ARIZONA'S TAX RECORD

When compared with the great progress which Arizona has made in providing roads, schools and other necessities for the people during the last 14 years, covering the period of our life as a state, the state tax rate is no higher than should be expected when the fact is considered that Arizona has not added a single cent to its bonded indebtedness during that time. In the face of this truthful and proud status of Arizona, the Arizona Republican has engaged recently with persistence in an effort to show that our property owners are carrying tax burdens in excess of the like burden carried in the states of Wyoming, Montana, the Dakotas, Idaho and New Mexico. The Republican takes the per capita tax figures for comparison to show the excessive tax burden resting on the people of this state and to show a condition that does not prevail here. This Republican newspaper finds the reason for this excessive Arizona taxation in what it terms the "Hunt political machine." The attitude of the Arizona Republican and other Republican newspapers and party leaders are responsible for the fact that the people of Arizona are clinging to Governor Hunt and so far the cry of "Hunt machine" has not turned them away, and this continuance of this cry will more tightly cement the people to a man whom they have found efficient in the past.

Taxes in Arizona are no higher than in the states named for comparison, notwithstanding the per capita showing. When it is known that the few mining corporations in the state pay nearly half of the total taxes in this state, the folly of applying per capita figures as a basis for estimating the tax burden is shown to be little less than idiotic.

If the Republican would undertake to show the great benefits which have come to Arizona as a result of the expenditure of collected taxes in comparison with what has been received by the property owners of average states it would put Arizona far in the lead of those states named in its per capita comparison; it would show Arizona far in the lead in providing good roads for the use of its citizens and tourist stop-overs, ash troughs, embers and tourists who pass through the commonwealth going to and from the Pacific coast it could show that in its home county of Maricopa there are more miles of paved roads than are to be found in any two states named in arriving at its per capita tax burden; it could show that Arizona leads all these states in the educational facilities and conveniences provided for the use of the youth and children of the state, including the state university at Tucson, the state teachers' colleges at Tempe and Flagstaff, and magnificent and commodious high schools in every city and important community; it could show that Arizona excels Wyoming, Montana, Idaho and New Mexico in miles of standard federalaid highways, and, further, that all these roads have been built and paid for without increasing the debt of the state by the issuance of state bonds; it could show that Arizona's progressive spirit lies behind the fact that about three-fourths of all the taxes collected in Arizona are expended on the roads and schools of the state.

But, during this campaign season the Arizona Republican prefers to devote its columns to the work of maligning Arizona rather than to telling the people of existing conditions in Arizona which are providing satisfaction to every citizen and property owner, causing their hearts to swell with just pride because of the progress of the state.

In these campaign days the Republican prefers to discourage our citizens farmers and stockmen and factory owners by the use of unjustifiable political propaganda rather than to encourage them by pointing to the "Gold Standard" as Babson says in comparing industrial conditions in Arizona with other states in the union.

All this Republican noise is being made for the purpose of trying to discredit Governor Hunt and the Democratic party in Arizona, who have been in practical control of the state government from the time of its final admission into the union in 1912. At that time Arizona had no good roads and few schools; it had only a little more than $100,000,000 in taxable wealth as compared with the present assessment of more than $700,000,000. The Democratic party and the entire citizenship of Arizona should be proud of the progress made by their state during the last 14 years, and we believe they are, regardless of any po-

ARMISTICE DAY PROCLAIMED BY GOVERNOR HUNT

Declaring that Armistice Day is inseparably linked with the aspirations of humanity for world peace, Governor Hunt has proclaimed the eighth anniversary of the close of the World War, which occurs on November 11, as a holiday, and requests all citizens of the State to celebrate the occasion with fitting exercises and asks that all business and traffic cease on that day, wherever possible, during two minutes' silence at 11 o'clock a. m. on that day.

Armistice Day will be observed in Nogales with a special program including a big parade in which many beautiful floats will be seen. A military drill will be a feature. Appropriate exercises will also be held. All citizens of Santa Cruz county should join with the Nogales Armistice Day celebration in celebration of Armistice Day, November 11.

BANKERS MEET IN NOGALES

Nogales, Oct. 21—Bankers of Arizona, California and other states began arriving today for the annual two-day convention of the Arizona Bankers' Association, opening here Friday. Business sessions will be held in the Firemen's Club. It is expected that about 150 out-of-town people will attend the convention. The Bowman and Montezuma and other hotels are filled with the visitors.

CLAY HANKINS EXPLODES THE CAMERON "BUNK"

(An Interview, By A. M. Alderson)
Tombstone, Ariz., Oct. 20.—It seems to me that it is time somebody should call the attention of the people of Arizona to the long line of bunk promises—started as long ago as 1920 and unfulfilled six years later—by the person who so arrogantly calls himself "Arizona's Go-Getter."

This was the opening sentence of a talk I had with Clay Hankins, the fiery treasurer of Cochise county, in Tombstone the other day.

Mr. Hankins had been listening to a lot of new promises with which he said Mr. Cameron has been flooding Cochise county this year.

He was disgusted because, as he expressed it, "nobody calls Cameron down and shows up his record. They let him get away with it," he said, "when everybody who has lived here as I have for years knows that Cameron has promised us everything and brought us nothing. He will promise the moon for a football, or the milky way for a sandwich—anything to win votes."

"In 1920," said Mr. Hankins, "Cameron wrote a letter to many Arizona voters in which he said that 'He had the financial backing to build two huge hydro-electric plants in the Grand Canyon which will develop 965,000 kilowatts of electric power—enough to electrify every railroad, mine, mill, city, town and hamlet in Arizona at such a low cost that will make it possible for the poorest to enjoy its advantages and comforts.'

"In 1920, Cameron promised to use this great power, which he absolutely promised to build himself, that he would furnish electric power from the Grand Canyon to irrigate by pumping all the great acreage of unclaimed land in San Simon, Sulphur Springs and Casa Grande valleys.

"Now he comes around and tells us that he will, if re-elected, have the Federal government build a great steam plant to irrigate the Sulphur Springs valley.

"He didn't build any hydro-electric plants in the Grand Canyon that anybody knows of.

"And he won't procure any great steam plants to pump water in the Sulphur Springs valley.

"He promised to have the government build a great military cantonment at Douglas. What is there now? Last week there were only 351 soldiers at Camp Harry J. Jones, living in shacks. But Cameron is still saying he will move about half the army over here to Arizona. At Nogales he says this great post will be near there—at Huachuca probably. At Douglas he says it will be located there.

"Which promise does he intend to keep?

"My experience leads me to think that he intends to keep neither one of them.

"He is welping for a copper tariff. What has he been doing for six years that he never said anything about such a tariff when there was in 1922, a chance to write such a tariff into the general revision of the tariff through the Fordney-McCumber act?"

"I hear that he promises mine a 24 a day increase in Bisbee, and in another camp he promises them $6 and in another $8. Which promise does he intend to keep, if any?"

"He claims some of the credit for blocking the Swing-Johnson bill, when the record shows, and everybody admits, that Carl Hayden, alone and unaided, killed that bill in the house of representatives after Cameron had been able to muster only three votes against it in the senate.

"He claims to be the father of the San Carlos project—the Coolidge dam—when the fact is that Carl Hayden and Henry Ashurst committed the federal government to this project, got the diversion dams and canals authorized, and right in the middle of war time, when appropriations were mighty hard to get, procured nearly $700,000 for these purposes?"

"That was before Cameron ever got into the senate.

"He says arrogantly and with an amazing gall, that he 'put the forty-eighth star in the flag.' All alone, he says, he created the state of Arizona.

"He claims to have procured return of grazing fees. What are the facts?"

"The fact is that Carl Hayden, because he is such a fine parliamentarian, because he has such a quick wit and is so clever a debater under the five-minute rules of the house, knocked out by points of order, sustained by the speaker, determined efforts to double an intolerable grazing fee as he pleases.

DON'T VOTE REPUBLICAN

(Editor's Note—This is the song that was sung by the "candidate" chorus at the Democratic rally held in Patagonia last week and was left out for lack of space.)
Your presence is requested "to be with us tonight."
But with this invitation n n
There is a stipulation.
When you attend this meeting, you'll all be treated right!
But there's a wild and woolly crowd
That want you to vote right!

CHORUS I
Vote for Hunt, that's a darned good stunt.
But don't vote Republican.
Vote for Carl Hayden, with honors he is laden,
But don't vote Republican.
Hunt he always tries to do what the people want him to.
When the party struts around
Republicans come falling down.
Vote for Uncle Bill, he'll be your judge still.
But don't vote Republican.
Hunt and Uncle Bill are going strong still,
They can't keep them on the shelf.
We're the kind of party
That breaks up all the "smarties."
Holla-bala-linto—don't be a "pluto."
Vote her straight—yourself!

CHORUS II
Vote for Mother Ackley she's the very one exactly,
But don't vote Republican.
Vote for Grace Farrell, she could sing for you a carol,
But don't vote Republican.
Betty always takes his chance
In every Cinderella dance.
When he goes to take that chance,
Rip—goes his brand new pants!
Vote for Rufina, "Jimmie," he will dance for you the shimmy
If you don't vote Republican.
Vote for Harry Farrior, he will run like a rat-terrior!
If you give him half a chance.
(Repeat Chorus I: "We're, 'ho kind of party,' etc.)

CHORUS III
Vote for Frank Carroon, he'll be Recorder soon,
But don't vote Republican.
Vote for Harold Brown, he's a Coca Cola clown.
But don't vote Republican.
Gladys says that she can walk,
But, oh, dear me, how she can talk!
When Judge Hardy "jaws" a frowns
All the "sneepers" throttle down.
Vote for Bob Lee, then pay your mar rago fee.
But don't vote Republican.
Vote for Jimmie Kane; he's noted for ha fame.
Hathaway for constable!
(Repeat Chorus I)

CHORUS IV
Vote for Will Roath, he'll take a dy-ing oath
To never raise taxes.
Vote for Jake Burns, he has insurance charms,
But don't vote Republican.
Piggly Wiggly Sanders is surely going to land 'er
When the "supers" strut their stuff
Republicans can only bluff.
We all have had our fight, and we hope to come out right,
So don't vote Republican.
Republicans get blue, and they go "cooko!"
When we land them on the shelf.
(Repeat Chorus I)

over the national forests and reservations.
"The fact is that Mr. Hayden wrote the amendment to a resolution which was presented by General Greeley, then chief of the bureau, which gave the head of the forestry department authority to return grazing fees in drought-stricken areas, and that Cameron didn't have a blessed thing to do with it."
"I could continue indefinitely to show the ridiculous nature of Cameron's claims of accomplishments and the long list of his forgotten promises.
"The foregoing instances, however, are sufficient to show any intelligent man that Cameron is simply creating a fabricated record in an endeavor to make of himself the simulacrum of a great man."
"Carl Hayden's fine record of 14 years' service to the people of his state stands unchallenged by Democrat, Republican, Mugwamp, Socialist or anybody else. He makes no boastful show of it, and he has refused to make any reply to Cameron's ridiculous statements. He is making his own campaign and lets Cameron go double an intolerable grazing fee as he pleases."

TO RALPH CAMERON:—SOME FAIR QUESTIONS

(From the Mesa Journal-Tribune)

Senator Cameron, you are asking the people of Arizona to return you to the Senate that you may, among other things, protect their interests in the Colorado River. By general agreement, and your own admission, that stream is the most important natural resource left to this State. To see that the State is deprived of none of its Colorado rights is, therefore, the most important duty that can devolve upon any representative whom Arizona may send to Washington.

But will you, when the crucial moment comes, protect first the interests of Arizona, or the interests of your wife, your son, your secretary and your business associates in their string of mining claims staked for 25 miles along the lower reaches of the Grand Canyon and covering the Boulder Canyon, Black Canyon, and Bull's Head dam sites?

Simply because your own name does not appear on the list of locators, will you now tell the voters of Arizona, as you once stated on the floor of the Senate, that you have no personal interest in the Colorado River?

Will you use all your boasted influence with the national departments to set aside those locations, conflicting as they are with the claim of Arizona to the bed of the river?

The Government has brought suits to eject your friend G. Henry Stetson, your wife, your son, and various other persons closely associated with you and Stetson, from the canyon. Those suits are still pending on the Federal Court dockets at Prescott and at Carson City, Nevada.

Have you done everything in your power, Senator, to bring those actions to speedy trial and eliminate one of the clouds hanging over Arizona's title to the Colorado's bed?

On the contrary, have you not used your boasted influence to delay the hearings?

The Government cases against your wife, your son, your partner in many Grand Canyon ventures, and various others who appear to be merely "dummy" locators, were prepared by Harold Baxter, appointed by Attorney General Stone as special prosecutor in matters involving titles in Arizona. He alleged that there was not sufficient mineral to justify the placer claims that stretch along the Colorado for 25 miles, nor any at all to warrant the lode claims superimposed over the placer locations and covering the Boulder Canyon dam site.

Is it not a fact that you exerted your boasted influence and brought about Baxter's removal when he was fully prepared to go to trial?

The people who elected you to office may think it their privilege to question you with regard to what you know of the intentions and motives of these litigants whose claims are so directly at variance with those of Arizona, even though members of your own family be numbered among those who have plastered mining locations over three of the five best dam sites in the Grand Canyon.

In the event the Government finally succeeds in having those cases brought to trial, and wins them, will the defendants not appeal and delay a final settlement for years, even as you dragged out for a quarter of a century the dispute over title to your oreless locations along and above the Bright Angel Trail?

In the event that your wife, your son and your partner win, that their locations are pronounced legally valid, what then? Can you guarantee that they will step aside and relinquish their rights to the State of Arizona, which claims the bed of the stream and must ever remain a poor State unless it can have some voice in the development of the Colorado?

Will you even use your influence with your relatives and your partners to persuade them to give up their legal rights to the State whose interests you are elected to represent?

Absurd, of course. No one would ever think of asking such a silly question, if you were not a United States Senator and seeking re-election.

Before you set up the contention that the locations were made from a philanthropic motive, to forestall some grasping corporation bent on despoiling Arizona, please remember that the area in question has been withdrawn from mineral entry. The order was issued and became effective while the locating engineers were on the ground but they went right ahead driving stakes, and the parties for whom they were acting have gone right ahead trying to perfect title.

Let us put it in this way, Senator: Suppose you laid claim to a piece of property which was also claimed by others. Would you employ as your attorney or business agent, to look after your interests, a man who was the husband of one of your principal opponents, the father of another, and the partner of a third?

Just one thing more, Senator. When you were indicted for perjury in swearing that you spent only $700 in the pre-primary campaign of 1920 and $1200 in the general campaign, indisputable evidence was introduced by the prosecution that Stetson's secretary placed $15,000 to your credit in a Phoenix bank, and that numerous other sums came to you from the same source. Are you still receiving money from Stetson's office, and if you aren't spending it for campaign expenses, just what are you doing with it?

We hope that this is not getting too personal, but you are a public servant, a member of the Congress of the United States, and your acts should be above suspicion.

These, Senator, are just a few of the questions that this paper would like to ask you in regard to your attitude on the Colorado and your fitness to give Arizona unselfish service at Washington. If you answer them satisfactorily, we may follow with some others. If you don't answer them we won't bother about the rest; for by no stretch of the imagination can you be elected.

California's representatives—backed by some of the members of the cabinet—will use every means at their command to force the adoption of the Swing-Johnson Bill in the next session of Congress.

WYLIE WAY CAMP CLOSED FOR THE WINTER

Grand Canyon, Ariz., Oct. 21.—The Wylie Way Camp on Bright Angel Point on the north rim of the Grand Canyon, is closed for the winter, it was announced by G. B. Bolton, acting superintendent of Grand Canyon National Park, here today.

Roads into this area are still open to travel and will be until the first snowfall. Motorists entering the park should bring their own camping equipment and include plenty of bedding, as the temperature is far below freezing every night.

The hotels and camps on the south rim do not close at any time of the year, although snow during the winter months will probably make camping impracticable. At present roads from the National Old Trails highway to the park and drives within the boundaries are in the best condition they have been in this season, and an average of 75 cars per day have been registered at the south entrance.

PATAGONIA UNION HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

A STUDENT EDITORIAL

(The name of the author of this editorial is withheld by request.)

The election of trustees for the Patagonia Union High School which will occur Saturday, October 30, will probably be as hard fought as the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Several meetings have been held for the purpose of selecting candidates to oppose the present board of education. The men selected at these meetings are using as their campaign slogan: "A board that will run the high school in a business way."

I believe most of the high school students will agree that not only has the present board of education selected a fine staff of teachers that take an interest in the community as well as in the high school, but they have prepared the building and obtained good equipment at the smallest cost possible.

If these accomplishments were not done in a business way, then most of us do not know the correct definition of "business."

So much equipment is necessary—and must be procured. Though much of it could have been purchased at less cost to the community, slightly greater expense to insure quality of equipment, will not prove unwise, as quality of material determines the length of its use.

Before criticizing the present board of education, visit the school and see what they really have done; find out the real facts in the case—then censure them or give them due credit as the situation may warrant.

The students "to a man" are in favor of retaining the present board of education.

The pupils of the P. U. H. S. Home Economics I class are planning budgets so that they will know how to spend the income of a family correctly. Thirteen hundred dollars has been taken as the average income; 35% is allowed for food, while 20% is allowed for clothing and 15% for recreation. The balance is divided among rent, taxes, savings and miscellaneous. In the food budget the pupils not only plan a meal for a certain price but have a combination that provides the correct amount of proteins, carbohydrates, minerals, and fats.

Clothing budgets for three years have been made for each member of the family. The girls are now working on food budgets for a year, and also the recreation budget for the entire family.

They have found that money is spent to better advantage if the plans for buying for the family are made first.

The Junior-Senior masquerade ball, to be given October 30 to raise money for the athletic fund, is expected to be the biggest and best dance of the season.

The high school students are selling the tickets for the dance. So far the girls especially are active in disposing of the tickets.

A prize will be given to the student who sells the most tickets for the dance. The prize will be $1 for the successful girl and a free ticket to the dance for the boy.

The refreshments committee, composed of Lois Reeves, Sarah Pierce, and Vernon Lewis, promises that there will be good "eats." Lefebvre's orchestra will furnish the music.

If you have not purchased a ticket, one can be secured from any high school student.

(By Sarah Louise Pierce)

As part of their work in Home Management, the girls of one of Miss Perley's Home Economics classes spent Saturday in Nogales pricing articles in different stores. They first visited the hardware stores, looking at the furniture and paying special attention to the labor-saving devices. After lunch the girls got out their notebooks in which they had a long list of foodstuffs and visited Piggly Wiggly, Escalada Bros., and the Nogales, Sonora, market, comparing the prices of the articles at the different stores. They found that Escalada Bros. carry a large and varied stock of goods running from the cheapest to the most expensive brands. The market's prices on vegetables were very low but they had no canned or dried goods. The stock at Piggly Wiggly was varied and moderately priced and offered opportunity for barains.

The class finished their work about 2:30 and as a reward for their labors Miss Perley and most of the members went to the show.

The party given by Mrs. Fortune at her ranch on Monday was attended by many of the high school students. The crowd gathered in front of the ranch house, where there were several benches around a large bonfire. Stories, anecdotes and host tales were told by various persons. Mrs. Fortune and Mrs. McCutchan are the girls and boys small pieces of paper that were cut so that those of the girls watched those of the boys. They matched papers and those who had corresponded in pieces became partners. They went together to eat sticks to roast marshmallows, the boy getting his and his partner's. Because of there being an unequal number of girls and boys, some of the girls played boys' parts. After the marshmallow roasting they divided into two groups and played "Run, Sheep, Run." Later, most of them took a ride and returned in time to play "Three Deep" for a while before the refreshments were served. The refreshments were cake and punch. Mrs. McCutchan told many of the fortunes caused an uproar of laughter. Everyone left at 11:30, having had a delightful time and hoping another affair of the kind would be given in the near future.

News Items
The school orchestra is practicing twice a week in order to have their program ready for the Fair.

The orchestra now includes 18 pupils, four of whom come down from the Grammat school. All of these assembled on the back porch to have their picture taken to put on exhibition at the County Fair next Saturday.

The basketball courts have been cleaned off by the girls and boys and the game is in vogue now.

The boys are practicing basketball at present and the girls will have their turn next.

Baseball is still a popular game with the girls.

MILLINERS LEAN TO VELVET;
PARIS VERSIONS OF BLOUSES

SHIRT it, cord it, stitch it, fold it, drape it, tack it and combine it in colors. These are in part some of the ways the fashionable milliner manipulates velvet this season. Furthermore velvet is being used for sports as well as dressy models. A sports velvet hat with a sports two-piece velvet frock is one of the happy happenings among fashionable folk.

Picture a shirred velvet hat in dark green worn with a Lanvin-green chiffon velvet dress of two-piece tailored mode. Wouldn't it be adorable? Better order your milliner to make you corner to the right in this picture turks are clustered about the top crown pieces. The brim is graceful, being worked at the edge.

Reflecting the prestige accorded to the two-piece frock in Paris, its most importance is attached to the separate blouse. Now that the hair for color is rampant throughout the realm of fashion it follows that blouse distinction is attained in the vivid and startling. It is the sentiment of the French couturier that there is no danger of overdress in flamboyant effect, if the skirt be kept neutral or up one just like the cunning model shown first in this picture.

As to the velvet beret it is the schoolgirl's joy and pride and the younger folks are just flocking to their nearest milliner to "try on" the latest models. When it comes to color it is hard to decide, they are all so perfectly captivating this autumn. Many of these new velvet tams are absolutely void of wire or support, others of more formal type are handsomely modeled like the fetching ribbon-trimmed black velvet type pictured in the center of this collection.

A favorite method among milliners is to cord the velvet hat. A splendid illustration of this effective handling monotoned. In fact the mode encourages bold prints and embroideries of the silk velvet or metal cloth blouse, while the knitted blouse, which is very smart, by the way, is a matter of extreme color contrast.

At the races and all outdoor events the Parisienne delights in wearing a conspicuously colorful knitted blouse, such as is shown in the picture to the right. These are so finely knitted as to seem almost like cloth with a silken sheen.

Not by any means are gay silk prints passe when it comes to the blouse, a statement emphasized by the modernistic patterned blouse as shown under the cloth cape of the

Two-color velvet combinations inspire the milliner to evolve charming creations such as portrayed in the draped hat in the lower right corner. In this instance two shades of navy turturium are used together.

The large black velvet hat is favored in Paris for dress occasions. It too must have a soft crown with an unusual drape. In the instance of the handsome model shown in the lower is shown to the right at the top in the biscuit-colored hat whose crown is so expertly draped. Biscuit and beige are very popular millinery colors.

Very practical and youthful is a frock whose skirt of plaited deep red Jersey is topped with a knitted stripe blouse of many colors trimmed with collar, cuffs and an inset gilet of the solid red.

A more elaborate note is reflected in the jumper of metal cloth worn either with a velvet or crepe skirt.

The Kitchen Cabinet

In summer in my garden fair bright butterflies are everywhere. And underneath their shining wings are hid the dreams of splendid things.

TASTY GOOD THINGS

A fresh beef tongue if boiled until tender, then cooled and skinned, is delicious baked. Place in a baking pan and cover with celery, carrots and plenty of the broth and bake for two to three hours, basting often. This is a dish nice to serve for dinner when company is not sure of arriving on time, as it will not harm by standing for an hour or more in the oven, being ready to serve instantly.

Salmon Luncheon Dish.—Heat a can of salmon before removing the fish from the can. Turn out on a hot platter, remove the skin and bones and surround the fish with sliced, mashed potato. Pour round the potato a rich white sauce and set the platter into a dripping pan of hot water. When thoroughly hot serve garnished with bits of parsley.

Orange Cream Pie.—Beat two egg yolks and add one-half cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour and one of cornstarch; cook in a pint of milk, adding the grated rind of an orange. Beat the egg whites stiff and spread over the pie after it has baked, until thick. Add sugar and orange juice to the whites, then brown.

A regular custard pie may be treated thus; bake it with orange rind for flavor, then when baked cover with an orange sauce made with a little sugar, flour, orange juice and a bit of butter and water cooked together. Spread this over the custard, then top with the meringue and brown. The combination is unusual and inviting.

An ordinary white cake baked in a sheet and covered with a rich cooked orange sauce, then topped with a frosting, is delicious. It is called orange meringue cake. Lemon is fully as good served in the same way.

Chocolate Pie.—Melt two squares of chocolate, add half a cupful of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, a pint of milk, three egg yolks and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Cook the mixture until thick before adding the eggs. Pour into a baked pastry shell and cover with a meringue made from the egg whites.

A good dish of beans may be prepared in a short time as follows:

Soups and Garnishes.
Soup will never grow out of style for food, as it is often the most acceptable and the most enjoyed dish of the menu.

There are so many varieties that he is indeed hard to suit who cannot find one to his liking.

Velvet Soup.—Cook one-half cupful of tapioca, in six cupfuls of well seasoned veal stock. When thoroughly cooked add the yolks of three well-beaten eggs, stir until smooth and creamy, season with salt and pepper and a pinch of grated nutmeg. Serve hot with croutons—small squares of buttered bread toasted in the oven.

Scotch Pate.—Put into a kettle one pound of mutton with the broken bones. Cover with three quarts of water and bring to the boiling point. Skin and simmer for one hour. Add six potatoes, two onions, one carrot cut fine and simmer for two hours longer. Season with salt, pepper and butter, after straining and reheating. Serve with croutons.

Vermont Chicken Soup.—Take six cupfuls of well-seasoned chicken stock, add a little grated onion, one head of lettuce shredded and one cupful of cooked peas. Heat an egg and enough bread crumbs to make a paste and shape into balls. Drop the balls into the soup and simmer until well heated. Serve hot.

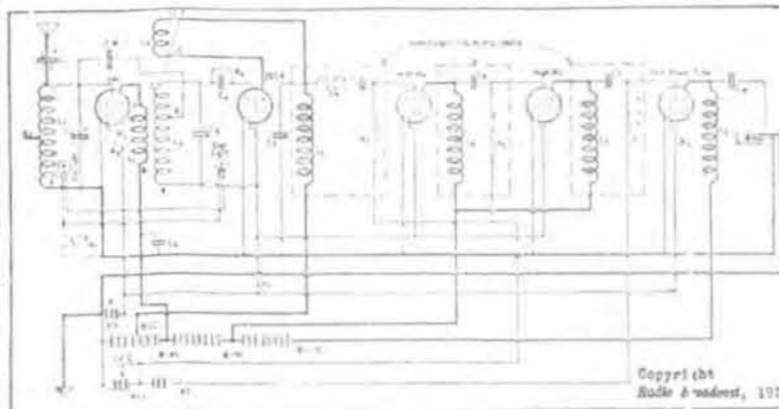

Bisque of Turnip.—Put a tablespoonful of butter, one sliced onion, three slices of carrot into a saucepan, toss until slightly cooked, then add four good-sized turnips grated. There should be a pint of pulp. Cover the saucepan without adding any water, simmer on the back of the stove for twenty minutes. Add a quart of milk, two tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter well mixed; cook until smooth, add salt, cayenne pepper and a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet. Strain and serve with small squares of farina.

Quick Bouillon.—Cut fine one pound of fresh beef and a slice of fat pork. Put into a saucepan with one cupful of cold water, one carrot, one onion finely minced and cook fifteen minutes, then add two cupfuls of boiling water. Simmer for an hour, then pass through a sieve. Season with salt, pepper and celery salt.

Cheese Balls.—Take one-half cupful of flour, one-half cupful of milk, a tablespoonful each of butter and cheese. Mix to a double boiler, cook until smooth, add one egg well beaten, and cook long enough to set the egg. Set aside to cool. Form into balls the size of hickory nuts, drop into boiling soup, cook five minutes and serve immediately.

RADIO

An Impedance-Coupled Browning-Drake Receiver.

If a careful analysis of the outstanding receiver circuits of the past twelve months be made, it is not unlikely that of them all there will be only a few that rate a high in popular esteem by virtue of their excellence in performance. Of these few not many were patterned after other than the old familiar tuned radio frequency plus regenerative detector circuit. In most cases, receivers are what they are because of the individual type of apparatus employed, providing that, to start with, a good circuit is selected.

The Browning-Drake, not an exception to the rule, is one receiver that amply illustrates this principle. First described in Radio Broadcast, this circuit has stood the test of time remarkably well. The circuit itself is not revolutionary; just a simple tuned, neutralized, radio-frequency amplifier, with regenerative detector. To this may be added any type of audio amplifier that strikes the fancy of the constructor. It is the tuned part of the receiver that requires the main attention because, with a good amplifier, the signal in the plate circuit of the detector tube may be amplified to the desired power and then outputted to a satisfactory loud speaker. In speaking so of the audio amplifier it is not the intent to belittle this very important section of a receiver; it is intended that emphasis be placed on that part of the receiver upon which we depend for the accomplishment of our tuning, for if that part of the receiver is not satisfactory the best audio amplifier in creation will not help matters.

The latest model of the Browning-Drake is the design of John R. Bronnau, technical editor of Radio Broadcast Magazine, and is described by him in that publication.

The latest model of the Browning-Drake is the design of John R. Bronnau, technical editor of Radio Broadcast Magazine, and is described by him in that publication.

In review of the circuit we find it consists of the following: A stage of tuned, neutralized, radio-frequency amplifier and a regenerative detector followed by three stages of impedance-coupled audio-frequency amplification, in the output of which is arranged a special isolating device as a protection for the loud speaker.

To construct a receiver similar to the model described, the following parts should be obtained:

Use of Power Tube to Give Greater Volume.
Power tubes designed for use in the last stages of radio sets are designed to deliver a greater volume of signal to the loudspeaker than can be obtained with ordinary tubes without overloading them. The dry-coil power tubes are especially effective for use in operating loudspeakers from dry-cell tubes. Certain storage-battery and lights-socket tubes deliver enough signal volume to furnish music for listening in large halls. Power tubes are usually operated with higher "B" battery and "C" battery voltage than ordinary tubes, and must therefore be used in sets equipped with separate "B" and "C" battery terminals for the power tubes.

Ways of Connecting Dry Cells for Radio.
There are three ways of connecting up dry cells—series, parallel and a combination of both, series-parallel. When a series connection is desired, the center contact of one dry cell is connected to the inner one of the next cell and the center of that to the outer of the next, etc. When a parallel connection is desired, the inner terminals of all cells are connected together and then the outer connections of all cells connected together. A combination of the two is cells in series and then the two groups connected in parallel.

Burnt Tubes Useful.
Use burnt-out tubes as a battery constructor. Break the glass, solder inside from the battery to the wires inside the brass shell and fill the shell with sealing wax. Now connect the battery leads from the wiring of a set to a socket arranged conveniently on the back of the cabinet. It is a simple matter to "plug in."

TWO FAMOUS WOMEN
BORN IN SAME YEAR
Queen Victoria and Lydia E. Pinkham

MRS. ANNA MCHENRY
1005 E. PLUM STREET, MARSHALL, ILLINOIS

In the year 1819, two babies were born whose lives were destined to have a far-reaching influence. One was born in a stony castle of Old England, the other in a humble farmhouse in New England.

Queen Victoria through her wisdom and kindness during a long and prosperous reign has become enthroned in the hearts of the British people. Lydia E. Pinkham through the merit of her Vegetable Compound has made her name a household word in thousands of American homes.

Marshall, Illinois.—"After my second child was born, I never saw a well day for five years. My father was telling his druggist about my condition, and the druggist insisted that father take a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have me try it, as it had helped his wife. I had given up, but to please father and mother, I commenced taking your medicine and in a week I had begun to feel better. When I passed through the Change of Life, I was taking the Vegetable Compound and I had no trouble of any kind."—Mrs. Anna McHenry, 1005 E. Plum St., Marshall, Illinois.

Another Woman Helped
Philadelphia, Penna.—"Mrs. Caroline Nagy, of 2717 Sears St., in a recent letter to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., says that after her child was born she was in a very weak condition. She could not seem to regain her health and went to her mother for advice. She told her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it had helped her when in like condition, and it has helped her mother also. So Mrs. Nagy started taking it. She felt better after taking the first bottle,—after taking six bottles her weakness and other troubles disappeared, and she is never again praising the Compound.

In some families the fourth generation is learning the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The Retort Discourteous
It is related that George Bernard Shaw, a few days after his seventieth birthday, was roped into a drawing room party of a rather highbrow nature, at which the special attraction was a violinist. Said the hostess to Mr. Shaw, after the violinist had rendered one or two numbers: "Well, Mr. Shaw, what do you think of his discovary?" Replied Mr. Shaw: "I find in him a great resemblance to Padrewski." A painful pause. Then, "But, Mr. Shaw, Padrewski is not a violinist."

"Exactly," snapped G. B. S. New Yorker.

WHY
General Motors Cars are sold on the GMAC Plan

1 BECAUSE many people prefer to purchase cars out of income and General Motors wants you to get value for your automobile dollar—whether you buy for cash or on credit.

2 BECAUSE, being operated by a member of the General Motors family, the GMAC Plan assures sound credit service designed to hold good will.

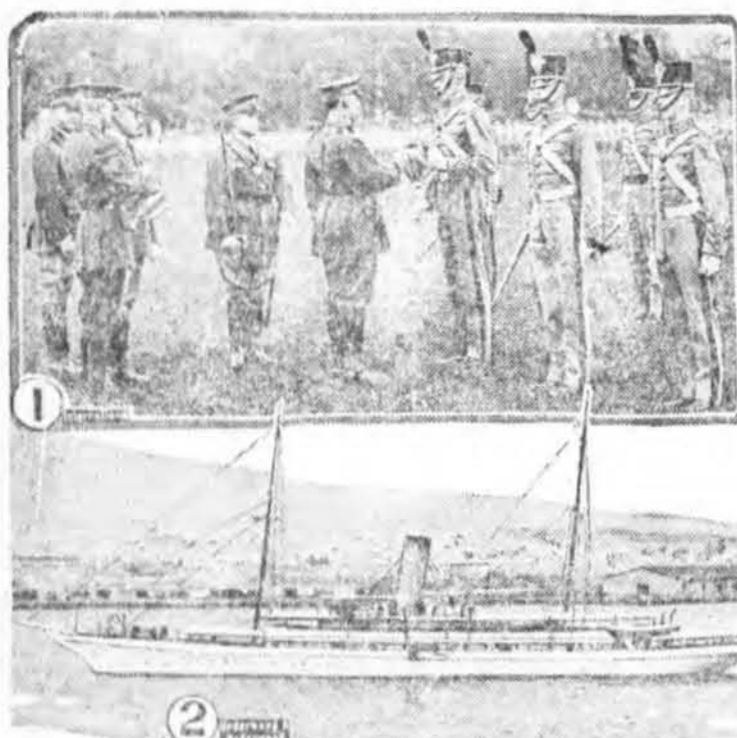

3 BECAUSE, under the GMAC Plan, the cost of a General Motors car purchased on credit is the standard cash delivered price, plus only the low GMAC financing charge.

The GMAC Plan is available only through General Motors dealers. It may be comfortably fitted to the individual requirements of buyers with assured income. Your nearest General Motors dealer will explain its advantages.

NEWS REVIEW OF CURRENT EVENTS

Queer Developments in the Indiana Political Scandal Affair.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
IF TOM ADAMS, Vincennes publisher, is going to make good on his charges of political corruption and clan rule in Indiana, it appears likely he will have to do it without the voluntary aid of Convict Stephenson, the original source of most of the accusations. After demanding a chance to make public his alleged proofs, contained in a mysterious black bag, the former clan dragon was given the opportunity when he was taken to Indianapolis on a writ of habeas corpus to testify in a civil case. He took refuge in his "constitutional right" not to testify, and since he is serving a life sentence the judge could not well punish him for contempt of court. Stephenson also was called before the grand jury which had been instructed to inquire into the corruption charges, and though the proceedings of that body are secret, there were plain indications that he had not revealed anything of importance. Recently Stephenson had used his charges as a club to force his lawyers to expedite his appeal from the sentence he is serving, and there were signs that his tactics were succeeding. Several attorneys who were formerly associated with his defense and who are powerful in politics in Indiana reappeared with him.

Cyde A. Wain, chairman of the Indiana Republican committee, declares that "international bankers" are financing a campaign for the defeat of Senators Watson and Robinson and certain Indiana representatives because of their stand on the World court and the war debts, and that the Stephenson charges are a part of the plot. Calling attention to these allegations, the Indianapolis Times sent a telegram to Senator James A. Reed urging him to bring his senate campaign inquiry committee to Indiana. In St. Louis it was asserted Senator Reed had declined to comply with this request and had summoned the committee to meet in Indianapolis. Senator Borah, in Washington, said he had received from Adams papers tending to support the Stephenson charges, and hinted he might insist on an investigation by the Reed committee. Attorney General Gilliam in a sharp telegram to Borah asserted that "Indiana is thoroughly enmeshed and desires of settling its own house in order, if it is shown that it is out of order," and demanded that Borah return to Indiana any evidence he might have received. The Idaho senator answered that the material sent him was not in the nature of legal proof.

VICE PRESIDENT DAWES, addressing the national convention of the American Legion in Philadelphia, was heartily applauded when he attacked the primary system in elections and declared it should be "largely abolished." He continued: "If we follow the theory and plan of representative government laid down in our Constitution by providing for nomination by conventions, a better and more impartial class of candidates will result."

This drew swift retorts from Senators Borah and Hiram W. Johnson. While neither mentioned the vice president by name, neither took any pains to exempt him from charges that the charge for the convention system is inspired by politicians who have failed in attempts to purchase elections and that the purpose of the election is to "make corruption safer and cheaper."

A nation-wide propaganda campaign to break down the primary system is under way, according to Senator Johnson. It has met with success in some states, notably New York and Idaho, where the primary election laws have been repealed, he declared, but will fail in California.

REAFFIRMING the action taken at the Omaha convention last year, the American Legion voted overwhelmingly to hold the 1927 convention in Paris from September 19 to September 23, inclusive, and to reconvene in New York on October 18 for a business session. The pilgrimage to France will be known as the "Second A. K. E.," and it is estimated that 25 ships will be needed. The Leviathan will be the flagship and the Legionnaires will sail from Montreal, Boston, New York, Hampton Roads, Charleston, Jacksonville and Galveston or Houston.

Paris correspondents assert that high officials of the Legion have authorized the formation of a "moral secret service" within the ranks of the delegates who are expected to go to France, the purpose being to control the behavior of the boys, prevent regrettable incidents and arrange trips and entertainments in which the cabarets and too lively cafes will not be included. The co-operation of the Paris police has been obtained. Propaganda is being started to impress upon the delegates the necessity of good behavior to foster cordiality and friendship with the French people.

ORGANIZED labor of America, as represented by the American Federation of Labor, is equally opposed to Italy's Fascist form of government, which it declares is autocratic, and to Russia's Soviet form of government, which it denounces as the most unscrupulous, anti-social and menacing institution in the world today. By its declaration on Russia the convention in Detroit really put a ban on participation by members of the federation in a proposed mission for the investigation of the economic conditions of Europe, including Russia. This mission is to be under the direction of L. E. Shepherd, head of the Order of Railway Conductors.

President Green and John J. Lewis, president of the mine workers, vigorously denounced the subversive campaign of Russian sympathizers within the ranks of organized labor in America.

The federation endorsed citizens' military training camps and labor's entry into the banking and insurance fields; condemned injunctions as applied to industrial disputes, and shop representation plans, otherwise known as company unions, and reiterated its advocacy of the direct primary law. A New York delegate introduced a resolution for the endorsement of Gov. Al Smith for President of the United States, but the resolution committee dodged this by reporting that Smith is a candidate not for the Presidency but for reelection as governor and as such "has the support of the New York Federation of Labor and of an overwhelming number of unorganized wage earners and citizens."

REPRESENTATIVE EDWARD W. POUL (Dem.) of Smithfield, N. C., has written to President Coolidge urging that he call a special session of congress to meet the situation in the South caused by the large cotton crop and the drop in prices of that staple. It was stated at the White House that the letter had been received, and that the President had replied to it pointing out the measures which already had been taken and expressing the hope that these would prove effective.

THE Department of Agriculture has made public the crop reporting board's crop summary for the United States as of October 1. It indicated preliminary production of all wheat at 823,818,000 bushels, or a yield per acre of 14.6 bushels, including 213,230,000 bushels of spring wheat, averaging 10.2 bushels yield per acre. It also indicated, for corn, a condition of 72.4 per cent of normal, with 2,670,268,000 bushels of production, yielding 35.5 bushels per acre. For oats, the preliminary indicated production is 1,282,414,000 bushels, a 27.0 bushels yield per acre.

JOHN H. WALSH, one of the three Democratic members of the United States shipping board, has sent his resignation to President Coolidge. His successor has not yet been named, but under the provisions of the merchant marine act he will be a Democrat and representative of the Gulf states.

LAWRENCE DENNIS, American charge d'affaires at Montevideo, was busy last week arranging for the peace conference between the Liberal and Conservative forces in Nicaragua which it was hoped would end the civil strife in that republic. American naval forces already had landed at Corinto and were preserving the peace. The leaders of the Liberals indicated they would continue, with Mexican help, their fight against Chamorro's de facto government unless the peace conference should offer them considerable concessions. They want the former vice president impeached and deported and Senor Sacaosa made president. Mr. Dennis insists that all factions must agree to a free and impartial election.

TWO representatives of the Polish government arrived in Washington and presented to President Coolidge 100 volumes containing the signatures of 5,000,000 Poles expressing their gratitude to the United States for its post-war help. One million of the names are those of school children and the remainder are those of persons in all walks of life. The President also was presented with a commemorative gold medal and silver medals from the same dies were given to Secretary of Commerce Hoover and the United States Military academy.

TWO notable men met death by accident last week. H. H. Topokyan, wealthy importer and for years Persian consul general in New York, was killed by a fall from the seventeenth story of the Yale club in that city. D. P. Davis, one of the best known of Florida's real estate men and the builder of Davis Islands at Tampa, fell overboard from the liner Majestic while en route to Europe and was drowned.

AFTER a 40-day siege, the city of Wuhaning, China, was stormed and captured by the Cantonese troops. The commander of the garrison was caught and promptly executed, but it was presumed his forces would be incorporated in the Canton army. The besiegers gained their first entry into the city through treachery of some of the defenders, and the ensuing battle was fierce and bloody. The civilians who remained passive were not molested.

A cablegram from Peking says three American missionaries who were captured by bandits in western Hunan province have been released without payment of ransom after being held 18 days. They are Miss Minerva Weil and Karl H. Beck of the Reformed mission and Miss Lydia Koebbe of the Evangelical mission.

BOTH France and Poland have peacefully balanced budgets for 1927 according to official announcements. The French budget provides for the collection of approximately $1,277,551,000 in direct and indirect taxes. It makes no provision for exterior political debts, but does contain credits which cover payments to A. K. E. war stocks and take care of the Morgan loan. Almost one-third of Poland's income for next year will be spent on the army, and the next greatest amount will be set aside for the ministry of education.

Finance Minister Volpi of Italy says his government is determined to stabilize the native currency and wipe out specie inflation. The program is to stabilize the lira at 120 to the English pound, a figure which will enable industry to import raw materials at reasonable prices and dispose of its products at a fair profit.

STALIN and his colleagues in the Soviet government of Russia have lost patience with Trotsky, Zinoviev and Pyatakov, who have been engaging in a campaign against them throughout the country, and have ordered them placed on trial before the central control committee of the Communist party.

DELIBERATION for nearly sixty six hours failed to bring agreement in the jury that heard the conspiracy case against Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and T. W. Miller, former alien property custodian, so the jurors were dismissed. Their final vote was 7 to 5 for conviction of Daugherty and 10 to 2 for conviction of Miller. The indictment still stands, but the government's attorneys would not say whether or not there would be a new trial.

Rid Houses and Hens of Vermin

Big Drawback to Success With Poultry Is Presence of Parasites.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
 One of the most important hindrances to successful poultry keeping is the external parasites infesting poultry and poultry houses. Where present in any considerable numbers, these parasites reduce egg production, lower the quality of the flesh, and retard the growth of all classes of poultry.

The presence of mites in the chicken house is indicated by small areas on the hens' speckled with black and white as though dusted with salt and pepper. This is the excrement of the mites, which, during the day, are hidden in cracks or crevices of the roosts and walls of the house, but which come out at night and get upon the fowls. Except in the case of sitting hens, the common chicken mite does not ordinarily attack poultry during the day.

Means of Eradication.
 The mites may be eradicated by a few thorough applications of kerosene or some of the coal-tar products sold for this purpose, or crude petroleum, to the interior of the poultry house, including the floor. The commercial coal-tar products are more expensive, but retain their killing power longer than the crude petroleum or kerosene. Of these, commercial carbolineum is particularly has proved very effective. The cost of treatment with the coal-tar products may be lessened by adding thereto an equal quantity of kerosene. Both crude petroleum and carbolineum will spray better if thinned with one part kerosene to three parts of the other materials. It is well to strain both the crude petroleum and coal-tar products to remove foreign particles. Care must be taken to see that the spray reaches all the cracks and crevices, giving special attention to the roosts, drooping boards, and nests. Repeat the treatment two or three times at intervals of a week or ten days.

The feather mite is similar in appearance to the common red or gray chicken mite, but unlike that parasite remains on the fowls continuously, the eggs being deposited and hatching among the feathers, where the young mites may complete their growth. Their entire development is accomplished without leaving the bird. They are most numerous below the vent, about the tail, and sometimes on the neck. An effective remedy for this mite consists in dipping affected birds in a solution composed as follows:

Water.....1 gallon.
 Flowers of sulphur.....2 ounces.
 Soap.....1 ounce.

The feathers should be thoroughly wet to the skin, and the head submerged for only an instant. During cold weather it is advisable to dust the fowls with flowers of sulphur instead of dipping, the feathers being raised so as to insure getting the sulphur to the skin.

Another Harmful Parasite.
 Another very harmful parasite is the scaly-leg mite that usually remains on the feet, which, in the absence of treatment, often become badly distorted, making it difficult for the fowl to walk or get up to the perch. Application of crude petroleum to the leg, either by dipping or with a brush, is a very effective remedy.

Chiggers (harvest mites) sometimes attack poultry, especially young chickens, in some cases causing serious injury. Occasional light dusting of chickens with flowers of sulphur is effective in keeping chiggers off the birds. When chickens do become infested, the chiggers may be killed by the application of sulphur ointment or kerosene and lard. If extensive infestation has taken place, remove the scabs and wash with a 4 per cent carbolic-acid solution.

Sodium Fluoride Useful.
 Sodium fluoride may also be used as a dip—three-fourths to one ounce of the chemical to the gallon of water. For treatment of large flocks this is the most economical and expeditious method.

Although a dust bath may add to the comfort of the chickens, it cannot be depended on for lice and mite control. Some fowls seldom dust themselves, and those which dust freely never rid themselves of the pests completely. It is far better to use methods which will accomplish complete eradication.

Only Domestic Clover Seed Is Safe for Use
 Repeated trials in Minnesota, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin and other states have demonstrated that red clover crops grown from domestic seed give better returns than those produced from imported seed. A. C. Arny of the Minnesota Experiment station, who has made a study of the data obtained in these experiments, says the conclusion is obvious that a live-stock farmer who depends on clover to feed his herd cannot afford to save anything but native northern grown seed. In Mr. Arny's estimate there is no place in Minnesota or in other states having a similar climate for clover seed produced in France, Chile and Italy. The fact that these straws have survived a Minnesota winter, because they happened to have a good snow covering, cannot be regarded as proof that their use through a period of years would be satisfactory, he says.

Co-Operative Live Stock Associations

Appreciable Saving to Farmers Has Been Result.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
 There are now from 4,000 to 5,000 co-operative livestock shipping associations in the United States, according to the latest figures of the United States Department of Agriculture. Rapid development has occurred in the past eight or twelve years, and particularly during the past four years, the department says, emphasizing that the movement must be recognized as a factor of permanent and growing importance in the marketing of live stock.

A study of co-operative live stock shipping associations has been made by the department, the results of which have been published in Farmers' Bulletin No. 1592-E. Principal requisites to the success of co-operative live stock shipping associations, according to the bulletin, are a competent manager, good business methods, and loyalty on the part of members. It is important that the manager be well known in the community and experienced in marketing live stock. It is important, also, that the officers, particularly the board of directors, keep informed at all times as to the financial affairs of the association.

Wherever co-operative live stock associations have been operated efficiently in communities where there was a genuine need for them, an appreciable saving to the farmers has resulted, says the department. The profit that formerly went to the local shipper now goes to the farmer, and he has the satisfaction of knowing that he receives for his stock the actual market price, less the cost of marketing.

Copies of the bulletin may be obtained, as long as the supply lasts, upon request to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Foundation of Quality Essential for Success

"A solid foundation of quality goods combined with economical production is essential to the success of any type of marketing of poultry or its products," says J. B. Hayes, poultry specialist at the University of Wisconsin. "If one is unable to produce at a cost lower than the selling price, the venture, whatever it may be, is destined to ultimate failure," he declares.

"Volume of production and cost of production are inseparable," Hayes maintains. "Increase in cost always accompanies a slump in production. For economical production, it is necessary that volume of production be maintained. Special emphasis has been placed on the feeding of mash for this purpose." Hayes gives, as an example of this, the case of the Portage county farmer, who had been feeding his flock without mash. The last week in August they produced 189 eggs. He then added mash to the ration and raised his production to 207 eggs a week, and this at a time of the year when a drop in production is to be expected. A record was kept of the total feed cost and the return from the eggs was almost exactly double the feed cost. One-third of the flock was then removed by culling and there was further reduction in feed cost accompanied by a corresponding increase in returns above the cost of feed.

Quarantine Against Hog Cholera Very Important

If hog cholera breaks out in the neighborhood, farmers whose hogs are not affected should maintain a strict quarantine against the infected herds. It is important that they refrain from visiting farms where the diseased hogs are located. They should also insist that their neighbors stay out of their hog lots, since the hog cholera virus may be carried on the shoes of humans. The infection may be carried from farm to farm by moving animals such as dogs or by movable objects such as farm implements. Therefore, the spreading of the disease should be guarded against as far as possible. The most dependable preventative measure against the disease, however, is immunization of the herd with anti-hog cholera serum.

FARM FACTS

All the hot air doesn't come from the sun.
 Copper carbonate dust kills stink bug smut in seed wheat.
 This is the season when pullets finish training for winter egg production.
 The big fat yellow-legged hens seem to be doing anything but laying eggs.
 Young chickens make most economical gains if they do not have to fight for roosting space or range.
 Fruit that is packed well will go through to market in better condition, and will sell quicker for a higher price.
 Run the engine cutter a few minutes before anyone goes into the silo the first thing in the morning. This will stir up and dilute the gas that accumulates on top of the freshly cut ensilage.

South Converts Own Cotton
 In 1890 the South used in its own industries 200,000 bales of cotton, but in 1925 the number of bales manufactured in sight of the cotton fields was 4,000,000, showing the tremendous increase in industrial activity in the South. Last year there were 17,000,000 active spindles in the southern mills against 15,000,000 active spindles in the North. In 1900 there were only 1,000,000 spindles in the South against 14,000,000 in the North.
