables carrying the huge span. Six of these cables will be 21 inches in diameter, and two will be 18 inches thick; together they will support a pull of 140,000,000 pounds.

Suspended from two towers, each rising 380 feet above the water, the span will have a width of 97 feet for the highway deck with two trolley tracks, two sidewalks and two roadways, while the lower deck will have four railway tracks and a 20-foot space for public utilities equipment. Electric locomotives would be used for traffic across the lower deck.

Completion of the bridge will mean the end of the train ferries, which for years have carried freight and passenger traffic across the Detroit river, even after the opening of the Michigan Central tunnel.

The bridge, which will be built by the Canadian Transit company and the American Transit company, with the approval of the Canadian and United States governments, will span the river almost from the center to the shore line of the two cities. Construction is expected to begin from the American side.

The promoting companies have been authorized to issue $30,000,000 in securities for the project. It is estimated that completion of the highway or upper deck will cost approximately $15,000,000. Purchase of shore space for the approaches is under way.

Plans for the bridge were drawn chiefly by Charles E. Fowler of New York. Associated with him in the erection of the structure will be George H. Pogram, chief engineer of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, New York; Prof. William H. Burr of New York, Col. C. M. Mousset, Montreal; Prof. C. R. Young of the University of Toronto, and Prof. H. E. Riggs of the University of Michigan.

Trying to Save Vollandam's Ducks

A government veterinary is shown inoculating one of the 100,000 ducks in the picturesque little Dutch village of Vollandam, on the Zuider Zee, against the duck plague which threatens to wipe out the town's principal industry. The ducks are fed on tiny fish, too small for human consumption, which abound in the Zee. Recently the waters about the village have become stagnant and filthy, resulting in the epizootic.

HE WANTED TO FIGHT GERMANY

Arctic Adventurer Travels Three Years to Enlist.

Arrives in Nome and, Not Knowing the War Was Over, Tries to Enlist in American Army So He Could Fight in France.

Nome, Alaska.—An arctic adventurer, E. D. Seaman, sailed into Nome from the frozen north recently, and, not knowing that the war was over, tried to enlist in the American army so he could fight in France.

Seaman said he had been three years getting to Nome from the Coronation gulf country, which lies far east on Canada's Arctic coast, and during his journey had received no news from the outside world. He left the gulf, he declared, in October, 1918, when he first heard the United States had entered the war. Seaman was formerly a member of the then Royal Northwest Mounted police.

Soon after Seaman started for Nome the small schooner on which he was journeying was wrecked in the ice, he said, and he and his companions were forced to wait 27 days before they came to an Eskimo village. On their way they lived on roots.

Seaman gave an interesting description of the life of the Eskimos of Coronation gulf. The natives, he said, still use the bow and arrow, but are gradually getting accustomed to the use of firearms, which were introduced recently. The natives live on caribou and seal.

A rifle in the Coronation country sells for $100, cartridges for 30 cents each, sugar is $1 a pound, butter $3.80 a pound and milk $1 a can, Seaman said. The cost of clothing, however, is lower, a "parka" cape being sold for $4, mukluks, or native shoes, for 50 cents a pair and fine fur mittens for three boxes of 1-cent matches.

RACE ON ISLAND FAST DYING

Disease Reduces Population of Marquesas From 100,000 to 1,800 in 50 Years.

Honolulu, T. H.—Tremendous decreases in the native population of the Marquesas islands, 2,000 miles south by east of the Hawaiian archipelago, have resulted from the ravages of disease and the adoption of many modern customs recently, according to Dr. G. S. Handy, ethnologist of the Bishop museum here, who spent nine months on the islands gathering data on the origin of the Polynesian race, habits and customs of the natives, and their ethnology and anthropology.

"Fifty years ago the Marquesas Islanders probably numbered between 50,000 and 100,000," Doctor Handy said. "Today there are only about 1,800 natives. Smallpox and pokoko, a particularly swift and virulent form of tuberculosis, played havoc among them."

The post office department admitted that the fraudulent stamps were practically identical with the authorized ones and that it was not possible to trace the source of the questionable supply.

A Big Reduction. A certain young man, who was ambitious to shine in the newspaper world, did not last very long on the paper in a Western town that gave him his chance.

He was assigned to "cover" a fire in a group of ice houses near town. After telling how they went up in flames, he inserted this statement in story:

"Accordingly twelve hundred tons of ice were reduced to ashes."

"Those Who Dance Must Pay The Fiddler"

There's a settlement in profit or loss, for nearly every indulgence.

Sometimes the pay day is long deferred, and in that case the settlement may bear compound interest.

Often a payment in ill health is required for the dance had with tea or coffee during earlier years. Sometimes the collection comes in sleeplessness, sometimes in headaches, sometimes in high blood pressure, or in nervous indigestion—sometimes in all these penalties.

Nerves won't always stand the whipping of tea and coffee's drug, caffeine.

If you've been dancing to tea or coffee's fiddling, why keep on till payment time comes? If you're beginning to pay, now, why not cancel the contract?

There's an easy and pleasant way to avoid tea and coffee's penalties, as thousands have found who have changed to Postum. It is a delight with any meal—rich, comforting and satisfying—and it never harms. Even the little children can have a breakfast cup of Postum, with no fear for what may happen to sensitive nerves.

Instead of paying penalties for your meal-time drink, let it pay benefits to you, by giving natural health a full chance—and begin the new arrangement today. Any grocer will sell you, or any good restaurant will serve you Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.
