

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Don't forget the Firemen's Dance, Saturday, March 13, at the Patagonia Opera House. Everybody's coming.

Miss Laura Emily White of Nogales and Lewis A. Curtis were married in Tombstone February 1, it became known here this week. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Curtis, formerly of the San Rafael Valley, and the bride is a daughter of Mrs. J. C. Torrea.

Gordon Farley motored to the Big Jim mine Wednesday evening, accompanied by Dave Dowd.

R. A. Campbell and Val Valenzuela Jr. attended the Elks' meeting Tuesday night in Nogales.

Jim Rountree made a business trip Thursday to the San Rafael Valley.

Jim Rountree has completed the well on the R. A. Campbell property at approximately 100 feet and says there is plenty of water in the well.

R. C. Blabon of the East Side garage was a Nogales business visitor Tuesday.

FOR SALE—9-h.p. Fairbanks-Morse hoist; excellent condition; bargain. RUPERT MINE, Patagonia, Ariz.

C. C. Crenshaw of Nogales was a Patagonia visitor Thursday, accompanied by Miss Mary Ann Mooney and Mrs. Grace A. Farrell, who visited the local school, later going to Harshaw and Mowry.

Mrs. Hazel Sorrells of Calabasas visited the local school Thursday.

The Patagonia Barber Shop had a new roof put on this week, and Mr. Fessler, the proprietor, says customers can keep dry while in the chair.

Virgil Walker of Nogales spent Sunday in town visiting relatives. He was accompanied by Mrs. Walker and their daughter and his mother.

Edwin Raines started a little excitement Thursday afternoon when he tied his horse to a post in front of the postoffice. The animal became frightened and pulled the post from its anchorage.

Fancy Stationery—all shades and quality.—Washington Trading Co.—Advertisement.

Fred Barnett of Rockdale ranch was in town Monday for supplies.

E. H. Evans of the Evans Mercantile Co. motored to Tucson Tuesday. He was accompanied on his return by Mrs. Evans and children.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Page of Nogales were Saturday visitors at the home of Mrs. Page's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Roagan.

Andy Bettwy of Nogales purchased a large boiler that had been lying near the East Side garage for several months and moved it to the county seat, where it will be used in a business venture.

Val Valenzuela Sr. is running the City Market during the absence of the proprietor, Sy Swyers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jones were Patagonia visitors Thursday. Mrs. Jones paid a short visit to her daughter, who is teaching school at Alto.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Norcraft spent several days this week in Phoenix and Globe. They returned home Wednesday afternoon.

John Hildred of Tucson, A. F. Kearney of Los Angeles were in town Thursday on mining business.

A. G. Keating, president and general manager of the Big Jim Mines, Inc., spent a few days this week inspecting the new mill at Harshaw.

Fred Kolberg of Salero was in town Tuesday on business.

A Vandermark of Los Angeles has leased 350 acres of land north and east of Sonolita, it is said, and expects to start a new oil boom.

SCHOOL NOTES

"What I Wish to Be"
(Written by Francisca Moreno, Sixth grade, March 8, 1926.)

When grown up, I would like to be artistic because everywhere there is a great demand for artists. Newspapers, magazines, advertising agencies, department stores, and all who advertise are glad to pay well for the services of capable artists.

I can start with straight lines, then I can begin using curves. I can draw a picture with shading, action, and perspective. I can find somebody to teach me. There are art directors in most schools who have had years of experience in commercial art.

They know the kind of picture that sells and teach one how to make them in the least possible time. It is interesting work and easy for those who like the work.

Attendance is normal again. Nearly every one has recovered from the flu.

The Third grade pupils are becoming efficient in the use of tables to the 4's.

Genevieve Amado cut her hand badly Tuesday. It is healing nicely.

The Sixth, Seventh and Eighth grades studied the life of the great portrait painter, Sargent, this week.

Primary pupils are working on posters for their Health Store.

All are making new spelling booklets in the Primary room. Eighteen in the Primary room have won stars in spelling and are very proud of the fact.

There is a great improvement in phonics.

Mrs. W. C. Hooks helped the Primary pupils with their little health posters, and all enjoyed the song.

Mrs. Farrell, Mrs. Sorrells, Miss Mooney and Mr. Crenshaw visited the school Thursday. They were especially interested in the music and manual training.

Mr. Miller, state vocational director, visited the school Friday.

Vernon Lewis has been absent from school for more than a week owing to an attack of flu.

1926 REVENUE ACT PUBLISHED

A copy of the Revenue Act of 1926 has just been received by The Patagonian from John R. Towles collector of internal revenue for the district of Arizona. This copy is on file in our office and may be referred to by the public at any time. The collector at Phoenix advises us that he has only a limited number of copies for distribution, but will be glad to furnish copies to those particularly needing them until the supply is exhausted.

SAN RAFAEL VALLEY NOTES

Bud Baldwin and wife were Nogales business visitors Saturday.

Pat McCarty of Canille was a San Rafael Valley visitor Monday.

Mr. Wilson of Tucson was in the valley last week and held Sunday school in the schoolhouse in the afternoon.

Jim Fraizer of Vaughn was a valley visitor last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hunts and son, Wayne, of Tucson were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Baldwin of the San Rafael Valley.

Grover Marsteller of Nogales, Lon Parker of Campini Mesa, and Albert Gatlin of Patagonia were guests this week at the McPherson ranch.

Mrs. A. M. Fryer and son Kent were visitors this week at the San Rafael ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McPherson.

Mrs. A. C. Best of Best's canyon was a Patagonia visitor Wednesday, accompanied by Mrs. Bud Baldwin.

J. C. PENNEY CO. IS INSTALLING LARGE ELECTRIC SIGN

The J. C. Penney Company of Nogales has installed a large electric sign in front of their store on Morley avenue. The sign is blue white and yellow, the Penney colors, and was made in Ohio.

The A-Rail-ranch, on the Patagonia-Nogales road, has issued invitations to attend a barbecue Saturday afternoon the 13th, at 2 o'clock p. m. at the ranch. The ranch is owned by Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Thurber, who recently purchased it from Mrs. Ray Sorrells.

Last Sunday Margaret Fortune of Tucson entertained six guests at dinner. Everything was well cooked, nicely served and much enjoyed by those present.

MAKING COOLIDGE DAM PLANS

Washington, March 11.—The senate has approved the House bill authorizing employment of consulting engineers on plans and specifications for the Coolidge dam on the San Carlos irrigation project in Arizona.

An appropriation of $450,000 for the dam already has been made by congress. Plans for the structure are now nearing completion.

ARIZONA'S PART IN W. J. BRYAN MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION

Arizona is honored to have an important part assigned to her by the William Jennings Bryan Memorial Association a national association of leading citizens whose objective is to provide a unique memorial for the Great Commoner. No man did more to bring Arizona into the union as an independent state. Through The Commoner he opposed the joint statehood bill proposed by President Taft to bring Arizona and New Mexico into the union as a single state. He made a series of speeches against this measure, several of his addresses being delivered in this state. The result of his campaign, which was participated in by many of the prominent citizens of Arizona, including the late Charles H. Akers, publisher of The Gazette, was that President Taft was forced to abandon his idea of bringing in the two states as one.

Arizona and the Great Commoner had another common cause, none the less important than single statehood. Bryan was one of the first national leaders to espouse the cause of direct primaries. Arizona took the lead along with him under the banner of The Gazette. And now all state officers are everywhere throughout the various states nominated by primaries, as well as congressmen and senators. Many states determine their preference for president and vice president by the direct primary system, and it is not perhaps a radical statement to say that the time is rapidly approaching when we may expect to have the national party conventions for naming presidential nominees replaced by the direct primary.

The memorial proposed by this association for Bryan is one altogether different from any other ever proposed so far as we know. It is planned to purchase a suitable tract of land in Washington, D. C., to be forever known as the Bryan Commons, and on it to construct a vast auditorium which shall be dedicated as the Bryan Open Forum of the people in which important public questions may be discussed with all the facilities of free speech. From this auditorium will arise a high tower in which there will be placed bells of vast carrying power which shall ring whenever a great mass meeting of citizens is called to take place within the auditorium.

The president of the Arizona branch of this association is the Hon. Thomas Maloney, who was a close personal friend of Bryan since 1892 and who conducted the last tour through this state ever made by that leader. The Arizona headquarters of the association are at 1527 West Filmore street. The national headquarters are in the Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

It is the purpose of the association, and particularly of Mr. Maloney, to make the contributions to the memorial as democratic as possible so that contributions may be given in sums of $1.00 or more. The names of all donors will be preserved in the memorial at Washington, whether they give 1 cent or more.

BUSINESS AND FINANCIAL CONDITIONS IN THE U. S.

A tendency toward moderately low levels of activity has developed in several branches of trade and industry in recent weeks, states the current issue of the Guaranty Survey published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

This is especially true of retail trade, which has been adversely affected by extremely unfavorable weather in many sections of the country. The survey continues. The trend of manufacture and distribution in general has been characterized by a fair degree of stability although there also curtailment has been reported in some lines.

These recessions, however, are due at least in part to purely seasonal factors, and do not necessarily indicate any significant change in the general situation. On the whole, it appears that the volume of business is at least as large as a year ago, and that confidence with respect to the near-term outlook is unimpaired.

Basic Industries Continue Active. Activity in most of the basic industries is still very high despite the recessions of the last few weeks. That the rate of manufacture was somewhat in excess of current orders was indicated by the decrease of 150,625 tons during the month in unfilled orders on the books of the United States Steel Corporation. At the end of January however, operations were at a considerably reduced rate, and some further curtailment has taken place since. The slowing down of schedules has been due in part to the abnormally high price of coke resulting from its popularity as a domestic fuel substitute. Steel prices, on the other hand, have continued to recede slowly further emphasizing the need for a readjustment of plant operations to current demand.

The automobile industry is considerably more active than ever before at this season. While there has been some accumulation of stocks in the hands of dealers, the tendency has been less pronounced than might be supposed in view of the heavy output. The used car situation, however, continues to be a source of some concern.

The volume of new building undertaken last month was somewhat smaller than in December, but was much larger than the previous seasonal record.

Prices and Money Rates

The general trend of commodity prices has been downward since the first of the year. A moderate downward tendency has been visible also in money rates, though the decline appears to have been checked in the last fortnight. In fact call loan rates have moved upward, while time loan and commercial paper rates have remained firm since the beginning of this month, but at a level perceptibly below that of the closing weeks of 1925.

The initial reports of the New York Stock Exchange and the Federal Reserve Board on loans to brokers show a total volume of credits based on security collateral considerably in excess of the advance estimates, although their exact significance is doubtful in the absence of any definite basis of comparison.

BIG JIM MILL MAKES ORE TEST THIS WEEK

President A. G. Keating of the Big Jim Mines Inc., came here Tuesday to watch results of a mill test of the mine's ore, which was undertaken yesterday at the mine. Mr. Keating said that tests of the ore made in Los Angeles showed recoveries of 93 per cent, the process being used being exactly that to be used in the new mill.

The mill will gradually be worked in until full capacity has been reached in its operation. It is anticipated that at least $75,000 per month will be made when the mill is in full swing.

New development work, it is said, will be started immediately, although an abundance of good ore is already blocked out in the mine and thousands of tons are on the dump ready for the mill.

The electrical expert from Los Angeles has been on the ground to see that everything in his line is in good working order. A test was made of the machinery last week to determine the efficiency of the electrical equipment, and everything was found to be in fine order.

He—Could you take a joke seriously? She—I scarcely know you yet.

More to read in The Patagonian than found in most weeklies

The school teacher, in trying to explain the meaning of the word "slowly," illustrated it by walking across the floor.

When she asked the class to tell her how she walked, she nearly fainted when little Mabel shouted, "Bow-legged."

"Well?"

"Shall we tell her about it?"

"Better not. It may be the latest style."

News Taken from the Daily Papers

A headline in the paper says "In their war China won't fight on rainy days." They don't mind getting shot, but they won't get wet.

Imagine a sign as you start to enter China: "RAIN. NO WAR TODAY." If that was the custom in this country, we could prevent all wars by announcing that all the fighting must be done in Portland, Oregon.

Another paper asks, "Where does a Florida Real Estate man go in the summer?" He goes to California to his all-the-year-round home.

A newspaper asks "Why does a President of a concern always talk at the Company's banquets?" It's an incentive to the workers, who say, "If that's all he knows I may be President some day."

Another paper suggests, "The cheapest way to enforce Prohibition is to have everyone that drinks watched." Who is going to do the watching?

An article in a Business Man's magazine inquires, "What business in this country has the largest turnover?" Cucumbers for supper have the largest turnover; with Fords a close second.

The Congressional Record speaking editorially, says, "Bull" Durham is the best tobacco that ever entered these Statesly Halls."

There will be another piece in this paper soon. Watch for it.

Jay Walker to Blame for Half of the Deaths by Auto

MANY a motorist whose car has figured in a fatal accident will be able to present a clear sheet to Saint Peter when his time comes, when one considers all the contributing factors outside of the driver's own fault. A total of 1,390 auto fatalities on record with the Stewart-Warner Safety Council for the prevention of automobile accidents, covering a period of seven months, shows that in 727 cases the fault was clearly the pedestrian's and cannot be put down to the driver, the weather or unavoidable circumstances.

The careless pedestrian's footsteps lead him to the grave by six distinct routes, says the Safety Council, and the most travel-worn of these is Jaywalking. Sixty-two per cent of the 727 auto fatalities just referred to were due to straggling across busy streets without using the intersections. Children's playing in the streets was responsible for 31 per cent and coasting for another 3 per cent. Confusion on the part of the pedestrian, not hearing whistles and turning back in his tracks, brought about 9 per cent of these 727 deaths, while physical disability and intoxication rate 3 and 2 per cent respectively.

THE HOME PAPER BEST

"Irreverent shears are never laid upon the President's home paper. That is the greatest newspaper, the most important newspaper that comes to the White House, and the President wants it all."

The population of every great city is largely made up of men and women from small towns. Many of them are never weaned away from the old home surroundings and they read the home town paper from the first paragraph to the last.

SAVING LIVES AT NO COST

Grade crossing accidents can be prevented, not by taxing the public for grade changes but by automobile drivers stopping and looking before crossing railroad tracks.

This is proven by experiments of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, which requires all its truck drivers to stop, look and listen before crossing railroad tracks.

In the year 1924, the vehicles operated by that company crossed railroad tracks 31,000,000 times without an accident.

Public officials and others having to do with the regulation of traffic and avoidance of accidents may well consider the significance of this performance.

It is a remedy for accidents which insures easy and quick care at no expense to taxpayers, whereas to remedy by grade changes would take half a century for the 250,000 crossings in the United States and would cost the taxpayers no less than $15,000,000.

SAVING SHIPS AT SEA

During the recent terrific storms on the Atlantic four ships almost simultaneously reported themselves in peril.

"Fifty years ago," says the Paris (France) Times, "not only would they have been unable to call for help, but they would have stood strong chances of going down with all hands. Even in the steamer lanes a sinking craft blown off her course or just out of the range of visibility of passing ships would have stood small chance of rescue."

The signals of the powerful navy stations crashed through the atmosphere demanding right of way and silencing broadcasting. The music and entertainment going out from scores of American stations was stopped for the longest period since the popularization of the radio. Millions of listeners in two continents were informed that ships were in distress and that they would have to forego their evening's entertainment.

CAN'T LEGISLATE STATIC

David Sarnoff vice president and general manager of the Radio Corporation of America, urges need of a nationwide system of radio broadcasting, with facilities powerful enough to span the oceans when desired. The exchange of international programs by radio, upon an organized basis, must wait largely upon the creation of a broadcasting system in the United States which can make the voice heard regularly across the Atlantic.

The greatest problems presented by broadcasting, he declares, are beyond the mandate of legislative action. "We cannot eliminate static by congressional veto. We cannot remove the cow from the track of progress by legislating against the speed of the railroad train."

A GREAT INDUSTRIAL NATION

The United States at the present time has the greatest industrial capacity in its history. There is much room for further expansion, and there is a wide field for investment.

We are entitled to judge the future by the past, and the last 50 years in this country have given us machine production, electric power, the telephone, the automobile, the gas engine, chemical processes, the X-ray, the motion picture, the radio, and a thousand devices that have widened the opportunities of the people, absorbed the fruits of industry and employed capital in ways that were not seen in advance.

Like other industries which have contributed to national welfare for generations past, new industries are making of themselves a primary need. Luxuries of ten years ago are now necessities. Modes of life have changed completely with new modes of travel new modes of thought and new mechanical inventions.

Opportunities of this country are so great that as time goes on production is bound to increase while buying power expands lifting to higher levels the standard of our national life.

SENSIBLE SAVING VS. SENSELESS EXTRAVAGANCE

The rather staggering sum of $702,191.34 is on deposit in Los Angeles banks, carried in 47,461 accounts by school children. This is the statement of A. H. Thomas, junior vice president of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, who is president of the Los Angeles Bank's School Savings Association.

School banks in the United States now have $25,913,531 on deposit, in 10,163 institutions, with 3,000,000 children as depositors. They drew $458,072 interest on their deposits during the last year. Such banks are now in operation in 39 states.

It is not necessary to make misers of children, but it is in their own best interest to discourage senseless extravagance, and encourage systematic saving.

Principals and teachers have cooperated in this movement. From June 22, 1923, to October 1, 1925, Los Angeles school savings grew from $232,541.55 to $702,191.34.

PEACE IN RAILWAY INDUSTRY

It is an augury for peace in the railway industry when representatives of the carriers and the railway unions join in drafting a bill to regulate settlement of disputes.

It is no criticism of the new plan to point out that its most important feature is not the machinery which it creates, but the first provision of the proposed bill, which states that "it shall be the duty of the parties to exert every reasonable effort to make and maintain agreements." The most important thing is the will-to-peace under all circumstances.

That such a state of mind does now exist is proved by cooperation on the new bill between carriers and the unions. It expresses the recognition of an existing common interest as opposed to "class struggle." The railway labor unions are among the largest in the United States, and this decision will undoubtedly exert a favorable influence upon smaller unions in settlement of their disputes.

HE OUGHT TO KNOW

Guy Huston who is one of the country's largest dirt farmers as well as being chairman of both Kansas City and southern Minnesota banks and president of both the New York and Chicago joint stock land banks, declares that "the bad spots in our agricultural situation that have held the farmer down since 1921, have been definitely corrected by improvement of farm prices and restoration of agricultural purchasing power."

BRINGING CAPITAL AND LABOR TOGETHER

With a capitalization of $2,500,000, the American Train Dispatchers' Association has entered the banking field in Chicago, following the successful lead of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in several places. They will hold the stock themselves, but will employ professional bankers to run the details of the business. This is the shortest and surest way to bring business and labor together.

There's only one thing that worse than having a wife who can cook and won't, that's having one who can't cook and will.—Exchange.

YOU PROSPER AS YOUR COMMUNITY PROSPERS

You get what you pay for when you buy from catalog descriptions—and no more. Buy at home and every one will benefit.

For the fifth time in the history of the state, civic and commercial organizations of Arizona are setting about to drive home to the buying public the fact that keeping home money at home is one of the fundamentals of prosperity, in which all share. They are going to it by concerted effort during "Trade at Home" week, which will be observed throughout the state March 15 to 20.

The movement was suggested by the Arizona Industrial Congress, and taken up by most of the civic and commercial organizations of the state. The result is that most cities of Arizona will have a real live campaign.

In every case the campaign will be conducted by local communities, the congress cooperating with each to make the movement state-wide. Many organizations are planning to make the week a regular celebration, with displays and the like.

The one point which will be emphasized in every town during the week is that every householder will help himself by patronizing his home merchants and business men. Poor business directly or indirectly affects every citizen and good business means better pay and more work for everybody. Very dollar that is spent outside one's own community hurts that community—the spender with the rest. The only way to bring back prosperity is to keep the money at home.

With the Trade at Home idea will be emphasized the direct benefits of using home an estate products. Using Arizona products means increasing the production and hence the invested capital of the agricultural and manufacturing industries of the state. And helping these industries to prosper means more taxable assets, with lower individual taxes; it means that more money will be brought into the state and spent in the state, and that every one will share in the prosperity brought by better business conditions.

AUTO TAX CUT IS REFLECTED IN LOWER PRICES

The reduction in the manufacturers' tax on automobiles from 5 to 3 per cent and the provisions for the refund of tax already paid on automobiles, as contained in the Revenue Act of 1926, signed on February 26 by President Coolidge, is already being reflected in the reduced price to the purchasers of some makes of cars in spite of the fact that the reduction and refund does not become effective until March 29, 30 days after the passage of the act. John R. Towles, collector of internal revenue for the district of Arizona, declared yesterday, when discussing the tax measure. He said that some makes of cars are already being quoted at prices lower by the amount of the reductions or refunds, others are agreeing to protect present purchasers where lower prices have not been set.

The refunds are applicable to automobiles and parts in the hands of

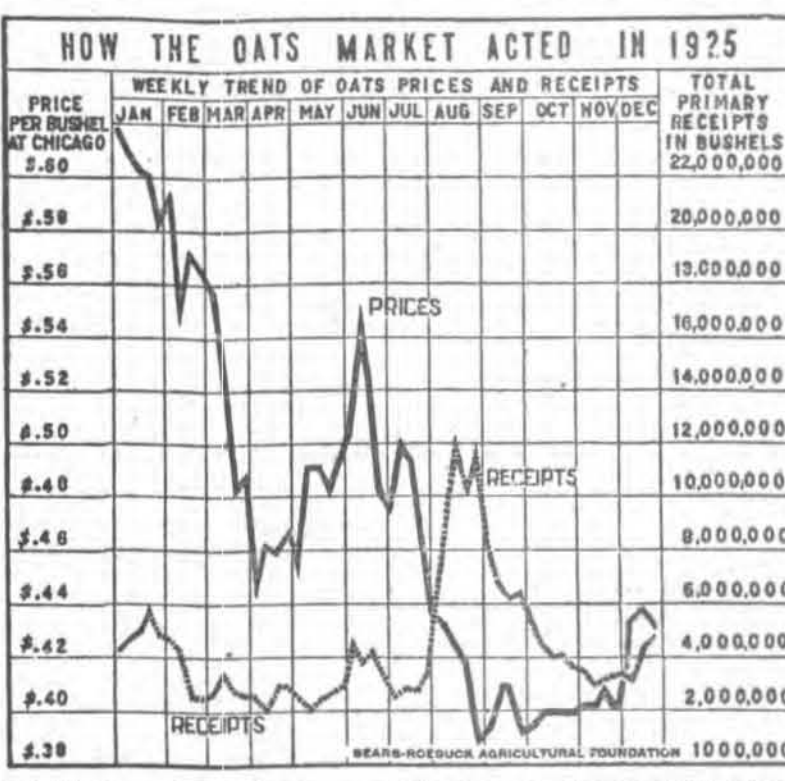

NOTICE OF APPLICATION OF JOHN F. CAMPBELL FOR A UNITED STATES PATENT TO THE JUSTICE LODE MINE.

NOTICE is hereby given that January 12, 1926, John F. Campbell, whose post-office address is Patagonia, Arizona, claiming the JUSTICE Lode, situated within the Patagonia Mining District, County of Santa Cruz, and State of Arizona, mineral survey number 3813, has made application to the United States for a patent for the said mining claim, which is described as follows, to-wit:

Being approximately in Sec. 10, T. 24-S., R. 16-E., Gila and Salt River Meridian, and beginning at Corner number one, whence U. S. M. No. 1 bears north 21 deg. 45 min. east, 5503 ft.; thence north 73 deg. 37 min. west, 600 ft. to corner number two; thence south 16 deg. 23 min. west, 1500 ft. to corner number three; thence south 73 deg. 37 min. east, 600 ft. to corner No. 4; thence north 16 deg. 23 min. east, 1500 ft. to corner No. 1, the place of beginning.

The notice of location of said JUSTICE Lode Mine is of record in the office of the Recorder of Santa Cruz County, at Nogales, in the County and State aforesaid, in Book 17 of Mining Locations, at Page 537. The said mining claim hereby sought to be patented is bounded on the north by the Independence Lode unsurveyed, and on the west by the Crop Cut Lode, unsurveyed, both belonging to the Heanepin Copper Company, a corporation; on all other sides by vacant and unoccupied land, the said claim being designated as Lot number 3813, in the official plat posted herewith.

EARLY IN 1925, oat prices were so high, reports the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, that consumption was actually checked. Then the market began to decline and in April, went up again in June, fell to less than 40 cents in August and stayed at that low level. The 1925 crop was 1,501,000,000 bushels and the carry-over from 1924 was larger than usual. Total supplies of oats in all sections were only 20,000,000 bushels less than in 1924 when the crop of 1,522,000,000 bushels was harvested.

Prices started to go down in February and March, went up somewhat during June but came down again in August and have maintained a general low level. Oat prices are likely to advance toward spring as commercial stocks are reduced and the consuming sections of the country draw more extensively on the terminal markets.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE SANTA CRUZ COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS, Nogales, Arizona, February 1, 1926.

The Board met pursuant to adjournment of January 11, 1926. Present: Chairman James L. Finley, Members Robert A. Campbell and Hugo Miller, and Clerk A. Dumbauld.

This being the day for the consideration of bids for the various county contracts, bids were now opened and considered for the feeding of the county prisoners. Wong Gee Paw bid 18 (eighteen) cents per meal for each meal served, and Virginia V. de Fraijo bid 23 1/2 (twenty-three and one-half) cents per meal.

Upon motion duly made and carried, the bid of Wong Gee Paw for the feeding of prisoners was accepted, and he was awarded the contract for the ensuing year and bond for fulfillment of contract was fixed at $50.00.

The following bids were presented for the burial of indigent dead: Frank B. Carroon bid $6.00 for each case and 10 cents per mile for each mile necessarily traveled outside of the city limits of Nogales. Parker-Grimeshaw bid $500 for each case and 5 cents per mile for each mile necessarily traveled outside of the city limits of Nogales.

Upon motion duly made and carried, the bid of Parker-Grimeshaw was accepted and contract awarded to them and bond fixed at $500.00.

The only bid for auto service for county officials was presented by A. L. Peck Jr., who bid a flat price of $350.00 for the furnishing of two 1926 model Dodge cars, and additional cars needed to be furnished at the rate of 15 cents per mile on a mileage basis.

Upon motion duly made and carried, the contract for auto service was awarded to A. L. Peck Jr., and bond fixed at $1000.00.

Howard Keener, publisher of The Patagonian, made the following bid for county printing and publishing: For printing and publishing the minutes of the Board of Supervisors, one publication, per inch, 45 (forty-five) cents; for publishing and printing notice of rewards or bids and all notices required by law, first publication, per inch, 45 (forty-five) cents, subsequent publications, per inch, 40 (forty) cents.

Harold C. Wayne, business manager for the Nogales Herald made the following bid for county publishing and printing: For publishing the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors, one insertion, 33 (thirty-three) cents per inch; for publishing and printing notice of rewards or bids and all notices required by law, 29 (twenty-nine) cents per inch for each insertion required.

The affidavit accompanying the Nogales Herald's bid was submitted to the County Attorney for his opinion. He held that the same was not an affidavit as required by law to accompany such bid, hence the bid was not a lawful bid as defined by law.

Upon motion of Campbell, seconded by Finley, the bid of Howard Keener was accepted and he was awarded the contract for the ensuing year. On the above motion Member Miller voted "no."

Bids for the furnishing of county books, stationery, log 1 blanks, letter-heads, envelopes, election supplies, etc., were presented as follows: By the Manufacturing Stationers, F. H. Keddington Company and Howard Keener. After due consideration of all bids and a checking of all items, contracts were awarded as follows:

F. H. Keddington, upon motion duly made and carried, was awarded the contract for bound books, all loose-leaf books, all receipt and license books, tax receipts, county warrants, assessment lists, county treasurer's monthly report blanks, tax rolls, election ballots and all election supplies. The bond for the above contract was fixed at $1000.00.

Upon motion duly made and carried, the contract for the furnishing of legal blanks was awarded to Howard Keener as the lowest and best bidder. E. C. Best appeared before the Board of Supervisors and asked for a refund on taxes paid on cattle for the year 1922, in which he stated that he was over-assessed in that year for 76 head more than he actually had and gathered.

This claim was supported by a signed statement by Otto H. Herold, vice president of the First National Bank as to the actual number of head of these cattle gathered and received by them at the time of buying, August 23, 1922.

The above refund was allowed and refund ordered made. Monthly reports of county and precinct officials were filed, as follows: Justice of the Peace Precinct No. 1, County Treasurer, Superintendent of Outdoor Indigent Relief, Sheriff, Superintendent of Health, County Recorder, Clerk of Court, and County Assessor.

The Sheriff reported the resignation of Miles Perry as jailor, and the appointment of C. W. Gates to fill his place. The above action was approved. A proposal for furnishing fire guns for the court house was read and the same was rejected.

A communication from W. C. Lefebvre, State Engineer, with reference to four miles of county road running northerly from Sonolita to Pima County line was read. The proposal as contained in the communication of the county paying to the State Highway Department the sum of $1000.00, to be used in the construction of this piece of road by the State Highway Department, and the then taking over as a state highway of this four miles of road, was considered favorably by the board and the $1000.00 was ordered paid to the highway department in the consideration of the taking over and the construction of the same by the state and the making of it a state highway, the future maintenance of which will be under the State Highway Department.

Upon motion of Campbell, seconded by Miller and unanimously carried, the above was adopted. The contract and bond of A. L. Peck Jr. for auto service was presented and approved.

The following widow's exempton claims were filed with the board: Emma J. Bartell, Yvonia Fiechl, Francisca de Pina, and Ignacia Martinez.

The following claims and demands were presented to the board, and the same were examined, audited, allowed, and ordered paid out of the various county funds:

Rejection of Nickel Plate Merger Is Factor in Collapse of Stock Market.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MERGER of the Nickel Plate, Chesapeake & Ohio, Hoeking Valley, Pere Marquette and Erie railroads, as proposed by the Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland, was disapproved last week by the interstate commerce commission, and those so-called wizards of the railway world will have to devise a new plan if they wish to try again to bring about the giant combination. Their work on the rejected scheme is said to have cost them between two and three million dollars. If it had gone through according to those who opposed it, the brothers would have pocketed a profit of about $100,000,000.

The commission based its disapproval of the merger on a disapproval of the financial structure of the proposed new Nickel Plate company, holding that the terms and conditions of the proposed acquisition of control by the new company of the other companies were unjust and unreasonable. The commission held that the merger would be in the public interest from the standpoint of providing efficient transportation, leaving the inference that it would have been approved had the financial provisions been above criticism.

"We cannot escape the conclusion that the plan was arranged with the intention of keeping control in the hands of its proponents, even though their interest is a minority one. In fact," the commission said, "such an arrangement is not in accord with sound railroad practice. The Nickel Plate is the only railroad of importance in the country in which preferred stockholders do not have the right to vote, and now it is proposed to extend this feature to over $125,000,000 of new stock of a company comparable with the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio."

IN FINANCIAL circles the immediate result of the Nickel Plate ruling was the biggest day's trading in the history of Wall Street, with a percentage decline in prices that involved practically all stocks and in one extreme case reached 70 points. The stock market had been in a state of comparative collapse for several days, anyhow, and this was a staggered blow to the bulls. Trading eclipsed every former record, which had stood for years. The total for the day was 3,864,000 shares. The size of the market may be judged in comparison with the Northern Pacific market on May 9, 1901. On that day 3,072,305 shares were traded.

Stocks had been technically weakened in seven previous days of drastic decline; the confidence of shareholders in the speculative shares had been shaken by loss of from five to fifty points or more in their holdings. Many margin traders had reached the end of their tether.

The excesses of the wild upward speculation in many shares which had continued over a long series of months since the election of President Coolidge were being corrected and brought down to a wholesome level by the market itself. Stocks were engaged in seeking their true market value, based on earnings rather than on merger prospects, or stock dividends, which this year and last have fanned the speculative flames.

The collapse of the stock market which was accompanied by severe reactions in the grain and other speculative commodity markets, was described by experts as mainly a speculative orgy of powerful groups and professional operators. The general public was not thought to have been the recommendations of the Morrow board. The committee then proceeded to write its own bill, using as a basis the $150,000,000 five-year program submitted by Secretary of War Davis. The new War department proposals contemplate appropriations of $30,000,000 a year more than now is available for the air service during the five-year period. Of this $7,500,000 would be spent each year in the purchase or construction of new planes. At the end of the five years, according to the Davis program, the air service would have 2,200 modern planes, 1,650 regular army officers, 500 reserve officers on active duty, 15,000 enlisted men, and 500 flying cadets.

According to Representative Morin of Pennsylvania, the measure which finally reported by the committee will endorse most of the major recommendations of the Morrow board. Secretary Davis said his program had been conceived by the chief of staff and the chief of the air service.

FARM organization leaders of the middle western states, together with a number of governors from that region, gathered in Washington last week for a conference and for the congressional know plainly that they wanted speedy action on legislation for the controlling of farm export market prices. In their statements were hints of a political revolt in the West unless their demands were heeded. A committee from the conference called on President Coolidge and on Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, and its spokesman afterward said that the prospects for an agreement between farmers, legislators and the administration on the mechanics of necessary legislation were exceedingly bright. President Coolidge expressed his sympathy with the aim to stabilize agricultural conditions and let it be known he would favor any legislation unanimously agreed on by the Department of Agriculture, the farm organizations and the various agricultural committees in congress.

THE Watson-Parker bill, abolishing the railroad labor board and providing for the settlement of rail labor disputes by direct conference between railroads and their employees and an mediation and voluntary arbitration, was passed by the house by a vote of 381 to 11. The measure has been favorably reported to the senate and its early enactment into law is expected. The bill has before it raises involving approximately $200,000,000 in wage increase demands and doesn't know what to do with them, as the Watson-Parker bill makes no provision for the position of the pending disputes.

EXECUTIVES representing about eighty western railroads met in Chicago and selected a committee of twelve to conduct the wage conferences with conductors and trainmen. Those workers ask a raise of 7 per cent and the managers have gone on record as opposed to this boost.

SECRETARY OF STATE KELLOGG sent a new note to the Mexican government in reply to its latest communication concerning the new land and oil laws, and while not revealing its contents, he told the senate committee on foreign relations that he hoped it would end the controversy. Presumably the administration has toned down its demands a little. Some of the senators, however, were not satisfied and Mr. Kellogg of Utah was preparing a speech on the subject.

The Mexican government has notified all foreign Protestant ministers in that country that they are in the same category with the Catholic priests and must get out. The first of the expelled Catholics clergy to reach the United States arrived in New York on a steamer. In the party were ten priests, one nun and four Marxist brothers. They were penniless, stating they were not given time to take even their belongings. The states of Vera Cruz and Tamaulipas have issued laws limiting the number of priests. Vera Cruz allows one priest in communities of 10,000, two in communities of 20,000, four in communities of 60,000, and a limit of six in larger communities. Tamaulipas provides only one priest for each community, with the exception of 100.

will be that Germany alone will be given a permanent seat in the council. The probable compromise plan is for the holding of a second session at which it will be proposed that Poland be given a non-permanent seat. In this way Germany, through Doctor Stresemann, would be enabled to participate officially in the council's action. It is likely that a special committee will be named to study the question of a re-organization of the council.

According to a London correspondent, Premier Mussolini, with the aid of Spain and the Vatican, has formed a Latin-South American bloc in the league by which he hopes to control it. The first demands of this bloc will be for permanent seats in the council for Spain and Brazil and another temporary seat for another member of the group. The story says that the bloc is prepared, if it does not get its way, to leave the league and form a new association of the Latin states of Europe and America.

With only 51 votes in opposition, the French chamber of deputies ratified the Locarno treaties, giving Premier Briand a splendid endorsement. The approval of the senate is assured. The Polish diet also ratified the pact.

Our state department last week officially notified the secretariat of the League of Nations, and 48 governments that the senate had voted for adherence to the World court. Copies of the reservations were enclosed in the letters. Department officials said they expected those reservations would be accepted although jurists of several European countries had favored their rejection.

FIGHTING for the control of Peking marks the progress of China's civil war between the national armies, directed by Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, and that general's opponents, who include Marshal Cing Tse-shan of Manchuria and Marshal Wu Peifu, who leads a Hunan army. The names and localities do not mean much to the average American reader, but the result of the conflict probably will be that the government will fall into new hands.

IN MOROCCO the French and Spanish armies are preparing for a great offensive by which they hope finally to crush the Rifians. But Abd el-Krim is alert and already has started the fighting himself, attacking the French and certain tribes that are unfriendly to him. Both sides are trying for strategic positions from which to negotiate peace.

POSITION in Chicago has reached a stage where it not only amuses the rest of the country but in a way becomes of national interest. Strange combinations of Republican factions are fighting bitterly and one result has been a request that congress investigate crime conditions in the Illinois metropolis. Naturally, the Democrats are happy and hopeful. George E. Brennan, the justice Democratic national committeeman from Illinois, has announced his candidacy for the senate seat held by Mr. McKinley of Champaign, and for which Frank Smith is a Republican contender against the incumbent in the primaries. Mr. Brennan says his platform has only two planks—modification of the Volstead act to permit light wines and beer, and home rule for Chicago. The coalition, he says, will be a referendum in Illinois on Volsteadism.

THE commission had been obtained for him by Earl Bingham, the newly appointed governor of New York. Colonel Livingston of that party, and several English noblemen who had formed a company to finance the enterprise. In addition to capturing pirates and keeping whatever property could be obtained from their pathways of the sea, Captain Kidd was also empowered to prey upon the shipment of France, England's traditional enemy. Such prizes, however, must be brought to the nearest British port and there condemned and the property disposed of by the proper authorities.

Kidd enlisted 80 men in England and 80 more in New York. He had little difficulty in securing just the men for such an expedition. The names of them the lure of rich legalized looting was ample inducement. Each man was to share equally in the spoils, 20 or 25 per cent of their winnings had been deducted for the company. To others, whose past would not bear close inspection, a voyage just at this moment was a blessing, and going aboard the Adventure was a matter of keeping two lumps ahead of the law, whereas remaining on shore meant the usual one lump ahead.

So with his double-barreled commission and his crew of choice characters, Captain Kidd cast off the lines of the Adventure from a wharf in the Hudson river and headed south, Madagascar on the east coast of Africa was his goal. No prize-lusting "upon the seas of America" for him. His commission also said "other seas and ports" and Madagascar, which came within that category, was the haven of the ocean highwaymen who preyed upon the rich East Indian trade.

Captain Kidd Turns Pirate

WHEN on one fine spring morning in the year 1696 Capt. William Kidd set sail for New York, bearing a commission from the king of England to suppress piracy in the East Indies, and wherever else such unlawful doings flourished, there was not a man of the 100 aboard the galleon Adventure but that greeted with a cheer the prospect before him of the certainty of fame and fortune. Lucky for them that they could not look forward into the future and see the end; their leader and nine of his men in chains in the Newgate jail, an end for their lives in historic Old Bailey and writhing in the clutch of the rope around their throats on Execution dock on the bank of the Thames.

The Adventure touched at the Madeira islands, cruised south along the east coast of Africa, rounded the Cape of Good Hope, ran up to Madagascar, where the captain stopped and recruited his ship and then continued on towards India. In the meantime a plague had broken out aboard ship, and at the rate men were dying and being tumbled overboard, it began to look as though the Adventure would have not a fighting man left before ever a pirate ship was sighted. More than that, the captain showed no inclination to get at the business in hand. There he was near the heights of the bourgeoisie, but he made no move to seek them out and carry out the commission of his king.

Instead, he sailed aimlessly up and down the coast of India until three arse-hot men among his crew at his indecision and inactivity. Then the captain made his decision, but what force influenced him to it is one man told. At the port of Bab's Key, in the Gulf of Ben, a fleet of fourteen ships, known as the Mocha fleet, was being loaded with a rich freight for the ports of India. Fear of pirates the day set out with a convoy of Dutch and British ships. The swiftest of the Adventure kept swagging the bow of the Adventure around sharply. Indecision and inactivity was over. William Kidd had made his decision. "We're off to Bab's Key, my lads," he shouted. "We'll ballast this ship with gold and silver and precious stones from Mocha Bay." William Kidd, the hunter of ...the most famous freebooter in all history, started out as an avowed enemy of pirates. He... probably as much a surprise to him as it was to certain influential friends of his who were expecting him to be the man of putting rich profits in their pockets.

For when Captain Kidd sailed from Plymouth for New York in the spring of 1696 in the galleon "Adventure," he bore the commission of his majesty, King William III, to go forth and take four notorious sea robbers, Captains Tom, Ireland, Wake and Mize, who daily commit many and great piracies, robberies and depredations upon the seas of America and in other parts and also all such pirates, freebooters and sea rovers, being his own subjects, or of any other nations associated with them, which you shall meet upon the coast or seas of America or in any other seas or parts.

The commission had been obtained for him by Earl Bingham, the newly appointed governor of New York. Colonel Livingston of that party, and several English noblemen who had formed a company to finance the enterprise. In addition to capturing pirates and keeping whatever property could be obtained from their pathways of the sea, Captain Kidd was also empowered to prey upon the shipment of France, England's traditional enemy. Such prizes, however, must be brought to the nearest British port and there condemned and the property disposed of by the proper authorities.

William Kidd set sail for New York, bearing a commission from the king of England to suppress piracy in the East Indies, and wherever else such unlawful doings flourished, there was not a man of the 100 aboard the galleon Adventure but that greeted with a cheer the prospect before him of the certainty of fame and fortune. Lucky for them that they could not look forward into the future and see the end; their leader and nine of his men in chains in the Newgate jail, an end for their lives in historic Old Bailey and writhing in the clutch of the rope around their throats on Execution dock on the bank of the Thames.

The Adventure touched at the Madeira islands, cruised south along the east coast of Africa, rounded the Cape of Good Hope, ran up to Madagascar, where the captain stopped and recruited his ship and then continued on towards India. In the meantime a plague had broken out aboard ship, and at the rate men were dying and being tumbled overboard, it began to look as though the Adventure would have not a fighting man left before ever a pirate ship was sighted. More than that, the captain showed no inclination to get at the business in hand. There he was near the heights of the bourgeoisie, but he made no move to seek them out and carry out the commission of his king.

Instead, he sailed aimlessly up and down the coast of India until three arse-hot men among his crew at his indecision and inactivity. Then the captain made his decision, but what force influenced him to it is one man told. At the port of Bab's Key, in the Gulf of Ben, a fleet of fourteen ships, known as the Mocha fleet, was being loaded with a rich freight for the ports of India. Fear of pirates the day set out with a convoy of Dutch and British ships. The swiftest of the Adventure kept swagging the bow of the Adventure around sharply. Indecision and inactivity was over. William Kidd had made his decision. "We're off to Bab's Key, my lads," he shouted. "We'll ballast this ship with gold and silver and precious stones from Mocha Bay." William Kidd, the hunter of

POULTRY

CAUSE OF SCABBY LEGS IN POULTRY

The unsightly disease which affects the legs of fowls, causing them to swell and become distorted, is due to a mite, a small insect which is similar in appearance to that which causes scab in sheep. It is roundish-oval and semi-transparent, about one eight-hundredth of an inch in length, appearing, when magnified 400 diameters, about half an inch long. Beneath the scales there are spongy, scabby growths, in which the eggs and pupae of the mites are to be seen in great numbers. The pupae are very similar in shape to mature mites, but are very much smaller, appearing, when viewed with the above-mentioned power, about one-tenth of an inch in length. The disease, being of a similar character to the scab in sheep, or the mange in dogs and cattle, may be cured by the same treatment. Fowls were cured of this disease, before accurately knowing the cause, by applying to the legs a mixture of lard with one-twentieth part of carbolic acid. This should be applied with a stiff brush, such as one of those sold with bottles of mucklodge. A very small painter's wash-brush would answer the purpose; but something must be used by which the medicated grease can be applied thoroughly to the crevices between the scales.

A mixture of equal parts of lard or sweet-oil and kerosene will be equally as effective as the carbolic acid mixture. It is probable that lard or oil alone, would be effective, but the kerosene more easily penetrates between the scales and the carbolic acid is sure death to the mite.

pleasure to speak with mademoiselle again. I am in your debt."
The girl now shyly advanced and extended a hand to Narbonne, saying: "I have the brave Frenchman to thank again."

The absurd fellow was all but kneeling as he reverently blessed the slim hand, his cap gathering more grins from the forest-fold. And I was surprised to observe how calmly she accepted his homage. She retired to her log, pulling us along after her by the exquisite charm of her manner. It caused me grim amusement, and some chagrin, to realize she waited until Narbonne was present before exercising the height of her charms. With a glance to make sure his fingers was not within hearing she confessed: "Messieurs, I am much afraid of that man."
Narbonne bowed and turned to leave us, but I seized his arm and detained him. He roughly shook off my grasp and whispered: "Did you not hear? I have endured the little beast, but surely mademoiselle should not be annoyed."
She understood this display and was between us. "If you have respect for the women of France you will distance us, stepping into my pocket across my left hand."

COMPLICATIONS
STAMPED.—Traveling by canoe on the Mississippi, on his way to Illinois, in the early days of the settlement of Louisiana, William Drummond, English spy, known to Indians and settlers as the "White Indian," gave a British Indian post a declaration of war against the French. For his own purposes, he hastened to Illinois to carry the news to Blauville, French governor. Drummond met at the French, his brother-in-law, the Indian, who was the one Blauville had threatened to hang him as a spy. Drummond refused to lay back. He fell in with Piles and Uncle Matton, as they way to Illinois to secure refuge from a ship, the Maire, bringing women from France. At Illinois, Drummond, perceiving a woman from a country's vicinity, she told him she is Claire Duchesne, picked up in a raid in Paris. Evidently well bred and educated, she is a mystery to Drummond. He determined to go with a man, English, known as "Old St. Paul," following her to New Orleans. A Frenchman, Francois Durbanne, evidently dominated by spirit he had heard of the riches of the New World, introduced himself. Blauville accused Drummond of treachery, but the latter secured a receipt from Durbanne by revealing the French destruction of war. He is to await the arrival of a former companion, Demons the Fox, who will accompany or accompany him. Drummond had Demons the Fox's name as English spy. Drummond receives a message from Claire, begging him to help her reach the English settlement. Drummond, trusting his bones with a note to Claire promising to meet her at New Orleans. He plans his course. After a struggle, Drummond would the incriminating papers from Demons and escapes from Illinois. He meets the Maire's

Returning my gaze to the river I was troubled to observe the canoe was making no progress toward the opposite shore. And only white men ignorant of the river, would stir the eddy of the mighty current and barely hold their own, when easy paddling was to be enjoyed along the shore.
"How one can hardly see them," she cried.
"We'll go back and cook our fish," I said. The canoe was heading toward us, thus making it appear to be a speck. And I had no doubt the smoke from our generous fire had attracted the voyagers' attention. If Demons and his companions were on the same side with us the intervening forest would prevent his seeing the smoke. It was his mantle against mine, and I was hampered by an irresponsible girl-woman.
CHAPTER VIII
What the Smoke Brought.
Even if the distant canoe was making for our smoke I did not see how I could break camp and hide in the forest, or take to the pirogue. Had I been alone the problem of avoiding the two men would have been child's play; but the girl would hold me back in the woods, while to continue in the pirogue would bring the men upon us. I was convinced they could not be

HISTORY SKETCHES

Francis Hopkinson
Helping a pretty girl to escape to England, so that she may marry the man of her choice is a scheme not usually associated with such dignified worthies as the signers of the Declaration of Independence, the 150th anniversary of which will be observed in Philadelphia this year by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition. Yet Francis Hopkinson of New Jersey was one of the romantic youths who assisted the lovely Elizabeth She-well to escape from the custody of not a thing was seen floating on the river without being fired at by musket or cannon. The event greatly amused the Americans and Hopkinson subsequently wrote his famous satirical poem "The Battle of the Kegs." Hopkinson lived in Bordentown, a place made gay in early times by the festivities of Joseph Bonaparte, who had been King of Spain and of Naples, and of a long succession of titled men, generals and statesmen. A social note appearing in the Pennsylvania Chronicle and Universal Advertiser of September 5, 1768, reads as follows: "On Thursday last, Francis Hopkinson, Esq., was joined later was to become famous as a portrait painter. His colleagues in the escapade were none other than Benjamin Franklin and William White, the latter destined to become the first Episcopal bishop in America.

Hopkinson was the first student enrolled at the University of Pennsylvania and was graduated with the first class. He read law with Benjamin Chew and was admitted to the bar. He was a member of congress in 1776, and became distinguished during the Revolution through his political and satirical writings.

In January 1778, while the channel of the Delaware was nearly free of ice a number of Whigs at Barden-town, N. J., sent torpedoes floating down the stream in the form of kegs filled with powder, and arranged a mechanical device causing them to explode when brought in contact with any other object afloat as an offensive against British craft. One of them, touching a piece of ice in front of the city exploded and created intense alarm. For 24 hours afterward

Khedive's Ex-Chef Gives Cooking Tip

Great chefs are born, not made. Rarely if ever do they rise to the heights in their profession by dint of perseverance. In Europe and the East a chef with the true gastronomic instinct is treasured jealously. He expects and obtains the treatment of an ambassador. His dishes are the pride of his master, to be boasted of to friends in the cafes and bazaars.

H. Gedojian.

Such a chef is Haroutoun Gedojian, sometime chef to the family royal of the khedive of Egypt, now the owner of a bizarre gold coast restaurant in Chicago. In his forty-three years as a chef extraordinaire, Haroutoun's word has been law in the cuisines of three Egyptian princes and one princess, the mother of the khedive. When Lord Kitchener was sirdar of Egypt, before the trouble in the Soudan, Haroutoun cooked for him.

One of Kitchener's favorite dishes, according to Haroutoun, was schisch-kubb, a dish made from milk-fed baby lamb. Prince Jamel, another of his masters, was particularly fond of dried cream and honey, a preparation which is one of Haroutoun's zealously guarded secrets. Prince Saad Pasha was a keen admirer of a confection Haroutoun makes entirely out of flour, butter and nuts.

In many of his admirable dishes, Haroutoun uses evaporated milk, which is simply fresh cow's milk sterilized in cans and with sixty per cent of the water removed. Because of a homogenizing process through which evaporated milk is put, the fat globules in the milk are broken up into microscopic particles and distributed throughout the milk, where they remain in homogeneous suspension.

This breaking of the fat globules gives a distinct buttery flavor to every drop of the evaporated product, a flavor which ordinary market milk does not have. Haroutoun says he uses evaporated milk in preference to market milk in the preparation of all sorts of baked dishes, as well as in cooking.

REFUND CLAIMS ON TAX MUST BE FILED MARCH 29

Collector of Internal Revenue John R. Towles yesterday announced that March 29, 1926, has been set by the United States treasury department as the inventory date for all dealers in cigars wholesale and retail, manufacturers cigar stores and stands, hotels, restaurants, grocery stores, wholesale drug companies, pharmacies, pool halls, etc., who desire to enter claims for refund of that portion of the stamp act on cigars as provided for in the new revenue act passed recently by congress. Collector Towles said that he estimates that more than 1500 establishments in Arizona may claim refunds. He advises that all such concerns make application immediately for the forms for claiming a refund of the taxes paid.

Section 1205 of the Revenue Act of 1926 providing for the refund follows:
(a) In the case of all cigars and little cigars in original and unbroken statutory packages held and intended for sale by any person on the effective date of the repeal of section 400 of the Revenue Act of 1924, including those in customs custody or in transit from the insular possessions of the United States, which on such date have affixed thereon stamps purchased at the rates of tax imposed by section 400 of the Revenue Act of 1924, there shall be allowed a refund equal to the difference between the tax imposed by such section and the tax imposed by section 400 of this act.

(b) No refund shall be allowed under this section unless claim therefor is presented within 60 days after the effective date of the repeal of section 400 of the Revenue Act of 1924. No refund shall be made to any person if the claim is for an amount less than $10.

(c) The commissioner, with the approval of the secretary, shall adopt such rules and regulations and shall prescribe and furnish such blank forms as may be necessary to carry this section into effect.
The department instructs that "The claimant or his duly authorized agent in respect to stock held at each place

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

SYNCHRONIZED CONTROL NOW NECESSARY

New York introduced the synchronized traffic control system years ago and today this system is in use not only in a great many cities throughout the United States but also in the larger cities of Europe.

Traffic congestion in New York has grown to a point where control of it would be impossible without the operation of electric signals regulating traffic over a number of blocks at a time.

A great many cities of 100,000 and over have found the plan advantageous. And pedestrians everywhere are learning that it is safer and far more convenient for all concerned to observe the signals just like motorists are compelled to do by law.

Traffic regulation offers problems to every city of any size in the United States. The cities with imagination and courage are preparing now for the day when motor cars will be used in even greater numbers than they are today.

It is a big task to get into the public consciousness the fact that traffic regulations are not only for the regulation of vehicular traffic but also for the guidance and safety of the pedestrian.

Traffic regulations must govern the movement of pedestrians as well as motorists.

Steps must be taken to make it as difficult as humanly possible for the pedestrian to get hurt.

It is the failure to observe traffic regulations that is such a common cause of accidents.

Observations of a Friend

It is more than likely that you have been around a bit of late and have been impressed, as a friend was, that "a reduced price on some garment or article for the home is that price at which it should have been marked originally; that some people appear to mark their prices right only at sale time."

"The difference between the Penney Store and some stores," our friend said, "is that you mark your prices right all the time."
