ELGIN NEWS NOTES

Mrs. Margaret Carter spent Sunday in Elgin, visiting friends.

A party of Elgin people, composed of Mrs. W. H. Collie, Miss Sophie Sjoberg, Mark Bossinger and several others, climbed Biscuit mountain, near Elgin, last Sunday. The writer thinks it is a nice trip for those who like that kind of exercise.

Mrs. O. J. Rothrock was a Nogales visitor Monday.

Oliver Rothrock was in Patagonia Saturday for a load of telephone poles which were taken to the Forest Ranger station at Canille.

G. P. Woodward and family of Sonoma were Patagonia visitors Saturday.

Eddie Farrenkopf and Howard Dalton have received their new clarinets. We all hope they get along nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon and daughters were Elgin visitors Friday from their ranch, near Fairbank.

Vincent Hammerly and Charlie Davis, of Hollywood, Calif., are visiting at the ranch of C. M. Melick. They will remain indefinitely.

Ira Brooks was a Tucson visitor last week.

Henry Barton had the misfortune to lose his gold watch at Elgin Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCarty were business visitors to Nogales Monday.

SCHOOL NOTES

(Mignon Stevens, Editor)

The Sixth grade is taking tests in history and geography.

The A class is gathering pictures for health posters and lessons.

Primary grade pupils are improving in combinations.

The Ju-Ex Sewing Club girls gave a tea and exhibition of their work for their mothers last Friday. Mrs. E. D. Farley allowed the girls to use the hotel lobby. The mothers were invited to come at 3:30 o'clock, but the girls left school at 3 p. m. to arrange the room and make the tea. The girls were divided into three committees, one setting the table, another receiving the guests and the third sewing. They sewed for a while, then tea was served.

Fifth grade pupils are using the dictionary to good advantage.

Fourth grade scholars are doing good work in language.

COMPULSORY ACCIDENT INSURANCE

(From the Brooklyn Eagle)

Insurance men named in December a committee of nine on financial responsibility for automobile accidents to pass on proposed legislation. Of this the most debated feature was compulsory accident insurance. The surface thinker would have expected the insurance interests to favor this, meaning as it must a tremendous increase in their business. Herefore the report of the committee headed by Edison S. Lott, president of the United States Casualty Company, antagonizing compulsory insurance is real news, offering what was unanticipated by most New Yorkers.

It is held that if the state lawmakers were to introduce such a policy the cost of insurance to everybody would go up. Sweeping assumption or frisks would hit the companies hard instead of benefiting them. That is the opinion of the biggest men and the biggest interests in accident insurance.

But this report does not neglect the broader question of the effect of the compulsory plan: Would it tend to suppress reckless driving? No; it would rather encourage reckless driving. Life and limb would be put in greater peril than at present. It is claimed that the number of street accidents is growing fewer no with proportion to the number of motor cars driven on the highways. Fuller enforcement of existing law is recommended so that the "saving of life and limb" will be substituted for the palliative of a assured indemnity. The mulcting of millions of decent law-abiding car owners to pay for the errors of a relatively few reckless persons is opposed.

This reasoning has much to commend it to the average mind. Certainly the insured driver lacks one motive for care, one restraint on taking chances that affect the uninsured driver. Albany legislators should consider both sides before they hurry in to the adoption of compulsory insurance.

To Keep Your Form Roll and Wear Corsets Says Venus of The Air

FLOOR rolling and a corset will do it. What? What every woman wants to do—either keep from losing or restore the grace of her figure!

Now comes another authority in the train of those experts who prescribe ways and means to allay the pervasive feminine fear of the graceless figure.

Marie Meeker, known all over America as "The Venus of the Air," speaks with the force of practical experience successfully applied.

Dainty Marie, generally acknowledged to possess the most shapely figure vaudeville ever knew, believes in the use of the sensible corset.

"Women," said Miss Marie, "make a mistake when they go uncorseted. As an athlete I know the value of a brace for the vital organs and, while I do not wear a corset while exercising on my aerial apparatus, I put it on immediately after I finish."

"I have developed, through experimenting, a method for reducing women who are too fat. My system has been endorsed by physicians. It involves the floor-rolling method with a distinctly different movement for each fatty part. If the fat is in the abdominal region, a corset, after rolling, retains the advantage one gains through my method. I think, in addition, a corset adds much to neatness in dress, a condition all women are desirous of obtaining."

"A year ago, through an accident, I had to leave off my exercises for a while. Immediately I began to accumulate fat. Soon I weighed 160 pounds. Upon recovering from my injuries, I reduced myself to 128 pounds through my rolling method. That is my weight now."

SUBSCRIBER SENDS LETTER OF APPRECIATION

The "People's Forum" department of The Patagonian is open to all of our subscribers who have views to express on civic or other questions when the communications are not intended to vent personal spleen and do not contain matter libelous or defamatory. The following letter of appreciation for this privilege was received this week:

"Canille, Ariz., March 16, 1925.

"Editor, Patagonian: Dear Sir—Your valuable publication is a God-send to the people of the state of Arizona."

"How in the name of heaven are the American taxpayers ever going to get a wrong righted if the newspapers of their different localities cover up, suppress and refuse to enlighten their readers of certain menaces confronting them?"

"The Nogales Herald and the Tucson Citizen refused to print my article enlightening the taxpayers as to Senate Bill 89, thereby helping to defeat that bill."

"If there is a bunch of Jews with a Gentile front, or a bunch of Scotchmen with a Swede front, or a bunch of any nationality with a front deliberately exploiting a certain class of people in our nation, then the taxpayers, who are innocent parties to that exploitation and ignorant of it, have a right and are entitled to know it, and newspapers which cover up, suppress and are controlled by such interests are worse than exploiters."

"Thanks on behalf of the people of Santa Cruz county for a red-blooded American newspaper."

"Sincerely and thoughtfully,

"M. W. EASON, Canille, Ariz."

IMMIGRATION QUESTION TO BE TAKEN UP AT DOUGLAS

Douglas.—Plans to combat the proposal to apply the American immigration quota law to the Republic of Mexico and to formulate a plan if possible for the establishment of a free zone along the border covering approximately the city limits on each side of the international line in which all passport restrictions will be waived, will be the main topic of discussion at the western division conference of the chamber of commerce to be held in Douglas, April 21, 22 and 23, it is reported.

STATE COURTS CAN TRY 18TH AMENDMENT VIOLATORS

Washington, D. C.—Persons charged with violating the 18th Amendment can be tried in state courts, the supreme court declared in substance in dismissing for want of jurisdiction a case brought from Humboldt county, California, by A. Brambini and Isaac Maffia.

SESSION OF 7TH LEGISLATURE ENDS SUNDAY

Ninety Bills Passed, Many of Which Went Through During Last Hours; 33 Approved

Phoenix.—The seventh Arizona legislature, which had journeyed early Sunday morning after a 62-day session, gave its approval to 90 bills. Of this number, 33 have received executive approval and another became a law through expiration of the five-day limit or disapproval by the governor.

Ninety-six house bills still are in the hands of the governor and 19 senate bills still are awaiting executive action. The greater number of these bills were crowded through in the frantic rush of the last few days of the session.

In addition to these, the legislature gave its approval to a resolution provisional ratifying the Colorado river compact. This resolution was sent to the secretary of state by the legislature and he sent certified copies to the governor. The exact status of this resolution is still in doubt, and court action probably will be necessary to determine whether or not it is effective.

The legislature also gave its approval to a joint resolution ratifying the child labor amendment to the United States constitution.

A proposed constitutional amendment allowing the enactment of the workmen's compensation act has not been certified to the secretary of state.

Of the 90 bills approved by the legislature, few make radical changes in the present laws and the session was notable for its lack of freak legislation.

Most legislators went home with the belief that the governor would call them back into extraordinary session before many months. The failure of the legislature to agree on a highway appropriation bill is one reason why the governor might carry out his threat of an extra session, most of them believe.

However, the governor, in his farewell message to the regular session, pointed out a number of places where he thought the legislature had been derelict in its duty.

CAMPAIGN REDUCES LOSS AND DAMAGE TO FREIGHT

Co-operation of shippers and railroad employees has resulted in a 35 per cent reduction of loss and damage to less-than-carload freight handled by the Southern Pacific Company since 1921. This is revealed in a report by R. G. Fagan, superintendent of freight protection for the company, in the current issue of the Southern Pacific Bulletin.

Fagan states that practically one-half of this reduction was made during 1924.

To encourage carefulness in handling freight the company quarterly awards a banner to the division standing lowest in loss and damage prevention work. The Stockton division won the banner for the last quarter of 1924. The San Joaquin division ranked second and the Los Angeles division third.

"Rough handling, illegible and inaccurate marking, improper packing and loading, are the chief causes of loss and damage to freight," said Fagan. "Losses a damage prevention meetings of employees who actually handle freight are held regularly and problems confronting the shippers and carriers are discussed."

FAIMAN GAVE SHEPHERD GERMS FOR "MILLION-DOLLAR" JOB

Chicago.—Charles C. Faiman, proprietor of a school of bacteriology, admitted, according to assistant state's attorneys, that he had given typhoid germs to William D. Shepherd, foster father of William Nelson McClintock, "millionaire orphan," whose death from typhoid fever is now a subject for investigation by the grand jury.

Faiman said he had given the germs to Shepherd after the latter had told him that he "was going to inoculate someone with them" and that "it is a million-dollar deal," Shepherd said, Faiman told assistant state's attorneys, "and that each of them would be rich if the deal went through."

BOY SCOUTS AND FOREST SERVICE SIGN AGREEMENT

Albuquerque, N. M.—An important general co-operative agreement between Region 12 of the Boy Scouts of America and the U. S. Forest Service has been completed and signed by the regional executive and the district foresters in charge of three western forest service districts, according to District Forester F. C. W. Pooler, who states that by the terms of the agreement the forest service will extend concessions to the Scouts and the Scouts will assist in conservation and in spreading information concerning forest protection.

The Boy Scouts of America in the southwest have been extremely helpful in past years, Mr. Pooler states. They have kept a lookout for forest fires when they were in camps or on hikes in the forests and have rendered valuable assistance in the actual suppression of forest fires on a number of occasions. It is to recognize these service and to enable the whole Boy Scout organization to participate officially in this kind of training that induced the district foresters to enter into the co-operative agreement with the regional executive.

The agreement, which is expected to extend profitable relations and to benefit materially both the forest service and the Scouts, has been formally executed and signed by Charles N. Miller, regional executive for the 12th region, Boy Scouts of America, which includes the states of Arizona, California, Utah and Nevada, and District Foresters P. G. Redington, San Francisco; R. H. Rutledge, Ogden, and F. C. W. Pooler, Albuquerque, for the California Intermountain and Southwestern districts of the forest service. By the terms of the agreement both parties pledge to do certain things that will be mutually helpful to the contracting organizations.

The forest service agrees to lease available camp sites on national forest lands to Boy Scout organizations; to furnish literature concerning forest work, fire prevention and forest protection for the use of scout executives; and, whenever it can be done without interference with regular work, forest officers will give instructional talks to boys at camps or at meetings in towns; go on field trips with the boys and conduct nature study work.

When scouts are called upon by the forest service for reforestation, patrol of fire lines or assistance in trail work, meals and lodgings will be furnished at the expense of the forest service. Boys who have shown unusual proficiency in forest work will be awarded proper credentials by the forest service through scout executives and the forest service will report to the regional office of the boy scouts instances of exceptional and meritorious cooperation on the part of boy scouts.

The regional executive agrees for the scouts that the scouts will practice and preach care with fire in the woods at all times; they will leave camps clean and they will distribute literature during forest protection and fire prevention campaigns. The scouts will assist the forest service, under proper supervision, in reforestation work by growing or planting seedlings or both, as conditions warrant. Older boys will furnish their services, under proper supervision, for patrol of fire lines and will assist in trail work wherever it is possible or feasible. Scout executives will report to the forest service any suggestions for improved co-operation that may come to their attention.

Rather Doubtful Praise

A rich hold banker married a beautiful chorus girl of 17. On his return from the honeymoon he said to his sister-in-law: "What do you think of my wife? Isn't she ravishing?" "Ravishing?" said the sister-in-law. "Stunning! With those blue eyes and that pale golden hair, what a widow she's going to make!"—Kansas City Star.

Dance with Kathryn Farar, Utah's girl wonder violinist, and her harmony boys at Patagonia Thursday, March 26th. This orchestra just recently closed on a big-time vaudeville act on the coast. They play their famous vaudeville act at Tombstone Tuesday with a dance after the show. —Advertisement.

DELIRIUM

SYNOPSIS.—Lee Anderson, Royal Canadian Mounted Police sergeant, is sent to Stony Range to arrest a man named Pelly for murder. He is also instructed to look after Jim Rathway, reputed head of the "Free Traders," illicit liquor runners. At Little Falls he finds Pelly in a room with a gold mine, and is missing. At the hotel appears a girl, obviously out of place in the rough surroundings. A half-breed, Pierre, and a companion, "Shorty," annoy the girl. Anderson interferes in her behalf. The girl sets out for Stony Lake, which is also Anderson's objective. He overtakes her and the two men with whom he had trouble the night before. She is suspicious of him and the two men are hostile. Pierre and Shorty ride on, Anderson and the girl following. In the hills the road is blown up, before and behind the two. Anderson, with his horse, is hurled down the mountain side, senseless. Recovering consciousness, Anderson finds the girl has disappeared, but he concludes she is alive and probably in the power of Pierre and Shorty. On foot he makes his way to Stony Lake. There he finds his companion of the day before, and Rathway, with a girl, Estelle, a former sweetheart of Anderson's, who had abused his confidence and almost wrecked his life. Rathway strikes Estelle, and after a fight Anderson, with Estelle's help, escapes with the girl. Anderson's companion's mind is clouded and she is suffering with a dislocated knee. Anderson sets the knee.

CHAPTER VI—Continued

The joint slipped into position, the tortured body ceased its protest, and Lee rose, the perspiration streaming down his face.

Trembling in the nervous reaction from the struggle, Lee listened to the increasing noise of the motor boat again.

It rose to a roar as it passed again along the channel immediately in front of his hiding place, and gradually dwindled away.

Leaving the girl where she had fallen back into unconsciousness, Lee ascended one of the spruce trees and scanned the channel. The motor boat was moving up the shore of the island along the edge of the reeds. It contained Rathway and two other men.

Another York boat was coming from the direction of the promontory. This contained three men also.

Six on the trail; and Lee guessed that they would leave no nook unsearched in their determination to locate himself and the girl.

The island appeared to be about a mile in length by a third wide. Lee, seeing that discovery was only a matter of time, decided that it would be better to abandon the boat and take refuge somewhere in the underbrush. If the York boat had not been found by nightfall, he could return with the girl and try to escape to the mainland. If it were discovered, their situation would be no worse.

He strapped one of the packs about his back, picked up the girl, and, thus encumbered, proceeded through the thick brush, making for the opposite shore, where he put the girl down in a small dell where the growth was thickest. Removing the tin pannikin from the outside of the pack, he obtained water and poured some down the girl's throat. He noted that the swallowing reflex was present, a favorable sign in unconsciousness, as he had learned at the front.

Toward the middle of the afternoon the sun, which had shone brilliantly throughout the morning, went permanently behind the clouds. Another snowstorm was beating up. A few soft flakes began to fall.

Suddenly a distant hubbub broke out and continued. There was no mistaking what was meant. The York boat had been discovered.

The Free Traders began to beat across the island, calling to one another. Their voices gradually sounded nearer. Crouching beside the girl in the thick of the brush, Lee waited. At a distance he saw two of them pass through the trees and disappear. The shouting died away.

As soon as they had passed him, leaving the girl where she lay, Lee slipped softly through the undergrowth, making his way back to the sandy spit. His expectations were confirmed. The York boat had disappeared.

Reascending the spruce tree, he saw the two York boats moored to the motor boat in mid-channel, a man with a rifle seated in it on guard.

They were trapped on the island. Lee made his way back, and waited while the afternoon wore away. The snow fell thicker. He took off his mackinaw and placed it over the girl. She was no longer in a coma, but semi-conscious, and unaware of her surroundings. She muttered and tossed; sometimes it was all Lee could do to quiet her. And the disjointed fragments of speech that fell from her lips indicated the same mental anguish that she had revealed to him during their ride through the range.

He shuddered to think of her mental agony if she had awakened to find herself a prisoner in Rathway's power at the promontory.

And even in the darkness of their desperate situation, he drew new hope from his resolution. And gradually his plans formed in his mind.

Then night began to fall, and Lee breathed a vast sigh of relief. Unless his plans miscarried, they should be safe upon the mainland well before midnight.

These depended, of course, upon his being able to capture one of the boats. The best plan for the Free Traders would have been to have withdrawn them to the promontory, knowing that Lee could not swim with the girl across that stretch of ice-cold water. Lee felt sure that, in their eagerness, feeling secure in their numbers, they would encamp upon the shore, either beaching the boats or leaving them anchored under the single guard in the middle channel.

About half an hour after dark he set out on his investigations. He moved through the brush as softly as any Indian, and, booted though he was, hardly a twig crackled under his feet.

Making his way toward the central portion, where the trees were sparser and the ground undulating, he soon discovered what he was looking for, the distant glow of a camp fire.

Four men were seated around the fire, drinking and conversing loudly. It was impossible to make out their faces in the darkness, but Lee waited patiently until the light of the fire fell upon each, and ascertained that none of them was bearded.

Rathway, then, was either in charge of the motor boat, with the sixth man, or had been forced to return to his headquarters, owing to his condition.

Lee circled the camp, and discovered, to his joy, the York boat, beached on the shore about twenty-five yards distant. The men had not troubled to draw it up on birch rollers, where it would have been a matter of time and labor to float it again; it lay with its keel in the mud, careening to the lap of the little waves.

Lee cogitated. If the men got drunk that night, it might be possible to make off with the boat without arousing them. On the other hand the probabilities were that through fear of Rathway they would stay sober enough to guard it effectively. And the delay was telling upon his nerves.

He decided that at all cost it was necessary to make the attempt as quickly as possible.

He made his way back to the girl, strapped the pack on his back, and, taking her in his arms, began to approach the encampment by a circuitous route through the trees.

In the darkness, staggering over the uneven ground, and loaded as he was, the task was an all but impossible one. But, added to this, the girl awakened and began talking disjointedly, sometimes crying out in fear. It was almost impossible to quiet her.

She clung to him, moaning. For a whole hour he tried to assuage her terrors, until at last she dropped asleep again from weakness and weariness.

Once more Lee took up his task. Now the campfire came into view. The four men were still visible about it, shouting and quarreling; they were drunk, but not drunk enough to render escape without a fight possible.

Creeping, almost inch by inch, to the extension of raspberry brambles, Lee followed it down to the water's edge and laid the girl down. He looked at her apprehensively for a moment, but her eyes were closed in sleep and her breathing was soft and regular.

Then coolly Lee stepped out into the open space and made his way toward the group.

He was within five and twenty yards of them before they perceived him, and then they seemed to take him for one of their party. Lee's impressions were of confused shouting and challenging. His coolness disconcerted and bewildered them; he was almost upon them before Pierre recognized him.

"By gar, it's dat d-n four-flusher!" he shouted.

And on the instant Lee was into the thick of them. A tall ruffian grasped a rifle and rushed at him. Lee fired. The man, shot through the hand, dropped the rifle, and, uttering a howl of pain, took to his heels in the undergrowth.

A second man was aiming at him. Lee brought the butt of his pistol down upon his head, and the man, collapsing in a mumbling heap, lay face upward upon the ground. Shorty was pulling desperately at a gun. Lee swung at him, missed his skull, but knocked him sidewise with a blow that laid his cheek open to the bone. Shorty dropped and lay still.

Pierre, who had made no movement of aggression, was staring at Lee stupidly.

"Hands up, d-n you!" Lee shouted. Pierre's arms went up to their full height. Lee frisked him, took his gun, took Shorty's and the third man's, and tossed them into the undergrowth as far as he could fling them. He stooped and picked up the rifle that the first man had dropped. And, within a few seconds of the opening melee, Lee found himself, by virtue of the surprise, master of the situation.

But there was no time to be lost, for the tall ruffian who had fled was howling somewhere along the shore, and all depended upon the nearness of the motor boat. Lee, covering Pierre, backed quietly to the place where he had laid the girl. He picked her up and ran toward the boat with her.

Instantly Pierre's figure was blotted out in the darkness. Lee had set down the rifle when he picked up the girl; he placed her in the bottom of the boat, ran back and found it and threw it inside, together with the pack from his shoulders. He raised the heavy anchor. He threw all his weight against the boat, which receded in a trail of viscous mud until it was afloat. Lee leaped in, seized the oars, fired another shot in warning. All the while the wounded man was howling along the shore.

Lee pushed desperately with the oars till he was in deeper water. He pulled furiously for mid-channel. As he did so there came a sound that for one instant almost unnerved him, what with the psychological effect of that all-day listening to the chugging of the engine. Then, as he reached open water, he saw by the light of the pallid moon that issued for a moment through the storm-clouds, the black speck of the motor boat trailing the second York boat dimly.

But suddenly the rattling of the engine died in a splutter. The motor boat was about a hundred yards distant. The next instant the bang of a rifle confirmed Lee's hopes. The engine had either run out of gasoline or had become out of order.

Instantly Lee was pulling as he had never pulled before. Again the rifle sounded. Twice more. Now the motor boat was almost invisible in the darkness.

Then, simultaneously with another discharge, something struck Lee a violent blow in the side that knocked him on his back.

He was up in a moment, and pulling with all his might, though he knew he was on his back.

For a while she had been on the stage, and had earned some reputation as a clever mimic.

For a long time Lee had known nothing of the stories that were being circulated by all the gossips of the town, nor that her name was associated with that of a man named Kean, whom he had never met.

When, burning with anger, he went to confront Estelle, it was to find that she had been warned of his discovery, and had fled from the place—to Kean, the gossips said.

Lee never made any inquiries. As soon as possible he secured a transfer to another post; then he was sent to France, and his life had no room for feminine interests.

About ten months previously, however, while in the trenches, he had had a letter from Mrs. Kean, enclosing a copy of a marriage certificate. She was thinking of a divorce, and wanted to know whether he could give her any information about the couple. Lee knew nothing of either.

But the letter had shaken him a good deal, as had the meeting with Estelle that day as well. What an end for her!

It was a queer personality that talked the fragments of the man whom he had once been, and Lee discovered that this lost portion of his personality was receding to mind all sorts of queer things, quite trivial and unimportant episodes of that unhappy engagement.

And so one part of him held colloquy with the shade of the woman who was now nothing to him, while the other held the unconscious girl, and drove the lagging body onward.

And to his horror, in that dim light the girl he clasped seemed to take on the aspect of Estelle, and he found it was to her that he was talking.

But then he heard her moan slightly, and pulled himself together. This was not Estelle, it was his comrade of the range whom he was carrying. The phantom disappeared into the past, and once more Lee was aware of that odd sense of tender companionship. He rested her head more gently against his shoulder.

At last, when he was satisfied that he had gone the mile he had set himself, he laid the girl down gently on the ground, and, breaking off some spruce branches, he made a bed for her and wrapped her in his mackinaw again.

And with that it was all he could do to hold himself together while he examined his own wound as best he could.

He saw that it was a mere flesh wound. The bone had taken the force of the bullet, which had glanced off, and one broken end was working into the flesh.

He tore some strips from his shirt, and having brought the ends into position, bound them tightly. And then he dropped to the ground at the girl's feet and lapsed immediately into a delicious slumber.

CHAPTER VII

The Girl Awakens

And all that night it was the will that sustained the worn-out body in that fight up through the darkness, and the knowledge that he must retain intact the thread of consciousness if he was to save the girl from the alternative between death in the forest and recapture.

At earliest dawn he must retrieve the pack, in case Rathway's men should decide to beat about the shore and so, perhaps, might find it. Beyond that point he would not let his anticipations carry him.

It was some time before the dawn when Lee heard the girl cry out suddenly, a moan of pain and of surprise as the body, heavy with its coma, struggled to convey the sense of distress to the dazed mind.

That cry drove the phantoms of delirium from Lee's mind, pulling him back to consciousness, and in an instant Lee was at the girl's side, perfectly master of himself, and, as she stirred and murmured, he raised her, put his arms about her, and took her head upon his shoulder, as tenderly as if she were some boy comrade, wounded upon patrol.

But as he listened to her broken utterances Lee realized that it was more than physical pain that was tormenting her.

"I cannot go on. It was too heavy a price. I must go back. If you won't kill him, save me and take me away. It is not that I didn't trust you, only you didn't understand."

"No, I'm not sure that I trust him. He looks honest, but who knows that he is? He isn't a prospector, he hasn't a pick or a pan. What should he be doing in the range? Yes, I'll go through with it. I'll go with you when he's asleep, only don't harm him. You must promise me not to harm him."

"Yes, he means well and wants to help me. He doesn't know who you are. You must swear that no harm shall come to him—"

She was living over again the events of the past. Her utterances became more broken, she moaned—suddenly she lay quiet, relapsing into the sleep of profound exhaustion.

And Lee staggered to his feet and lay down once more.

But this time it was neither to sleep nor to fall back into the nether depths of delirium. He saw that a titanic conflict had been going on within the girl, and it seemed to him now that she had been going up to Rathway. Something in the conversation between Rathway and Estelle—what had it been?

He pondered over it all in a disconnected way as he lay there, still aware that another part of him was living over those days of long ago. Then at last the first light of dawn came creeping through the trees, and slowly this pain-racked, thirst-tormented being settled down into himself again.

As soon as it was half-light he was on his feet. After looking at the girl, and convincing himself that she was not likely to awake for several hours he set off, aching in every limb, toward the shore of the lake, in order to retrieve the pack.

In less than half an hour he emerged out of the forest, and, after a careful survey of the lake had convinced him that neither the Free Traders nor their boats were in evidence he struggled down to the river, and bathed in the ice-cold waters, lapping them up and feeling new life flow into his veins.

He adjusted and tightened the bandages. The broken rib was snugly held, and Lee felt that he had gone through the worst of it.

He found the pack. It contained a blanket and waterproof sheet, tea, sugar, bacon, flour, cream of tartar, salt, corn meal, some dried apricots, matches, and nails; there were a pot, a pannikin, plate, knife, fork, and spoon, an axe and a small saw.

His wound made it impossible to carry this on his back, but with the axe in one hand Lee sliced off a number of pine branches, out of which he constructed a rough framework on which to haul the pack. An hour's work and an hour's struggle through the woods brought him back to the girl.

She was sleeping naturally, and there was a faint tinge of color in her cheeks. After a short rest Lee set about the task of making camp. He gathered brushwood and built a fire, he put on to boil the pot which he had brought back full of water. And, having on the return journey discovered a small, clear stream near by, he decided that that would be a safe camping place until they could proceed, and accordingly bent down some saplings and proceeded to thatch them with branches, to make a shelter for them.

He had just begun when he heard a low call behind him. The girl was awake and conscious at last. She was looking at him in wonder, but not in fear.

Of course the girl's delirious utterances mean nothing. What will the forlorn couple do next?

Inconvenient "Currency"

Economists tell learnedly why money makes the commercial world go round but a Parisian opera singer of a decade ago learned the lesson in one classic experience. She was determined to tour the world thoroughly and she stopped over in the Society Islands, where her manager contracted to have her sing for one-third the receipts. Her share of "the box office" was 3 pigs, 22 turkeys, 44 chickens, 5,000 coconuts and an uncounted quantity of bananas and oranges. She couldn't convert her proceeds; the natives had no money. She fed the fruit to the animals and donated her barnyard to the community when she sailed away.

Chamberlain Praises League

Geneva.—Austen Chamberlain, British secretary of foreign affairs, has returned to London. Before his departure, Mr. Chamberlain said he was deeply impressed by what the council of the League of Nations had accomplished in its recent session in settling numerous problems, remarking that it was a striking proof of the league's usefulness as an international mechanism for co-operation and conciliation. He was convinced that the league will go forward to still further usefulness.

CUT IN NATION'S TAX FORECAST

SOLON FORECASTS CUT OF $300,000,000 IN NATION'S TAXES

SURPLUS IS EXPECTED

SURPLUS OF $373,000,000 EXPECTED BY COMMITTEE AT END OF FISCAL YEAR

Washington.—The outlook for a reduction of $300,000,000 in the nation's taxes for the fiscal year 1926 is "now favorable," Chairman Green of the House ways and means committee said here a few days ago, adding that he saw "nothing to prevent" reducing the maximum surtax to 25 per cent, and general lowering of all other income rates.

"It is the intention," he asserted, "to have the new tax law passed in time to apply to taxes payable next year, and if this is done the administration will have the unprecedented record of having reduced taxation three years in succession."

"A surplus of $373,000,000 has been estimated for the fiscal year 1926," he said, "and the exact amount will be known by the time the committee starts work on drafting a new tax bill, about Oct. 15, so that much work on the proposed measure will be well under way by the convening of Congress in December."

"The original treasury estimates of the surplus for the fiscal years 1925, which ended on June 30, next, was about $88,000,000," he declared. "The receipts from taxes have been larger than were anticipated, principally by reason of the improvement in business generally. Some expenses also will be less, while, on the other hand, some are likely to be larger than was anticipated, of which the refunds of taxes is an instance. On the whole, I think I am safe in saying that the surplus at the end of this fiscal year will exceed $100,000,000."

"The present revenue law went into full effect with the beginning of this calendar year, and great reductions were made in the rates on moderate incomes, which were fixed much below those of the original Mellon plan and far below those of last year, even after the 25 per cent refund was made. In many cases the payment this year will be less than that of a year ago under the same circumstances. Until the new returns, which are now being made, are received by the treasury and tabulated, it is impossible to ascertain the effect of the present rates."

1927 CONVENTION MAY GO TO PARIS

Authorization by the national executive committee to National Commander James A. Drain of the American Legion to appoint a France convention travel committee has given impetus to a movement to hold the 1927 convention of the Legion in Paris.

Commander Drain had suggested that the year 1927 would be very suitable to hold the convention in France. That year marks the tenth anniversary of America's entry into the World war and also of the landing on French soil of the first units of the A. E. F. It had previously been suggested that the 1928 convention be held in Paris. Final decision rests with the national convention.

The national executive committee at the same time selected October 5 to 9 as the dates for the seventh annual national convention of the Legion, which will be held in Omaha, Neb. Selection of the dates had been left to the executive committee by the St. Paul convention.

Preliminary plans for the Omaha convention are far advanced, according to Samuel Reynolds, chairman of the national convention work committee, who reported to the executive committee. He said that among the features of the convention will be a gigantic electrical parade staged by Ak-Sar-Ben, a Nebraska organization. Contests already decided on are: Band, drum and bugle corps and men's glee club contests, trap and pistol shoots and competition between drill teams of the auxiliary.

National standing committees of the Legion have been nominated by Commander Drain and confirmed by the national executive committee. Chairmen of the committees are:

Rehabilitation, Watson B. Miller, Washington; child welfare, Mark T. McKee, Detroit, Mich.; Americanism commission, E. K. Bixby, Muskogee, Okla.; foreign committee on Americanism, Harry W. Berdell, Tampico, Mex.; legislative, O. L. Bodenkammer, El Dorado, Ark.; finance, Wilder S. Metcalf, Lawrence, Kan.; naval affairs, E. E. Spafford, New York city; military affairs, George E. Leach, Minneapolis, Minn.; aeronautics, Reed Landis, Chicago; foreign relations commission, H. Nelson Jackson, Burlington, Vt.; distinguished guests, Alton T. Roberts, Marquette, Mich.; trustees Overseas Graves Decoration trust, Milton J. Foreman, Chicago; oriental, Thomas Swale, Seattle, Wash.; world peace, Thomas Amory Lee, Topeka, Kan.; trophies and awards, Asa Candler, Atlanta, Ga.; revocation of post charters, J. Robert Reichardt, Fort Smith, Ark.; national convention work, Samuel Reynolds, Omaha, Neb.; source records, A. Eugene Pattison, New Jersey.

THE LEGION

AUTHOR WOOLLEY, nationally known speaker, is extolling the American Legion in a series of addresses throughout the country. Speaking at Ogden, Utah, recently he said: "The American Legion is one of the greatest organizations in the country and the most select fraternity in the world. The President of the United States in his message to congress recommends that congress be guided by the American Legion in all matters concerning the ex-service men. . . . Every piece of legislation beneficial to the ex-service men was sponsored and pushed by the Legion. . . . In the minds of those who formed the American Legion were the ties of friendship, the spirit of service in the hour of need, the love of country and a feeling of patriotism. . . . The Legion will keep alive the memories of the great war and thus remove the inevitableness of war. . . . By not forgetting the horrors of the last war, we can avoid future wars."

Forests Advocated as Memorials to Heroes

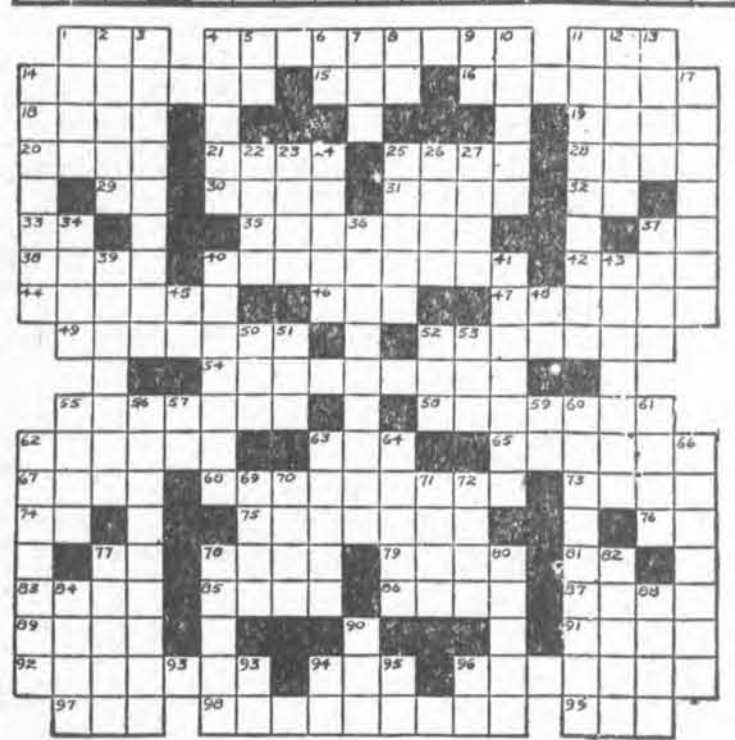

National "memory forests" as the most enduring and practical memorials the nation can dedicate to its dead of the World war were advocated by P. O. Anderson, state agriculturist, in an address.

Mr. Anderson, a World war veteran and a member of the American Legion, declared:

"We of the American Legion were able to get first-hand information regarding what provision the other countries have made regarding their timber supply. Europe has commercial forests. A timber shortage is inevitable in this country unless reforestation is done widely—why not memory forests which will perpetuate the memory of our boys enduringly. . . ."

The American Legion, both in national and state conventions, has pledged itself to a program of conservation and reforestation.

Testimonial of Strength

A man I know told me that one evening he got on an "L" train in Chicago to go to his home in the suburbs. In one of the lengthwise seats near him sat three negroes—a big, wide darky in the center, with a little slender darky on each side of him. The big negro was looking for trouble; that much was plain.

Every time the guard, who was a little German, opened the door to call a station the big darky would mimic him, and then the other two darkies would laugh admiringly. The pestered guard finally protested, whereupon the big darky threatened him.

"Go on, you Dutchman!" he said. "Ef you sassess me I'll hit you jest once, an' knock you so high in the air you'll starve to death comin' down!"

"He'll do it, too," said one of the little negroes.

"He will 'at!' assented the other. "Ef he say he'll do it, he shore will!" Just then the door flew open and in came the German, accompanied by another guard, nearly seven feet high. The German pointed out the disturber, and the giant, without a word, grabbed him by the collar, jerked him out of his place like a tooth out of a socket, cuffed him first on one side of the head and then on the other, dragged him on the platform and pitched him bodily over the gate upon the platform of a station from which the train was just moving. Then he re-opened the door and gave the friends of the late departed a hard and threatening look. But they were staring straight ahead of them, their eyes blinking and their faces indicative of a great mental concentration.

For a long minute there was silence. Then, as if moved by the same set of strings, the heads of the two little darkies turned gently, inch by inch, until each looked into the other's face across the gap where their friend had been sitting. One of them sighed musingly.

"Dat suttinly was a strong man!" was all he said.

Something Like a Wampus, Probably

They were holding an examination of aspirants for the position of principal of a colored grade school in Louisville. One of the most promising candidates for the vacancy was a small yellow man, who wore shiny, gold-rimmed spectacles, and bore himself with that air of assurance which learning sometimes imparts.

The superintendent of the public school system of the city was sounding the qualifications of this person. The subject was syntax. The inquirer would choose a word at random from the lexicon and the applicant would give his conception of its proper definition.

Out of a clear sky, so to speak, the superintendent sped this one:

"Jeopardy."

The candidate froze stiff. His eyes rolled in his head as he recoiled from the shock.

"Which?" he inquired softly.

"Jeopardy."

"I believe you said 'jeopardy,' didn't you, suh?" said the little yellow man, still sparring for time.

"Certainly, 'jeopardy.' You know the word, don't you?"

"Oh, yns, suh, fluently."

"Well, then, since you are familiar with it, what is your understanding of its meaning?"

Like a man preparing to dive from a great height into vasty depths the candidate took a deep breath. Then gallantly he leaped headlong:

"Well, suh," he stated, "in reply to the question just propounded I should say that 'jeopardy' would properly refer to any act committed by a Jeopard."

He got the job on the spot.

One Who Desired to Know

A suburbanite in New Jersey was moving from one street to another where he had just built a new house. Observing with dismay the care-free way in which the moving crew junked his cherished antiques about, he was filled with a desire to save from possible damage a tall grandfather's clock which he prized highly and which was reliably reputed to be more than a hundred years old.

Taking the clock up in his arms he started for the new house. But the clock was as tall as its owner, and heavy besides, and its doors kept swinging open, so that he had to put it down every few feet and rest his arms and mop his streaming brow. Then he would clutch his burden to his heaving bosom and stagger on again.

Before he had gone a block he had repeated this operation a dozen times and was panting from exhaustion. Every time he put the clock down he would gaze into its round, impassive face and curse it for weighing so much and for being so unyielding.

After half an hour of these strenuous exertions he was nearing his destination when a man who had been watching his labors from the opposite side of the road took advantage of a halt to hail him.

"Mister," he said thickly, "could I ask you a question?"

"What is it?" demanded the pestered suburbanite.

"Why in thunder don't you carry a watch?"

HELPING PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Casualty insurance has contributed greatly to the public welfare by striving to prevent accidents. Quoting Jesse S. Phillips, general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters:

"This has been accomplished in several ways. The companies, through their trained inspectors and engineers, have made hundreds of thousands of inspections, and have instructed their policy holders in methods designed to remove or modify hazards which have been discovered in this process. Every year millions of dollars are spent for inspections alone.

"The companies have also supported, and have been active in the work of, such organizations as the American Engineering Standards Committee, the Underwriters' Laboratories, the National Safety Council, and the National Council on Street and Highway Safety, all of which are striving to reduce hazards in business and industry.

"Finally, and to my mind the greatest contribution to prevention, has been the formulation of plans for determining the cost of insurance, which offers rewards for safety and efficiency, and apply penalties for carelessness and inefficiency. Casualty insurance has been particularly active in this field, and its plans of merit rating by commercializing safety have been productive of results where other plans have failed. The influence of these plans is felt in workmen's compensation, employers' liability, automobile, burglary and plate glass insurance, and, in fact, in practically every department of the business."

"THE GLORY THAT WAS THE SENATE"

Vice President Dawes, in his inauguration address, shattered a lot of senatorial precedents. It was such an unusual event for an incoming public official to hold up for public gaze the shortcomings of one branch of our national law-making body that it brought a storm of protest from some political quarters.

Why shouldn't Dawes endeavor to shake the senate into a realization of its duty to the public? The Sixty-eighth congress has ended and at the close of its three-month session, the enactment of vital measures failed utterly.

The cold truth about the United States senate will benefit that body, and the nation owes General Dawes a vote of thanks for his effort to shake it into activity and awaken some of its members from the self-satisfied and "holier than thou" attitude which they have adopted toward the public and industry during recent years. Commenting on the senate, the New York Times says, editorially: "Large-ly through its own fault, it is coming to be thought of as the branch of congress which is either unable or unwilling to transact the public business in an orderly manner; that has too many members ready to insist with mulish obstinacy that if they cannot have their own way the senate will not be permitted to have its way; that allows mean, personal motives and petty partisan animosities to creep into its proceedings; that is afflicted with long-winded speakers whom there are no rules to choke off. "A few senators cannot, by themselves, change the rules and transform the senate into an assembly where the majority can, after reasonable debate, have its will, but they might speak out their minds about the intolerable conditions which exist, might make appeals within the senate and outside it, and be more active and efficient than the are in endeavoring to win back a part at least of the glory that was the senate."

"HOG-TIED"

The "great rodeo" is over and the Seventh state legislature has adjourned. Nine of our gallant senators were roped, thrown and hog-tied by the "Gentle Front," thereby throwing the Constitution of the United States into the discard and announcing to the taxpayers that it's perfectly right and proper that less than 6 per cent of the rural residents should tax the balance of us from $6000 to $11,000 yearly. Senate Bill 89, which says 51 per cent is constitutional, was defeated in the senate, 9 to 8. You wouldn't know this if I didn't tell you, for the soft pedal has been on ever since the bill was introduced, and this bill suppressed in every way imaginable—the newspapers not even being allowed to tell the taxpayer what the bill was intended to do. One newspaper in this county and one in Pima county absolutely refused to enlighten the taxpayers as to what Senate Bill 89 stood for. I have letters from good authority stating that a strong lobby of farm agents and Farm Bureau organizers were at work night and day on our gallant public servants. Mr. Hardy and Mr. Crenshaw of Santa Cruz county were branded enemies of education. The nine senators no doubt were worked over somewhat along this line:

Farm Bureau organizer to Senator So-and-So: Now, Senator, you must realize that it's perfectly constitutional and proper that I spend the taxpayers' time and money to be present here, and lobby to hold my job, which I can very easily hold by a vote of less than 6 per cent of my county's voters, and I further realize that you know 6 per cent is the people and that you will vote accordingly from the standpoint of an educated man.

Senator, to Farm Bureau organizer: Certainly, Mr. Farm Bureau Organizer, I understand the point in question thoroughly, and can assure you of my support. And, while I know the Constitution of the United States reads 51 per cent is the people, still, being an educated man and a modern, up-to-date one, I really know down in my heart that 6 per cent is the people. In fact, I am seriously thinking of having it made to read 2 per cent, which will make it so much easier all around. (Much slapping of each other on the back, bowing, and scraping of 1921. Curtain.)

Now my Phoenix informant tells me we had another class of lobbyists at the state house against Senate Bill 89. The University of Arizona had its representatives there—no doubt draped in the American flag, with the Constitution of the United States in their hands. In this makeup it was not necessary for them to use any vocabulary, as they already had a vocabulary of their own putting over and defeating every other bill in the house. Besides, a movement is on foot at present to move the state house and legislature to the university grounds, making it handier and more convenient for the university officials to run the business of our state. And, as they are firm believers in the Constitution of the United States as written, and especially in favor of reduction of taxes, they had a trouble whatever convincing the majority of our senators by signals that 6 per cent rule is constitutional and right. However, at a late hour tonight they had not as yet gone on record as favoring 2 per cent rule. But wait 'till they get a chance.

President Marvin of the University of Arizona spent all of last week at the capital city, in is said, evidently fearing a revival of Senate Bill 89 and inspecting the "Gentle Front" ropes and knots. Such is education, which Webster says means "instruction."

Now about the only consolation we taxpayers have in this matter is that eight senators could not be hog-tied at that our own representatives, Senator Hardy and Representative Crenshaw were on the side of right and not on introduced bills to protect the taxpayers but voted for the bills. Senators H. A. Davis, A. H. Favour, A. T. Kilcrease, Alfred Kinney, John R. Lons, Robert L. Moore and Kean St. Charles also voted to uphold the Constitution of the United States, and represented the taxpayers of the state. More power to these friends of intelligence and common sense.

Now we submit the nine senators that permitted themselves to be hog-tied, caring not for the Constitution of the United States nor the taxpayers of our state, in order to be friends of education: Fred T. Colter, J. J. Cox, F. W. Donnelly, Joseph H. Lines, W. P. Sims, Claude Smith, Wayne Thornberg, Mulford Winsor, and J. B. Wylie. The rollcall shows H. A. Elliott and Walter Runke present but not voting (safest first).

Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, it wouldn't be a bad idea to cut the latter part of this letter out and paste it in your notebook, for some day some of these men will be asking your support for office again. Then you, in turn, can use the old minority stuff on the latter list and the majority stuff on the first-mentioned gentlemen.

Just a parting warning, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer: Don't sign your name to any card system that this Farm Bureau organization may put out. And if you have signed one already and want your name taken off, write the illegal secretary of the Santa Cruz county Farm Bureau system to remove your name from his list. If you do not do this, you are hog-tied for life. Death, and death only, will release you from membership, so says the by-laws and constitution of the Santa Cruz County Farm Bureau.

Many thanks for your help.

Sincerely and thoughtfully,

M. W. EASON, Canille, Ariz.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

UNIFORMITY OF TRAFFIC REGULATIONS

HERE are additional important points taken from the report of the recent National Conference on Street and Highway Safety which should be called to the attention of every community in the United States.

"Uniformity of traffic regulations is essential. This varies from exact uniformity in the case of definition of terms, rules of the road, signs, signals and highway markings, and rules for passing, railroad grade crossings, to essential uniformity in such matters as reports of accidents, parking regulation, motor-vehicle design, equipment, inspection and maintenance.

"Special regulations for the use of particular streets, including the placing of automatic signs and signals, the designation of arterial streets and highways, and restrictions of class of traffic, direction of traffic, parking privileges and the hours and periods of such restrictions, should be based upon competent traffic counts and analyses and established in accordance with some general plan of traffic movement founded upon the design of the street system in each city.

"In congested centers and where large volumes of vehicle movement take place between centers considerably removed, it is suggested that an effort be made to segregate street cars, motor cars and passenger automobiles on separate thoroughfares, and that attention be given to the desirability of restricting unnecessary use of residence streets by motor-truck traffic.

"Street and highway hazards are due chiefly to vehicular traffic. These hazards can be greatly reduced by a proper arrangement of streets and highways. Consequently each community must necessarily study and carefully consider its own special problems with particular emphasis upon safety."

All of which is sound advice. The year 1924 was a good year for the automotive industry, even though it was less by ten per cent than the year 1923. Incidentally 1924 was 38 per cent better than 1922. This year should be just as good if not better than 1924.

A total of 3,850,000 motor cars and trucks were sold last year. This means that there are approximately 17,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States.

These few facts should emphasize that traffic problems are national problems and it is most encouraging that the United States Government is taking the lead in attempting to work out sound, practical solutions.

Crutches on Casters Built for Dog to Help Cure Auto Injury

Paralyzed in the hind limbs as the result of being struck by an automobile, "Sport," a pet dog owned by a Winconson man, was pronounced incurable and preparations were made to chloroform him. But an inventive veterinarian heard of the case, designed a roller cage in which "Sport" could push himself about with his forelegs and now the dog is said to be well on the road to recovery. Strips of scrap iron were bent and bolted to form the support, which, when completed, resembled the frame for a small kennel. "Sport's" injured members were held from the floor by means of bandages passed under his body and over the top loops of the cage, where they were tied with strings. The dog was taught to use the contraption by placing him in it before he was given his food, and he would then push himself along to his dish. Now he has learned to bark until he is put into his wheel chair and manages to travel a considerable distance each day. The gradual exercise and protection to the injured limbs are working what is expected to be a complete cure.

LAW PROTECTING NEWSPAPERS PASSED BY LEGISLATURE

The following bill, passed by the Seventh state legislature, will be effective June 11, 1925:

Compiled and issued by James H. Kerby, secretary of state.
House of Representatives, Seventh State Legislature, Regular Session, Chapter No. 22, House Bill No. 84. Introduced by Mr. Crenshaw of Santa Cruz county, by request.

AN ACT
For the protection of the public and newspapers from untrue statements, allegations and alleged news items, and providing a penalty for violation thereof.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF ARIZONA:

Section 1. Whoever contributes or furnishes an statement, allegation or news item to a newspaper published within the state of Arizona, knowing that such statement, allegation or news item is untrue, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon the complaint of the publisher of any such newspaper, or of any person injured in property, person or reputation by the publication of such statement, allegation or news, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding three hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding three months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Section 2. All acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Passed the senate March 4, 1925.

Passed the house February 4, 1925.

Approved by the governor March 6, 1925.

Filed in the office of the secretary of state March 6, 1925.

This act becomes effective June 11, 1925.

289,000 KIDS MOTOR TO SCHOOL.

School Bus at Sod House in Kansas

CHICAGO.—The little red school house is being abandoned in many sections of this country, and good roads and consolidated school districts are rapidly raising the standards of rural education, according to the Research Department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers.

With nearly 3,000,000 miles of highways in the U. S., 430,000 miles of which are already surfaced, and good roads building gaining by leaps and bounds in all sections of the country, the consolidation of country schools for better educational facilities for the farm is only natural, says the Research Department. It is now possible for school buses to economically gather up the farm children each morning and haul them to a township school with a return trip at night. There is no more trouble in winter than in summer, and where the other roads are kept up, the efficient motor buses of today have no trouble negotiating the trips to all corners of the township. Texas alone has consolidated 2,000 rural schools into 635 large community high schools. One-half of the U. S. now has consolidated schools.

This good roads drive against illiteracy is having its effect on farming methods, too, as farmers are finding that they can run tractors and other time and labor saving farm equipment to eliminate high priced hired help and yet keep their children in school until their courses are completed. The better schools, the better farmers, and the more efficient operation of their farms for profitable operations.

Novel "One-Boy" Seesaw

Most playground seesaws require two persons to operate them. Finding this feature objectionable, a schoolboy with an inventive turn of mind devised a seesaw equipped with a movable counterweight, which enabled him to operate it alone. The counterweight consists of a wooden box placed near one end, and two lengths of 1 by 2-in. wood, attached to the box and to a pair of handles, which are pivoted on the seesaw within easy reach of the operator. The distance from the box to the center of the seesaw should be about the same as that from the center to the seat on the other end. A quantity of sand, approximately equal in weight to that of the one using the seesaw is put in the box, and then by moving the box back and forth the balance can be readily changed, causing the seesaw to work just as if two persons were operating it. The counterweight end of the seesaw is boarded in as shown to confine the movement of the sand box.

Coloring Brass Gray

To color brass gray, first clean the surface off with alcohol, polish it to an even finish, making sure that all grease and finger marks are removed, then immerse the work in a solution of arsenic chloride (poison), 1 oz., and water, 1 pt., until the desired shade is obtained. Wash in clean warm water, dry in boxwood sawdust, and warm and lacquer with a thin pale solution of bleached shellac in methyl alcohol, using a broad camel's-hair brush.

H. A. STEWART TRANSFERRED TO MARICOPA COUNTY

Harry A. Stewart, who has been county agent in Yavapai county for the last two years, has been transferred to Maricopa county by the agricultural extension service of the University of Arizona.

Mr. Stewart will take up his new duties April 1. The former county agent, H. C. Heard, was county agent in Maricopa county for seven years.

Mr. Stewart has been successful in his county agent work in Yavapai county and comes to the larger county with a record of achievement. He is a native son of Arizona and a graduate of the University of Arizona. Under his leadership the university hopes to develop a program of extension work in the county adequate in personnel and activity to the problems presented.

Maricopa is among the first dozen counties in the United States in point of agricultural production, and is just getting fairly started in its development. The spirit of progress and the energy of the farmers of the valley mean even much more rapid development in the immediate future than has been the case in the past.

1—Tsumeo Matsudaira, new Japanese ambassador, who says he brings message of peace and friendship. 2—Glimpse of U. S. fleet at practice off California coast, preliminary to test of safety of our naval base in Hawaiian Islands. 3—Dr. William M. Jardine, being sworn in as secretary of agriculture.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Matsudaira Talks Peace—Senate Rejects Warren—Jardine Appointed.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Tsumeo MATSUDAIRA, the new Japanese ambassador to the United States, arrived in Washington Wednesday, "with gratitude in his heart" for the preliminary welcome he had received at San Francisco and at Chicago. His official welcome at the capital will be no less warm, for he is distinctly persona grata to the United States government. He comes of a great historical family of Japan, as does his wife; speaks English well; was secretary general of the Japanese delegation to the Washington arms conference; has held several important diplomatic posts in Europe, and was vice minister of foreign affairs in the Japanese cabinet at the time of appointment. In short, he is of the new school of Japanese statesmen. The ambassador's unofficial words en route across America explain why he is welcome at the capital:

"I bring greetings from across the Pacific to the people of America. I have had a splendid welcome to your shores. I am come on a mission of peace. I consider it a duty and a privilege to do all that I can to strengthen the bonds of friendship between the United States and Japan. There is no question or difference of opinion that is not capable of amicable settlement if approached in the spirit of friendship. If the press of both nations will confine itself to facts—that will help."

MATSUDAIRA'S temper of mind is appreciated at Washington. For as the new ambassador neared the Golden Gate he may have had glimpse of the great American fleet now practicing in the Pacific, preparatory to starting for the much-visited Hawaiian maneuvers and a visit to Australia and New Zealand. And it will be remembered under what circumstances his predecessor, Masamune Hanihara, departed from Washington. It is also easy to recall that Japan at one time strenuously protested against our Pacific naval program for this summer.

The main point of the great mimic war in the Hawaiian Islands between the attacking "Blue" fleet and the defending "Black" land forces is to decide whether the Island of Oahu, our naval base in the Pacific, can be defended against enemy attack. With Oahu in our possession, our Pacific coast is safe from enemy attack, from the military viewpoint. Oahu can be defended against enemy attack, provided its defense is supplemented by an American fleet in the Pacific. But suppose an emergency keeps our fleet in the Atlantic—that's another and different story. Hence the importance of the coming Hawaiian maneuvers. Hence the importance of a Japanese ambassador who does not necessarily read into this mimic war the inference that the hypothetical "enemy attack" is on the part of Japan and does not necessarily see in the "friendship visit" of the American fleet to Australia and New Zealand a combination and conspiracy against Japan by the English-speaking peoples of the Pacific.

DR. WILLIAM M. JARDINE has succeeded Howard M. Gore as secretary of agriculture. There is naturally nationwide interest in the new Agriculture department head. If experience, guarantees fitness, Secretary Jardine should approximate 100 per cent efficiency. He has first-hand knowledge of agriculture and has a practical background based on experience as cowboy, dairy farmer, ranch manager and man of affairs. At the same time his scientific attainments are large. When appointed he was head of the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Washington gossip has it that Secretary Jardine will stage a shakeup in the department. His public utterances would indicate that he holds views harmonious with those of President Coolidge on the solution of the problems of the farmer. In 1924 he was opposed to the McNary-Haugen price fixing bill.

The vast army of national park enthusiasts is anxiously awaiting a statement by the new secretary of the forest service of the Agriculture department to wrest the control of the national parks from the national park service of the Interior department. The thousands promoting the adoption of a national forestry policy and program also are eager for a statement.

THE struggle in the senate over confirmation of the President's nomination of Charles B. Warren to be attorney general is still on at this writing. It is a lively fight, with surprising features. Tuesday, while Vice President Dawes was "peacefully snoozing" at his hotel, the senate approached a tie vote. A desperate effort was made to get Vice President Dawes there in time to break it. As Dawes entered the chamber, Overman of North Carolina, the only Democrat who had voted for Warren, dramatically switched his vote. This destroyed the tie of 40 to 40, clinched Warren's defeat and made the automobile rush of Dawes more or less ridiculous. Whereupon the senate—at least the anti-Warren senators, if no others—gave Dawes the "ha, ha!" They had got even with him for reading the riot act to them March 4.

President Coolidge Thursday surprised everyone, including the party leaders, by again sending the nomination of Warren to the senate. It was not made public whether the President had determined to force the fight or had acted in order to give Warren an opportunity to defend himself against senate charges. Incidentally, the Michigan house of representatives Wednesday endorsed Warren, as a reply to the statement of Couzens that nine-tenths of the people of that state were backing his opposition to the confirmation.

A late statement issued by Secretary Sanders at the White House was this: "At the request of the President Mr. Warren consented to allow his name to be presented again to the senate." Officials would not enlarge on the announcement, but some senators were of the opinion that Mr. Coolidge desired to assume full responsibility and draw a direct issue between himself and the senate on the question.

THE emphatic utterance by President Coolidge in his inaugural address as to the necessity of party loyalty and regularity suits the regular Republicans in both house and senate. The respective committees on committees have cleaned up in accordance therewith. The house denoted followers of LaFollette on important committees. The senate, after long and bitter debate, in which the opposition was led by Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska, denoted LaFollette senators, the whole state being approved by a vote of 64 to 11. The test vote, 36 to 13, was on the effort of the opposition to substitute Ladd of North Dakota, a LaFollette follower, for Stanford of Oregon as chairman of the public lands committee. Most of the Democrats here declined to mix in the party quarrel and voted "present." So the insurgents are placed at the bottom of the lists in accordance with the numerical strength of their followers.

APPORTIONMENT of funds amounting to $2,500,000, appropriated by congress for the construction of improved roads and trails in the various national parks and national monuments, is announced by the Interior department. The Interior department appropriation act for the fiscal year 1925 contains an appropriation of $1,500,000 to be expended for the building of these much-needed roads and trails in the national parks and monuments under the jurisdiction of the national parks service. An initial appropriation of $1,000,000 for this road and trail work was made available in the deficiency act which was signed by the President December 5, 1924, making in all $2,500,000 available. These appropriations were made under authority of the National Park Highways act of April 9, 1924, which authorized the appropriation of $7,500,000 for the carrying out of a three-year road and trail construction program.

Of the $2,500,000 fund appropriated the sum of $453,000 has been allotted to Glacier National park, Montana, of which $410,000 is to be spent on the Transmountain road. This road is being built across the Continental Divide and when completed will be the first means of access through the park from the east side to the west by motor car.

In the Yosemite National park, California, $404,000, the next largest allotment, will be expended. Approximately half of these funds will be used in paying the El Portal road from the park boundary to Yosemite Village, connecting with the all-year highway which the state is building to El Portal and which is expected to double the automobile travel into Yosemite. The sum of $235,000 has been allotted to Mount Rainier National park and $106,000 has been allotted for road work in the Grand Canyon National park. The $140,500 allotted to Rocky Mountain National park, Colorado, will be divided between six different projects, all of them important. The famous Fall River road, the highest road in the national park system, reaching an altitude of 11,797 feet on the top of Rocky mountain, and the High drive from Fall River to Moraine park will get the larger share of these funds.

BARON AGO VON MALTZAN, the new German ambassador, was officially welcomed Thursday by President Coolidge. The new representative of Germany thanked the President for the work of American citizens in the economic and financial reconstruction of his country.

"I gratefully recall the generous activities of American citizens in social and cultural help, and the far-reaching work of financial and economic reconstruction, bearing an American name which has become historical," he said. "The last order of the deceased president of the reich was to express to you, Mr. President, his feeling of high personal esteem and his sincere wish for the welfare of the United States of America."

"It is for you to interpret to America the just aspirations of your nation," said President Coolidge in reply. "It is for you to promote the understanding which is the only sound basis of lasting peace. We have had a long history as a republic, and we hope that you may profit by a study of our experience of a century and a half of democratic government."

BRIG. GEN. WILLIAM MITCHELL, storm center of the controversy over air power as a national defense, will be succeeded April 27 by Lieut. Col. James E. Fechet as assistant chief of the army air service. Colonel Fechet is now in command of the air service flying school at Kelly Field, Texas. The appointment is said to be satisfactory to both Maj. Gen. Mason N. Patrick, air service chief, and Maj. Gen. John L. Hines, chief of staff, though he has not publicly indicated his stand in the controversy. General Mitchell says that his efforts to secure a unified air service, distinct from both army and navy, will be continued. Incidentally Representative Florian Laumann of Wisconsin, chairman of the house committee on aircraft, issued a statement Wednesday that the investigation had vindicated the position taken by General Mitchell.

DR. WALTER SIMONS Thursday took the oath of President of the German republic before the various diplomatic corps and members of the reichstag in the reichstag. Doctor Simons will hold the office until the elections name a new chief. All attempts to bring about a coalition of the right parties failed with the refusal of the People's party to back Herr Gessler's candidacy for the presidency. Herr Stresemann's objections, based on the fears of foreign opinion, were supported by his party. Germany goes into the election campaign with five candidates, none of whom seems able to secure the election on the first ballot.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, arbiter in the historic Tacna-Arica dispute between Chile and Peru which has threatened the peace of South America for a generation, announced his decision Wednesday that the ultimate disposition of the contested provinces must be by popular vote. This is a preliminary victory for Chile. The decision fixes the conditions of the plebiscite and provides for a commission of three, of which the American member is to be president.

Daniel Morales, one of the principals in a death duel fought at Lincoln, Calif., in which Casarinas Martinez was killed and Morales seriously but not fatally injured, will be charged with murder.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana will go to trial at Great Falls, Mont., April 16 in Federal District Court on charges of having accepted a retainer fee to appear before a government department after his election to the senate.

For the first time in thirty-eight years of public appearances, Miss Helen Keller addressed a Tucson, Ariz., audience divorced from her teacher, Mrs. Anna Sullivan Macy, and her secretary, Miss Polly Thomson, both of whom were confined in their rooms in the hotel because of influenza.

Announcing as their purpose the holding of a world's fair in Portland in 1930, ninety-seven Portland men have formed a corporation capitalized at $10,000,000 and the articles were filed with the State Corporation Commissioner at Salem, Ore. The fair will be known as the Pacific American International Exposition.

The United States government has filed suit in the Federal Court at Los Angeles for $904,551.52, alleged to be income taxes due for 1919 from T. L. Doheny, oil magnate; his son, his wife, two of the directors of his companies and two of his concerns, the Doheny Pacific Petroleum Company and the Petroleum Securities Company.

A design for a New Mexico state flag, evolved from ancient symbolism of the Pueblo Indians, using the flaming orange and red of the Spanish national colors in the time of Ferdinand and Isabella, sponsored by the Daughters of the American Revolution, and approved by the state executive committee of the American Legion has been formally adopted by the New Mexico House.

WASHINGTON

President Coolidge has accepted the resignation of John W. Riddle as ambassador to Argentina.

Chairman Couzens recently declared in the senate that because he had "persisted in endeavoring to eliminate rottenness in government departments," treasury officials have attempted to "discipline" him by reopening his 1919 income taxes and assessing against him an additional $10,000,000 to $11,000,000 of taxes.

Representative Tucker, Democrat, Virginia, has refused to accept the $2,500 increase in his congressional salary on the ground that members of the last Congress who were re-elected were chosen to positions carrying only $7,500 a year. Tucker's grandfather, Henry St. George Tucker, a representative in the Fourteenth Congress, refused an increase for the same reason and the money has remained to his credit in the treasury for 108 years.

President Coolidge threw down the gauntlet to his opponents in the Senate by again submitting the nomination of Charles B. Warren to be attorney general.

Corn on farms was about 801,630,000 bushels, or 32.9 per cent of the 1924 crops, compared with March 1, 1924, stocks of 1,153,847,000 bushels, or 7.8 per cent of the 1923 crop. The Department of Agriculture announced a few days ago. About 65.3 per cent of the 1924 crop is merchantable compared with 80.8 per cent of the 1923 crop. Wheat on farms was about 113,325,000 bushels, or 13.1 per cent of the 1924 crop, compared with March 1, 1924, stocks of 137,717,000 bushels.

Secretary Wilbur placed the task of reconditioning the historic frigate Constitution in the hands of Rear Admiral De Steiguer at the Boston navy yard and at the same time suggested that contributions on the basis of 2 1/2 cents each on behalf of the school children of the country would rebuild the vessel. Congress has authorized the restoration of the Constitution. The first donation of $1 came from Daniel Jennings of Boston, who signed himself a "boy civil war veteran, navy."

Contests involving the seats of Senators Brookhart, Republican, Iowa; Schall, Republican, Minnesota; and Bratton, Democrat, New Mexico, have been formally filed in the Senate and referred to the elections committee for investigation.

Assurance of the support and confidence of the Washington government was given to Baron Ago von Maltzan in his capacity of ambassador to the United States from Germany by President Coolidge in accepting his letters of credence at the White House.

FOREIGN

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, upon whose head the Manchukuo dynasty fixed a price of $200,000 when Dr. Sun was campaigning for a republic in China, died in Peking from cancer of the liver. He was 63 years old.

Former Premier Briand, who is representing France at the meeting of the League of Nations council at Geneva, stands for application of the security protocol adopted by the league assembly in September.

The prince of Wales, acting in the place of King George, presided for the first time at a "levee," one of the medieval pageants of swords and silk, gold braid and gleaming epaulettes, staged by British royalty in accordance with long-standing custom.

Signor Maffi, the Communist deputy, was responsible for an uproar in the Chamber of Deputies in Rome recently, his accusations against the Fascist bringing a number of the deputies to a brief fist encounter. He charged the Fascist with "enriching themselves," and with having committed acts of violence.

Another act in the notorious Sir Hari Singh scandal was concluded in London when the trial of William Cooper Hogg, a law clerk, charged with fraudulently obtaining money from the East Indian prince, ended in a verdict of guilty. Hogg was sentenced by Judge Avey to two years' imprisonment at hard labor.

Yard University excavators have discovered the tomb of another Egyptian ruler it was announced in Cairo, a few days ago. It is believed to be the tomb of a Cheops or Khufu, who ruled approximately 3,700 years before the birth of Christ. The discovery was made by Alan Rowe, assistant director of the Harvard expedition, while excavating in the pyramids.

France has replied to the British note asking payment of the French debt, it was learned in London. The foreign office refused to discuss the reply, but it is learned that France wants a debt moratorium and wants later debt payments dependent upon the amount received from Germany under the Dawes plan. The French view is contrary to the British stand expressed in the original note.

The German Socialists' designation of Otto Braun as presidential candidate, while causing some chagrin among the Clericals and Democrats, who hoped for a joint Republican candidate in the first election, March 29, is considered by the Socialists as a tactical move for getting 800 more votes on the second election, April 26. This, they assume, is inevitable, as they do not expect an absolute majority for any candidate at the first election.

GENERAL

Jimmy Deforest, match-maker for the Polo Grounds Athletic Club, announced a few days ago that he had offered Jack Dempsey "a bigger amount" than the champion had ever received if he would meet Harry Wills for the heavyweight title at the Polo grounds not later than Sept. 25.

The greatest need of the live stock industry this spring is financial help to replace the cattle on the ranges and increase the breeding herds. Commissioner Cooper of the Federal Farm Loan Board declared in Washington on his return from an extended tour of the agricultural sections at the request of President Coolidge.

A. E. Lefcourt, garment manufacturer, realty operator and builder of New York, has announced the gift to his 12-year-old son of $10,000,000 in the form of a deed to a thirty-story building he intends to erect, Lefcourt, who at the age of 12, a little more than thirty years ago, was shilling shoes and selling papers on the East side streets, said his purpose was to inculcate in his son, Allen, a sense of thrift and responsibility, and "the necessity of observing the future of this wonderful city."

Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, wanted as a witness in the Teapot Dome trial in Cheyenne, Wyo., is away on an inspection and business trip, it was said at his office in Chicago. His associates said they did not know his exact whereabouts, but believed he was in the Southwest.

Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., one of the country's leading surgeons, told the Philadelphia forum in a recent address that he believed cancer would be "under control" within a few years. By this, Dr. Mayo said he did not mean that cancer would be cured nor that it would be preventable, but that it would be more amenable to treatment.

Banished from organized baseball for alleged participation in the Chase Series scandal of 1919, Hal Chase, erstwhile first baseman of the Cincinnati National League Baseball Club, now proprietor of a luxurious cage in Agua Prieta, Mexico, across the border from Douglas, Ariz., is about to organize a national baseball league in Mexico on the invitation of the Mexico City government, he said recently.

Anna Reynolds, reputed priestess of a cult in Toronto known as "the Faith of the Holy Light," is in custody, charged with having presided over a weirdly exotic midnight ceremonial at Bluevale, Ont., in which ten boys were sacrificed as "an offering to devilish spirits."

Tokio authorities have just permitted the publication of information concerning widespread attempts at bombing outrages, which were frustrated last summer, and the arrest of five alleged ring leaders after a long investigation.

BRIEF ARIZONA ITEMS

Articles of incorporation have been filed with the State Corporation Commission at Phoenix by the Arizona Pecan Orchards of Tucson. R. Darnell and J. H. Campbell are the incorporators.

Construction work has begun on the new $100,000 cotton gin and oil mill being built at Tucson by the Tucson Cotton Oil Company. It will be completed within ninety days, according to builders.

Yancy, Glendale High school pitcher, twirled a no-hit, no-run game against the Buckeye team, and Glendale won the first inter-scholastic baseball game of the season by a score of 7 to 0.

Wide interest in "Trade at Home—Use Arizona Products" week, to be observed throughout the state March 19 to 21 has been reported from practically all sections. It was announced in Phoenix by the Arizona Industrial Congress.

J. Reed Douglas, a resident of Phoenix for several years, was killed when his automobile left the road at a bridge near Yuma on the Phoenix-Yuma highway, according to a telegraphic message received in the city recently by his family.

Governor Hunt signed the bill that will change the normal schools at Tempe and Flagstaff to the Tempe State Teachers' College and the Northern Arizona State Teachers' College. This bill provides a four-year course of study for the institutions.

The Mesa Jackrabbits, state high school basketball champions, have been invited to participate in the University of Chicago's national scholastic meet, according to announcement made by Coach Weber. The tournament starts March 31 and continues until April 4 and is open only to state champion teams.

Articles of incorporation for the Tucson Hospital Association, non-capitalized, were filed at Phoenix recently with the Arizona Corporation Commission. The new corporation is organized, according to the article, for the purpose of establishing hospitals in Pima county for the provision of nurses' training school and the operation of a laboratory.

The final location of a road from some point, which has not yet been determined, from the National Old Trails highway across northern Arizona, to the Grand Canyon, will be the result of a reconnaissance of the whole territory lying in the triangle formed by the Grand Canyon, Flagstaff and Williams, according to E. S. Wheeler, engineer of the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

Turning down the offer of the Copper League to enter a team in that organization, the Tucson Baseball Association agreed to open negotiations with other teams of the southern portion of the state for the organization of the Southern Arizona League. The proposed organization of the Southern league, as explained to the Tucson Association, is to contain teams from Bisbee, Douglas, Nogales and Tucson.

The calls of the University Radio station at Tucson have been heard in Johannesburg, South Africa, according to an item published recently in Q. S. T., a well known radio magazine. The station calls, sent out on a short wave length, were heard distinctly at the distant station. The list of amateur stations which have been heard in South Africa is very small, according to Oliver Wright, who is chief operator at the university.

A total of $5,500,000 is appropriated for good roads in Arizona under the terms of a bill drawn up by the Arizona State Highway Department and introduced in the Legislature by Senator Hardy, Santa Cruz.

According to statistics specially prepared by Southwestern Mining News service from government records, Arizona's total production of refined copper now exceeds 5,000,000 tons. The figures available cover the years 1882-1924, inclusive, showing actual production of 10,342,150,274 pounds, or 5,171,070 tons. Allowing for years previous to 1882 when no records were kept, total to this date may well be over five and a half million tons.

The secretary of agriculture has authorized the grading of 230,397 cattle and horses and 183,959 sheep and goats for the ten-year period 1925-1934 on the eight national forests in Arizona, according to District Forester E. C. W. Pender of Albuquerque, N. M., who states that there will be no increases in grazing fees during the 1925 grazing season, but that in cases where the reports of range appraisal recommend decreases of fees they will be made effective at once.

After eight hours of debate a jury in Superior Court at Tucson returned a verdict granting damages of $25 apiece to T. G. Nelson, rancher, for two Alredale dogs, poisoned by strychnine baits set out by government agents to destroy predatory animals.

Approximately seventy-five official road and trail signs will be put at strategic points on the Prescott forest this spring directing motorists and tourists to the different routes, it was stated by H. Basil Wales, supervisor, who has ordered them from the district office at Albuquerque.

ACHES AND PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Mrs. Proctor Reports Great Benefit by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sharpsburg, Pa.—"I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all suffering women. I have taken four bottles of it and I feel 100 per cent better. I was dizzy and weak with no appetite, no ambition and with a tired feeling all the time. I had aches and pains all over my body and had the headache a good deal. I saw your advertisement in the 'Pittsburgh Press' and thought it might help me. I have been greatly benefited by its use and highly recommend it for all ailments of women."—Mrs. J. H. PROCTOR, Box 1, East Liberty Station, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Such letters prove the great merit of the Vegetable Compound. These women know by experience the benefit they have received. Their letters show a sincere desire to help other women suffering from like ailments. Let these experiences help you now.

In a recent canvass of women purchasers, 98 out of every 100 report beneficial results by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Sold by druggists everywhere.

"Buddy" Also Had

Criticism to Make

General Bullard, who has just retired from active service in the army, inspected the citizen's military training camp at Pittsburg in August of 1923. His son, "Buddy" Bullard, was a private in Company D that summer. The general's inspection of "Buddy's" uniform, rifle and tent was exhaustive. "Private Bullard, your left heel isn't shined, sir."

"Your breech lock has a streak of grease on it."

"Yes, sir."

"Your blankets aren't rolled properly."

"Yes, sir."

"I'm amazed at you, Private Bullard."

"Yes, sir; thank you, sir."

Inspection over, a large and condescending crowd of messmates gathered around the only private in D company who had got a censure.

"Doggone!" exclaimed that unhappy lad. "Why don't he know enough to keep out of here?"

If you have a mind of your own you are bound to disagree now and then.

Are You a Suffering Woman?

Fort Smith, Ark.—"I had been almost a physical wreck for nearly twelve months. I had feminine trouble and stomach trouble, was down and not able to go when I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicine. I took the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery' at the same time (alternately) and began to feel better in a few days. I continued to gain weight and strength and in a short time was entirely well and am still enjoying good health."—Mrs. Ollie Flint, 513 North Eighth Street.

Go at once to your neighborhood store and get these medicines of Dr. Pierce's in tablets or liquid.

"A God-sent Blessing"

is what one mother writes of Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. Thousands of other mothers have found this safe, pleasant, effective remedy a boon when baby's little stomach is upset. For constipation, flatulency, colic and diarrhoea, there is nothing like

Old Patent Models Are Ousted

Old models in the United States patent office are to be disposed of as the result of a bill passed by the house of representatives which creates a commission to select certain of the most historic models for museums and dispose of the remainder. Since 1804 the storage of the old models has cost the government $200,000. Photograph shows J. A. Hoffman and Karl Fenning, assistant commissioner of patents, looking over some old weaving and sewing devices.

MAN WHO ROBBED TWAIN

Henry Williams, reformed burglar and author of "In the Clutch of Circumstance," the story of his own life of crime and reformation, whose recent speech in Hartford, Conn., aroused protests from the head of the Connecticut state prison board. Williams, now a successful business man of Brooklyn, is crusading against the contract labor system and advocates the use of state prisoners to build state roads. He is known as "Mark Twain's burglar," as it was for robbing the home of the author at Stormfield, Conn., that he was sentenced to prison.

STAGE CLAIMS HER

The latest society bud of the national capital to forsake afternoon teas and dances for a career behind the footlights is the beautiful Olive Graef, daughter of Mrs. H. Campbell Graef and "playmate" of Miss Ailsa Mellon, daughter of the secretary of the treasury. Miss Graef is now in New York rehearsing the part she will play in "The Bachelor's Bride," written by an Englishman, Colonel Davis, who is a friend of the Graefs.

DAIRY FACTS

GIVE DAIRY HEIFER BEST OF ATTENTION

Well-bred dairy heifers that have been well fed while carrying their first calf should freshen in good condition, but some may have caked udders. The whole udder may be caked, or one-quarter or one side. Still others may have a round, hard place on the bottom or in the rear. Where large seven-day records are desired it is sometimes the practice to make no attempt to remove this swelling, trusting it will milk down and increase the per cent of fat. Where high protein feed is started too soon after calving with this kind of an udder, these hard places never disappear.

If one side is large or the swelling is low down in the rear, a tilted udder is the result.

If it is bulging on the bottom, a broken-down udder is bound to follow, going a little lower with each succeeding calving.

In some cases it may go so low that it is not possible to milk the cow from one side. The result is no one wants such an animal to milk or for a breeder.

After studying the conditions that cause udders to lose their natural shape and get more deformed with each calving, we are interested to know how to check these conditions before the udder is ruined.

When a heifer's udder is badly swollen before calving, feed only light, laxative feeds for a few days before and after freshening, such as bran, ground oats, oil meal, beet pulp, or fresh beets with good legume hay and silage.

Having provided the right feeds, reduce the swelling in the udder as soon after freshening as possible.

Next in importance is to get all the milk at all times. Good milkers always massage each quarter with one hand and milk with the other to bring down the last drop of milk. This is a quicker and more thorough way than thumb and finger stripping. Get the inflammation out soon after calving and always get all the milk if you want good udders that will stand crowding for any kind of records.

If you expect a heifer to do her best as a full-age cow, feed her liberally during this first lactation and as soon as her udder seems normal. If possible, milk her three times a day for at least a part of her lactation.—F. H. Peabody, Cornell College of Agriculture.

Excellent Plan to Heat Water for Dairy Cows

It is cheaper to heat water for dairy cows with a good tank heater than to compel them to change ice water to body heat by consuming extra grain, according to Dean Larsen of South Dakota State college. He asserts that when the cow is required to change about 80 pounds of water daily from freezing temperature to that of the body, or 102 degrees Fahrenheit, much of the feed she has eaten for milk production is necessarily diverted to keeping up bodily heat.

"Grain is too expensive to use as a fuel for heating water," declares Professor Larsen, "and the body of the cow is altogether too useful for other purposes than that of being used as a stove. Furthermore, when a cow is compelled to drink ice cold water she is usually obliged to stand in frosty air; thus she is not only heating the water she drinks but she is also trying to heat the universe. This is impossible from a standpoint of getting economic returns from the cow.

"Get a tank heater. A good serviceable heater may be purchased for a reasonable sum and a considerable amount of waste material may be burned in it, such as waste boards, cobs, etc."

Dairy Facts

A dairy barn doesn't need to be costly to be clean.

May is usually the best time to sell fat cows. Silage balanced with cottonseed cake is a cheap ration.

If a cow gives less than 200 pounds of butter a year she is hardly a great profit producer. Unfortunately there are those that do.

Do not milk cows completely dry for 48 hours after calving. This method lessens danger of milk fever. Feed sparingly the first few days.

Seasons during which the cows do not secure the normal amount of minerals are usually followed by a large number of retained afterbirths among the cows fed on the feeds produced during such season.

How long will it be before we discover the 20 per cent of our cows that make us no profit?

The calf's stomach is delicate and many of the difficulties met in raising calves are traceable directly to irregularities in feeding that can easily be avoided.

While a calf may be weaned as early as four months of age it is better to continue feeding skim milk until six or eight months old, if that is possible.

POULTRY

MANGELS PROVIDE WINTER GREEN FEED

Green food in some form is absolutely necessary to poultry for the best growth and production. The first green food should be given soon after the chicks are put in the brooder. Continued feedings of green feeds will add growth, increase production and decrease the cost of grain. The first green food for the little chicks may consist of mangels, potatoes or other vegetables cut up fine at first until the chicks learn to like them, and later stuck on nails driven in the walls just high enough for the chick to reach. Lawn clippings or lettuce may be fed with good results. Free range gives the best green food supply for the growing chick, but that is not always possible. A small yard may be greatly improved by dividing it in the middle and sowing each half alternately to oats. Some poultrymen scatter oats very thickly. Spade them in and allow the chicks to scratch them out as they begin to swell and sprout.

Where it is too dry or for other reasons impossible to get a good growth of green food in the yards, it should be supplied from outside. Dwarf Essex rape and Swiss chard may be produced abundantly with little labor and make excellent summer green food. Rape may be sown either in drill or broadcast as early as the ground can be worked in the spring, and will be ready to cut in about six or eight weeks. It is apt to be somewhat affected by hot, dry weather and will not last the entire season. Swiss chard should be planted in drills after the soil becomes thoroughly warm. It will be ready for cutting in eight to ten weeks. The chard stands drought well and will last until late in the fall.

Where hens are not accustomed to green food in this form, some little difficulty may be experienced in teaching them to eat it. This, however, may be overcome by starting with small feeds each day. During the hot weather green food should be given early in the morning, preferably while the dew is still on.

The winter supply of green food should also be kept in mind. Every poultry plant should have a plot of mangels large enough to carry the mature stock through the winter and start the chicks in the spring. Mangels require a well prepared seed bed and good cultivation for the best results. After the mangels are well matured, the leaves may be broken off and used at once, while the roots are stored for winter. The great advantage in growing mangels is the fact that they keep well in any reasonable storage and are easy to feed.

A crop of late cabbage may be grown to advantage after some other crop has been removed. The immature heads may be used for fall feeding and the best stored for winter. Although cabbages make a very good green food, they are not as popular with the poultrymen as mangels on account of the difficulty in storing. Clover and alfalfa may always be fed to advantage, either dry or green. Beet pulp has also proved to be very valuable where fresh green food cannot be obtained.—R. E. Jones, Connecticut Agricultural College.

For Turkey Success

A turkey will lay about forty eggs in a season and from fifteen to twenty before she begins to sit. However, if you take the eggs from the nest as they are laid, she will keep on laying until a good deal more than 15 eggs are produced. The great danger in free range to young turkeys is from the loss due to heavy rains in the spring. If you can plan to herd the turkeys or watch them carefully during the severe storms until they become well feathered out you will have good success in your turkey venture.

Poultry Hints

Incubator chicks hatched early make the profitable winter layers.

It pays to keep cockerels isolated from the hens until about two weeks before eggs are saved for hatching.

Starchy mash should not be used for ducklings, but they can be more moist than the crumbly mashes used for chicks.

Probably the best breed of turkeys is the bronze. This breed is large, hardy and in good demand on the markets.

It is very important that orders for eggs and baby chicks be given at once. All baby chicks should be hatched by the last of April.

Regularity in the use of lights, feed and water for the poultry flock makes for regularity in egg production.

Eggs held for hatching in cold weather should be kept in a temperature between 40 and 50 degrees.

For eggs to use for hatching purposes, choose medium-sized normal-shaped eggs, throwing out the long-pointed ones or the round ones. A more important point, however, is the selection of eggs from good, strong parent flock.

Treasure Under Snow

Bank checks, drafts and remittances worth $200,000, sent by Oswego banks to their New York correspondents, lay under a five-foot pile of snow near the Syracuse trolley terminal for a week until uncovered by the police. When the mail did not reach New York an investigation was started, and the bags were traced to Syracuse. They had been thrown off a trolley at the station and a snow storm covered them.

Health and good looks
—the reward of internal cleanliness.

IF YOU do not keep clean internally your looks and health are undermined together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks and insomnia, each of which saps your health and vitality.

Avoid Laxatives—say Doctors

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

HARRY HAVERTY IS SHOT TO DEATH BY JIM KELLY

Harry Haverty, shot and killed by his brother-in-law, Jim Kelly, on the latter's ranch in the Huachuca mountains last Saturday, did not strike his assailant and knock him down and stamp on him—just fact, he did not even strike him—it was brought out at the coroner's inquest Sunday. Haverty shoved Kelly over after the latter had called him a "damned liar," according to the testimony of several witnesses, and the latter fell over against a wash tub, which caused the cut eye which he told the sheriff was made by Haverty's boot.

The fight started over a favor Haverty had done for Kelly a Saturday morning, according to two of the witnesses. Kelly's car had broken down about 15 miles from his ranch and he had asked Haverty to help him bring it in. Haverty, Clint Kelly and Earl Edgeman drove out to the stalled car and fixed it up. On the return trip they remained behind Kelly's car for several miles, but when they saw it was running all right they pulled around and drove to the Kelly ranch where they waited for him. When he arrived he was angry because Haverty had "ran away" from him, claiming he had considerable difficulty after they had gotten out of sight.

Haverty denied having "ran away" and one word led to another, resulting in both men becoming angry. When Kelly called Haverty a "liar" the latter shoved him over and he fell against a washtub, cutting his eye, according to witnesses. Haverty later apologized, and started to leave for his own ranch. He had reached the door when he heard Mrs. Kelly, his sister, shout: "Look out, Jim's getting a gun." He turned around and grappled with Kelly, who shot him through the left side, the bullet passing through the heart and coming out at the right hip.

Kelly immediately went to Tombstone and surrendered to the sheriff, to whom he told his story and claimed self-defense.

The verdict of the coroner's jury did not attempt to fix the blame for the fatal shooting, reading in substance that Haverty came to his death from a gunshot wound from a .30-30 rifle in the hands of Jim Kelly.

Haverty funeral Wednesday
Funeral services for Harry Haverty were held at the Palace Undertaking Parlors, Blaboe, Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Fooling Dad

A prominent Los Angeles attorney told the following story in a recent address to the graduates of a grammar school. He said that his son, a high school graduate, came home one day and asked him if he were a good mathematician.

"Yes, my boy, I think I'm pretty good," the father replied.

"Well then; I have a problem I'd like to have you solve. There were three frogs sitting on a log—a bullfrog, a tree frog and a toad frog. The bullfrog decided to jump off. How many were there left?"

The father smiled. "Why, that's an easy one. Two frogs were left."

"And that's where you are all wrong!" exclaimed the boy grinning. "Three frogs were left, because the bullfrog only decided to jump off. He didn't jump."

Then the lawyer impressed upon his audience that a person who would win success must act promptly on his decisions.

Making Money

Jimmy's mother was settling herself down for a good read when she noticed her small son stride over to the window, seize the kitten that was dozing on the ledge, and swinging it about by its tail, give it a vigorous shaking.

"Jimmy! Stop that at once," she cried, and making a grab at the kitten, rescued it from its tormentor.

"What do you mean by being so cruel to the poor little thing?" she demanded.

"I wasn't cruel," said Jimmy. "When dad was playing cards last night I heard him say, 'Now, boys, there's at least $5 in the kitty, and—well, I was just trying to shake it out.'"

Ostrich-Like

At an afternoon party the other day several women turned up in fashionable ostrich cloaks and capes. One in particular had a garment so voluminous as to suggest that it had absorbed the whole annual produce of a good-sized ostrich farm. The wearer was neither so young nor so fair as she had been.

"What do you think of that?" asked one woman of another.

"Lovely," was the reply. "But why doesn't she bury her head?"—Edinburgh Cootsman.
